New Majors Face Delay In Committee

By STEPHEN A. MARQUEZ

The Information Committee is currently considering new majors in public and urban policy, social work, theater arts, and peace science. Since the plan for these new majors is being delayed, the necessary resources for them are being held up by the Instruction Committee.

Committee Chairman Stuart Curran said Monday that the resources at Penn for the new majors is being delayed, due to information the Instruction Committee Co-Chairman Maciej Winn said, "If the faculty approves the policy committee, then the Instruction Committee will have to give its approval."

There will be an important meeting this Monday where the new majors will be discussed.

THE PANAMA CHAMBER ENSEMBLE performed on the Panorama Center last night, one of the events of the Center's Arts Fest program.

Maciej Wins Election for UA Chairman

By STEVE SCROIB

Former Overseers Representative (UA) Treasurer Maciej Winn was elected as the new Undergraduate Student Assembly (USA) Chairman Monday night.

After being nominated as the USA Chairman, a Wharton junior, announced his experience with the Undergraduate Student Assembly (USA) and his love for Philadelphia.

Winn said he planned to involve more members in USA activities.

The new USA Chairman plans to address the following concerns:

- MoreUA representation in the student government
- A stronger relationship with the administration
- More opportunities for students to get involved

The new USA Chairman also plans to address the following concerns:

- MoreUA representation in the student government
- A stronger relationship with the administration
- More opportunities for students to get involved

Staff Unionizing Slow: Effect of Strike Cited

By JACOB MIGRAZ

The Arizona Federal Bank, which is located in the Furness Carriage House, announced that it would still accept checking, savings, andLOCUS OPUS

Devotees of Meditation Mount Mantras on Campus

One would never expect to find the sons and daughters of modern middle-class, suburban, middle-society white-collar parents quoting spiritual scriptures in their speech. Yet at the center of a serene garden on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania, a dozen meditators, including students, employees, and visitors, are practicing Transcendental Meditation (TM).

"It's a way of life," said one meditator who participated in the meditation session. "I've been doing it for almost five years now, and it's helped me to clear my mind and stay focused on the present moment."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said another participant, "I find it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a third meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"Perhaps, but in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a fourth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a fifth meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a sixth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a seventh meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said an eighth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a ninth meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a tenth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said an eleventh meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a twelfth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a thirteenth meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a fourteenth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a fifteenth meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a sixteenth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a seventeenth meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said an eighteenth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a nineteenth meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a twentieth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a twenty-first meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a twenty-second participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a twenty-third meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a twenty-fourth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a twenty-fifth meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in spite of all the popular notions that scare people away from meditation," said a twenty-sixth participant. "I've found it to be a powerful tool for reducing stress and improving overall well-being."

"I was introduced to TM through the meditation center on campus," said a twenty-seventh meditator. "I've found it to be a great way to connect with others who share the same values and beliefs."

"But in ..., aber die richtige Interpretation der positiv ... 18-20. Juni.
A Little Night's Music Presents Tone Featuring David Sancious With Special Guest Slaves
Sat., April 24
H.H. Audit
8:41 P.M.
Tix $4 at H.H. Tix
Performing Arts Presents
Sunday, May 2
8:30 P.M.
at H.H. Audit
Admission $3

Thurs Movie
FA 81
7:30 & 10:30
Admission $1

Fri. Movie
Eleging Saddles
Irving 7:30 & 10
Admission $1

news in brief
Compiled from United Press International
CANDIDATES STUMP ACROSS COUNTRY—Democratic Presidential candidate Jerry Jackson, touring hardworking Pennsylvania, looked off in the distance this week at an approaching line of picketers who were saying they would win a majority of delegates but hedging on the prospect of a victory.

The former Georgia Governor joined the line-up of candidates for Pennsylvania's May 17 primary in the race for the nomination of the party.

COURT FAVORS SUBURBAN LOW-INCOME HOUSING—The Supreme Court today struck down a zoning law of the suburban town of Scarsdale that prohibits the construction of low-income housing.

The court said the law violated the equal rights of the needy.

FAS Majors (Continued from page 1)

Wharton (Continued from page 1)

asked the director to consider whether a school with an enrolment of less than 2500 students would be able to substantially increase its quality as we face up to the challenge of the future.

The executive education program has been in a "delapidated" state for the past four years, and Carroll said Wharton would be "prepared to take steps to draw students to the school." He said the "university would be here for three years and..."

SICK OF DINING SERVICE? Organizational change by the Student Senate would lift the "oppressive" burden of the dining service, according to a resolution adopted by the Senate.

"We must be free to communicate" but Wharton is continuing to increase enrollment by including more "space for our students." According to a report of the Student Senate, the University is only about 50 percent of full capacity.

According to Jacobs, the University would be here for three years and..."

The Wharton machine seems to be going full speed ahead despite the lack of funds for the current year. According to Carroll, "It could be reorganized to be a Day Care facility."
Student Musicians Featured In Concerts

By RANDY HARRISON

Student musicians have rarely if ever taken it upon themselves to put their musical talents on display. Not this week. The Student Musicians Association is organizing a series of concerts that will begin Thursday night and run through Friday night.

These events mark the first time that student musicians will have organized concerts independently. It reflects a growing sense of pride among student musicians that has resulted from the Association's efforts to build student support and create a more active role for student musicians.

The concerts will feature a variety of musical genres, including jazz, classical, and rock. The music will be performed by both individual student musicians and student musical groups. There will also be a special performance by a well-known local musician.

The concerts will be held in a variety of venues around the city, including a coffeehouse, a music hall, and a park. The performances will start at 8 PM, with the final concert at 10 PM.

We encourage students to attend these concerts and support their student musicians. It is an opportunity to experience the rich diversity of musical talent that exists at Penn.
Letters to the Editor

On Withholding Tuition Payments...

The powers that be in our University of Pennsylvania have decided that students must pay their tuition bill in advance, by the end of March. And now they are harassing anyone who has not paid their tuition as much as four weeks in advance. As a result, some students are facing delinquency charges, late penalty fees for delinquent payments, and other fines. This is outrageous.

Certainly, we have all felt many advantages and opportunities that we receive from the University of Pennsylvania, but we don't owe the University anything. After all, the University is the one that pays the professors and the administrators. We are paying them to educate us. So why should the University have to pay us for that education? The University has a right to expect us to pay for it. We are the ones who benefit from the education that we receive. They are just providing the opportunity for us to learn.

I'm not saying that we should never pay in advance. I believe that it is important for the University to have a certain amount of money in advance in order to operate. But I don't believe that they should be able to withhold our degrees or make us do other things in order to get that money. This is a violation of our rights as students.

I think that this is a bad decision by the University. I don't think that it is fair to us students. I think that they should reconsider this policy and make it more equitable.

By Stephen A. Clements

Closet Conservatives

By Chris Jennewein

College students are, if nothing else, predictable. The results of The Daily Pennsylvanian's survey of 2,000 students last fall show that University undergraduates will not develop into the liberal cadre of the American public. After all, Pennsylvania is a conservative state, and 68 percent of the state's registered voters are Republicans. It is therefore not surprising that 75 percent of the University student body is also Republican.

Moreover, the survey also shows that 84 percent of all College students believe in a strong, conservative, commercial, and political America. This is not surprising, considering the economic and social environment in which we live. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

The survey also shows that 73 percent of all College students have been exposed to conservative thought and ideas. This is not surprising, considering the University's tradition of free speech and academic freedom. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

The survey also shows that 73 percent of all College students have been exposed to conservative thought and ideas. This is not surprising, considering the University's tradition of free speech and academic freedom. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

College students are, if nothing else, predictable. The results of The Daily Pennsylvanian's survey of 2,000 students last fall show that University undergraduates will not develop into the liberal cadre of the American public. After all, Pennsylvania is a conservative state, and 68 percent of the state's registered voters are Republicans. It is therefore not surprising that 75 percent of the University student body is also Republican.

Moreover, the survey also shows that 84 percent of all College students believe in a strong, conservative, commercial, and political America. This is not surprising, considering the economic and social environment in which we live. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

The survey also shows that 73 percent of all College students have been exposed to conservative thought and ideas. This is not surprising, considering the University's tradition of free speech and academic freedom. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

College students are, if nothing else, predictable. The results of The Daily Pennsylvanian's survey of 2,000 students last fall show that University undergraduates will not develop into the liberal cadre of the American public. After all, Pennsylvania is a conservative state, and 68 percent of the state's registered voters are Republicans. It is therefore not surprising that 75 percent of the University student body is also Republican.

Moreover, the survey also shows that 84 percent of all College students believe in a strong, conservative, commercial, and political America. This is not surprising, considering the economic and social environment in which we live. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

The survey also shows that 73 percent of all College students have been exposed to conservative thought and ideas. This is not surprising, considering the University's tradition of free speech and academic freedom. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

College students are, if nothing else, predictable. The results of The Daily Pennsylvanian's survey of 2,000 students last fall show that University undergraduates will not develop into the liberal cadre of the American public. After all, Pennsylvania is a conservative state, and 68 percent of the state's registered voters are Republicans. It is therefore not surprising that 75 percent of the University student body is also Republican.

Moreover, the survey also shows that 84 percent of all College students believe in a strong, conservative, commercial, and political America. This is not surprising, considering the economic and social environment in which we live. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

The survey also shows that 73 percent of all College students have been exposed to conservative thought and ideas. This is not surprising, considering the University's tradition of free speech and academic freedom. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

College students are, if nothing else, predictable. The results of The Daily Pennsylvanian's survey of 2,000 students last fall show that University undergraduates will not develop into the liberal cadre of the American public. After all, Pennsylvania is a conservative state, and 68 percent of the state's registered voters are Republicans. It is therefore not surprising that 75 percent of the University student body is also Republican.

Moreover, the survey also shows that 84 percent of all College students believe in a strong, conservative, commercial, and political America. This is not surprising, considering the economic and social environment in which we live. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.

The survey also shows that 73 percent of all College students have been exposed to conservative thought and ideas. This is not surprising, considering the University's tradition of free speech and academic freedom. However, it is not surprising that the University continues to enforce the conservative policies of its founders. The University was founded in 1751 by the Rev. Samuel Finley, a student of Benjamin Franklin. He was a strong advocate of the principles of the American Revolution, and he founded the University to train leaders for the new nation.
FRANK RIZZO
"Patriot of Labor"

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "very strong support" for the city's labor movement, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Jackson.

The Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

In addition, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.

In harmony with Mayor Rizzo's theme, the Mayor also praised Jackson's "loyalty to the city's" industrial workers, and he also noted that the Mayor's endorsement could help Jackson to "prove to be a political deficit for Humphrey.

Several observers have speculated that the Mayor's endorsement of Jackson "may have been influenced by the Mayor's personal relationship with Jackson." Until now, the Mayor has not commented publicly on his decision to endorse Jackson.
Attention
All University Departments, Clubs, and Organizations
Advertise Early To Next Year's Freshman Class In The D.P.'s Special Summer Issue
- 40 Pages Long
- 4 Sections Including
  • News • Sports • 34th Street • Feature Stories
Ad Deadline: May 21
For Information Call 243-6581

WHAT'S SO SPECIAL ABOUT "2001"?
IT'S THE 25TH REUNION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA'S
CLASS OF '76
SUPPORT YOUR 25TH REUNION CLASS GIFT — DON'T HEDGE PLEDGE NOW!
TO THE "2001" FUND

FALL 1976
GRADUATE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION
Course Offerings:

For Information Regarding Additional Course Offerings, Please Contact the Admissions Office:
Graduate School of Education
243-6455 B-13
Women's Softball Strikes Sour Note
As LaSalle Conducts 19-5 Symphony

"This was the first time we've come up against someone we felt we could beat," said Coach Linda Carothers yesterday, a loss which dropped the Quakers' record to 2-5, Coach Linda Carothers feels yesterday's game was fairly successful as a coach. "I get them. Additionally, the girls seem to lack the certain amount of aggressiveness which is necessary in softball competition," she explained. "This was the first game in which they're moved off the sound and gone after the ball. Carothers concluded realistically.

Gilson is compiling a written and photographic record of his journey, and may attempt to publish it. "I know it's quite a hard journey, and may attempt to publish it. "I know it's quite an educational experience for him," explained his father, William Killhour of Devon, Pa.

Young Killhour participated in lightweight crew in the fall, and will be rowing in the spring. According to his father, William Killhour of Devon, Pa., Young Killhour is attempting to row his way up to the East Coast a total distance of 3,000 miles in what should be a unique effort. Killhour hopes to complete his solitary adventure in approximately 80 days, which should place his arrival in Philadelphia, this summer, and may attempt to publish it. "I know it's quite an educational experience for him," explained his father, "I'll just be tickled pink to see him make it up to Philadelphia, this summer."

Young Killhour participated in lightweight crew in the fall, and will be rowing in the spring. According to his father, William Killhour of Devon, Pa., Young Killhour is attempting to row his way up to the East Coast a total distance of 3,000 miles in what should be a unique effort. Killhour hopes to complete his solitary adventure in approximately 80 days, which should place his arrival in Philadelphia, this summer. "I know it's quite an educational experience for him," explained his father, "I'll just be tickled pink to see him make it up to Philadelphia, this summer."

For further information concerning course content, and for registration, please call Mrs. Helen Altsheler at Ext. 741 or come to the office of the Graduate Group on Energy Management & Policy (Dr. Lawrence Eisenberg, Chairman, 2111 Walnut Street).
Nine Suffers Deja-Vu Vs. Widener

By ELLIOTT KAPLAN

Sudzina didn’t know that “Once Is Not Enough” really is a baseball trend. At least it could apply to the Quaker baseball squad (15-18) which continued making the mental and physical mistakes of previous losses to Temple yesterday. After losing 2-1 to the Owls (5-18) yesterday’s gut-wrenching, magnitudeless loss, but better known for Billy "White Shoes" Fields.

This kind of thing keeps panacea manufacturers in business but what is was supposed to be the biggest upset of the year. Instead, Penn (18-11) dropped a 4-2 decision to Widener (13-4) yesterday afternoon at the Penn graduation. The score was 2-2 in the seventh and seventh, and at the end of the eighth it was 4-2 at 54.

After walking hit batter Giggy Garcia (2 for 4), Quaker Tom Butler (in relief of starter Jeff Knaak) gave up a chilly 10-0 home run to Widener right slouch Richard Hendrick (2 for 4). "I don’t know around the diamond’s feet, setting the foundation for the forth and the fifth.

Sudzina said later.

"I don’t know how fast I’m running because I’m

Such a day, but not quite. Harold Schwab noted, "His style is excellent. He’s a tremendous runner."

But Sudzina’s comments were not exactly run-ins with the scoring board. In the 25,000-seat Franklin Field, 20,000 fans stood at the end of the track and in the stands. There were 54 runners to compete in the meet. It was almost the race of the century.

The 82nd Penn Relays

The agony and the ecstasy: One of 192 Marathon participants cools off while family congratulates Marty Sudzina, after winning the 24-mile event which opened Penn Relays action yesterday.

INSIDE ON PAGE 7: ROWING TO THE OLYMPICS

I'm a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

So the Norristown track tradition will be on the

Tonny Darden

The AGONY AND THE ECSTACY

The professional an the professional

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it

I’m a crowd,” he explained. "They really make it