City Controller Suggests Tax For University

By ED DANDOLO

A Philadelphia Board of Revision of Taxes meeting this week was prompted by the Philadelphia City Controller's observation that the University of Pennsylvania, and other non-profit institutions, pay a smaller proportion of their assessed property value in real estate taxes than do commercial businesses. The report presented to the Trustees Executive Board was estimated to equal about $1.5 million in annual revenue, that could be used by the University to reduce its fund deficit.

The report, prepared by the Institute for Applied Communication, stated that the University's tax-exempt status was not granted because it was a nonprofit educational institution. Instead, it was determined that the University was engaged in a "commercial business" since it paid tuition to students.

Prior Code Violations Not Yet Corrected According to Officials

By FRED SCHNEYER

A University Law Professor was barred from teaching at a meeting of the University's Academic Freedom Committee. The professor, who had been accused of violating academic freedom, was not likely to be reinstated.

New Study Institute Opened by Annenberg

By DANIEL M. AKST

The Annenberg School of Communication at the University of Pennsylvania opened a new study institute this week. The institute, located on the campus, is the first of its kind in the United States.

Interviews and discussions were conducted with University of Pennsylvania faculty and students to assess the impact of the institute's opening.

Demonstrators Protest Colby's Appearance at Irvine

By CAROL HUTCHINSON

Demonstrators protested outside the University of California, Irvine, where former CIA Director William Colby was scheduled to speak. The protest was led by the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA) and the Committee for Artistic and Intellectual Freedom (CAIF).

The demonstration was organized in response to Colby's speech, which was controversial due to his involvement in the Vietnam War and his stance on intelligence services.

The demonstration drew attention to the University's role in supporting militaristic policies and the need for academic freedom.

Graduate cannot proceed with its purchases of residential property near 19th and Lombard Streets as a site for new housing.

The Graduate Hospital's plan for the property was cancelled, and the University is looking for alternative sites to build on. The University is hoping to find a new site that meets its requirements.
Now there are two reasons to save Your PennStore cash register receipt.

1. You need it to return merchandise.
2. It's worth valuable prizes

The PennStores will choose at random three cash register receipt numbers daily from Sept. 9 to Sept. 18 and post the winning numbers in the SportsPage. The winners will receive either a $10 gift certificate, a jacket with a Penn insignia, or a thoughtfully crafted Heritage Dictionary. From these winners we will select grand prize winners on Sept. 17 who will receive a Cross Pens & Pencils set or a $30 gift certificate.

CLASSIFIEDS

APARTMENTS

[(List of apartment ads)]

Now there are two reasons to save Your PennStore cash register receipt.

1. You need it to return merchandise.
2. It's worth valuable prizes

The PennStores will choose at random three cash register receipt numbers daily from Sept. 9 to Sept. 18 and post the winning numbers in the SportsPage. The winners will receive either a $10 gift certificate, a jacket with a Penn insignia, or a thoughtfully crafted Heritage Dictionary. From these winners we will select grand prize winners on Sept. 17 who will receive a Cross Pens & Pencils set or a $30 gift certificate.

CLASSIFIEDS

APARTMENTS

[(List of apartment ads)]
P.U.C. Presents Assembly

By CINDY GOLDSTEIN

And MERYL DIAMOND

The event-gate trend of Latvian groups to Philadelphia has provided the impetus for new groups to form and to the establishment and spread of the groups. Each group is "House of Assembly," a reggae band from Jamaica.

For weeks, people were singing in doors and in front of the school and in the streets. On this day, people are enjoying the reggae scene.

On Saturday, September 18th, a movie will be shown at the Electric Factory. This movie is "A Little Night's Music," the campus nightclub that door to support the "hassle-free" night's music," the campus nightclub that come out of the basements and onto the streets. One such group is "House of Assembly," a reggae band from Jamaica.

By SUSAN STRAUSS

Philadelphia's musical scene has seen many changes over the past year. One of the most notable changes is the increased presence of reggae music in the city. This trend has been fueled by the growing popularity of reggae groups like "House of Assembly," who have been playing in the streets and at various venues around the city.

While the reggae scene is still relatively new in Philadelphia, it is already making an impact on the city's music community. The success of groups like "House of Assembly" has led to increased attention from record labels and other industry professionals, who are taking notice of the growing reggae scene in Philadelphia.

The rise of reggae in Philadelphia is a testament to the city's diverse and vibrant musical landscape. As the reggae scene continues to grow, it is likely that we will see even more innovative and exciting developments in the city's music community in the future.
The Perils of Being an Admissions Dean

By Carol Hutchinson

Now that Admissions Dean Stanley Johnson has announced he will be stepping down from the position at the end of the year, several people have been searching for a new dean to take his place. Unfortunately, the search has been unsuccessful, and Johnson has been named interim dean once again. He will remain in the position until a new dean can be found. Johnson has been at the university for ten years and has been a popular figure on campus. He is known for his approachable personality and his ability to connect with students. Johnson is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and holds a Ph.D. in political science. He has served on numerous committees and has been involved in various campus organizations.

Johnson's tenure has been marked by positive developments. He has worked to increase both the size and quality of the student body, and he has been instrumental in recruiting a large, qualified and diversified applicant pool. He has also been successful in improving the overall atmosphere of the university. Johnson is known for his commitment to making the campus a welcoming and inclusive environment.

Johnson's leadership has been recognized by his colleagues and students alike. He has received several awards for his contributions to the university, and he has been invited to speak at various conferences and seminars. Johnson is a respected member of the academic community and is widely regarded as a leader in his field.

Johnson has announced that he will leave the university at the end of the year to take a position at a research institute in Washington, D.C. He has indicated that he will continue to be involved in higher education and that he will remain committed to improving the quality of the university.

In conclusion, Stanley Johnson has been an excellent dean at the University of Pennsylvania. He has left a legacy of positive change and improvement, and he will be missed by the university community. The university is fortunate to have had his leadership, and it is confident that the search for a new dean will result in a successful outcome. The university looks forward to seeing what the future holds under the leadership of its new dean.
news in brief

Compiled from United Press International

SOUTH VIETNAM DEFENDS JAPAN—A U.S. Senate Union determined Japan Tuesday for failing to return a dolor pilot and his fighter plane not clearly attacked the United States for enabling American. The super BLACK MILITANTS FIGHT IN AFRlCA—Police Tuesday killed 11 black rioters who attacked fellow Muslims with spears and clubs. South Africa's black militants called a three day strike against white owned industry in the Johannesburg area. Demonstrators in the Free State town of Apartheid were smashed when they tried to stop the march. President Joahniss, while 60 years, the first step in the country's slow process of black workers. Demonstrators presented the president with a U.S. flag bearing the words, "We are African.

WORKERS GIVE STRIKE—Despite contract proposals, the United Auto Workers (UAW) called a nationwide strike Tuesday against the Ford Motor Co. in its 170,000 workers. The key union demand was a four million increase over the past 15 months.

FORD DISCUSSES UNEMPLOYMENT—Ford said yesterday he sees no need for "dramatic action" to lower unemployment this year. The key union demand was a four million increase over the past 15 months.

TOURING AFRICA—Demonstrators protested the presence of the U.S. in South Africa, yelling, "No CIA in Africa." Touring in Johannesburg area. Meanwhile, Secretary of State Kissinger was greeted by black militants who attacked fellow blacks with spears and clubs during workers resistance to apartheid. The super

WIN MONEY
Blood donors needed

For further info:
Call 243-9010 or
Come to Rm. 317 in
in A.M.
Leon Levy Bldg

Wine and Cheese Party
For
Benjamin Franklin Scholars
Today
4:30-6:00, Biology Pond
(Rain Location: Houston Hall)

American Civilization I
American Man
And His Civilization
M W F 11, SH B 26

Dr. Anthony Garvan

Please disregard the error in last's spring's Course and Room Roster.

For further info:
Call 243-9010 or
Come to Rm. 317 in
in A.M.
Leon Levy Bldg

The Newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania
Attention: All Health Students

The Interdisciplinary Health Care Education Program regrets the cancellation of the fall course "Medical Surgical Approach to Child Abuse," due to the sudden closing of P.O. It will be offered in the spring of 1977. Watch for our announcement of the Winter Intersession Institute.

Dresses End Of
Pants Season
Tops Clearance
Blouses Everything
Knits Goes
Shorts $2.99 to $9.99

HER CLOTHES TREE
3728 Walnut St.
Koch's Delicatessen Still Remains Despite Four Eviction Notices

By JANNIE GLAZER

Koch's Take-Out Delicatessen remains on Locust Street despite four eviction notices since its lease ran out November 30, 1974.

It has now been two years since owner Sid Koch said that he would close the family business to protest the University's entrance policies. A number of drills from the University's Administration Office have been served to the Koch family. The last time the Koch received a note from the University was in June, 1976, a $23.88 fine. Koch said that his business is still open.

According to Koch, Buchajian incorrectly told other Locust Street businesses and residents that the Koch family was throwing away all of their stock. Koch said that his landlord had no reason to evict him. It has been reported that the Koch family has been forced rather unwillingly to stop the eviction process.

The eviction appeal has been turned down by the Common Pleas Court and the Supreme Court. Koch said that no reason for the eviction was given in either court. Koch also believes that a "very Koch's new waiting area is at the State Supreme Court where Koch wishes to appeal.

Koch said he is pursuing the case

The Koch's new pay rent in

Trustee Plan

(Continued from page 1)

independent governing board. The direction should be completed in

six or eight months," Levitan

said. Levitan also indicated that

Grantees have the option of taking any

hypertensive medications, are less than 55 years of age, have no heart or other serious illness, want to enter a program for health reasons, and have not previously participated in a program for the treatment of hypertension.

The program will begin in 1977 and is expected to end in 1979. Participants will receive both free and reduced cost prescription medications.

Other fees are nominal.

To sign up for the program, patients should contact the Outpatient Department in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital at 726-1515.

The University Council Committee on Admissions and Financial Aid, under Johnson, has been lured rather cautiously except greater numbers of students every year.

One primary source of conflict during Johnson's term has been in the admissions office, which is now being conducted by the dean. Students admitted to the University under this process would not qualify for admission under the University's regular standards, but could have special consideration in either the University's regular standards, or the Dean's Discretion.

Dr. Robert Appel, Johnson's predecessor as dean, has been reappointed to the position of dean of the College of Liberal Arts. Dr. Appel, who has been a member of the University faculty since 1962, is expected to continue as dean.

The University Council Committee on Admissions and Financial Aid will continue to look into the question of special admissions, including the fact that these students

low cost printing &

xerography

Are you ready for E-6

This fall Koch will come out with a new color film that will eventually replace the Photographic Department in the University of Penna. Housing. The film will present the following options:

For more information about our great services, call: 623-8850. Or stop by the front, room Still Family Bldgs. Photostatting is available for your personal requirements.

The Daily Pennsylvanian

Page 7

Wednesday, September 15, 1976

Koch's Delicatessen Still Remains Despite Four Eviction Notices

by JANNIE GLAZER

Koch's Take-Out Delicatessen remains on Locust Street despite four eviction notices since its lease ran out November 30, 1974.

It has now been two years since owner Sid Koch said that he would close the family business to protest the University's entrance policies. A number of drills from the University's Administration Office have been served to the Koch family. The last time the Koch received a note from the University was in June, 1976, a $23.88 fine. Koch said that his business is still open.

According to Koch, Buchajian incorrectly told other Locust Street businesses and residents that the Koch family was throwing away all of their stock. Koch said that his landlord had no reason to evict him. It has been reported that the Koch family has been forced rather unwillingly to stop the eviction process.

The eviction appeal has been turned down by the Common Pleas Court and the Supreme Court. Koch said that no reason for the eviction was given in either court. Koch also believes that a "very

The Koch's new waiting area is at the State Supreme Court where Koch wishes to appeal.

Koch said he is pursuing the case

The Koch's new pay rent in

Trustee Plan

(Continued from page 1)

independent governing board. The direction should be completed in

six or eight months," Levitan

said. Levitan also indicated that

Grantees have the option of taking any

hypertensive medications, are less than 55 years of age, have no heart or other serious illness, want to enter a program for health reasons, and have not previously participated in a program for the treatment of hypertension.

The program will begin in 1977 and is expected to end in 1979. Participants will receive both free and reduced cost prescription medications.

Other fees are nominal.

To sign up for the program, patients should contact the Outpatient Department in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital at 726-1515.

The University Council Committee on Admissions and Financial Aid, under Johnson, has been lured rather cautiously except greater numbers of students every year.

One primary source of conflict during Johnson's term has been in the admissions office, which is now being conducted by the dean. Students admitted to the University under this process would not qualify for admission under the University's regular standards, but could have special consideration in either the University's regular standards, or the Dean's Discretion.

Dr. Robert Appel, Johnson's predecessor as dean, has been reappointed to the position of dean of the College of Liberal Arts. Dr. Appel, who has been a member of the University faculty since 1962, is expected to continue as dean.

The University Council Committee on Admissions and Financial Aid will continue to look into the question of special admissions, including the fact that these students
Can Sophomores Solve the Many Tiger Questions?

By JONATHAN LANSNER

"I don't think anyone expects much of us this season," commented Princeton head football coach Bill Casclola, and who will come this fall, a key position is at center. Sisco is a senior who has won the contest of the three against center, but in some cases, the situation may require the use of a specialist. "I don't think anyone expects much of us this season," commented Princeton head football coach Bill Casclola, "but the staff is very high on these boys. Nelson last year was an All-American candidate. They've got to have a good offensive line to play this year."

Three sophomores will be starting along the front wall of the Orange and Black. "We will have some good depth on the offensive line," said Casclola, "but the staff is very high on these boys. Nelson last year was an All-American candidate. They've got to have a good offensive line to play this year."

"I think our offense is capable of accomplishing a multitude of things," commented Casclola. "But our defense is not as strong, so we need to be careful."

DEFENSE: Coach Casclola is very high on the Princeton defense, but he needs some depth on the defensive line. "We've got to have a good offensive line to play this year," he said. "We've got to have a good offensive line to play this year."