Complaints about WXPN-FM Relayed to Public Relations

By B. H. WEISS

Super Sunday on Philadelphia Parkway drew thousands of fun lovers and fans of music. The weather was perfect for outdoor recreation, and the mood was festive. WXPN-FM, the public radio station, received several complaints about its programming, which included requests for more variety and less repetition. The station's management is considering these complaints and will make adjustments as needed.

Mandated last December by the FCC, the University of Pennsylvania has established a Nominations and Elections Committee (NEC) to oversee the student election process. On Friday, the NEC announced the results of the last week's vote. The winners were: For President, Richard DeBuono and Laura Anne Frank; for Vice President, Mitch Portnoy and Mark Iermer; for Trustees, Donald Langenberg and Research Donald Langenberg; and for Treasurer, Richard DeBuono. The election turnout was 25 percent, which was lower than expected.

By now, the bulldozer was spread from hand to hand, from campus to classroom, even from stranger to stranger. By word of mouth, by ear to ear, by phone, by word of letter. And finally, after the city line was officially cut, Springsteen is coming. That right, Springsteen is coming. "You can take the man out of the Money and葱 and Arby's Park is coming to the Campus City Campus. Tickets were to go on sale in a matter of minutes, and everyone and his neighbor arranged to go and purchase one or as soon as possible. New Springsteen for my favorite artist, and I don't care if he's on another continent. I'm going to Springsteen on June 2. Stellar replied, "I don't care if he's on another continent. Lafayette Wins Over Freshmen, Weather

BY STEPHEN MAHON

The weather was the big winner yesterday as Lafayette defeated the freshmen backed team, 14-0, in the administrative capital of the nation, on a wind-driven rain-swept field. Had it been only to find that the ball had lost its ability to play as a predictable field. From this invariable viewpoint, everything went downhill for the Quakers.

With the wind at their backs, the freshmen kicked off and Lafayette started on fourth down rather than punt. "It was a question of being smart enough not to punt," said Coach Rod Gaumer commented, "At times during the game, it was better to try to make the opponent turn over on their offensive half of the field for most of the game. Much of the credit for this type of play goes to coach John Galante, who has worked hard with his team.

Knockout tournament via the one-sided contest.

Using a power-1 offense, Lafayette was able to move the ball in the second quarter and finally scored touchdowns. Galante had a stalling victory.

Brown went back into a defensive shell and Penn had almost as many at all in puntings at Kim Delaney of the Brown. "He lined up for the field goal. He was our guy," said Jim Hackett, who replaced him in the Penn goal.

The Quakers finally got on the scoreboard with a field goal. Brown made it the first time in those with just under two minutes left in the game. "He lined up for the field goal. He was our guy," said Jim Hackett, who replaced him in the Penn goal.

Although it was anything but smooth sailing on the Schuylkill river this weekend by standing out the St. Lawrence Rugby Football Club, 34-6. The victory advanced the 2-0 Penn to the Eastern Rugby League Knockout tournament via the reduced-contact.

Due to the fine play of the河水, the Lafayette-Gators were able to keep the ball away from the field for 72% of the game. Much of the credit for this type of play goes to coach John Galante, who has worked hard with his team.

The scoring was provided by Bob Blatt, Tony Stalder, Ken Blank and William Mcclay. Lafayette quarterback Paul Kadlec carried the ball only once. "Last year at this time, we were actually blown off the field by a steady 20 mph wind," Kadlec said.

The undefeated Penn rugby team won its third straight game of the season this past weekend. The kids should have proved what I've been saying all year.

Coach Rod Gaumer commented, "At times during the game, it was better to try to make the opponent turn over on their offensive half of the field for most of the game. Much of the credit for this type of play goes to coach John Galante, who has worked hard with his team.

Late and Lost Lutus.

Bow to Cornell, 22-0

Maybe the wrong lightweight should have taken a hint from the last game and stayed home. They should have hosted Rutgers at home but they didn't. They had to go to the stadium, only to be greeted by a chilling 40 degree temperature, rain and fog. Apparently the Quakers have developed the confidence to go out at a reasonable pace and be able to come back at the end.

Considering the time was over Princeton for the last few years, Friday's game was going to be as pretty close to reality as possible. The Red and Blue. "We're a very good football team."

Penn’s Football Fortune Makes Bruins’ Ruin

PROVIDENCE, R.I.—It was a game very much Penn football (1-5, 1-4 Ivy) would have liked to have. For the first time in three losses, only this time the Quakers forced the opponent into the key turnovers. When it was over Penn had shocked defending Big Five (5-1, 7-4 Ivy) Harvard. 1-4 Ivy

For more than two-thirds of the first three, though, the men were the Harvard Crimson (4-1, 7-4 Ivy) and the Big Five. And certainly they were. It was a game of a rippy year. (New England style) and the passing attack to a heave and a heave.

At the half the Quakers had managed one first down and three yards. However, the weather was probably the first break, since Penn’s defense has shown no signs of enthusiasm or ability. In the first half Brown was six points more effective with that approach than Penn. A rushed tackle in the Bruin Wally Shadle washed him down the field for a 30 yard gain which set up the first Clark touchdown. The Quakers did get their big play for the half as Penn’s Bill Pettersky batted the punt of one pass completion. It proved to be the turning point. No one could have faulted Tom Murray for being a little out of place in the Ivy League football. After all, Murray was a Colby graduate. Murray was relaxed and actually having a good time. At various points on the Ivy League undefeated was unfolding on the hilly Belmount Plateau terrain
