U. and Co-op Must Present Cases in Suit

By FRED SCHNEYER

The University's efforts to evict the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity house from the campus will resume today as the University and the fraternity named 1971 as the best possible date to begin the eviction process. The fraternity is contesting the University's claim that it has violated its lease agreement by not paying rent for the past five years.

Student Health Officials have announced that all community members and University personnel are free to receive flu shots at the University's free clinic.

Student Health Director Paul Schleip said that sending a nurse to the dormitory was a necessity. He said, "In the last five years, we have made the decision to send a nurse to the dormitory since the vaccine is not yet available." The City Health Department, which distributes vaccines, said it would not be able to supply enough vaccines for the University's needs.

At this time, he added, health officials were not sure whether the injection of the vaccine would protect students under 10 years old. If a secondary program is required, it will be provided later.

He said that the vaccine is only available through the enrollment of the Philadelphia School of Medicine. In Philadelphia, Schleip said that a definite date for the immunizations has not been set.

The second area of the restructuring included graduate education. Langenberg noted that this is "a major part of the University's mission." He added, though, that he does not think everyone in the university will agree with the plan. He said that the students will have the opportunity to comment on the plan in the fall.

Wistar Experiments to Develop Cancer Cure

By STANLEY MACAULAY

At our lab at the Wistar Institute, a scientist is using the mouse as a model for the study of cancer. The idea is to use the mouse as a model for the study of the natural history of cancer in humans. The mouse is a good model because it is immune to cancer and it is easy to breed and maintain.

The University’s efforts to evict the Alpha Chapter of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity house from the University’s campus will continue today. The fraternity has contested the University’s claim that it has violated its lease agreement by not paying rent for the past five years.

C.A. to Feature Silent Sounds

BY KAREN O'NEILL

Lee Berliner would have to agree with grade school teachers who advise pupils to read. Before opening his act, he often reads to his audiences the explanations of his act that are found in his programs. The mime language is often so cryptic that it is his way of explaining his show to his audiences. The mime language is often so cryptic that it is his way of explaining his show to his audiences.

Berliner describes his mime as being "the form of expression which is, I believe, more natural to humans than to any other life form." He believes that mime is a form of expression that is more natural to humans than to any other life form.

Bob Dylan. The story so far.

Bob Dylan was twenty years old when his first Columbia album, "Bob Dylan," was released in August of 1962. It was a local success with a few radio stations playing the songs, but it was not a national hit. "Bob Dylan" featured some of the music that had been playing in folk clubs around the country, but with a new sound - electric guitars and amplifiers. The album was recorded with a band of session musicians, and the songs were not as well rehearsed as Dylan's previous work. "Bob Dylan" was a commercial failure, but it earned the praise of some musicians who appreciated the new approach.

"When the Ship Comes In." "North Country Blues." "Subterranean Homesick Blues." These were some of the songs from the album that helped to establish Dylan as a force in the folk music scene. The songs confused a lot of people who were not familiar with the genre, but they enjoyed the rocking, funny, great new tunes. That was Bob Dylan's first commercial single.

Most of the new songs on "Another Side of Bob Dylan" were written by Dylan, and the album became a landmark in the development of rock and roll. The album was recorded in a single session, and it was released in January of 1964. "Like a Rolling Stone," "Positively 4th Street," "Looking for Johnny," "Like a Winter, a Man Who Bleeds," and "Payin' My Dues" were some of the highlights on the album.

A-Changin'" album took the concept of folk rock to a new level. "Bringing It All Back Home" was known and accepted land was being adapted to the emerging Bob Dylan style. "Like a Rolling Stone," "Positively 4th Street," and "Looking for Johnny" were some of the most famous songs on the album.

The latest words from Bob Dylan disappeared. A "new" Dylan was bom. The ballad "Hard Rain's A-Changin'" was followed by "Like a Rolling Stone," "Positively 4th Street," "Looking for Johnny," "Like a Winter, a Man Who Bleeds," and "Payin' My Dues." Dylan had become the voice of a generation.

"Hard Rain" is the definitive work of Bob Dylan in the performance. All the musicians of the backstage party Rolling Thunder Revue and Bob Dylan himself contributed. The performance was recorded in front of a live audience.

University Plans Cut In Duplication Costs

By VINCENT PALUSCI

University officials hope austerity measures will reduce a $1 million burden on the University by increasing the efficiency of copying and duplicating costs in 1976-77, Philadelphia Director Curtis Barnes said.

The Coping and Duplicating Committee formed last January, has been systematically reviewing the copying and duplicating needs of various schools and departments across campus. The committee has succeeded in reducing the number of Xerox machines from 136 to 90. By this reduction, the university has been able to reduce a $1 million burden on the University.

Barnes, chairman of the Committee, said that the large part of that projected savings will come from the School of Communications, the School of Business Administration and Houston Hall.

To accomplish these savings, the committee has recommended that the departments centralize machines and introduce less expensive, lower level copiers where high reproduction quality is not needed. Barnes said, "This move would be to remove the copiers from the right place to do the right job." Barnes said to use the committee as having a "consultative relationship on one hand and policy responsibility on the other." Through this "consultative relationship," the committee has succeeded in reducing the number of Xerox machines from 136 to 90. By this reduction, the university has been able to reduce a $1 million burden on the University.

In addition to reducing the number of Xerox machines, the committee has also been able to increase the efficiency of the existing machines. This has been accomplished by introducing more efficient, lower level copiers where high reproduction quality is not needed. Barnes said, "This move would be to remove the copiers from the right place to do the right job." Barnes said to use the committee as having a "consultative relationship on one hand and policy responsibility on the other."
