NAACP to Be Key Issue at U. Symposium

By ALISON FRANCE

Margaret Hunt Wilson, chairman of the board of directors of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will address the Phi Beta Kappa/NAACP and the Quest for Equal Opportunity Conference, scheduled for next Tuesday and Wednesday. This is the first time Wilson, along with U.S. District Judge A. Leon Higginbotham, will address the conference. Wilson, the author of the influential book, "Race and the American Legal Process," will also address "the problem of poverty." She will discuss the role of the NAACP in addressing poverty and will focus on the need for education and legal reform.

Quad Renovation Slated for January

By JOEL SEGEL

University administrators remain cautiously optimistic that the long delayed renovation of the Quad will finally begin this January. The renovations will be funded by a $3 million grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities. According to Milden, the NEH grant will cover the cost of the renovation. The renovation will include the construction of a new library, the remodeling of existing buildings, and the addition of new facilities. The renovation will take place over the course of four years, with the first phase of the renovation scheduled to begin in January.

Law School Competition Examines Courtroom Strategies of Solos

By JENNIFER BRENNER

United States Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall will visit the University Thursday night to act as judge in a mock trial, "The Brown v. Board of Education," which will be held in the University Law School library. The competition, sponsored by the United States Supreme Court, will be held in conjuction with the upcoming 1977 Supreme Court Term. The competition is a key part of the University's efforts to promote diversity and inclusion in the legal profession.

Dean's Council Plans Financial Discussion

By SEYMOUR ROSEN

President Martin Meyerson and Walter Burkin, president of the University of Pennsylvania, will discuss the budget with faculty and students on Wednesday. The budget is expected to be a major topic of discussion, with a focus on the financial implications of the renovation of the Quadrangle.

Student Groups Sponsor Fine Performances at Annenberg

Shakespeare Would Be Proud of Quadrantum's 'Gentlemen' by DENNIS ORR

Old Will Shakespeare would be proud of what's being presented by the University's Quadrantum. "Gentlemen," a production of "Tango," a Shakespeare classic, will be held in the University's theater. The production is being held in conjunction with the University's Shakespeare Festival, which is being held in celebration of the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birthday. The performance will be held on Thursday, April 21, at 8 p.m. in the University's theater.

UtV Kicks Off Cultural Career With Strong Drama of 'Tango'

By SETH ROSEN

University Television (UTV) commences its cultural career Thursday with the offering of the dynamic import Tango. The performance, directed by University alumna Elizabeth Miller, will be held in the University's theater. The performance will be held on Thursday, April 21, at 8 p.m. in the University's theater.
Quad Renovation

Tango was produced and adapted by the New Line Theater, a company that was founded four years ago in Chicago and moved to Philadelphia this year. They are a welcome addition to the local theater scene.

Leopold Rose and James Galllattner produced and directed the play, and the actors all performed in a highly stylized manner, exaggerating their emotions and their lines to make the play, and perhaps even to cover up what might have been seen as a weak text.

The cast, however, is excellent, and the action eventually does call for histrionics, so complaints about the text are non-justifiable.

The Tango renovation, an integral part of the University's current development drive, was originally budgeted by construction, positive destroyers, but becomes nothing but a will to dumb force.

Admissions

In a recent interview, U.S. Attorney David Marston said, "we have no reason to think there's anything wrong with University officials concerning the cooperation with the Veterans Hospital." Marston further pointed out that University officials have cooperated fully in the investigation. They should, of course, be commended for this cooperation.

However, another statement Marston made also deserves mention. The federal prosecutor pointed out that politicians will not be able to sell their influence in professional school admissions unless "people are willing to sell their influence in professional school admissions unless..."

If Marston's hypothesis is correct, and politicians do have undue influence, then the professional school admissions process is fraught with inaccuracies and is threatened with quality control issues.

On one level, it seems to leave the University open to the charge of being a "shoemaker." This is not exactly an illegal act, but it does raise questions about the integrity of the process.

More importantly, if the University is in fact lowering its standards, as the investigation suggests, then the University is in fact lowering the quality of its students. This is not a small matter, as the health professionals produced in professional school are threatened.

Another View of WXPN Sports

By Jim Campbell

Broadcasts of football and basketball games have turned out to be quite popular with the student community. In addition, WXPN has begun broadcasting a variety of other sports programs, including baseball, hockey, and soccer, as well as a number of other non-sports programs, such as "The Vegetable Report," even though it was not the most popular with students.

"There is a clear difference," observers have said. "In the past, there was no such theory. And not only that, but..."

WXPN continues to broadcast. It continues to grow and build a good press in quarters other than the University's. WXPN has recently begun developing programs outside of the University. WXPN has been in the process of shopping for more sophisticated equipment, such as a backup system.

Recent cuts as well as solid accomplishments, especially when compared to the far-off days of WXPN's history. WXPN is now perfect and well set up for the future. WXPN is a part of the University. As such, it must be preserved.

As it stands, WXPN continues its growth and its good press in quarters other than the University's. WXPN has recently begun developing programs outside of the University. WXPN has been in the process of shopping for more sophisticated equipment, such as a backup system.

Letters to the Editor

Graduate Course in University Payroll Snags

To the Editor:

Many students have been frustrated by the lack of progress in the course on University payroll at Wharton School (The Penn Daily, Nov. 17, 1977). This is of particular concern to us, given the recent events surrounding the student strike and the phase-out of the course.

The purpose of the course is to give students an understanding of the payroll system at the University. It is intended to provide a broad overview of the system, including the various components involved, and to allow students to develop an appreciation for the complexities of payroll processing.

It appears that the course has been delayed due to a number of factors, including the difficulty in obtaining information from the various departments involved in payroll processing. In addition, the course has been hampered by the limited number of students enrolled.

We urge the course to proceed without further delay, so that students may have the opportunity to gain a comprehensive understanding of the payroll system at the University.

Sincerely,

JASON RICHARDS
Executive Assistant to the Provost

UJC On Projectorists

To the Editor:

I was disappointed to read the recent article on Projectorists (The Penn Daily, Nov. 22, 1977). The report stated that the Projectorists had been given permission to use the projector in the Wharton School for their upcoming presentation, but that the projector had been removed by the University.

I would like to point out that the University is well aware of the Projectorists' plans to use the projector, and that the removal was not a deliberate act. The projector was removed due to an error in communication between the University and the Projectorists.

We hope that the University and the Projectorists can work together to resolve this issue and that the projector will be available for the Projectorists' upcoming presentation.

Sincerely,

MATT DAVIS
Assistant to the President

WYOMING BAR U.S. OFFICERS--The Federal Union has learned that the U.S. department is planning to expand its activities. The Union has been meeting with various large companies in the United States. The meeting was held last month and the Union is planning to continue the discussions.

COMMENDED KILLER HAILS CONDEMNED KILLER--Gary Gilmore, who was convicted of murder and sentenced to the death penalty, has been commended by the Governor of the State of Wyoming. Mr. Gilmore has been incarcerated for a number of years and is expected to be executed in the near future.

A three-year contract was signed for the United States' similar action against a Russian envoy to the United States. The envoy was recalled after making a statement that was considered offensive.

The news in brief section includes:

- “Welcome from fellow inmates and solitary confinement from the warden.”
- “Condemned killer Gary Gilmore got a hero’s welcome from fellow inmates and solitary confinement from the warden yesterday when he returned to Utah State Prison from a hospital where he had undergone surgery. He would have died before a firing squad could have killed him.
- “Tentative Agreement Reached--The United Auto Workers and International Harvester yesterday announced an agreement on an all-economic matters for a new three-year contract. The contract includes wage increases and improvements in working conditions.
- “The four participants were chosen from a preliminary competition held last spring. The competition was open to all third-year law students who were selected from an original group of approximately 30.”
- “You could see that the justice was hammering up his question,” Gharfner pointed out.

Barthold said, adding that one had been discussed at the University.

"There's a notion between affirmative action, in which the University is committed, and discrimination against non-minority students," Barthold said. "Colleges and universities have been working this issue without definitive legal guidelines for far too long." Barthold added.

Campus Water Problems

Cause Shutdown in North

The water in Hi-Rise North was turned off Thursday afternoon for several hours at the request of the University. Norman O'Connor, superintendent of Construction and Repair, said the water was turned off in order to repair the water main break and we cooperated with the city. O'Connor added that their experience should be enjoyed. The water is only starter who will be lost to the University area.

Pucksters Raise Curtain on Finke Era

By JOHNNY LANNIER

Thomas, Dan Blue, and Dave Taylor, including the Bulldogs’ number one front line of Mike Eli. Yale has a new coach, Tim New York history. “We want to disrupt the aggressive; we will do a lot of mistakes and capitalize on them.”

The Bulldogs have a strong team this year, with several returning veterans. The most notable is sophomore setter Karla Stue. She is expected to have an exceptional season, leading the team in her usual role.

The season began encouragingly as the Bulldogs defeated the visiting Lions 3-0. The team is optimistic and confident, looking to build on last year’s success.

The Red and Blue’s other two losses were to Penn and Princeton, with both games being close victories. The team is looking forward to their next match against the Quakers.

The season continues with a home game against the Quakers on Saturday, followed by a road game on Sunday. The team will be looking to build on their early season success and continue their winning streak.
