New Security Guidelines Presented by Task Force

By RICHARD J. GORDON

The University has announced the appointment of a seven-member task force to investigate the security policy that was the subject of a protest by students a year ago.

Marcia Bartness, director of safety and security, said Monday that the task force was formed in response to the recommendation of the former police force of the University, which was dissolved last May.

The task force will consist of 12 members, including three faculty members, four student leaders, and five University staff members.

The task force will be chaired by Marcia Bartness, director of safety and security. The other members are:

1. Professor of Management, William Gomberg
2. Student representative, Betsy Madsen
3. Faculty representative, Stephen Brown
4. University representative, Marcia Bartness
5. Student representative, Steve Roth
6. Faculty representative, Thomas Gomberg
7. Student representative, John Brown

The task force will be responsible for developing a new security policy that will be presented to the University for approval. The guidelines are expected to be in place by the end of the fall semester.

The guidelines will be based on the principles of the University's current security policy, but they will be more comprehensive and include additional measures to ensure the safety of students and faculty members.

The task force will be responsible for presenting its findings to the University administration, which will then be responsible for implementing the new guidelines.

The new security guidelines will be expected to cover issues such as the use of security personnel, the use of security cameras, and the use of security data to monitor student behavior.

The guidelines will be expected to be in place by the end of the fall semester and will be reviewed annually.

The new guidelines will be expected to be in place by the end of the fall semester and will be reviewed annually.
CAMPUS EVENTS:

FREE UNIVERSITY Organizational Meeting Thursday, Sept. 15, 5:30 P.M.
If you are willing to work hard and put in long hours for the sake of the enlightenment and liberation of all, you are wanted.

2d. Floor Lounge Christian Association 36th&Locust

Annenberg Center The Western Savings Bank Theatre Series "Jean Marsh glitters"—Boston Globe

JEAN MARSH

IN TOO TRUE TO BE GOOD
go by George Bernard Shaw

September 28-October 2

Tickets: Wed. thru. Sat. $6.50, $6, $5. Fri. Sat. $6, $5, $4.

PERFORMING ARTS

Reading and Study Improvement: The English students of the university are seeking to improve their reading and study habits. The program will involve individual sessions with experienced tutors, focusing on areas such as comprehension, retention, and time management.

Music: The university's music department is hosting a series of rehearsals for the university choir. The rehearsals are open to all students, regardless of their previous experience, and will focus on preparing for a upcoming performance.

Clubs: The university has a wide range of clubs and organizations for students to join, ranging from academic to social. These clubs provide opportunities for students to develop new skills, make new friends, and explore their interests.

Opinions Differ on Labor

(Continued from Page 1)

Ford said he would be "disappointed" if the William & Mary historiographer had not spoken.

Budget Cut

The university is facing significant budget cuts, with the administration targeting various departments and programs. The cuts are expected to result in the loss of several positions, including those of tenured faculty. Students and faculty are expressing concern over the impact of these cuts on the university's ability to provide a high-quality education.

Transfer

(Continued from Page 1)

Ford said he would be "disappointed" if the William & Mary historiographer had not spoken.

EARN $60-MONTH PER MONTH
DONATE BLOOD PLASMA

DONATE BLOOD PLASMA

Funded by the Student Activities Council

All for thepicture of same neg.

Beata Gregorian noted at the end of the meeting, "The people involved in the dispute of the university's decision to not continue our 350 co-workers."
Tuesday, September 13, 1977

news in brief

GUIDELINES ON OPEN EXPRESSION: said subcommittee on revising the University regulations is involved.

banking official explains lance endorsement—Department of Commerce and Industry. In a letter to all banks, the Secretary of Commerce Announced the following regulations:

NURSERY SCHOOL: (Nonsectarian) at 3916 Locust Street. (834-8775) for information and application. The nursery is open to 2-year-olds.

MBA HANDS-ON: $4.95 book value. Statistics plays a major role in dozens of career fields. Here's a calculator with the advanced capability you need to handle your projects. Comes with a manual, a guidebook, and a 3-year warranty.

ISO: Offers TRAVEL AND EXPLORE ISRAEL OFFERS

BUSINESS, SCIENCE, ENGINEERING: This semester is the right time to get a TI calculator tailored to the work you're doing.

WORK STUDY STUDENTS: Job openings: clerical, research, programming, keyboard. No experience necessary. Write for information and registration. PHILA. SOCIAL HISTORY PROJECT: Contact Andi Coyne 245-4712

QUADRAMICS announces AUDITIONS for their Fall production, "The Importance of Being Earnest." WED.-THURS. SEPT. 14, 15 7:00 P.M. HOUSTON HALL AUDITORIUM

The Daily Pennsylvania
Unveiling New Security Guidelines

The following are excerpts from the interim report of the President's Task Force on Public Safety. Student security assistants should be identified, i.e., by name and photo, to prevent identification of those who may remain unidentified.

The report states that students should be adequately screened prior to being accepted into the program to ensure that a security assistant is appropriate for the assignment according to criteria approved by the Director of Public Safety. Application-screening procedures will be devised by a security specialist, and must be approved by the Director of Public Safety.

The report concludes that student security assistants should be adequately monitored for the job they are performing. Training programs will be supervised by the security specialist. Annual reports shall be submitted on a regular basis.

Security for Public Meetings

The report recommends that a security assistant be present to prevent and examine alternative dates and to discuss various views, and the freedom to ensure criticism of existing security arrangements. The report states that the student is not subject to legal rights which must be upheld by the University in a free society.

The exercise of these rights within the University must be protected. The movement to ensure criticism of existing security arrangements. The report recommends that the student is not subject to legal rights which must be upheld by the University in a free society.

The exercise of these rights within the University must be protected. The movement to ensure criticism of existing security arrangements. The report recommends that the student is not subject to legal rights which must be upheld by the University in a free society.
Letters to the Editor

How to Reduce Suffering by Reopening a Closed Door

As editors of the Daily Pennsylvanian, we have responsibility to maintain some standard of professionalism in your choice of articles which will be read by a substantial portion of the University community. Without writing an article such as "Student's Protest," we will contribute to the potential of the reader to seat himself at Gamble and consider himself a "lost soul." We would rather sit in our rooms at night than go through the hassle of this union. We want to open the gate and get the workers out as they were before. Callin' it in, we're tired of the, "What we're fighting for," racket. We're fighting for the right to go anywhere we can. Most of you don't believe us, but we hope you will if we continue this letter. We will not stop until you do.

An Unjust Attack

As editors of the Daily Pennsylvanian, we have responsibility to maintain some standard of professionalism in your choice of articles which will be read by a substantial portion of the University community. Without writing an article such as "Student's Protest," we will contribute to the potential of the reader to seat himself at Gamble and consider himself a "lost soul." We would rather sit in our rooms at night than go through the hassle of this union. We want to open the gate and get the workers out as they were before. Callin' it in, we're tired of the, "What we're fighting for," racket. We're fighting for the right to go anywhere we can. Most of you don't believe us, but we hope you will if we continue this letter. We will not stop until you do.

Dartmouth Gridders

(Continued from page 6)

As a resident of the Quadrangle, I have been closed to residents, visitors, and employees alike. This has gotten to the point where block walk becomes a two-and-a-half-block walk because a two-and-a-half-block black becomes a two-and-a-half-block walk. It has gotten to the point where most of us don't consider ourselves "lost souls," little bugs," "orphans," or "outsiders." All we want is an open door.
QBs Key Green's Success

Blackman Raises Red Hopes

By STEVE PETERS

COACH: Bob Blackman

OFFENSE:

Designing and implementing a new offensive scheme is a challenge that even the most experienced coaches face. Bob Blackman, the new head coach at Princeton, has the daunting task of leading the Red and Blue offense as they prepare for the upcoming season. With key losses on the offensive line, Blackman has been working hard to solidify his team's starting lineup. Key returnees, such as quarterback Eamon McEneaney, will be crucial in leading the offense.

Blackman's focus on developing a strong offensive line is evident. He has been evaluating the performance of several candidates, including juniors Ben Holland and Craig Jaeger, for the starting positions. The offensive line will be a critical component of the team's success, and Blackman is determined to ensure that his players are well-prepared for the challenges of the season.

Despite the necessary adjustments, Blackman is optimistic about the team's potential. "We're not facing the same problems as the other teams," he said. "We have a lot of inexperienced players, but they are determined and hardworking. They are learning quickly, and I am confident that we will be able to compete this year."