FBI Used U. Informants In Attack on Militant Groups

By ERIC JACOBS AND KEITH STEPPEN

A number of the University's academic administration in the late 1960's appeared to be involved in anti-war activities according to FBI documents recently released.

Other FBI memos disclose the existence of a least two University informants on campus in 1968, as well as organized efforts to influence law enforcement authorities to conduct raids on the United States campus.

The documents, obtained by the Penn Daily through a request under the Freedom of Information Act, have provided the basis for a lawsuit filed by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Further details were unavailable. President Martin Meyerson said Tuesday he had seen any of the FBI documents but was unable to comment further on their contents. "I have not seen the reports and therefore I am unable to comment on the contents."

The FBI is alleged to have used University informants to obtain information on the University and its officials. However, the FBI reportedly never made a decision to file charges against any University official for the alleged activities.

The FBI activities at the University were among the highest priority action taken by the House Select Committee on Internal Security (COINTELPRO) to investigate the University's activities. The University has denied all charges.

The University has also alleged that the FBI conducted actions in violation of the University's policies and procedures. The University has requested that the FBI cease and desist its activities.

The University has also requested that the FBI cease and desist its activities.

At least 15 American medical students have been asked to file a lawsuit challenging the law's constitutionality.

The controversial provision denies federal funds to any university that "fails to maintain its class sizes".

The University has told the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) that it will go along with the provisions of the act. However, it reserved the right to challenge the constitutionality at a future date.

Blues Quartet Will Perform At The Foxhole

Joan Greco

Wished old-time blues melodies will warms your gills in the Foxhole this weekend. The music will be conjured up by the hospitable Hemphill group, a four-man band including Mid-West roots which is currently performing in the Foxhole every Saturday. The group is led by guitarist and vocalist, Ruben Thompson, who will be on hand to ensure the performance is true to the spirit of the blues. The show will feature an array of blues numbers that will keep your feet tapping and your spirits soaring. Don't miss out on this unique opportunity to experience the raw energy of a traditional blues performance in a cozy and intimate setting.

You can get a head start on your holiday shopping at the Christmas Craft Fair, which will be held Friday and Saturday in the Christmas Village. The fair features the work of over 100 professional artists from the Delaware Valley area and beyond. Unique handcrafts, including unusual toys, will be displayed throughout the Christmas Village. This year’s event features a variety of people, including children, who are selling their own wares, as well as the standard craft fare. The Christmas Crafts Fair is considered “one of the best fairs in the area,” Clark said, noting that “the competition is very strong.”

The themes of Hemphill’s works have been described as “very much alive for a group of 18 students who, while chatting about younger days, have heard their parents mention Goodman are relics—simply names giving a slight hint of a certain era. "The concept of the big band is to evoke a style of music that existed in the forties. The ones that still exist today concentrate mainly on a kind of music that is more contemporary," Baker explained. "The idea of the big band is to play jazz music and harmonize it, expose it and generally make it larger and more complex." Baker explained. "The real popularity of big bands in the forties is something that will exist today somewhere outside of the mainstream," Baker added. "The concept of the big band is to play jazz music and harmonize it, expose it and generally make it larger and more complex," Baker explained. Although the ensemble has its roots in the past, the group has not ignored the influence of jazz's earlier days —melodies like Mortimer Friedgen's which incorporate the group's early style.

An Event in a Long Line of Injustices Suffered by Ukrainians

Dear Sirs:

The University must stand up for the human rights, rights which many Ukrainians and others are fighting. These are rights that many of us here at Penn and throughout the country have a vested interest in protecting. The University must stand up for the human rights of all people. It is wrong for the University to be silent in the face of injustices committed against the University. It is wrong for the University to be silent in the face of injustices committed by others.

My name is [Student Name]. I am a student at the University of [University Name]. I write to you today to express my concern about a recent event that has occurred on campus. The event in question involves [briefly describe the event, including any relevant details].

As a student, I believe that it is important for the University to take a stand against this type of behavior. The University has a responsibility to uphold the principles of fairness, equality, and justice. By remaining silent in the face of such injustices, the University is failing to fulfill this responsibility.

I urge the University to take immediate action to address this situation. This may include [specify actions that the University could take, such as conducting an investigation, holding a public discussion, or taking disciplinary action].

AN APPEAL TO FACULTY

There are 14,700 Van Pelt, Lippincott, and Fine Arts Library books currently checked out on extended loans to University faculty members. Many of these books have been sitting on shelves in your offices and homes for months or even years.

I urge each one of you to bring in all the library books in your possession so that we can clear the records from our old punched-card circulation system and charge out those that you still need on the new on-line computer system.

The old system must be phased out and the expensive leased equipment returned to IBM by January 1978. We need your cooperation.

Debate on CIA

Harry said the Senators were using LDB as a truth serum and that CIA limited research on the drug was only for the purpose of determining how to use the drug in preventing dissidents.

Harry admitted that the experimenters had taken the wrong
angle by asking the wrong questions about the drug but insisted that the drug was never used in military research.

Harry said that LDB had been used by CIA for psychiatric purposes but that the Senate had never authorized this research.

Harry said that the LDB experimenters had not told the Senate about their work because they were afraid of the government.

Commenting on Leica's belief that the Senate was being used to handle LDB, Harry said it was impossible to believe that the LDB project was ever authorized by the Senate.

Harry said that he did not see any reason why the LDB experimenters should not be able to publish their work.

Mandel said he did not agree with the position of the LDB experimenters.

Haigler, Frosh Debut vs. Trenton

By STUART G. MARON

Frosh quarterback Bill Haigler returns to the Penn lineup today, the first time he will be coached by the coaching staff which made Trenton State material for PM.

Although Haigler is unsure of his starters, his motivation appears to be on the rise. From Tom Collins in 4A, to Jimmy Shannon in 5A, to Paul Collins in 6A, Haigler has been effective. "We've been working a lot on fundamentals and should be ready to go tomorrow," said Haigler.

Rushing is more to his liking. The players must have a feel for the ball in their gut. This means that they can drive hard and make the defense work. "They must sense the ball," commented Haigler.

Bringing the ball up for the Quakers will be Jim Hall and Walter Jackson. Jackson was a forward in high school and stands 6'4". He will have to work hard to maintain his position this year. Both are excellent quick and should have no trouble getting the ball to the outside.

Holding the ball for longer periods, Haigler feels he has a strong group behind him. "I can see a lot of potential in this team. We just need to make sure everyone is doing his job, and we can make a great team out of this," said Haigler.

The Quaker fans present a problem that plagued last year's squad. They are a poor variety team with experienced players. "I don't think that will be a problem this year," countered Haigler. "It should be a pretty good year for the players.

Shack confirmed the sentiment. "It should not be a factor. If the freshmen are good, then they can overcome it." Shack pointed out. "We are a much better team than we were last year."

Although they have been practicing for two weeks, the team has made little progress. "It's been a little bit of a struggle because of their willingness to work with the defense," Shack added. "This is definitely a big factor because if they don't work hard, they can make no difference how long practices are.

Haigler's goal for the team include an opportunity to learn in terms of increasing knowledge of the game and individual skills. He is also very excited with the team's development. "We hope to find and develop an enjoyable experience for all," he said.

With these goals, the freshmen could be ready for a most productive season tonight.

Racquetmen Face F&M in Opener

By DAVID ELFIN

A noted squad expert foresees a win for Penn's varsity men's squash team against Franklin and Marshall College's Gym C. Penn has found previous players and the best in its own right. While the event was not considered a must-win, it was expected to be a major factor in the season's outcome.

Senior Bob Levy, ranked nationally, and juniors John Foster, Joe Haigler and Bill Haigler are expected to afford the Quakers a significant margin of victory.

When asked about his expectations for the season, Bob Levy replied, "Better than last year, much better. We have a lot of experience.

The outstanding player of the game had to be Lisa Rodhe. "It was an outstanding game on the wishbone," stated Coach Lois Ashley. "It was an outstanding game on the wishbone."

According to Molloy, squash has a very interesting history. "It is a game of quickness and strategy," he said. "The players must have a nose for the goal, and quickness to get there." Molloy predicted that the Quakers will win.

Eager Swimmers Meet Leopards in Opener

By NANCY GORDIN

Frosh Covey will be the big story today when the men and women swimmers take their initial shot at the Ivy Leaque this season. The men's team has lost to the Quakers twice in the last three years, and the women's team faces a solid Western Ontario team.

"We can then make up our minds, as for this year's team," said the men's coach.

Today's match against a good Lafayette team, and the men's meet against the Quakers, is the first of many in the season against strong opponents.

"Let's not dwell on the past and on tomorrow's match," said Coach Haigler. "The boys are going to do what they can at the best of their abilities."

Perhaps senior Tom Hyde summed up the feeling. "We've been working a lot this year, and we're going to show what we're made of." The team is ready for some action.

Individual matches but Malloy will keep in touch of the players on the varsity. He also plans to make an extra effort in the junior varsity. The veteran team members were expected to be the best in the league by far. "It's definitely better than last year."

Quaker Oaks

Along with 57 players, including 17 frosh, four Penn football players have been invited to attend COACHES ALL-Ivy Football Team. The Penn coaching staff includes EDDIE HOLLAND, and senior offensive tackle. STEVE GIVENG are the selections. It includes all the favorites, including All-Ivy first team selection last year was PUNTER Brian Rodgers, the winner of the 1977 Penn Athletic Department's Most Valuable Player Award, was selected, but he was injured in the game.

For the second time in three years, the Quakers and Leopards are matched up in the season opener. The Quakers will play in a game that is always an opportunity to learn a lot. The team is looking forward to the challenge of the game.

Perhaps senior Tom Hyde summed up the feeling. "Lafayette should be a big challenge, and we're looking forward to it."

Maybe upperclassmen take fresh- men under their wing. Although no agreement was reached, it was agreed that freshmen are certainly due.
