Inquest Into Frat Death

(Continued from page 1) receiving a letter from city officials regarding the Bazile incident, and did not seriously consider the possibility of an Inquest was obvious to him that an inquest was necessary. But Senator Thomas Rendell, who is not see reason to request the hearing during his tenure. Meanwhile, the University investigation into possible hazing on the other main points of the Bazile case. Beck said earlier this month that the university would consider another contract extension if the extension would provide an opportunity for reading and research. The temporary contract gives the library a five percent pay hike and guaranteed that no library workers would be laid off during the period of the extension.

Pennsylvania State Senate into investigating the University's Bill metal appropriation caused the University to rekindle the libraries with the library workers. Beck said that he new earlier this month that the university would be very reluctant to agree to another extension of the contract. However, the inquest could prove embarrassing. Faculty members may reveal a type of benign neglect on the part of those administrators who are responsible for the overseeing of University affairs.

To no one's surprise, tuition and fees will rise by 8%, an increase similar to last year's.

But Saturday's victory whetted the appetites of the Palestra faithful; the future, at least in this instance, is gloomy.

The student himself did not seem to acknowledge the presence of such a question. His face remained calm and set. He seemed to be thinking about something. The game was over but thousands of University students remained around the Palestra for a moment to gesture to the Quaker basketball team that had just defeated Princeton in a tough, aggressively played game.

Women's Center Grant Funds Panel Series

By JANIK K. WINKK

The Penn Women's Center has obtained funds from the Pennsylvania Public Committee for the Humanities to finance a series of three panel sessions on "Women's Special Status." The first three sessions will examine women's status with respect to mental health and athletics.

Carol Tracy, director of the Center, said Tuesday she considers the series to be a means of bringing together people, both part of and outside the University community, to discuss issues which are relevant to all women.

"The program will be held on February 7 at 4 p.m. in the Penn Women's Center," Tracy said, "and people who are out of school can learn about women's roles in society and women's history.

The first session, "Outside Forces," will be held on February 7 at 4 p.m. in the Penn Women's Center. Some of the questions which the sessions seek to answer include: How has the movement of women into the public arena changed family life? What are the criteria of women's liberation now? Is the single-parent family a part of an historical progression?

WHAT'S AN NSA CAREER?

It's different things to different people.

Of course, all employees at the National Security Agency have certain things in common. They all defend themselves and the American people against the dangers of an ever expanding global communications network. The national security implications of these communications are vast. As such, the differences between our career opportunities are just as interesting as their similarities. For example...

TO THE ELECTRONIC ENGINEER (BS/MS): An NSA career means looking into unique projects which can span every phase of the R&D cycle. An engineer may study such things as the latest in electronic switches and systems whose capacities and speeds have advanced to keep pace with every new development in the communications, recording, and information storage industries. As an engineer may design systems designed to function as a part of the NSA's global security perimeter. NSA engineers help design and build systems whose capacities and speeds are still considered futuristic in most quarters.

Israeli Prime Minister Affirms Peace Pledge

Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin said he will honor the anti-war pledge he made in 1975, and believe Egypt's President Anwar Sadat has the absolute fulfillment of his pledge. Begin said he will honor the anti-war pledge he made in 1975, and believe Egypt's President Anwar Sadat has the absolute fulfillment of his pledge.

When the military talks reopen, I will call upon President Sadat for the absolute fulfillment of his pledge, Begin said.

Do it than how it was done on FREE agree. On that point Carril has a right to sometimes sees things the refs do not see. We have had a share of those calls.

Swordsmen Slashed Penn St.

While the Penn swordsmen were scoring goals in the Palestra last Saturday, another Tiger went in with a 3-0 lead to score. The Quakers and the Wildcats are 1-3 and 1-2, respectively.

The week started off well for the Quakers. They knocked off Princeton 3-0 on Monday night. Duane Haygood had two goals for the Quakers, who are now 4-0 this season in two meetings with the Wildcat.

The Quakers have scored goals in all five games this season, against Duke, Harvard, Pennsylvania, and Princeton. Coach Larry Lauchle has been pleased with the team's performance.

The Quakers have been successful in their games against the Wildcats, who are 1-3 this season. The Quakers have scored at least one goal in every meeting, and have only allowed one goal in their season.

The Quakers face off against the Wildcats on Saturday, February 3, at the Palestra. The game will start at 5:00 p.m. and is expected to be a close one. The Quakers are looking for their fourth straight win against the Wildcats.

The team is currently ranked 10th in the nation, and hopes to continue their winning streak against the Wildcats. The Quakers are confident in their abilities, and are looking forward to the match.

Frosh Lose First to Tigers in OT

By RICHARD RAFAL
Well, if the Princeton frosh had come out of their eight-game winning streak last week with a 2-0 Ivy League record, they had every reason to be happy. Following their 75-64 win over Dartmouth and their 81-77 loss to Penn, the frosh (4-2) faced the second-best team in the league—Columbia—on Friday night.

The frosh didn't have a problem getting the early jump on the Lions. After losing 12-2 in the first four minutes, Princeton sank the first of a one-and-one at the 15:26 mark, and then the grin came off the faces of the Columbia players as Princeton sank the first of a one-and-one at the 15:26 mark, and then the grin came off the faces of the Columbia players.

The game stayed close because the Tigers missed easy layups after getting two shots on the boards, but missed all seven of his shots. They'd be down eight.

Weinhauer. "He can play that way (in coach) just had some lucky shots in the first half, and they were all shooting breakaways, and he turned back a lot of shots."
