FAS Accepts New Graduate Funding Plan

By DOM MANNO
The Faculty of Arts and Sciences budget for 1985-86 was approved Tuesday by the Faculty Committee and recommended to the Board of the Trustees last Thursday, it was announced.

The committee's proposal would allow for an increase in University grants to the arts and sciences. Some individual departmental grants would increase, and the administrative staff would also see increases. The grants would come from the total revenue, including the basic operating surplus and the capital gains on investments.

The Committee's report stated that the increase in University grants is based on the expected growth of the University's endowment over the next five years. Under the current plan, the arts and sciences would receive a total of $1.3 billion for the academic year 1985-86, which is $200 million more than the plan for 1984-85.

Henry Teune, political science chairman, defended the plan as "consistent with the long-term growth of the University for the optimization of present resources." The plan is for the arts and sciences to adjust to the total that matters, and how they make use of it.

By STEVE KURIN
A university professor is currently studying the establishment of academic ties to 14 other countries.

The student council was informed Tuesday that the establishment of academic ties to four other countries, including the United Kingdom, Germany, France, and Japan, is under way. The research projects between the University and the arts and sciences are being considered.

The grants for the arts and sciences, which were established in the new plan, are set at $250 million for the academic year 1985-86, which is $200 million more than the plan for 1984-85.

"This is to provide the department with the resources it needs to enhance the student's educational experience," the plan stated. "We believe that in the long run, the arts and sciences should be included in the total that matters, and how they make use of it.

Wharton Votes To End Course Waiver Exams

By GEORGE MAN
The 1985-86 academic year will see a change in the course of study at the University of Pennsylvania. The change will affect the way courses are evaluated, and may have an impact on the quality of education.

The change was approved by the faculty committee last week, and will be implemented for the fall semester. The change will affect all students, regardless of whether they are enrolled in the arts and sciences, or in a professional school.

"We have developed this program to ensure that students are not given an easy ride," said John F. Brody, director of the Center for Graduate Programmes. "We have developed this program to ensure that students are not given an easy ride, and that grades are not inflated.

"We have developed this program to ensure that students are not given an easy ride, and that grades are not inflated," said John F. Brody, director of the Center for Graduate Programmes.

"We have developed this program to ensure that students are not given an easy ride, and that grades are not inflated," said John F. Brody, director of the Center for Graduate Programmes.
Sights And Sounds Of New York City In Glee Club's "Next Stop Manhattan"

By NOEL WEHRICH

Return from an enjoyable tour and take down that sign on the sideboard at Houston Hall. The gathering spritual and musical mysteries of the Big Apple will be on call this Wednesday, February 22nd.

The Penn Glee Club's Next Stop Manhattan, a singing, dancing, multimedia extravaganza that will be playing on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Kimmel Center on the University Center's premises, promises to transport the student body into the splendor and magical mysteries of the great city without leaving the confines of the Theatre.

"The program is mapped out like a four-leaved clover," Glee Club Director Bruce Montgomery said. "It begins with a world premiere of a musical evolution whose end products are the Parker-Gillespie quintets. It was in the early forties while playing with Charlie Parker and Dizzy Gillespie, Roach first achieved recognition in the black liberation. The activism is carried over into the activities of the theatre. The beat goes on for drummer Max Roach this weekend at the Foxhole Cafe. He's a two disc package with a dedication to the students of the university. The album was produced by Kenny Boulton.

Roach is currently on the faculty of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and black history. His current quartet includes Philip Kitt of St. Louis, John Wray, bass, and Cecil Bridgewater on trumpet. The ensemble has made appearances in both Europe and America in the three years it has been in existence.

In the interim, Roach's career has taken a turn towards the political as he has been an active member of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee in the South and to the New Left. The album was produced with Kenny Boulton as producer.

The Study Of Aging And Human Development Duke University DR. GEORGE MADDOX, DIRECTOR CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF AGING AND HUMAN DEVELOPMENT DUKE UNIVERSITY "PROBLEM AND POSSIBILITIES IN ASSESSMENT OF HEALTH STATUS OF OLDER PEOPLE: PRACTICE, PRACTICE AND RESEARCH IMPLICATIONS" February 22, 1978 4:00-6:00 p.m. Nursing Edu, Bldg Refreshments

Photos for Applications and Encouragements

Shapir Studios
3907 Walnut Street
Philadelphia, PA 19104

Biology Club Careers Meeting Tomorrow At 5:00 p.m. In Room 10 Of Leidy Labs.

Admission committees for graduate and professional schools are seeking "The Centrally Applicants." Interested persons answer the question "Are you interested in a career in the science of medicine?" We are also interested in your answer to the question "Are you interested in a career in the science of medicine?"

The Steering Committee For Aging And The FACULTY OF ARTS AND SCIENCES PRESENTS Dr. George Maddox, Director Center For The Study Of Aging And Human Development Duke University "PROBLEM AND POSSIBILITIES IN ASSESSMENT OF HEALTH STATUS OF OLDER PEOPLE: PRACTICE, PRACTICE AND RESEARCH IMPLICATIONS" February 22, 1978 4:00-6:00 p.m. Nursing Edu, Bldg Refreshments
By John Daniszewski

Wednesday, February 25, 1987

As I write this, Henry Cianfrani is serving a 15-year federal sentence for a variety of crimes, including racketeering, embezzlement, and computer fraud.

In our ivory tower we would be comfortable and secure, studying crime and society as if it were an abstract concept.

But now that this seamy melodrama has been fully unraveled by federal prosecutors in Philadelphia, we are showing the kind of academic interest that is normally reserved for a popular, best-selling novel.

The story of Henry Cianfrani is one of those occasions when the academic world is forced to confront the reality of the criminal world. As a result, we are all the more likely to understand the complexities of the legal system and the challenges faced by law enforcement agencies.

In the past, we have been content to read about crime in the newspapers and on television, without really understanding the implications of our work. Now, however, we must face the fact that our students and our colleagues are also involved in this world of crime.

This is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil. The University is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil. The University is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil.

We countenance all sorts of dominant acts in pursuit of what we perceive as noble ends. Occasionally we perform dominating acts which benefit the professional world at the expense of the individual.

But the University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations.

In the University, the exit from the shadowy world of intelligence gathering is not for the faint of heart. Freedom is not for the faint of heart. Freedom is not for the faint of heart.

The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations.

And yet, we would not want the University to be above such considerations. Too many dominating acts have been performed. Too many dominating acts have been performed. Too many dominating acts have been performed.

In our ivory tower we would be comfortable and secure, studying crime and society as if it were an abstract concept. But now that this seamy melodrama has been fully unraveled by federal prosecutors in Philadelphia, we are showing the kind of academic interest that is normally reserved for a popular, best-selling novel.

This is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil. The University is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil. The University is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil.

We countenance all sorts of dominant acts in pursuit of what we perceive as noble ends. Occasionally we perform dominating acts which benefit the professional world at the expense of the individual. But the University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations.

In the University, the exit from the shadowy world of intelligence gathering is not for the faint of heart. Freedom is not for the faint of heart. Freedom is not for the faint of heart.

The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations.

And yet, we would not want the University to be above such considerations. Too many dominating acts have been performed. Too many dominating acts have been performed. Too many dominating acts have been performed.

In our ivory tower we would be comfortable and secure, studying crime and society as if it were an abstract concept. But now that this seamy melodrama has been fully unraveled by federal prosecutors in Philadelphia, we are showing the kind of academic interest that is normally reserved for a popular, best-selling novel.

This is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil. The University is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil. The University is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil.

We countenance all sorts of dominant acts in pursuit of what we perceive as noble ends. Occasionally we perform dominating acts which benefit the professional world at the expense of the individual. But the University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations.

In the University, the exit from the shadowy world of intelligence gathering is not for the faint of heart. Freedom is not for the faint of heart. Freedom is not for the faint of heart.

The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations.

And yet, we would not want the University to be above such considerations. Too many dominating acts have been performed. Too many dominating acts have been performed. Too many dominating acts have been performed.

In our ivory tower we would be comfortable and secure, studying crime and society as if it were an abstract concept. But now that this seamy melodrama has been fully unraveled by federal prosecutors in Philadelphia, we are showing the kind of academic interest that is normally reserved for a popular, best-selling novel.

This is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil. The University is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil. The University is a difficult place to be for a believer in good against evil.

We countenance all sorts of dominant acts in pursuit of what we perceive as noble ends. Occasionally we perform dominating acts which benefit the professional world at the expense of the individual. But the University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations.

In the University, the exit from the shadowy world of intelligence gathering is not for the faint of heart. Freedom is not for the faint of heart. Freedom is not for the faint of heart.

The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations. The University is a place where we are supposed to be above such considerations.

And yet, we would not want the University to be above such considerations. Too many dominating acts have been performed. Too many dominating acts have been performed. Too many dominating acts have been performed.
Lights Fail At Palestra, Other Sites
By DOM MAIONI
A fire at the Philadelphia Electric Co. (PECO) generating station caused a blackout that plunged the University of Pennsylvania complex between 8:17 and 10:00 p.m. Tuesday night during the first half of the Quakers-Temple basketball game.
Richard Shaw, shift supervisor at the PECO generating station, said the fire occurred at the Shipley-Hilton station at 88th and South Streets at 8:17 p.m. and put two generators out of service for two hours.

20 Minutes For Power
Monetary negotiations following the restoration of power caused the blackout to last 20 minutes, according to Garth F. Gensler, Student Activities Council president. Gensler said the move was an in- dication that "students can do something on this campus," and that "students are concerned about an issue." He added that members of the Student Activities Council, the Finance Committee and the UA had all lobbied University administrators and Budget for lobbyists "overwhelming," adding that "students are concerned about an issue." He said Tuesday's action "seemed to indicate when enough students are concerned about an issue, something positive can result."

Gensler said the move was an indication that "students can do something on this campus," and that "students are concerned about an issue." He added that members of the Student Activities Council, the Finance Committee and the UA had all lobbied University administrators and Budget for lobbyists "overwhelming," adding that "students are concerned about an issue." He said Tuesday's action "seemed to indicate when enough students are concerned about an issue, something positive can result."

The rise will provide over $7 in additional revenue to the University of Pennsylvania complex between 8:17 and 10:00 p.m.

$7 Fee Hike
(Continued from Dane 1)
The increase will provide over $7 in additional revenue to the University of Pennsylvania complex between 8:17 and 10:00 p.m.

Power shortages also hit Graduate Towers A and B, King's Court, the Faculty Club, College Hall, Dietrich Hall, Bennett Hall, and the Hospital of Pennsylvania on its 24th and South Streets at 8:17 p.m. Other Sites
Lights Fail
Resume Specialists Color Xerox Xerox Reductions Film Processing

Call your mother.
Nobody in the world understands you the way she does. And she would love to hear how you're doing right now.
Call your mother tonight...Long Distance. Because if you dial the call your-self, station-to-station, between 5 and 11 P.M., you'll be able to talk for ten minutes for $2.57 (plus tax) or less to anywhere in the continental U.S. except Alaska!

This offer is not only great for personal, family and friends, but it's also great for listening to a favorite station or to catch up on news anywhere in the world you may be.
Students-Summer Positions Available

CAMP WINADU
For Boys, In Pittsfield Mass
Staff Needed For The Following:
- Basketball
- Soccer
- Baseball
- Gymnastics
- Wrestling
- Ping Pong
- Tennis
- Cardio
- Arts & Crafts
- Woodshop
- Pianoforte
- Piano
- Drums
- Bass
- Weight Training
- French
- Spanish
- German

Love Of Children Is A Necessity

On Campus Interviews
To Be Held Wednesday, Feb, 22nd, 1978
Rooms 5 And 6 (3rd floor) Houston Hall
10:00AM - 5:00PM
Inflation

(Continued from page 1)

department. He said Friday that "Oriental studies is the subject which the students are least inclined to pursue because they want to go into the normal range of subjects." He continued, "students in oriental studies are highly motivated and are interested in the area."

Allen said that students who are looking for a high grade avoid "Oriental studies as a subject which is considered less useful for their later careers."

"There is no question that this is the case," he said. "It doesn't surprise me that other departments with high average GPA's include Biology (3.50), Chemistry (3.50), and Sociology of Science (3.24). Communications (3.29) and History (3.25) are Statistics (2.54), Accounting (2.52) and Economics (2.61)."
Women Search For Playoff Trail Against Pioneers in Key Matchup

By JEREMY B. MATVEY

Junior center Danielle Raymond found the solution Saturday, on the televised game high honors with Penn's Matt White. He drove through the Quaker defense. Does that bother Claxton?

"Right now," said Casey, "we're doing as well as Walter's doing." But Roeszler went home and completed a game. But he's a contender for an NCAA bid. And it is (Penn) was a whole different hall game tonight," added James Sailors. "I'm just not ready to audit (Penn) was a whole different hall game tonight."

"I lost to a knock of a couple of mutual friends," as much as anything else. "I'm doing things with the Quakers for the good of the university." According to Nista, coach Kalhy I^wlor had to reshuffle the lineup. No one is worried, however, that there's going to be a loss. Just how well Temple plays team ball has come under attack recently. Even the Owls' playoff chances.

Light on the Praise, Heavy on the Talent

This Temple player had a pretty good game last night. He scored 18 points on 6-of-12 shooting, including 5-of-9 from three-point range. He's shooting 46.5 percent from the field and 78.3 percent from three-point range. He's also shot 78.3 percent from the charity stripe. He's averaging 14 points per game and has led Temple this year. For those reasons, he's wearing the Big Five title. There's been a lot of discussion about whether Temple was in trouble, but the Owls aren't. They're in good shape. They're only six points out of first place in the Big Five.

The reason the recurrence of a light meal down. The zone did look great, as did the Flyers. The biggest problem was the defense, the Quakers' minds seemed to be occupied by the zones that Claxton was not the Claxton of this year. He averaged only 7.5 points a game, shunned by the polls through most of the early season. Then, when the Owls

"Zones are meant to stop the Knights Surprise Mermen As Women Edge Glassboro

By JEREMY B. MATVEY

Junior center Danielle Raymond found the solution Saturday, on the televised game high honors with Penn's Matt White. He drove through the Quaker defense. Does that bother Claxton?

"Right now," said Casey, "we're doing as well as Walter's doing." But Roeszler went home and completed a game. But he's a contender for an NCAA bid. And it is (Penn) was a whole different hall game tonight," added James Sailors. "I'm just not ready to audit (Penn) was a whole different hall game tonight."

"I lost to a knock of a couple of mutual friends," as much as anything else. "I'm doing things with the Quakers for the good of the university." According to Nista, coach Kalhy I^wlor had to reshuffle the lineup. No one is worried, however, that there's going to be a loss. Just how well Temple plays team ball has come under attack recently. Even the Owls' playoff chances.

Light on the Praise, Heavy on the Talent

This Temple player had a pretty good game last night. He scored 18 points on 6-of-12 shooting, including 5-of-9 from three-point range. He's shooting 46.5 percent from the field and 78.3 percent from three-point range. He's also shot 78.3 percent from the charity stripe. He's averaging 14 points per game and has led Temple this year. For those reasons, he's wearing the Big Five title. There's been a lot of discussion about whether Temple was in trouble, but the Owls aren't. They're in good shape. They're only six points out of first place in the Big Five.

The reason the recurrence of a light meal down. The zone did look great, as did the Flyers. The biggest problem was the defense, the Quakers' minds seemed to be occupied by the zones that Claxton was not the Claxton of this year. He averaged only 7.5 points a game, shunned by the polls through most of the early season. Then, when the Owls

"Zones are meant to stop