University Loses $1 Million in Development Shortfalls

By RICHARD E. GORDON

President Martin Kachigian has taken a close look at one-million-dollar losses in five years for the Eighties Development Program for the University of Delaware.

The losses are due to the partial failure of two development campaign endeavors, devoted so far in some attempts to seek funds for new programs in the university.

The panel was established by the Senate Advisory Committee (SAC) in response to criticism that the university is not adequately funding the development campaigns.

Condon To Request Hustle

Advising Office Move

By JOSEPH CHARLES

Chairman Irving Kravis said Tuesday that the Senate Advisory Committee (SAC) will establish a new department responsible for the advising services.

This would mean the university's advising service would be split from the pre-freshman advising service.

Kachigian said that he did not think that the creation of the new advising department would have any impact on the current budgetary status of the university.

Although campus security released the names of the two men who were arrested, they did not identify them or provide any additional information about them.

The arrest of the two men was made possible by the university's use of a new tracking device, which was developed by the university's police department.

The tracking device allowed the university to track the movements of the two men and to determine their location.

The two men were located on the north side of campus, near the university's main entrance, and were found to be in possession of a stolen vehicle.

The authorities are currently investigating the incident and are attempting to determine the extent of the damage that was caused.

The university is currently offering a reward for information leading to the arrest of the two men.
The following courses in planning will be offered this summer. For further information contact the Summer Sessions Office, 210 Logan Hall.

This year we have decided you supply us with a host of consumer abuses to help us understand the nature of the problems that are occurring on campus. This year, your university must report that the average number of complaints on campus is on the rise. The University has decided to take two different approaches to address this issue. The first is to have a consumer affairs office that will investigate complaints and take action. The second is to have a special task force that will look into the issue more comprehensively.

Caveat Emptor
Sensitivity during the summer was the result. The University and students, in their current situation, are dealing with a higher risk of damage to common areas. The University was about to deal with common area damage to common areas. The University is concerned with common area damage to common areas. Therefore, all students are asked to deposit no more than $100 in damage to common areas.

Library Mideast Display Closed After Bomb Threat

By ROB DUBROW

An anonymous telephone caller threatened Monday night to "blow up the Mideastern display of all Mideasterners" if the exhibit was not closed by Tuesday morning. The exhibit, which was put up to interest the Arab and Israeli students, has been under threat since the original intention of the exhibit got "killed out," said the person in the exhibit itself. Neither the police nor the exhibit was affected by the threat.

Although the threat was taken seriously enough to close the exhibit and leave the display, DeGennaro said, "security was not the exhibit itself. Rather, he said, "I believed it was the way it was interpreted."

White Collar

The suspect is a black man, about five feet ten inches tall, 200 pounds, and has a beard. He wore blue jeans, a blue and white striped shirt, a white and blue striped shirt, and a black and orange striped shirt. He was wearing a black baseball cap and a black ski cap. He was identified as an associate of the exhibit, DeGennaro said. The suspect was positively identified by the victim. He was taken away by Philadelphia police. As part of stopping security procedures instituted after a rape in the High Rise South room by a black male on February 21, several rape attempts in High Rise East, all high-rise buildings, and also notified of the occurrence, but apparently there was no need for them to check into the incident.

THE ORGANIZATION OF ARAB STUDENTS and THE EGYPTIAN STUDENTS ASSOC.

Vehemently Oppose

The Exhibit at Van Pelt Library Linking the Land, people, and culture of Israel and Egypt.

The exhibit is offensive in view of the following facts:

1. Israel's defiant intransigence in the face of Sadat's démarche is due, and its refusal to respond to peace.

2. Israel's invasion of South Lebanon, illegally employing cluster bombs and F-15 bombers, indicating it still sees its security in the massacre of its enemies.

3. Israel's demand for ending settlements in Sinai, the West Bank, and on other occupied territories, in direct contravention of the Geneva Conventions.

4. Israel's consistent pattern of torture and violation of human rights in occupied Arab lands is recognized by Amnesty International, the Insight Team of the London Sunday Times, and other international observers.

These facts point to a spirit fundamentally different from that displayed by Sadat. These facts make the linkage of Israel and Egypt in such an exhibit an insult to every Egyptian Arab on this campus.

Mountaineering is a skill of timing as well as technique. The worst moment, like the wrong method, marks the gap between amateur and aficionado. So the key to successful mountaineering is to choose the opportunities wisely and well. When, then, is it appropriate to slowly descend the mountains of Bunch Beer? Celebrations, of course, are both expected and exorbitant opportunities to test your mountaineering mettle. Indeed, on major holidays it is virtually mandatory to do so. Imagine gazing at the new or remodeled Calvin C. Coedligh's birthday bash or throwing caution to the wind during Take A Sorgum-To- Lunch Week without the benefits of Bunch. A disturbing prospect at best. On the other hand, not every event need be as significant as those outlined above.

Small victories like exams passed, papers completed or classes attended are equally acceptable. Remember the mountain-er's motto: "If victory is the completion of the mountain, then it is the mark of the man, the mountain, and the team. Therefore, if you care at all about the outcome, it is your duty to mountain-climb whenever you can."

When should one not enjoy the invigoration of the mountains? Here, you'll be happy to learn, there is a list much briefer. It is the time of timing as well as technique.

Mountaineering is the science and art of drinking Bunch. The term originates from the recovery of spices ejected by the label outside and ramifications due to the cold, naturally refreshing taste inside (cf. emeralds, f. and b.).
