Fee Raised to Support Athletics; Admission to Most Events Free

By ROBERT HINE

The Athletic Department will offer free admission to students for home basketball games and all home football games this season. By raising funds through ticket sales, the department hopes to meet the costs of running its programs.

The $2 ticket is scheduled to go on sale today for the season, with proceeds going to the University's Athletic Department. Although more money was collected through the ticket sales than was anticipated, the plan was not successful.

The Athletic Department was unable to sell as many tickets as it had hoped. The number of tickets sold was lower than expected, due to the low interest in the sport.

The biggest advantage to this method, aside from the added revenue, is the added fans it will bring, Smith said. "The cost of tickets will no longer be a deterrent." For example, if you want to view a basketball game, you can now do so for free. However, the department has yet to sell out a game.

The source that the ticket seller for basketball was asked to find tickets for each of the games, said Smith. Although the department was unable to sell as many tickets as it had hoped, it is still working on improving the plan.

Freshman Class Size Is Right On Target

By DAVID BISHOF

The University almost exactly achieved the target of 2,144 students for the freshman class, which was determined three years ago. The target was lowered from 2,150 students to 2,144 students. This is a decrease of 6 students from the previous year.

The increase in the general freshman class size is a result of the increased emphasis on student retention, said Smith. "We're trying to get the most out of our students," he said.

We are salaried. We are layout and graphic artists. We are financial experts. We are bold the business staff of The Daily Pennsylvanian. Our advertising department gets out to meet with clients and new advertisers — and they can earn commissions doing it. They also handle incoming ads and deal with major local and national ad agencies. The production staffers use their creativity in designing ads and layouts. Working with modern typesetting, and photographic equipment, they transform an advertiser's concept into a finished ad. The financial department manages our $300,000 budget. They keep the books, control the cash flow — gaining the experience Accounting 1a can't provide. The credit office issues and maintains credit information on our clients with the aid of the D.P.'s ACCOUNTING COMPUTER.
Together, these people provide the technical and financial expertise required to put Philadelphia's fifth largest daily newspaper together.
And best of all, you don't need any experience. At The Daily Pennsylvanian you don't have to wait to work — we give you something to do right away. So freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors — don't waste words, don't waste money, don't waste time! If you want to work, we've got a job for you.... And we mean business.

탐자!
Not just any glee club. It's the unique world-traveled singing-dancing PENN GLEE CLUB. It's the one you saw on NBC-TV with Carol Lawrence. It's the one that has sung for the President of the United States and for His Imperial Highness of Japan. The one that has sung and danced in fifteen countries on three continents. That has performed with the Boston Pops and with the Philadelphia Orchestra. The one you need about in the Reader's Digest and the New York Times. It's the one that has appeared with Mickey Mouse and with Ed McMahon. It also happens to be the best entertainment around.

By Sandy Malamud
He found himself standing on the uncarpeted floor of a dorm room, a tall, narrow space with a single window. The room was filled with the scents of new paint and the faint odor of a freshly painted ceiling. He took a deep breath, inhaling the fresh air and the familiar scent of college life.

The door opened, and a friend entered, carrying a backpack.

Friend: So, what's new in the dorm?
Friend: I know what you mean. It's a lot to take in at first.
Sandy: Yeah, and the rules. There are so many rules.
Friend: Yeah, but they're there for a reason. They're meant to keep us safe.
Sandy: I know. I just wish there was a way to break into the dorm without feeling like an intruder.
Friend: You'll get used to it. And you'll find your own space. It's like a little home away from home.

Sandy smiled, feeling a sense of familiarity and comfort in his new environment.

Friend: So, did you get your meal plan set up yet?
Sandy: Yeah, I signed up for the all-you-can-eat plan. It'll be cheaper in the long run.
Friend: Wise choice. And the dining hall is pretty good, too. You should try the vegetarian options.
Sandy: I will. Thanks for the tip.

Friend: No problem. We're in this together.

Sandy: Yeah, we are. It's going to be a good year.

Friend: Definitely. Let's make the most of it.

Sandy nodded, feeling a sense of excitement and anticipation for the year ahead.

LONGER HOURS
Today and Thursday we will be open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., so you will have extra time to do your shopping. On Friday, Saturday, and Sunday we'll be open from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. And next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday we will again be open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Only The Book Store gives you the convenience of deciding when you want to shop.

BETTER SERVICE
We've organized our shelf layout to make it easier for you to find what you need and to pay for it. We've increased the number of checkout registers to 20, one-third more than last year. And our entire staff is going to be working harder than ever to solve any special requests or problems you might have.

REFUNDS
We've changed our refund policy. If you paid in cash, we will give you your refund in cash. If you paid us by check, we will issue you a check. And if you paid by credit card, we will have your account credited. We will accept items for refunds if they are returned, with your receipt, within seven days of purchase. Trade books must be returned in one day.

COURSE LISTING
The Book Store maintains a unique catalog with virtually every course offered on the undergraduate and graduate level at the University. This up-to-date list will tell you both the required and recommended books for your courses.

COMPLETE STOCK
We do more than just list titles of textbooks. After careful research into past enrollments, projected class sizes and orders by professors, our staff orders a sufficient quantity of books—both required and recommended—to meet the needs of the expected enrollment in each class. That's why you will find virtually all the books you need at The Book Store.

USED BOOKS
We have thousands of used textbooks—all at 25% off the list price. Many are current editions and all can bring you significant savings.

CHECKS AND CREDIT CARDS
We'll be happy to take your check for the amount of your purchase (Just show your ID and matric card). If you want to charge your purchase, we accept both Visa and Master Charge. And if you need to cash a check, our special check-cashing window will be open from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. every weekday.

FREE SODA
No matter what we do, buying your textbooks can still take a lot of time and effort. To make things go a little easier, we've arranged for Coca-Cola to provide you with free Dr. Pepper in front of The Book Store today and Thursday.

ONE DOLLAR OFF
We're committed to doing everything possible to give you the best service and the lowest prices. As a symbol of that commitment, and to thank you for your patronage, we will give you a dollar off your textbook purchase if you bring in the coupon below (Only one coupon per person; minimum purchase of $50 required).
U. Upheld in Book Pricing War

By RANDY MALAMUD

Campus Police Officer Thomas Gibbons died June 1, after suffering a heart attack while pursuing three suspects in a campus robbery.

Gibbons, who had served as the University police force for five years, received a call from a woman asking for police assistance.

The woman reported that three suspects had fled her home with her purse.

Gibbons, who was on duty at the time, immediately responded to the scene.

As he arrived on the scene, he encountered three suspects who were said to be armed with knives.

Gibbons pursued the suspects, who were said to be armed with knives.

During the pursuit, Gibbons was injured and was treated at a local hospital.

Following the incident, the University released a statement expressing sympathy to Gibbons' family and friends.

The University also praised Gibbons for his service to the University and the community.

New Courses For Wharton MBA's And Graduate Students

The Social Sciences Sciences held its first new course-oriented system today in the new Student Center, which is extensively involved in the implementation of planned change in the public and private sectors in the U.S. and abroad.

Beginning in this fall we are offering individualized majors to MBA candidates as well as a range of courses open to any graduate student with interdisciplinary interests.

For further information call Dr. L. Eisenberg, ext. 7185 or Dr. P. Blair, ext. 915.

The Provident puts banking convenience on the map.

For Penn students, banking at The Provident means being able to choose from any of our four branch offices on campus. One is bound to be near where you live or on your way to or from class.

We also have four Provident System automatic teller machines nearby. With The Provident System you can do your banking when it's convenient for you, day or night. Once you have your Provident System Card, you can get cash, transfer money from one account to another or just check on your current account balances.

Affirmative Action Audit Is Nearing Completion

By DICK STEVENSON

Administrators are still awaiting the outcome of an audit by the federal government of the University's affirmative action program, but they expect to hear from the government soon.

The University Equal Opportunity Officer, James Robinson, acknowledged yesterday that the auditors had found some deficiencies in the University's performance in affirmative action and hiring policies. The review, initiated last summer, has already resulted in a number of changes in University policy, Robinson said.

This past Friday Sunshine petitioned the Honorable Justice Klein and requested that the University stop selling these titles below cost, which we believe is in violation of various state and federal laws.

Justice Klein declined to grant an emergency temporary restraining order on the grounds that "irreparable damage" had not been proven. He indicated that a full hearing would be scheduled today if Sunshine so desired.

Sunshine has decided to lower the prices and match the bookstore on ten of the thirteen titles in question.

The FIRST CALCULATOR
SMART ENOUGH TO SPEAK YOUR LANGUAGE.

THE SHARP 500

The amazing new Sharp 500 is quite possibly the most important thing that's happened to calculators since calculators happened to math.

Here, at last, is a scientific calculator with direct formula entry, in algebraic terms. Even the most complex formulas can be entered and decoded. Result: you saw valuable time, and you need any segment, instant playback is at your own terms.

And the incredible 500 offers you a 24 character dot-matrix display that will roll from left to right to accommodate even the most formulae totaling up to 90 steps. Store the formulas when you need an 'equivalent mean playback' at your fingertips. And Sharp's "Safe Guard" feature protects all entered formulae and stored data, even when the calculator is off. Compositions, insertions, corrections, erasures, quickly and precisely when and when you want, at any point in the calculation.

The 500 makes the job of assimilating, studying, and problem solving a lot easier for you. You skip past the drudgery of wasted time. Voila! en, the convenience of a classroom tool that operates as fast as a professor can talk. And the 1000 hour battery life could very well take you all the way through college.

Most importantly, the Sharp 500 is smart enough to talk to its own terms, and to your own terms.

Gregorian named Benjamin Shen and Randolph will join Louis Dyson in FAS in order to assure continuity there. Gregorian also announced the appointment of R. Jean Brownlee, former dean of FAS Advising and current undergraduate chairman of political science, as special assistant for political science and Philadelphia affairs.

Gregorian said he was "enthusiastic and excited" about the prospects of working with his newly selected team.

You Thought YOU Had an Interesting Summer...

By Jim McCracken

"I was mildly surprised that I went back," said Ruth Ellen Weinhauer, "because I thought I'd never see some of the kids again."

Weinhauer spent part of his summer with the San Diego Clippers of the National Basketball Association. Each was a starter on last year's Elite Eight's victory was the sole gold medal for the Americans in the 1979 World University Games new game for the American basketball team. Tuppeny as head track coach, while Karl Thornton assumes the same position with the cross-country team.

The Daily Pennsylvanian was given a tryout with the New York Giants, but it didn't last too long.

"I helped that (coaching) board win a couple of gold medals, but I had little input in this business. They really didn't like us in the big city."

Without question, a major league career is dreaming in the head of Olsen. However, he accepts the fact that it will take time to be a success at the major league level.

"I don't want to pay their rent, I don't want to pay their food."

Penn State lost a head coach and the second all-time scoring leader in a time of 5:40.28.

...and the second all-time scoring leader in Penn history was released by the New York Giants after a brief tryout, Grovner had signed with the Giants for free, and was expected to be pinned down on most issues.

Penn State's most prolific outfielder Gary Cicatiello teammates to the pros as well.
