Mexico Refuses Shah’s Reentry

By The Associated Press

The Iranian crisis, now entering its fourth month, is being watched by the world with increasing anxiety. The United States and other nations are concerned about the possible consequences of a military intervention in Iran.

Mexico Refuses

Yesterday with the refusal of the Mexican government to allow the Shah of Iran to return to Mexico, Mexico had done or what the import of its decision. Mexico had done or what the import of its decision.

Mexico has vowed to defy any U.N. proposal that might seek "at least temporary" return the ousted shah to Iran, and if it fails to implement the goal of being returned to Iran. Doctors at the New York hospital where Shalal Mohammed Reza Pahlavi has been treated have told him Wednesday he was free to travel, and there had been reports he would return soon to his rented mansion at Cuernavaca, 50 minutes from Mexico City, where he has been staying since April.

Our Rights as Utility Consumers

By Jerry Salama

Our legal rights as utility consumers are guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution. This means that no government, public or private, can deny us these rights. The utility company cannot shut off your power or water if you disagree with the charges or with any practice that may be harming public interest. How many people know that their rights as utility customers are guaranteed by the Constitution, and how many people actually exercise their rights when their bills are too high or their services are unsatisfactory? It would be misleading to say that they are never abused by utilities and that the consumer is always satisfied by his services. The consumer is often in the wrong when he fails to understand the conditions of high risk. Customers are given a 50 percent reduction of their bill for coding, request an actual reading of their meter. The charges were based on a new rate schedule, you should request a "filed investigation" of your bill.

Respecting Our Radio Stations

Our legal rights are also guaranteed by the Federal Communications Commission. The FCC, the government agency that regulates radio stations, has the power to fine or revoke a station's license if it fails to meet its obligations to the public. The FCC has the power to investigate and punish any station that fails to meet its obligations. If a station is found to be in violation of the law, it may be fined or its license may be revoked. The FCC also has the power to require that a station broadcast a public service announcement. An Open Letter to President Meyerson

Dear Mr. Meyerson,

I am writing to express my concern about the administration's decision to cut funding for the Department of Public Property. This decision will have a profound impact on the University's ability to maintain its facilities and services, and it will affect all members of the Penn community.

The Department of Public Property provides essential services to students, faculty, and staff, including maintenance, security, and administrative support. These services are crucial to the University's operation and are essential for the well-being of the entire community. By cutting funding for the Department of Public Property, the administration is putting the University's mission at risk.

I urge you to reconsider this decision and to prioritize funding for the Department of Public Property. The University's success depends on its ability to maintain its facilities and services, and the Department of Public Property plays a critical role in achieving this goal.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
UA Takes No Action on Mandatory Meals

By SANDY MALAMOR

The Undergraduate Assembly- which strongly opposed any form of mandatory meal plan for next year- is to meet Thursday night, but has failed to pass a resolution on the issue.

At its meeting Wednesday night, the Council Budget Committee failed to pass a resolution on the issue. The decision is now scheduled to be made at the next meeting of the council.

Mark Barnea noted that the 4,300 members of the dining committee would not make the decision that the council will make.

Barnea noted that the proposed plan would amount to no more than 18 new contracts, or a 1 percent increase.

Barnea also noted that many member contracts are in the service of students who are not at or beyond their capacity, and he expressed concern over possible overcrowding situations.

Several other concerns were voiced at the meeting. "One of the things I'm wondering is what would happen to someone who dropped out of school," said Barbara Portnoy.

Portnoy also noted that many student contracts are in the service of students who are not at or beyond their capacity, and he expressed concern over possible overcrowding situations.

In his speech on the failure in the faculty's decision-making role, English Professor Peter Conn said that there were "grave short-comings" in the faculty's participation and that "merely something has to be done." He pointed to the administration's conduct of athletic policy, the management of graduate education, and the behavior of the Trustees as examples of this.

The returning team members that should make the return to the best ever for the Quakers are Bill and Brad Smith. The Smiths are well aware of the enjoyment that the Quakers have had in the past and are looking forward to the upcoming season. The Smiths believe that the Quakers have the potential to be the best team in the Ivy League this year. They are looking forward to the challenge of playing against the best teams in the country and winning their share of meets.

The Planning Committee is looking forward to the upcoming season as well. They are looking forward to the challenge of planning the meet and making sure that everything goes smoothly. They are also looking forward to the challenge of competing against the best teams in the country and winning their share of meets.
