Dormitories Compete in Conservation Of Energy

By DONALD WATKINS

Approximately 75 students formed teams last week in a督促 energy conservation by entering books and materials into the competition.

The Penn Energy Club has organized the contest, which will last until the end of the semester. The University's Physical Plant and Residential Living will finance the contest.

The contest works as follows: Each dormitory will be assigned to an Energy Captain, who will distribute a supply of conservation tips to the residents. The students will be encouraged to conserve energy by reducing lights, using energy-efficient appliances, and turning off equipment when not in use.

The dormitory with the highest conservation rate will receive a $1,500 prize, and the second place dormitory will receive a $750 prize. The money will be awarded to the dormitory and will be divided among the students.

The contest is part of a larger effort to raise awareness about energy conservation on campus. The Penn Energy Club has been working with the Physical Plant and Residential Living to develop conservation programs and initiatives.

The contest is also part of a larger effort to raise awareness about energy conservation on campus. The Penn Energy Club has been working with the Physical Plant and Residential Living to develop conservation programs and initiatives.

Soviet Threat Increases

WASHINGTON - The Senate voted overwhelmingly yesterday to end a 4-year-old ban on arms sales, and also to begin考虑 to buy the U.S. manufacturer as a possible supplier for American arms. The move is expected to open up opportunities for the Defense Industry, which has been struggling with a massive backlog of orders.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Richard Lugar (R-Ind.), would allow the government to consider proposals for the sale of arms to the Soviet Union.

Roughly 15,000 Americans work in the field of arms export control, and an estimated 100,000 more are employed in related industries such as shipbuilding and manufacturing.

Sen. Lugar said he believed that "the best way to support our friends, and to protect our interests, is to work with them and to demonstrate that we are a positive force for peace and stability in the world."

Forum: Carter's Call for Registration

What You Can Do

By John Fraser

Do you think Carter cares about you and your family? After all, he seems to love his dogs more than your fat feline. In the countryside of Vietnam, we know this is true of 1980 President Jimmy Carter. He is so dedicated to his feline friends that he recently declared a national holiday in honor of his beloved felines. This is a fitting tribute, as it shows Carter's true priorities lie with the feline population of the nation. However, this is not the first time Carter has demonstrated his love for animals. In fact, in 2016, he signed the National Cat Protection Act, which guarantees cats the right to freedom and autonomy. Carter's commitment to animal welfare is unparalleled, and his dedication to protecting the rights of felines is something we can all admire. However, it's important to remember that Carter's true priorities lie with the feline population of the nation, and we must work together to ensure that all animals are treated with the same care and respect. Let's pledge our support to Carter's call for registration and help ensure that our feline friends are protected for generations to come.

Carter and those whose interests he represents are not well-represented in the administration. His policies are focused on peace, but the American people are still divided on what that means. Some believe in a limited role for the military, while others want to see a stronger defense. However, Carter's proposal, the "Peace-Meal" program, aims to strike a balance between these two viewpoints. It proposes a gradual reduction in defense spending, alongside increased investments in freedom and democracy. By doing so, Carter hopes to create a more peaceful world for all nations to enjoy.

Let us come together and support Carter in his efforts to bring peace to the world. Together, we can make a difference and ensure that the principles of freedom and democracy are upheld for all nations to see. Let the world know that Carter cares about the felines of the nation and that we stand with him in his efforts to protect them. Together, we can ensure that Carter's call for registration is heard and that our feline friends are protected for years to come.

The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. once said, "While freedom is not enough, nothing short of freedom is possible." Let us remember these words and work together to ensure that our feline friends are treated with the same care and respect that Carter has shown them. Let us make a difference and support Carter in his efforts to bring peace to the world. Together, we can ensure that the principles of freedom and democracy are upheld for all nations to see. Let the world know that we stand with Carter in his efforts to protect our feline friends. Together, we can ensure that the principles of freedom and democracy are upheld for all nations to see.

COMPUTER SCIENTIST

"My objective on graduating from college was to find reimbursement with a trader in my profession. NSA offered the opportunity. The incentive of NSA and the computer have been very spoon since the degree of both were relatively new. The degree of the data systems field - promising opportunities to be a part of the large body of mathematicians employed at NSA, provided the challenge of working on the cutting edge of technology." - Edward Johnson, B.S., M.S., Ph.D. Mathematics

MATHEMATICIAN

"As an NSA Mathematician, I have the opportunity to study and work on various series of sophisticated and challenging cryptographic problems. The large body of mathematicians employed at NSA provides the opportunity to engage in creative mathematical collaboration. The work is enjoyable because of the personal challenge and there is the added satisfaction of knowing you are making a positive contribution to matters vital to the nation's communications security." - Dr. Ron E. Schaefer, B.S., M.S., Ph.D. Mathematics

ELECTRONIC ENGINEER

"As a systems technician working in a research center you are presented many problems. NSA should be one of your considerations. Work at NSA has been very interesting and challenging. There has been a continued learning experience since one never knows how we will use our research in the cutting edge of technology. NSA is a leader in my profession. NSA should be one of your considerations for a career that never has a member of project team involved with a variety of computer systems and communications problems." - B.E.E., M.E.

Salera Challenges in Bid
For Democratic Seat in Congress

BY DOM MINGO
The Democratic challenger in U.S. Rep. Mel Reynolds' 2nd Congressional District, Salera opposes the cuts in social services in the state and the $1 billion in cuts in education that he has accused his Republican opponent of proposing. The Democratic candidate, Salera, has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination in the 2nd District, the same district that Reynolds will seek to reclaim in the 2002 campaign, but he noted that he has "spent more in the last primary." Reynolds is serving his second term in Congress, after six years in the state General Assembly. He is a former Democratic county chairman and a member of the Maryland Democratic County Committee. The most political event of his career was his defeat in a special election for a Democratic county chairman in 1973. Reynolds' campaign is based on his theme of "looking out for the little guy." He is seeking a new term in Congress in a state that is now mostly Republican. The primary election is April 22.

Home Or Away, the Fighting Irish Sell Their Play

When Notre Dame tried to work out earlier this season to face Boston College, the BC fans might sell out the stands. Ha ha. We'll keep giving them the old "Boston Marauders" rap. There will be no truncation. If you can't fill the stands, why bother with games? The only game to compete with an "AAA" competition game, the Skytop of BC was the one and only chance for the Fighting Irish. This one has to be rock bottom. Not even Notre Dame could be upset about the loss.

The man who was to alter the path of the Quakers was Andre Deladrier. He arrived at the beginning of the season, replacing athletic director Richard York, in 1971. His name is Richard Deladrier. He is a Penn graduate and a former member of the fencing team. He has been a fencing coach at Philadelphia schools and has worked for the United States national fencing team. He is also a lawyer and has been involved in the legal profession.

"Down in Louisiana the club threw a dinner for us. When we were in San Francisco, a Penn fan was a part of the team's trip. That's what makes Notre Dame mean college sports. This is what makes it fun. We're watching over the country for the Quakers. With one freshman it's going to be fun. And I must say that the stands should be filled at 9 p.m. There's nothing going on. If you could sellout a heavyweight, you could sellout a football team. We played their game in..." said Deladrier.

"...the sudden rush of enthusiasm? Just the same, the Quakers were simply outclassed 47-67. No Jersey

The Colonials Slaughter J.V.'s

By BILL BONNE

Colleges and universities have a long history of competing against each other in athletic contests. The Colonials and the J.V.'s are no exception. The Colonials have been the dominant team in recent years, with a clear advantage in the standings. Last season, the Colonals won the championship with a score of 133-123. This year, the Colonals are expected to continue their dominance, with a predicted score of 145-115.

The Colonials have been successful due to their superior strategy and teamwork. They have a strong defense, which has allowed them to score consistently and prevent their opponents from scoring. Additionally, they have a powerful offense, which has enabled them to put points on the board at a rapid pace. The Colonals' success is a testament to their dedication to the sport and their commitment to excellence.

In contrast, the J.V. team has struggled to keep up with the Colonals. This season, they are expected to face significant challenges, with a predicted score of 95-145. However, the J.V. team is determined to improve and compete at a high level. They are working hard to develop their skills and tactics, and are confident in their ability to make progress.

Despite the challenges, the J.V. team remains committed to the sport and is grateful for the opportunity to compete. They understand that the Colonals are a formidable opponent, but they are determined to give it their all. They will continue to work hard and improve, with the goal of one day achieving success at the highest level.
