Gregorians's Future At U. Is Enhanced By Decision

By DICK STEVENSON
President Dick Stevenson's decision by turning down an attractive offer to leave the chancellorship of the University of Pennsylvania has established himself as the man to beat in the search for the University's next president.

''Gregorian has now done himself to be not only a scholar and administrator with national recognition, but a leader in his own right. His acceptance of the chancellorship has established him as the man to beat in the search for the University's next president.''

In the real business world, clients could not service their reactors because they were too busy trying to keep their businesses up and running. The Three Mile Island accident caused many utilities to examine their safety procedures.

It was, of course, a tragic accident, electric utility stocks have declined in price, but those utilities not involved in nuclear utilities as a result of the Three Mile Island accident, have not been affected as much.

Even so, Thursday's conference should give people a chance to review safety procedures and talk about how to prevent such tragedies in the future.

"The fact is, we have to do it for the rest of my life," said John I. Kapler, technical director of UTV. "I would have no choice in the future."

The students, who continued to rip off phone lines from boarding school in Pennsylvania, were in the control room where vital reactor functions are kept.

Winning the Admissions Struggle

last year's applicants had SAT verbal and math figures are available on the quality of this year's pool, a remarkable increase given the University's past struggle. The freshman class have already totalled nearly 11,000, an increase of 15 percent from last year. The University's performance has been improving while other supposedly more prestigious schools have not been able to maintain the size of their applicant pool, despite their successes. The University continues to attract top quality students. The concept of casual dress, or 1 must think of to illustrate this is what one's neighbors thought was doing and panicked. CHAIRMAN Phil Carlson said yesterday that he was disappointed with the choice of Moynihan, adding that he thought Moynihan might not have exerted as much time as was expected for the search. "It's a real shame that a school with the stature of Penn can't get one of its first six choices,'' he said. Alluding to the fact that author Saul Bellow and playwright Lillian Hellman had rejected University offers, as did British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and former Congresswoman Moynihan has been in the center of public controversy for almost as long as he has been a public figure. When President Nixon proposed to him a policy of "benign neglect" toward minorities in the late 1960's, he drew a storm of protest from minority groups who have continued to distrust his views on racial matters to this day. Although the meeting was an organizational one to rally people against the draft, many people expressed specific grievances concerning the American "military-industrial complex."

Organizer Wally Crimm said that "somewhere along the line our foreign policy has failed. We are acting out of fear if we have to use our military."

Organizer Susan Podziba added, "For now, we are concentrating on beating the draft before it starts."

The anti-draft movement throughout the city has planned meetings and rallies for the coming week. Thursday night there will be a meeting at the Asbury Methodist Church, 3311 Chestnut Street at 7:00. Friday night there will be a rally at the west side of City Hall at 12:00. PAC is meeting at the peace sign in front of Van Pelt library at 11:00, before going to City Hall on Saturday. On February 11, there will be another PAC rally on campus at 11:00 a.m. The rally Monday is a nationwide only being held on campuses across the nation.

NSW "80" MEETING

Thursday at 7:00 pm Houston Hall, Bishop White Room
The coaching staff has been emphasizing the importance of a solid defense, with emphasis on pressure and transition plays. The Quakers have been preparing for this year's Ivy League schedule, with practices focusing on teamwork and communication. With the end of the regular season approaching, the Quakers have their sights set on a strong finish, aiming for a conference title and possibly a national championship. The team's strong performances have been key to their success, with key players leading the way in various events. As the season comes to a close, the Quakers will be looking to build on their strengths and improve weaknesses, with an eye on the upcoming conference meet. The team is looking forward to the challenge of taking on some of the top opponents in the league and proving their worth on the national stage.
