Vet School Appeals For Higher State Appropriation

By ELAINE SONG

The Veterinary School last week asked the state government for an increase in state appropriations for next year. The request was made at an annual meeting with the House Appropriations Committee in the Capitol.

The original registration proposal to the school, announced by Governor John Dougherty in February, was a 10 percent increase over this year's level.

The number and the percentage of students increased, however, the cost of the school's operation also increased. The number of students increased by 12 percent this year, and the cost of educating each student increased by 2 percent.

Tuition, Fees To Be Set Thursday; Hik May Exceed Early Estimates

By ROBERT SPICER

Next Thursday's tuition and fees will be set, according to the announcement of the Trustees Executive Board, President Martin Meyerson yesterday.

There is some involved in the budget process that the budget will be larger than this year's, if the Budget Committees in their first round of negotiations through the lens of Vice President Victor Gorton has reportedly had some take-money increases between 5 and 10 percent.

A 10 percent raise would make unacceptable tuition and fees for the school, announced by President Meyerson yesterday.

Brennen Replaced as Chem Instructor

By SCOTT HELLER

In the wake of heated controversy over the firing of Professor William Brennen, another instructor has been appointed to replace him as Chem 1 instructor.

Dr. McCall's interpretation of Brennen's resignation was made as a result of the dispute over the editorial privileges in the newspaper.

The withdrawal of barbiturate medication is being considered in order to prevent another incident like the one that occurred in March.

"It was extremely important with Brennen's family to ensure that the school was not in the need of his family and concerned friends," Fager said yesterday.

In the wake of heated controversy over the firing of Professor William Brennen, another instructor has been appointed to replace him as Chem 1 instructor.

According to the editors, the newspaper's editorial board has decided to publish an article that will be written by an independent journalist to "information that came to me yesterday.

Despite some difficulties in some of students' main qualities with Bommer's teaching style, students said that the change has produced an atmosphere of more interaction in the large lecture of one of students' main qualms with Bommer. "We are still trying to pull together. I emphasized that "we all tried to pull together. I don't think the framework in which we ask instructors to teach this course may be unfair," he said, "but I will examine the framework to ensure it is done." Kings Court

Laxmen Lose First Two

By SCOTT LEHRWITZ

The nine-laxmen team may be falling apart in three spots - on offense, defense and in the middle. They lost both games, one to the University of Maryland and the other to Navy. The loss to Navy cost the team its sectional title and first-half dozen.

The team lost its sectional title and first-half dozen.

The Maryland game was over by halftime. The team was already down by 9-3 at the end of the first period. The Quakers lost 11-12, 8-0, 9-3 and 8-0.

The Navy game was a different story. The Quakers played well, especially on offense, and led 8-0 after the first period. They lost 10-8, 9-7 and 10-7.

The Quaker defense was solid, but the offense was lacking. The team scored only five goals in the first period of both games.

The team is now 1-1 in the season and 3-3 overall.
