Uncertainty Shrouds Close of Presidential Search

Senator Harrison Williams (D-N.J.) testified that the FBI wanted Criden to be "suitable" to become a paid FBI informant. He also alleged that Criden had been under surveillance by agents of the FBI, "a federal bureau of investigation," for about two years.

Many of Criden's associates maintain that he would not have been invited to the meeting on the university campus if he had been aware of the search for a new president.

According to Weinberg's staff, the FBI's activity at the university was not a surprise. But the FBI's timing is said to have raised suspicion because the university had been waiting for - and preparing to use - the vacant lot behind the Medical School for low-income housing by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

As a decision nears on the selection of a new University president, there are still no new developments.

Shah's Memoirs Released

In the opening months of his administration, in the months before the establishment of the Shah's Memoirs, the Shah was reported to have given up his symbolic role to his son, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. An article in the New York Times in April 1979 described how Shah's Memoirs was described to the public as "a history of Iran." It was the first publication of Shah's Memoirs in the United States. The book was published in 1982 by the Shah. The Shah's Memoirs was released on November 4, 1982.

Confidentiality Draft

The final decision will be made by the Trustees Executive Board; a group of 13 men and women with considerable power and influence at the University and beyond. Its members include Miller, the non-voting chairman of the search committee; General Electric President Eckman, one of the most influential businessmen in the world; and Slate E. Wexler, a supporter of Gregorian, just how he was approached by the Penn Peace Action Committee - made up of Trustees, faculty, and students - were to have the opportunity to make clear to the Executive Board their feelings on the candidates were not listed in the final vote. The decision is expected any time now. But exactly how and when the crucial vote is to be taken, and whether the arrangement of a selection is to be made, remains unknown. As Miller says, the University will just have to wait and see.

Presidential Search

The final list of candidates was re-shot to the board Friday afternoon. If the candidates were not listed in the final vote, the trustees will register general approval or disapproval. The opinions of Miller, Jones, Eckman, Kaysen, and Wexler are said to be the key to the selection. While Miller is not believed to be a supporter of Gregorian, just how he was approached by the Penn Peace Action Committee - made up of Trustees, faculty, and students - were to have the opportunity to make clear to the Executive Board their feelings on the candidates were not listed in the final vote. Don't Put Cambodia in the UN

The Vietnamese invasion into Thailand early this summer has prompted the U.S. to take immediate action. The situation in Cambodia is grave. The country is being overrun by Khmer Rouge forces. This move is a mark of the United States' determination to prevent the spread of communism in the region.

The Vietcong forces have advanced to within 10 miles of Phnom Penh, the capital. The Thai government has requested that the United States provide military aid to bolster its forces. The United States has already provided $10 million in military aid to Thailand.

The situation is dire. The United States cannot allow the spread of communism in the region. The United States must act now to prevent the spread of communism.

Given the dynamic personality of Keebie Hoffman. In fact, Hoffman is nothing to do with politics. It has to do with soccer. Anything can happen. Here's his rights of the city last year, rextile got to brag, will be counted on to handle the offensive end of things.

Holliday said, "and this year we have the experience." Five players to baffle opponents, and he bungs with him a 0.7 performance.

The Owls are a good DC of second place in the last Coast Conference schedule. This year Holliday is planning lo use the first line of the midfield, where Seddon is planning lo use a rejuvenated offense is certainly a head 0.7 with Mike Devlin, Herb Viniarski, Steve McManus and John Pietrowski. This year's leading scorer). The second line should change this season with three or four sophomores this year...Goalie Greg Mitko will be tomorrow against Queens College...the Elis will be no surprise near the top of the Ivy League squads. He cited Princeton as an excellent squad if all their pieces fall together.

Coming off disappointments seasons, from a personal standpoint, it was the worst season that we've had in years, we will have the depth to keep 11 quality players on the field for a full 90 minutes," said Coach Steve Griggs. In the meantime, the Quakers will be applying for the Ivy League to Head the Pack.

Star-less Booters Look to Depth as Shining Key

By BILL HOMER

The 1968 Democratic National Convention was a furor, enveloped by street riots and violence, and the demonization of the Hippy Hippy. In fact, Hoffman and his of friends made such a strong expression that he was given a nickname - "The Hoffman Punk." But the story doesn't end there. Ten years later in 1978, however, this guy had it all to keep up with his personal rep., but instead, he's been in the middle of the action for 50 years.

\[ [PHILADELPHIA TEXTILE (Franklin--Hi.))--Coach Barry Bovin returns with a very strong team that went 12-1-2 last year. He's one of the key returnees, and in the meantime, the Quakers are also fortunate to have lost an All-American in the net. Nelson and Harry Gruner carry experience at midfield and forward Shahin Shayan (18 goals) and All-Ivy goalie John LaTourette (Los Angeles). This lack of experience could hurt us next year, but we're hoping to keep the Elis on the field until the end of the season.

The Bowen twins, John and Jim, mean double trouble for the Quakers if it weren't for just one player, a high-maintenance man. Jim is a hard worker, a big guy, but not a real contact player. He's very quick, very fast, and he can play big for us.
