Faculty Meeting Today at 3

By Dick Stevenson

The Faculty Executive Board will meet in special session this afternoon to consider the nomination of Sheldon Hackney for the presidency. The meeting will be held in College Hall at 3:00 p.m. and all members are invited to attend.

Several hundred faculty members were to attend the evening meeting of the Undergraduate Assembly, held in College Hall on Tuesday, to hear a report on the nomination process by President Benjamin Shen, the search committee and the trustees.

At the meeting on Thursday, the search committee will present its final report to the trustees. The trustees will then vote on the nomination of Hackney for the presidency. The meeting is open to the public and all members of the university community are invited to attend.

The meeting will be followed by a special session of the Faculty Executive Board, which will consider the nomination of Hackney. The Faculty Executive Board will then present its report to the trustees at their meeting the following day.

Man in the News

Faculty Voice Bender: Confident, Respected

By Lyle McKee

As Paul Bender returns to his College Hall office, his face shows signs of age, but his spirit is as vibrant as ever. Bender is a true believer in the importance of faculty voice and influence in the governance of the university.

The wide range of sentiments expressed by faculty members in response to the nomination of Hackney for the presidency reflects the diversity of opinion on the university's future. Bender has been a consistent advocate for faculty voice and influence, and his return to the presidency will undoubtedly bring a new perspective to the university's governance.

Bender also has the responsibility of working with the new president and establishing a strong foundation for the future. He is confident that the university's future is bright and that Hackney will continue to lead the university in the right direction.

Shen Reconsiders, Takes Acting Provost Position

By Dick Stevenson

Professor Benjamin Shen, who was elected to serve as acting provost, has now agreed to remain in office until after the January meeting of the Board of Trustees. Shen's decision comes as a surprise to many faculty members, who had expected him to step down and turn over the position to the new president.

Shen's decision is a welcome development, as it will allow his successor to have a smooth transition and will provide time for the new president to get acquainted with the university's operations.

The faculty is grateful for Shen's willingness to continue in his role, and we look forward to working with him as we move forward with the transition of power.

Hackney to Take Office in Feb.

By Victoria Ruth Biddle

The nomination of Sheldon Hackney for the presidency of the University was announced yesterday by President Benjamin Shen. Hackney is expected to take office as the university's 15th president in February 2018.

Hackney has a long history with the university, having served as a faculty member, dean, and interim president. He has also served as the president of both the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Chicago.

Hackney is expected to be a strong leader for the university, and we look forward to working with him as we move forward with the transition of power.

Although Hackney will not officially begin his term until February, his nomination will mark a significant moment in the university's history. He has been a strong advocate for faculty voice and influence, and we believe he will continue to lead the university in the right direction.

Law Prof's Letter Fuels Debate

Faculty Considering Move To Sue Trustees

By Andrew Behrman

Faculty members are considering a move to sue the university's trustees in an effort to prevent the university from reducing the size of the faculty voice in the governance of the university.

Although the majority of the faculty is in favor of the move, there are some faculty members who are concerned about the implications of the move. They believe that the university is already doing a good job of balancing the needs of all stakeholders.

In addition, some faculty members have said that they are concerned about the university's commitment to providing a quality education to all students.

We believe that the university is doing a good job of balancing the needs of all stakeholders, and we encourage the faculty to continue to work with the university to find a solution that is acceptable to all.

Graduate Fin Aid Director Appointed

By Roben Day

Washington Graduate Financial Aid Director Cynthia Winkelman was appointed as Assistant Vice President and Graduate Financial Aid Director. Winkelman, who has held the position of Associate Director of Graduate Financial Aid and Professional Affairs, will be responsible for the university's graduate and professional students.

Winkelman is a highly respected leader in the field of graduate and professional financial aid. She has a wealth of experience in the field, and we are confident that she will be able to lead the university's graduate and professional financial aid programs.

We believe that the appointment of Winkelman as the new graduate financial aid director is a strong step forward for the university, and we look forward to working with her as we move forward with the transition of power.
NEWS IN BRIEF
Compiled from Associated Press Dispatches

Begin Decrees Anti-Semitism
BERLIN — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin today called on the Jews of Europe yesterday to defend themselves against the growing "wave of madness toward Jewish people" across the continent.

Begin also condemned the Soviet Union and Syria, which he said were financing terrorism and were helping to create a "false image of the West for people in the Third World." He said the West must do more to support the people of the Third World.

Jazz Night In Rathskeller Begins Oct. 14 At 9 PM
This week begins the weekly Jazz Night at the Rathskeller, the popular hangout for students looking for a break from the stresses of academic life.

Jazz bands from around the country will perform in the Rathskeller on Tuesday evenings, with a special focus on local talent. The event starts at 9 PM and runs until 1 AM. Admission is free to all students with a valid ID.

Help Soviet Jews Letter Writing Every Day
The University of Pennsylvania's help for Soviet Jews is ongoing. Students can participate in letter writing to support those in need.

Letters are distributed by email to individuals interested in participating. Volunteers are encouraged to write to as many people as possible, expressing solidarity and offering encouragement.

Don't be Left Out! Vote!
Voting is an important part of our democracy. Make sure to cast your ballot and have your voice heard.

Voting is available for students of all ages. Join the movement and make your presence felt in the voting booth.

Don't Be Left Out VOTE!

The Daily Pennsylvanian - Tuesday, October 14, 1980
Nobel Peace Prize Awarded To Argentine Civil Rights Advocate

OSLO, Norway - Adolfo Perez Esquivel, an Argentine lawyer, was awarded the 1980 Nobel Peace Prize on Wednesday for having "shone a light in the darkness" of military rule in Argentina

The five-member committee passed over Mr. Perez Esquivel, a lawyer from Buenos Aires, Argentina. He was awarded the prize for his work in the Peace and Human Rights Network, which he heads, and for his work in human rights organizations. The five-man committee consisted of the Norwegian Nobel Peace Prize committee.

The committee said the 60-year-old lawyer was honored for having "shone a light in the darkness of military rule in Argentina."

Mr. Perez Esquivel heads the Peace and Human Rights Network, which he describes as a network of Latin American human rights organizations.

The committee said he had been "rewarded for his tireless efforts for the cause of human rights." He is the second Argentine to win the award, the first being the Jesuit priest, Father Luis Montes, who shared the prize in 1979.

The five-member committee passed over Mr. Perez Esquivel, a lawyer from Buenos Aires, Argentina. He was awarded the prize for his work in the Peace and Human Rights Network, which he heads, and for his work in human rights organizations. The five-man committee consisted of the Norwegian Nobel Peace Prize committee.

The committee said the 60-year-old lawyer was honored for having "shone a light in the darkness of military rule in Argentina."

Mr. Perez Esquivel heads the Peace and Human Rights Network, which he describes as a network of Latin American human rights organizations.

The committee said he had been "rewarded for his tireless efforts for the cause of human rights." He is the second Argentine to win the award, the first being the Jesuit priest, Father Luis Montes, who shared the prize in 1979.

The committee said he had been "rewarded for his tireless efforts for the cause of human rights." He is the second Argentine to win the award, the first being the Jesuit priest, Father Luis Montes, who shared the prize in 1979.

The committee said he had been "rewarded for his tireless efforts for the cause of human rights." He is the second Argentine to win the award, the first being the Jesuit priest, Father Luis Montes, who shared the prize in 1979.

The committee said he had been "rewarded for his tireless efforts for the cause of human rights." He is the second Argentine to win the award, the first being the Jesuit priest, Father Luis Montes, who shared the prize in 1979.
The Faculty's Role

The last time the Faculty Senate was in special session, the controversy over the presidential selection process involved the disassociation with Meyerson who drove about 700 faculty members to that 1974 meeting in the University Museum. The largest turnout ever for a faculty meeting. While the Senate opted for a low-key, behind-the-scenes review over a public outcry of Meyerson's presidency, the discontent registered by the faculty was enough to force Meyerson later that year to set a nine-year limit on his term and avert considerable power.

The situation in the Senate was special session again this afternoon, this time to consider the faculty's stand on the situation. As the Senate met in 1974, just as in 1976, the assembled faculty has the power to approve the administration's recommendations. The Senate's record of its meetings showed that the Senate's rules give the faculty the power to approve the administration's recommendations. That, of course, is what the Senate's rules give the faculty the power to approve the administration's recommendations.

The meeting promises to be a lively one, given the widespread divergence of opinion among the faculty. There will be a call for the nomination of Provost Varlan Gregorian to the presidency, but there will also be calls for a扩容 for support of Sheldon Hackney and a vote for the adoption of an approposum that would allow the Senate to dismiss the committee.

Inflation Deflates Childhood

By Dave Elfin

I thought back to the days of childhood, the time when the world was small and I could do everything. I could reach the top of the tree, I could catch the butterflies, and I could build a castle in the sand. Those were the days when I was young and innocent. And that's why I think that inflation is an evil thing. It deflates childhood, makes it smaller and less fun. It wipes away the joy of childhood, the wonder and the magic of the past. It takes away the innocence of childhood, the simplicity of the past. It makes it impossible to live in the past, to remember the past, to remember the innocence of childhood.

The Undergraduate Assembly is following closely the action of the special Senate meeting to take place later in the day on the procedure for the selection of the next chancellor of the University. The Senate is considering a motion to authorize the University to proceed with the selection of the next chancellor.

Correction

Several words were ommitted from last week's edition of the University's weekly newsletter, The Daily Pennsylvanian. The missing words are: "The Faculty Senate regrets the loss of variance of..." and "The Faculty Senate appreciates the..."

Resolution for the Faculty Senate Meeting

The following is a letter to the members of the Faculty Senate from Chairman Paul Bender concerning the presidential selection process.

The University Council will be considering the recommendations of the Faculty Senate on the procedure for the selection of the next chancellor of the University. The Faculty Senate is considering a motion to authorize the University to proceed with the selection of the next chancellor.

Resolution 1

The Faculty Senate thanks Dr. Hackney to the campus and expresses its support of his decision to prepare to continue his term of office in the position of Faculty Senate Chairman.

Resolution 2

The Faculty Senate of the University of Pennsylvania, acting under the provisions of its constitution to act on the matter of the selection of a new chancellor for the University, has, in addition, ordered a vote on a resolution concerning the composition of the search committee.

Resolution 3

Whereas, University Council has established the search committee for the selection and election of the next president of the University, and

Whereas, the trustees have not acted to authorize the search committee for the selection of a new chancellor of the University, and

Therefore, the Faculty Senate hereby orders a vote on a resolution concerning the composition of the search committee.

Resolution 4

The Faculty Senate regrets the loss of variance of..." and "The Faculty Senate appreciates the..."

We want to know!!

What are your opinions concerning:

The Trustees
A Third World Center
A Graduation Speaker
A Student Court Security

Vote in the Student Opinion Poll

Monday, October 13
Tuesday, October 14

Look for polls on Locust Walk Superblock & Dining Commons
Funded by the UA.
Bender Is Faculty Voice
(Continued from page 11)
recognized as one of the few law pro-fallen on issues such as the death penalty and Robert B. Benjamin, Jr., a law profes-
Although a large portion of Bender's involvement in faculty representation at the University has been on an informal level — such as when he has been a member of the Faculty Senate, the Committee on Academic Freedom and free speech, and various internal search committees. His work on these committees has impressed his col-mates with the determination of them that it is a capable and conscious faculty voice.

"The problem is how can I be an efficient and not waste too enthusiasm," said Phoebe Lehen, Senator, chairperson, "I think he's very interested in what he's doing, he's setting a model for how to get to the root of the issues, but it's hard to come to any conclusion.

Exactly what is that model? Bender has said that one of his main goals as faculty chairman is to examine administrative rules and regulations to determine their impact on the campus. He has said he is going to study each and every rule where we focus on what we call a bill and that's how we just want rid of all the time.

"It's very a struggle to find time because we are just being pushed away by our.

When he talks about the Senate, Bender mentions "committees" and making faculty "more meaningful" — both represent a so-consensus, practical ap-tures and goals of past chairmen, which is under the newness of this guy, so it's not well accomplished.

The Senate has not been as body, so meaningfully or influential as

THE HUNT
...is coming

sign up now on Locust Walk

CHESTNUT BRASS COMPANY
Sat. Nov. 15th 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.
Tix Only 3.50 with Penn I.D. Now at Houston Hall
Tix and on Locust Walk.

Moussorgsky's "Promenade" from
"PICTURES AT AN EXHIBITION,"
Germaine, Favorito, Vivaldi, Bach,
Rugg, Jazz and More!

daffodils
The Feast of Philadelphia Takes Great Pleasure In Announcing
The Acquisition Of The
Mary Bonner Flower
Shop
Formerly at 24th St.
Two Great Flower Names To Serve The University of Philadelphia.
Flowered Plants delivcred daily
throughout Phila.,
Suburbs & The World.
Mary Bonner & Daffodils
Have Three locations to serve you!
1632 Sansom St., Phila.
24 South 18th St., Phila.
2601 Penna Ave., Phila.
536-5635
I can't learn all at once. I work on the NBA all year round and I think that's why we have been successful. It's a lot of work but we have to keep working and developing.