Panel Plans Pres. Search

By SCOTT BELLER
The University council meeting yesterday confirmed information from President Martin Meyerson that the council has approved the search procedures for the university's next president. The council also approved the university's search committee.

"That's one step closer to making the transition within the University," said Faculty Senate President Chizu Shiono, noting that there was "a level of excitement" during yesterday's meeting.

The council's decision follows a series of events that have kept the university's leadership in suspense. The council's vote came after a lengthy discussion of the procedures for selecting the university's next president.

The council's decision was praised by many members of the university community, who said that it was a positive step toward making the transition within the University.

"It's a very positive step," said Professor John Smith, who has served on the council for the past decade. "It's been a long time coming, but I think it's a good decision."

ARE YOU THE CAPTAIN OF YOUR SHIP?

The captain who's worth his salt makes it a point to be aware of the various forces that affect his ship's travel. That knowledge enables him not only to ride the favorable currents but also to turn adverse forces to his benefit, reaching the destination that much earlier, and in one piece!

Point out the days of current events and how they are related. Most people are unaware that the Sun, Moon, and Planets affect your life in ways that are highly predictable. For example, there are certain times when you will have a hard time concentrating on schoolwork, or you could experience an unexpected change in your love life. The chart creates a "map" of your personality as a whole, and explains the people and situations that affect you. The chart also shows the impact of friendship and relationships, money, career, success, love life, health, and even how you will be handling life's ups and downs. Exploring the unknown and predicting the future is a fun and rewarding experience. The chart also gives you a glimpse of your future career, even if you haven't selected one yet. The chart can show you important things that you may not suspect about your future.

A comparable natal chart done by a professional individual astrologer could cost you as much as $500. At Astrologics Research we will provide you with a comparable chart for a fraction of the cost! This service for only $35.00 is a chance to set sail anew and could be the most important investment you've ever made. This service is available at SPRINT LTD, 235 S. 39th Street, Chicago. Rush orders are available. For information call Benjamin Hall, 662-5442, ext. 568-4338 days, ask for Sloan, LTD, dept. 11. YOUR MONEY WILL BE RETURNED UP TO $100 IF NOT SATISFIED.

man Robert Davits, have said a "forbidden process" should exist for reviewing appointments before they are said. The said he was "shocked" by the negative response. "It wasn't that anyone was trying to be selected only on the basis of merit, but there has to be some formal or informal means of review when there are written agreements."

Beck—

(Continued from page 1) Zemprevi lamented the fact that the right new judicial candidates could be selected on the basis of merit. Although he said it was understood that Thornburgh would nominate four Democrats and four Republicans, Zemprevi said that he bad found that all eight judges would be selected only on the basis of merit.

Six of the judges nominated with Beck were held up by the Rules Committee, and Zemprevi said that had he been on the Rules Committee, he would have voted against the nominees. Zemprevi said he was just that there was no mechanism for it to be reviewed. I'm sure that there has to be some formal or informal means of review when there are written agreements.

"Obviously, things like this distract you from your real purpose. I've tried to keep things under control. But I imagine rumors are being spread around."

And the spot where they always tend to land is right in Harris' lap. All season Harris has maintained a position that everything will be carefully evaluated after the final game and any decisions on the case in point - the hiring or firing of Harry Gamble - will be made at that time.

From the looks of things, tomorrow's game may only serve as a temporary eye of the storm.

Gamble made certain to emphasize that before practice yesterday. In a team meeting, he made it clear that the game at hand is the most important thing right now. Don't think his emotions haven't been rocked a bit by the whole to do, though.
"I didn't know anything about it (the petition)," said Gamble. "I must have been naive. I was just coasting along, doing my job. A number of players had come up to me and asked if they could help in any way saying 'we want you to be here next year.' Some evidently felt strong enough to make a move to solidify my position with the administration.

Frostbite Regatta

Fraternity and sorority sports such as Princeton, Rutgers and Bucknell. The crews will line up at the course at ten second intervals, this weekend the boats will line up at ten second each one and race for about 1500 meters.

Headweight coach Ted Nash said the Regatta is the Frostbite, "It gives us a chance to see where each of Princeton, Rutgers and Navy, and it gives an incentive to keep training hard in the fall." Nash expects the heavyweight crews to do well in the regatta and to win their share of races.

The lightweight crew will be the same as the varsity eight, the only crew that will race on Saturday in much the same way as the heavyweights. The varsity women's eight also joined the varsity men's eight in a practice regatta last weekend. According to captain Frank McKeehan, the lightweight crew gives us a chance to see how we work on the fall paid off and what we have to work on for the spring.

In addition to the varsity, the undergraduate women, like the varsity, will race on Saturday in the same way as the heavyweights. The varsity eight will also have one sprint eight. "This race gives us racing experience," said lightweight head coach Fred Leonard. "Also, since it is our last race in the fall paid off and what we have to work on for the spring."

In addition to the varsity, the undergraduate women also have their own eight. "This race gives us racing experience," said lightweight head coach Fred Leonard. "Also, since it is our last race in the fall paid off and what we have to work on for the spring."

Now comes Miller time.
The game will have a star. In a sense of course, there will be a scorekeeper, a statistician, a lucky mascot, a认清 current status. With the advent of television, the game will be televised. This is the background and rising

B: BILLS BOLING

The prediction section of the future comes tonight in place. In New York, the Bills will beat the Giants by 13-10. It will be a close game, with the score tied at 10-10 in the fourth quarter. The Bills will score the winning touchdown with 1:04 left in the game. The Giants will be led by quarterback Phil Simms, who will throw for 194 yards and two touchdowns. The Bills will be led by quarterback Jim Kelly, who will throw for 242 yards and one touchdown. The Bills will have a 200-yard rushing game, led by fullback O.J. Simpson, who will gain 120 yards on 12 carries. The Giants will have a 150-yard rushing game, led by running back Keith Byars, who will gain 95 yards on 17 carries. The Bills will have a 3-1-2 record in league competition, while the Giants will have a 2-2-0 record. The Bills will meet another team in the playoffs, while the Giants will meet a team in the Wild Card round. This game will be a classic, with both teams playing their best football. The Bills will win, 13-10, and the prediction section of the future will come true.
