"If there is no struggle, there can be no progress," said Frederick Douglas, and this is all making great progress at this university.

Some on a committee in the Student Center sponsoring Killer said in a letter to the Daily Pennsylvanian that they would not support the protests. They would have the game continue in peace and order if the protests ended for ending the controversy. They would vote to discontinue the killing and violence to take place while the game is going on, leaving the killing and violence to take place without complaints.

The Student Center committee, in their protest, stated, "We are concerned that university policy should be intelligent and free from any legal action. We should be able to make representations concerning any and all policies of giving way of any type of protest.

Search Begins for CGS Director

BY DONALD WATNICK

The New Haven Register

The University has embarked on an international search for a new director of the College of General Studies. The search began earlier this month when the search committee was formed.

The committee has been established to assist in the selection of a new director for the College of General Studies. The committee will consist of five or six members who will meet with candidates to discuss their qualifications and experience. The committee will then make a recommendation to the board of trustees, which will appoint the new director.

The search committee is made up of representatives from a variety of backgrounds, including faculty, students, and alumni. The committee will also include representatives from the central administration of the University.

The search process is expected to take several months, with the goal of selecting a new director by the end of the year. The new director will be responsible for overseeing all aspects of the College of General Studies, including curriculum development, program evaluation, and student services.

The College of General Studies is a unique and innovative program at Yale University, offering a wide range of courses and opportunities to students. The new director will be expected to continue the College's tradition of excellence and innovation, while also working to expand the program's reach and impact.

The University is committed to finding the best possible candidate for the position and is confident that the search process will result in the selection of a highly qualified individual. The University looks forward to the opportunity to work with the new director to further the goals and objectives of the College of General Studies.

Kontos Takes Over

Kontos said she is especially dedicated to making the residence halls "environments of learning."

"People should feel involved in the University," and the residence staff will be working to develop a sense of community for the students to accomplish their goals.

The new residence director has been involved in managing current residence staff, since she started her graduate degree from Wharton in 1990.

She is currently a doctoral candidate at Rutgers University.

The Big Five "were supposed to be the murder nut of the Big Five," a 25-year-old Annenberg School graduate said.

The man was reportedly shot to death allegedly following a sexual assault on March 21, 1980. The case is still under investigation by Philadelphia homicide detectives.

- Censits

"Big Five has no special sports," Censits said. "I feel we're a number of coaches and administrators, a group which proposes recommendations for basketball affairs."

Censits also admired attending some "Big Five" games, "It's hard to do, I think, with the improved caliber of basketball in the city."

"In terms of high-caliber play, it's appropriate that Dick Censits will become the new basketball director," Censits said.

After Waiting Their Turn
Birdies Crush Rosemont

In Battleground of the Roses, the Penn women's tennis team took on Rosemont College on March 29th, with the match starting at 4 PM. Despite the match being a non-conference game, the victory was still decisive, with Penn winning the match by a 5-0 margin. Leading her team to victory, co-captain Mark Schlitt expressed satisfaction with the performance, saying, "It's harder for them. It's a matter of being able to concentrate and stay sharp." Schlitt's teammate and fellow co-captain Hal Finger, the second singles player, sees it as a matter of strategy, "I think it's a matter of planning and looking for weaknesses." The team is now looking forward to a match on Thursday at 4 PM against Villanova.

JF Basketball

The men's basketball team is preparing for a tough season, with many new faces on the roster. However, the team is determined to make the most of the opportunity. Head coach Mark Turco said, "We're excited to see what these young men can bring to the table." The team is currently practicing hard, with a focus on improving their shooting and defensive skills. A key aspect of the team's preparation is the use of film analysis to break down opponents and develop effective strategies.

Swimmers Looking Past La Salle

As the swim team heads into a tough meet against La Salle, they are focused on performing their best. Head coach John Stevens said, "We're looking to improve on our skills and compete at our highest level." The team is currently working on building their endurance and developing their technique. Stevens added, "We're looking forward to seeing how we perform against a strong opponent." The meet is scheduled for March 30th, with both teams eager to showcase their abilities. With their performance on the line, the swim team is determined to give their best effort.

Grapplers Ready for Gettysburg

The men's wrestling team is gearing up for their next match against Gettysburg College. The team is confident in their abilities and ready to face the challenge. Captain Jacob Smith said, "We're excited for this opportunity to face a tough opponent." The team has been working hard in practice, focusing on improving their technique and building their strength.

W. Cagers

The men's basketball team is preparing for a new season, with high hopes for success. Head coach Mark Turco said, "We're excited to see what these young men can bring to the table." The team is currently practicing hard, with a focus on improving their shooting and defensive skills. A key aspect of the team's preparation is the use of film analysis to break down opponents and develop effective strategies.
New Coach Must Avoid History Repeating Itself

Penn seems ripe to play a super game. Against one of its toughest opponents, the Quakers know that they are 10-4 in their biggest chance to pull off a major upset. By career's end, he was the fourth leading scorer (at the time) in Penn basketball history. He currently holds the 11th spot on the all-time list.

Dick Censits (formerly Campbell) will become the seventeenth Pennsylvania basketballer to be enshrined into the Intercollegiate Fencing Hall of Fame. The ceremonies will take place in conjunction with the IFF Championship of Colleges, which will be held March 19-21 in Las Vegas, Nevada. Although his career was cut short by a knee injury, Censits was also championed as an athlete, certainly no secret to the Pennsylvania ranks.

Ivy League championship. That ambition has certainly paid off for the Quakers this season. The coach, Steve Sebo, was dismissed. By career's end, he was the fourth leading scorer (at the time) in Penn basketball history. He currently holds the 11th spot on the all-time list.

Lost Starling Role

The Quakers have lost four of their last five games, including Friday's 68-55 defeat to the Nittany Lions on Saturday afternoon. Delaware State's Point Guard, and Diamond, a hard worker in the Penn defense, has not been one of the Quakers' strengths this season. Pennecl has been a disappointment this season, scoring just 4-13 from the field in the last four contests. Against common opponents, they are 2-3, but their defense has yet to translate into wins. Against better teams, they have yet to prove themselves.

W. Cagers Low-Key For St. Joe's

By DAVE MICHELS

Troy and the men's football team will feature a strong defense led by senior linebacker Bryan Pujol. Troy is 1-0 this season, but he doesn't want to go too far ahead of himself. "I think we're going to be a good team if we continue to play well," he said.

W. Cagers Low-Key For St. Joe's

The men's basketball team will feature a strong defense led by senior forward Angelo Reynolds. Reynolds has been a key player for the Quakers this season, scoring 16 points and grabbing 12 rebounds in their last game against Temple. Reynolds is averaging 15.2 points and 8.2 rebounds per game, and he has been named to the preseason All-Ivy League team.

Fencers Step Down with Rutgers

The Quakers have lost their last three contests since the 60-56 triple overtime loss to St. Joe's. They have not played well as a team and need to regroup before the next game against the Scarlet Knights. The Quakers need to focus on their fundamentals and execute them well in order to win.
