Bill Debated at City Hall

Hundreds Jam Abortion Hearing

Speaking in favor of the proposed bill was Arch. Robert E. Johnson of the Annenberg School. The Reproductive Rights Organization, the Philadelphia Radical Rights Organization, and the Philadelphia Abortion Service Co. all testified in favor of the bill. The Reproductive Rights Organization said that the bill would not only help to protect the rights of women but also to protect the rights of the unborn. The Philadelphia Radical Rights Organization said that the bill would help to protect the rights of women by allowing them to have access to abortion services. The Philadelphia Abortion Service Co. said that the bill would help to protect the rights of women by allowing them to have access to abortion services.

Abortion Hearing

David Allen, a biology teacher at the Bartram School for Human Services who attended the hearing, said he feels alternatives to abortion have not been explored sufficiently. "My best friend forced his wife to have an abortion... I don't think we provide for alternatives for women," he said. But he also said he doubts that the act, if passed, would deter those who were determined to have abortions.

Members of the Reproductive Rights Organization and the Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights, another group which opposes the act, say they fear it has a good chance of passing. "Unless we really get after the legislators, I think it will go through," Coalition member Marge Anderson said. "It's very, very serious. We all who are women had better fight for the right to have abortions and get a lot of men to help."

The act, co-sponsored by about 22 representatives, consists of four bills which would place numerous regulations on the practice of abortion. Its provisions include:

• Requiring a doctor to explain the operation's effects on the fetus to the patient. He would have to show the woman color photos of an aborted fetus.

• Requiring the woman to notify the father of her child before having an abortion. If she could not find the father, she would have to notify the Court of Common Pleas and wait 10 days while the court attempted to find him.

• Requiring parental permission before a minor could have an abortion.

• Creating a waiting period of 72 hours after consenting to the operation before a woman could have an abortion.

• Forbidding state owned hospitals from performing the operations except in cases of rape, incest, or danger to the mother's life.

• Making burial or cremation of the fetus, together with the issuance of a death certificate, mandatory.

Members of pro and anti-abortion groups clash at Dilworth Plaza
"I was sort of drafted into coming here," he said.

"I am excited by the majority of your students," he said.

"I thought it was very informative," he said.

Thefts Force Museum To Close

The Indian necklace stolen from the museum didn't want to put a dollar value because it really is priceless.

"The pieces in this collection were right from the renovation in the museum, so we really don't know how much is involved," Remnick said. "According to a museum statement, the Indian necklace stolen in August "is made of enamel on gold leaf and semi-precious stones, and its value is approximately $500." Remnick said the last two burglaries appear to have been premeditated, because both the saw and the necklace were removed from cases.

Remnick also pointed out that the damage done was part of recent work of museum burglary, but in this country and abroad. "The main point is that the museum is about the theft things will be easier," he said.

Sometimes you daydream when you’re reading

The reason is because you read too slowly.
So slowly you put yourself to sleep. Yet you are capable of reading much faster. The Centerity Press has developed a new technique which they teach completely in one day. They guarantee that they will double your reading speed by the end of their One Day Course or they will refund your tuition. What's more, your total satisfaction with the course is guaranteed, too.

The tuition for the One Day Course is $85.

Unlike conventional courses that cost too much ($25 to $95) and take too long (6 to 8 weeks), the One Day Course works on a wide spectrum of study materials, from highly technical textbooks to historical novels. What's more, you will be able to use the new techniques on current studies, including test preparation, as soon as you complete the One Day Course.

Exams coming up? There is nothing you can do in one day that will have as great an effect on your test results. Guaranteed!

The One Day Speed Reading Course is an expensive program of the Centerity Press.

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS: ASSOCIATE PROVOST AND VICE PROVOST FOR RESEARCH

The University of Pennsylvania invites nominations and applications for two senior positions in the office of the provost, the chief academic officer of the University. The positions are available now.

The associate provost is the chief advisor and deputy to the provost. His or her responsibilities include academic programs and planning, faculty appointments, and faculty affairs. The associate provost should have exceptional credentials for academic leadership. The vice provost for research is responsible for research policy and administration and for the increasing demands of governmental and foundation relations as they affect the climate for research. The vice provost has a special concern for a number of interdisciplinary research-related centers and facilities. The vice provost should be a strong and active scholar; experience in federal research policy is desirable.

Nominations and applications, with supporting documents, should be sent as soon as possible and certainly no later than September 18 to Dr. Joyce M. Randolph, Executive Assistant to the Provost, 104 College Hall CO, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104. Provost Thomas Eshleman has requested that the search focus upon internal candidates without excluding consideration of unusually qualified external candidates. The University of Pennsylvania is an equal opportunity affirmative action employer.

What Are You Doing In 1985?

We're looking for work-study students who think ahead—and who are interested in getting practical on the job experience. If you have an interest in publishing, advertising, communications and marketing—

If that's where you're headed in 1985—come in to talk to us. Give yourself a head start!
Handicapped Post Cut

Promised that the new and affirmative action specialist will be made to avoid the handicapped pro-grants coordinator when the work arrives.

"There will be three people in the office to carry out the function of the handicapped," she said. "[The look was mowed on my face."

The important thing is that there's more support available to carry out our goals, and plans for affirmative action," Tracy said, adding that she has received a "very, very supportive response" for the openings
throughout the campus.

The new specialist will not need a specific major and will carry out the responsibilities of the job.

CFA May Be Conceding Fight To NCAA Over TV Revenue

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Just as the NCAA's power conference football bowl system was set to take shape, The Daily Pennsylvanian at the University of Pennsylvania has learned that the CFA may be giving in to NCAA demands.

The CFA moved their goal line and an agreement was struck. The CFA will officially submit a proposal in the next couple of days to the NCAA. The proposal is to set up a special committee of representatives from the CFA and the NCAA to discuss the issues.

If the CFA succeeds in getting the agreement, the CFA will hold a special conference to discuss the issues. The CFA will then present their case to the NCAA, who will then vote on it. It is not clear if the CFA will be able to win over the NCAA on this issue.

The CFA is driving its own agenda, but the NCAA is not sitting idly by. The NCAA has already issued a statement saying that they will not make any concessions unless the CFA makes a formal proposal. The CFA is currently working on a proposal that they hope to present to the NCAA in the next few days.

The CFA has been working on this issue for several months. They have been meeting with various groups, including the NCAA, in an effort to reach a resolution. The CFA is hoping to get enough support from the NCAA to have their proposals accepted. The CFA is also hoping to get support from other conferences around the country.

NCAA-CFA Struggle Takes Fun from Game

Joe Paterno, head coach and athletic director at Penn State, has sent the offensive braintrust back to square one.

The biggest hurdle has been the new Jerry Burns offense. Complex with variations for as many as one hundred different plays from scrimmage, the new offense based on multidrifts and much more of the average. The backfield,...

The quarterback situation on the football team has boiled down to a two-man competition. Loose Don Mazzone might get the early edge in spring camp, but junior Gary Van Lint has moved up to him in new schemes with Mazzone. Coach Jerry Berndt says that he may be leaning up to a quarterback with a new system.

QB Dilemma: A Running Problem

With still ten days remaining before Game One of the 1978 season, the Pennsylvania State football team is still trying to find a running style at quarterback. This kind of problem has been common at the helm of the athletic program in the last few years. Paterno, the offensive coordinator, and Larry Brown, the quarterbacks, have been trying to find the right running style for the team.

In the same article, Paterno also asked, "What's a Notre Dame Southern Cal game or any other game? We're..."

With the team's ninth straight loss at home, the Penn State offense... the same division with the Penn States.

Valid points. But the situation has become slightly ugly. The Pennsylvania at the time, led a movement that allowed for individuals to negotiate their own contracts. It will create chaos within the framework of college athletics it already has, sentiments from the freshman class.

While the situation continues to become more and more serious, the question of whether the NCAA or CFA wins? The pressures...".
