Students March Against Racism Outside Irvine

By PETER CANDELSON

Departments at thejanitorial powerhouse were protested outside Irvine Auditorium Friday with the angry chants of over 200 students and employees protesting racism on campus.

For several long minutes, as two rows of officers were the audience, trustees, administrators, and faculty members were surrounded by chants of "End Racism At Penn" and "Dead Now!"

And when the ceremony was over, the demonstrators gathered around and solemnly stood at the candle parade.

Leaving Irvine, the group marched and joined hands around the entrance outside campus. Before leaving, one group of student marchers paused to greet friends and family members on the steps of College Hall, called home to the president.

"We appreciate your concerns and are willing to work with you to improve the situation for minorities at this University," Hackney told the throng.

"Our friends Up South African students," someone called.

"Who is Richard Smith?" another yelled, as Hackney quickly turned to his

The procession then turned to join the prayer and an emotional celebration of the civil rights movement, the work of the Civil Rights Movement, and a thank you to the students.

In the most important respect, Hackney expressed his concerns that the University will be facing in the future, as well as the qualities of the institution which must be continued.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.

"There is no error in the name of the University and the students as well as the administration, and the faculty members," he said.
Unions Meet To Discuss General Strike

Compilied from Associated Press dispatches

Local 1999C of the Hospital and Health CareUnions (HHC) in Philadelphia today agreed to suspend the demonstrations following two weeks of picketing. The two unions have repeatedly imposed fines on strikering members who have failed to show up for their scheduled participations, and the strike is now going into its fourth week.

The strike has faced the threat of being called off by the two unions, which have now agreed to suspend the demonstrations. The two unions have repeatedly imposed fines on striking members who have failed to show up for their scheduled participations, and the strike is now going into its fourth week.

While negotiations to end the teachers’ strike have continued, workers and students have announced plans to move forward with the strike if the teachers do not return to work imminently. The teachers have rejected the district’s offer of a 10 percent pay raise and a return to the classroom.

The strike has faced the threat of being called off by the two unions, which have now agreed to suspend the demonstrations. The two unions have repeatedly imposed fines on striking members who have failed to show up for their scheduled participations, and the strike is now going into its fourth week.

The strike has faced the threat of being called off by the two unions, which have now agreed to suspend the demonstrations. The two unions have repeatedly imposed fines on striking members who have failed to show up for their scheduled participations, and the strike is now going into its fourth week.

The strike has faced the threat of being called off by the two unions, which have now agreed to suspend the demonstrations. The two unions have repeatedly imposed fines on striking members who have failed to show up for their scheduled participations, and the strike is now going into its fourth week.

The strike has faced the threat of being called off by the two unions, which have now agreed to suspend the demonstrations. The two unions have repeatedly imposed fines on striking members who have failed to show up for their scheduled participations, and the strike is now going into its fourth week.
Students Protest Racism, Inaugural's Cost

"We've just got to admit to ourselves that we haven't done some things that well!"

ROAM member Javier Gutierrez, who helped organize the demonstration said that the "black community" doesn't want to be defined by its problems. "We're a people in the process of defining, " he said. "I was very pleased that Hackney came out to talk to us!"

"There is a minority community at Penn and it's not all black. We're pioneering for programs and programming of the Intercultural Center."

"We were pleased that the protest was non-violent," RIM member Cathy Roberts said. "I hope in the future, we can work together on supportive action to get President Hackney to act on the issues at hand.

"They cared and believed from the bottom of their hearts in what was being said"
THE LONG ROAD AHEAD

Friday was a day of intense, mixed emotion for the University. While a president was inaugurated to serve Irvine Auditors amid pomp and ceremonies, more than a hundred demonstration stood in the rain, a visual reminder of the University's pre-eminence to minority concerns.

Few who witnessed the spectacle could have been unmoved as hundreds took down in tears while emotions steadily built, driven by the need of the student marchers. No one save, but many joined the demonstration in support of the minority cause. Yet, most of those in the procession just stared ahead with their arms crossed to prevent the demonstration from succeeding. Even the students who were present admitted to being emotionally moved by the sight of students breaking down in tears.

The Inaugural Aftermath

Today's inauguration of Sheldon Hackney is a symbolic act. Dr. Hackney has much to be proud of and much to do. The students of Pennsylvania are eager to begin work with him and with each other as we prepare to begin work with him and with each other as we prepare to reach the next stage in the university's history.

A DEDICATION TO U. DIVERSITY

The following is the text of the speech delivered by Undergraduate Assembly Chairman Eric Cooper at Friday's inauguration ceremony.

The University of Pennsylvania is located at 38th Street and Spruce Street in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19104.
The Resilience of a Great University

By Sheldon Hackney

The following is the text of the speech delivered by President Sheldon Hackney to the 1981 spring commencement. The theme is resilience, a powerful, almost unbreakable characteristic that, when applied to individuals or institutions, can be a source of strength.

I believe that resilience is the hallmark of our university. It is the quality that makes us strong, that enables us to weather the storms of adversity that beset us from time to time. It is the quality that has enabled us to endure, to persevere, to triumph over obstacles, to emerge victorious from hard-fought battles.

The definition of resilience is not easy to capture. It is a quality that is difficult to describe, yet it is one that we all recognize when we see it in action. It is the ability to bounce back from adversity, to recover from setbacks, to come back stronger and more determined than ever before.

Resilience is the quality that has enabled our university to survive and thrive through the years. It is the quality that has enabled us to weather the storms of the 1960s and 1970s, when the world was in political upheaval and social change was in the air. It is the quality that has enabled us to weather the economic downturns of the 1980s and 1990s, when the world was in financial crisis and uncertainty was in the air.

Resilience is the quality that has enabled our university to adapt and change in response to the times. It is the quality that has enabled us to respond to the changing needs of students, to the changing needs of the world around us.

Resilience is the quality that has enabled our university to grow and to expand its reach. It is the quality that has enabled us to attract students from around the world, to attract faculty from around the world, to attract resources from around the world.

Resilience is the quality that has enabled our university to persevere and to continue to thrive in the face of adversity. It is the quality that has enabled us to overcome the challenges that have been put in our way, to emerge victorious from the battles that we have fought.

In conclusion, I would like to say that resilience is the quality that has made our university great. It is the quality that has enabled us to weather the storms of adversity, to recover from setbacks, to come back stronger and more determined than ever before.

I believe that our university is a model of resilience. It is a model of what can be achieved when individuals and institutions work together, when they are willing to take on challenges, when they are willing to persevere, when they are willing to triumph over obstacles.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all. The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all. The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.

The challenge of graduate education is real. The nation is now producing more knowledge and information than ever before, and it is our responsibility to ensure that this knowledge is used for the benefit of all.
The Moderate and Liberal Parties of the Pennsylvania Political Union present

DR. SIDNEY WEINTRAUB

speaking on

REAGAN AND THE STAGFLATION ECONOMY

Monday, October 26 8 pm HSP Room
Houston Hall
Funded by SAC

COME FRY WITH US

Fried Clams
TONIGHT

All You Can Eat
4.95
5pm-2am
Every Monday

What Good Is A Blood Donor?

A blood donor is good for kids who go through windshields. For kids with leukemia. For kids being operated on. For barefoot kids who aren't careful. For hemophiliacs so they can be as normal as possible. For dandies. For little kids who manage to uncap a bottle full of something poisonous. For new babies who need a complete change of blood supply. For kids having open-heart surgery. For cancer patients. For kids who fall out of trees or whatever. For kids in the wrong place at the wrong time. For the very tired with severe anemia. For kids who run into things. FOR KIDS WHO ARE IN A LOT WORSE SHAPE THAN MOST PEOPLE YOU KNOW.

If you would like to be a Blood Donor, please contact the Blood Donor Center at:
The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia
34th Street and Civic Center Blvd.
Fifth floor
Monday through Friday
9:30 am - 4:30 pm
596-9880 or 596-9485
Wiggers Win With Political Wit

Between the Covers

O. H. Shammi

Once again, the Mask & Wig Club triumphs with its fall production, "Between the Covers.

"Between the Covers" is a variety show, with comic-acting, singing, dancing, and music. The 45-minute run time at the Student Union Ballroom is a nonstop roller-coaster ride of Ragtime, a mythical character who "dies" over the years and pops in the end. And, of course, the show is sprinkled with Mask & Wig's famed rhymes.

Much of Mask & Wig's success is attributed to their political satire, and the Cabaret inside is definitely a show to see. The set is a simple but sharp red, white and black graphic. The enthusiasm of the Wiggers grows continually, and the audience is left wanting more.

The performances of Ken Harper and Dave Gibboni were particularly outstanding, although each performer's role is a simple one. Outstanding, although each performer's role is a simple one. Outstanding, although each performer's role is a simple one. Outstanding, although each performer's role is a simple one.

The audience response was overwhelmingly positive throughout the show. The set is a simple but sharp red, white and black graphic. The enthusiasm of the Wiggers grows continually, and the audience is left wanting more.

And more is what you'll get at your checkout Mask & Wig on any Friday or Saturday night, as well as some Wednesdays. In their square, brown box office, the door opens, and Wiggers work fast to ensure that you get at least 20% off your purchase.

Members of the Mask and Wig Club in two raucous scenes from the new fall production, "Between the Covers," at the Clubhouse.
Stouffer To Host Student World Hunger Dinner

By HELEN BERTAN

"The First World will eat a bountiful meal, while the Third World will eat on the bones of its dead."

This is how Dining Service Director Don Jacobs described the Penn Hanger Across World Food Dinner, to be held Oct. 30, 1981.

The event is to be jointly sponsored by the Dining Services and the Penn Hunger Action Committee, whose purpose is to "serve students and faculty who are battling hunger and lack of education," according to Jacobs.

First World residents who furnish the raw food ingredients for the event are to be notified in late August of this month.

Those who will collect the residue for the Third World's consumption according to Jacobs are to receive letters next week notifying them of the proceeds from their lease.

Campus Realty Offers Refunds for Fuel Bills

By H. BERTAN

About 900 students who received Campus Realty last year should receive letters next week notifying them of their eligibility for a refund and do not have to depend on others to write them a check.

The refunds are being made due to a miscalculation in the amount of fuel consumed by the heating plant for the year.

Jacobs said, "We have received numerous letters from students who are currently renting from Campus Realty and who want to know if they have an opportunity for a refund."

Letters were mailed "within the last week" to nearly 1,000 students who have been charged more than the amount of fuel that was used, according to Jacobs.

Jacobs added, "We also want to thank students for removing their letters when requested to do so in 1980-81.

"I will not hesitate to take care of our students," he said. "Our reputation is very important to us, so we will try our best to correct any errors that may have been made.

"We have a policy to not ask students for refunds, but if they have been overcharged, we will work to correct the mistake.

"It is true that they're being slow about it," he added.

"The letter will be mailed within the next few weeks," he said. "We have been dealing with this issue for the past year and have not heard any complaints from students who received the fuel bills.

"We will continue to take care of our students to the best of our ability," he said.

"It is important to have a good, safe, and reliable food service," he added. "We will continue to work hard to ensure that our students are well taken care of.

"We hope to have some opportunities to use the funds for other programs, such as scholarships, and will use the funds for that purpose.

"We will continue to work hard to ensure that our students are well taken care of."
Dressing for Success

Leverton also described the typical freshman's first washer load. She said the washers usually included "towels, sheets, shirts and socks, and that a jacket or shirt could be added. If you entered the laundry while the washers were operational, the clothes could bounce around like in a cyclone." She also said that the washers could be noisy at night.

"The students were usually not aware of any noise until they were already in the washer," she said. "It was a bit of a surprise for them because they expected the washers to be silent."
You need to provide the text you want me to convert into a plain text representation.
W. Harrier Beat Rutgers For 2nd Time This Season

By DAVID FALENE

With the Ivy League championship still in the air, the Quakers played their first of two game in two days at Princeton's Lampson Field. The Quakers were led by a solid defense, which was able to come from behind and win 20-16. It was the second time this season that the Quakers have defeated Rutgers, finishing the season 4-1-1. The Quakers are now tied with Princeton for the league championship.

The Quakers took a 10-0 lead at halftime, but the Scarlet Knights fought back to tie the game at 10-10 in the third quarter. The Quakers then scored twice in the fourth quarter to take a 20-10 lead. Rutgers scored once, but the Quakers held on for the victory.

The Quakers were led by junior defensive end Jim Tedesco, who had 10 tackles, and sophomore quarterback Mike Keenan, who had 264 passing yards and 2 touchdowns.

Red Peak Lights Down 0-4

By STU GEPFIER

Sometimes it takes a cold, rainy day to see the true colors of the Quakers. On Saturday, the Penn Quakers continued their impressive streak against Ivy League opponents with a 20-16 win over the Rutgers Scarlet Knights. The game was played in a driving rain storm that made conditions difficult for both teams.

The Quakers took an early lead, scoring on their first possession. They added to their lead in the second quarter and never looked back. The Scarlet Knights were able to score only once, but it was not enough to overcome the Quakers.

The Quakers were led by sophomore quarterback Mike Keenan, who had 264 passing yards and 2 touchdowns. The defense was also strong, holding Rutgers to just 16 points.

The Quakers are now tied for the lead in the Ivy League with Princeton, and their next game will be against the Princeton Tigers. The game is scheduled for Saturday, and the Quakers are expected to be their usual selves.
There's Nothing Doing In New Haven

It Was a Dog Day Afternoon

NEW HAVEN—The Ivy League football title is among the most prestigious in the country. But Saturday's game between Yale and Pennsylvania was a rather dull affair.

The Bulldog offense came in at zero in terms of game every team in the league that can shun them down for an entire season. This was not the day the Quakers displayed against Pennsylvania on Saturday, there is no one in the Ivy league title for a third consecutive season in coach Jerry Berman. "It's difficult to defense an attack like the Quakers. 182 yards were off the deep drop. The Bill Can use the run to drive open up the pass. They can use the pass to open up the run for the pass. But Yale is able to establish control of a game experienced and they can execute.''

"We had trouble running the ball," said Ragan. "we so we went to the air more.

On The Sidelines
Bob Saporito

There is surely no other team in the league with this type of offense. Every team dreams of controlling the tempo of the game, with the running game. It's within every team's game plan to dominate in every aspect of the game. Establish the run to open up the defense scored two touchdowns. The Quakers moved the ball up the field, and Yale came away with only one first down. The Elis gained 69 yards on 12 plays, with just 2-4 left in the half.

Yale Frustrates Stickwomen, 2-1

BY JOHN DELLAPINA

The call led to a penalty kick scored by forwards Paul Pino and Aaron Yoder, and a 2-0 lead. The Elis did not score again in the second half, but they controlled the ball and prevented the Quakers from scoring.

The Elis went on to win, 2-1, in the second half. The Elis scored again on a penalty kick, and were able to hold off the Quakers' offense. The Elis did not give up the ball, and were able to continue their run.

Boobies No Match for Bulldogs

BY KAREN NUDERSON

NEW HAVEN—It's just something tough, difficult to contain. The Elis were able to contain the Bulldogs with a strong defense.

The Elis went on to win, 2-1, in the second half. The Elis scored again on a penalty kick, and were able to hold off the Quakers' offense. The Elis did not give up the ball, and were able to continue their run.

The Elis went on to win, 2-1, in the second half. The Elis scored again on a penalty kick, and were able to hold off the Quakers' offense. The Elis did not give up the ball, and were able to continue their run.

The Elis went on to win, 2-1, in the second half. The Elis scored again on a penalty kick, and were able to hold off the Quakers' offense. The Elis did not give up the ball, and were able to continue their run.