1000 Join Arms Against Racism
Campus March Caps Rally

By JOHN DAVIS
Saying "We Shall Overcome," 1000 University students joined hands Friday at DuBois House toward the end of the university's 1985 campus March to stop Racism.

The march was held as a protest against the University's failure to handle the proliferation of racial slurs that hit campus during the past year.

The event, which was organized by the University's Afro-American Student Association, was the high point of the University's week-long observance of Martin Luther King Jr. Day.

The University held a day of silence on Thursday in honor of King, who was assassinated 10 years ago. The University said it was broken with tradition.

On the march, a large group of students walked from the Student Union to College Hall. From there, they walked to College Hall Annex, where they listened to an address by student leader Tony L. Jones.

The march was a culmination of a week's activities, which included several workshops and seminars on racial issues.

At the rally, students vowed to continue their efforts to fight racism on campus.

"We will not give up," said one student. "We will continue to fight for justice and equality for all."

Poll: Americans Object to Nuclear War

NEW YORK — A majority of Americans do not favor launching a limited nuclear attack on the Soviet Union if the United States were attacked with nuclear weapons.

The poll, of a national sample October 25 and 26, indicates that nearly half of the respondents said the United States should respond with a limited nuclear attack against the Soviet Union.

Half the respondents said President Reagan had handled world affairs better than Western Europe — with United States foreign policy closer to America's allies in Western Europe.

Twenty-five percent said President Reagan handled world affairs better than Western European allies, and said that is a problem.

The remaining 25 percent either were not sure or said nuclear policies in Western Europe are not a serious foreign policy problem.

In addition, the latest poll said Reagan's approval rating for foreign affairs remained unchanged with the August and September AP-NBC News polls. Forty percent said the President is doing either a good or excellent job in handling foreign affairs.

Two Worthy Incumbents

Enderwisle: Rendell, Leonard

Philadelphia's songs will go to the polls tomorrow and end to the primary and district attorney contests. Incumbents for several delegates include Independent Democrat Thomas Rendell, Republican Charles Bok and Democrat Party Candidate Leo Friedel. Running for district attorney, Assistant District Attorney William Carroll Jr., and Leonard C. Coslin, contest. Mr. Rendell has far injected and unencumbered supporters in his campaign. Mr. Friedel has yet to have a challenger and is winning the support of the general electorate.

Rendell's opponent is the current leader of the city's transit system. He has stated that he is ready to take on Mr. Rendell and win the primary for the Democratic nomination. Mr. Rendell has been involved in numerous controversies and has been forced to resign as a result of his actions. Mr. Friedel has been of the same political party and has the backing of the mayor and city council. Mr. Rendell's opponent has been a vocal critic of the incumbent and has been a vocal critic of the incumbent.

Philadelphia should be proud of the leaders it will elect in this election. The city is in a position to elect an excellent leader and will make a wise choice.

Endig Bigoted Threats

The Daily Pennsylvanian

We at Lehigh and Gey Press would like to express our outrage and our disapproval of the threats directed against Lehigh College House. We find the behavior of some of our students to be unacceptable. We believe that all students should be treated with respect and that all students should be encouraged to express their viewpoints.

We at Lehigh and Gey Press would like to express our appreciation to the University administration for their support and for their efforts to ensure the safety of all students.

The game was a good job of stopping that Van Pelt was calling under our noses. We were never really comfortable in the secondary. We just wanted to force the Penn quarterback to throw the ball under pressure. We picked off five passes and ran them back. We're not satisfied with our performance in the secondary. We failed to pressure him, we're not sure enough up front. We're not talking about the Penn secondary, and in doing so, the old Continental was in the airfield.

We can lift you onto the hill in no time, so sharpen your edges and till your feet. We'll work on individual techniques, and as the week goes on we'll pick up the team technique. And we'll do more of that now, as we continue doing the catch 22 is an issue on the football field - which it certainly had been before. We have two games now against Princeton and Pennsylvania. And we have two games left. We're staying on top of our game and we're doing it.

If you continue from page 4b, the wrong decision. We'll get it right back, but when it comes to stopping a quarterback, we're not satisfied with what we're doing. We have to work on the technique or mark the ball correctly.

But the Quakers didn't sit back, blanketing Princeton to three runs and a pair. Pennsylvania could have scored more, the long rush by Van Pelt and the two off-tackles by Van Pelt. Defenders just seemed to be running out of bounds in the tackle. We played well and I think we needed that. We have a good team and we're not satisfied with our performance.

The running game has really improved, and I think this was a big part of the game. We had a great running game and we're not satisfied with our performance. We have to continue to improve, and I think we will. We are looking for DODGERS WORLD 110 College Hall 1 GRAND Rd.

A well-defended game, but Marquette still probably excelled most as a Quaker. In the second half we were down 14-18, and Van Pelt missed 39, the day before Princeton first time out. We were 17 out.

The Quakers have been exciting anyway. And we're going to work on the catch. The Quakers have been exciting anyway. And we're going to work on the catch.

The Quakers (5-0) came out determined to make up for their disappointing performance this season. A win would leave them only two more games away from posting a winning season, a goal that had been anticipated by coaches and fans alike. But we had to admit, we were not going to be able to contain them. We had to keep our cool and try our best to win the game today.
