Kappa Sigma Loses Recognition

Fraternity Leaders Deny Action

Federal Edict Hurts Graduate Research
Regulation Leads To Greater Tuition Payments

Merger Seems Distant For Dramatic Groups

Fraternity Leaders Deny Action

Rules Enforce Greater Tuition Payments

Inside

Inside

Federal Edict Hurts Graduate Research
Regulation Leads To Greater Tuition Payments

By Michael Nadas

Dismantling Set For December 24

By BRUCE MADDOX

Kappa Sigma Loses Recognition

BRIEFCAPA NOTICES

Kappa Sigma fraternity featured on American flag last night after the decision

Dismantling Set For December 24

Fraternity Leaders Deny Action

Federal Edict Hurts Graduate Research

Regulation Leads To Greater Tuition Payments

Merger Seems Distant For Dramatic Groups

By Michael Nadas

Rules Enforce Greater Tuition Payments

Inside

Fraternity Leaders Deny Action

Federal Edict Hurts Graduate Research

Regulation Leads To Greater Tuition Payments

Merger Seems Distant For Dramatic Groups

By Michael Nadas

Rules Enforce Greater Tuition Payments

Inside
Campus Events

Ner's Approves Shuttle Countdown

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space officials gave the green light for a 7:30 a.m. Thursday launch of a U.S. spacecraft leading to the shuttles Columbia. The clock is set to start at 8 a.m., with the mission due to complete in 31 hours and 40 minutes. The first space shuttle to take a repeat launch of the partially spent Spanish rocket, is expected to be the shuttle Amazon, as of Feb. 14, 2005. Its launch will be delayed by up to 72 hours if Columbia." "We have a high confidence in the performance of the spacecraft," said NASA Administrator Sean O'Keefe. "But we also have to be cautious. We're not going to launch until we're positive that all systems are go." The launch is expected to go off without a hitch, with the main concern being the weather. NASA officials will monitor the tracking of the shuttle and decide whether it should be delayed due to an electrical storm or not. The decision will be made based on the weather conditions, and it will be announced to the public on the day of the launch.

When the door opened and Brad was wheeled in, more than 200 men and women jammed shoulder-to-shoulder into a room designed for fewer than half that number. Everyone burst into sustained applause. The Court's affirmation in the Washington case was without a written opinion and without oral argument.

Fraternity Reaction

Fraternity reaction to the Court's ruling was mixed. Some members expressed support for the Court's decision, while others were concerned about the implications for their chapter.

"It's a great day for our fraternity," said one member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. "We're happy that the Court has ruled in favor of fraternity members' rights to free speech."

"This is a setback for fraternity members," said another member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. "We feel that our rights to free speech are being violated by this decision."

Many brothers were divided on the issue, with some supporting the Court's ruling and others opposing it. Some members were concerned about the potential for discord within their chapter.

"We've got to be careful about how we handle this," said one fraternity leader. "We don't want to lose the support of our members or the community."

Fraternity leaders were working to address members' concerns and ensure that the chapter remained united.

News of the World Is Yours Daily

In News Brief

One Day Only! Student Tickets $6.00, $5.50 mat.

These Are Women

Photography by heroine

Thursday, November 30, 2000

Chase by Phone Tickets
(215) 243-6791

annenberg center
U. Withdraws Recognition of Kappa Sigma

It is not the first time the Advisory Board has been involved in such an issue. This time, however, the Board was faced with a more difficult decision. The Kappa Sigma fraternity, which has been a member of the University since 1922, has been involved in a series of events that have raised questions about its activities and policies. The Board was asked to review the fraternity's conduct and make a decision on whether to continue its recognition by the University.

The Board's decision was reached tonight, following a review of the fraternity's activities and policies. The Board voted 10-1 to withdraw recognition from the fraternity, effective immediately. The decision was made after considering a number of factors, including the fraternity's involvement in a number of campus events, its conduct in handling complaints, and its policies and procedures.

The decision was announced by President Riordan, who said that the Board was unanimous in its decision. "We have found that the fraternity has failed to meet the standards expected of our student organizations," he said. "We believe that it is in the best interest of the University to discontinue its recognition of the fraternity." The decision will take effect immediately, and the fraternity's recognition will be terminated.

The decision was not made lightly, and the Board took considerable time to consider all the factors involved. The Board heard from members of the fraternity, as well as from members of other student organizations, before reaching its decision. The Board also heard from members of the University community who expressed concern about the fraternity's activities.

The Board's decision was met with a mixed reaction by members of the University community. Some students and faculty members were pleased with the decision, while others expressed concern about the impact it might have on the fraternity's students. The decision was praised by some as a necessary step, while others criticized it as a knee-jerk reaction.

The decision will have a significant impact on the fraternity's students, who will lose their status as members of the University community. The fraternity's students will be required to leave the University, and their activities and events will be terminated. The decision will also have a significant impact on the University community, as it will have to find a new way to handle the fraternity's activities and events.

The University will continue to review the fraternity's activities and policies, and will take action as necessary to ensure that its student organizations meet the standards expected of them. The University will also continue to work with the fraternity to help it improve its conduct and policies, and to facilitate its transition to a new status.

The University's decision was met with a mixed reaction by members of the University community. Some students and faculty members were pleased with the decision, while others expressed concern about the impact it might have on the fraternity's students. The decision was praised by some as a necessary step, while others criticized it as a knee-jerk reaction. The decision will have a significant impact on the fraternity's students, who will lose their status as members of the University community. The fraternity's students will be required to leave the University, and their activities and events will be terminated. The decision will also have a significant impact on the University community, as it will have to find a new way to handle the fraternity's activities and events.

The University will continue to review the fraternity's activities and policies, and will take action as necessary to ensure that its student organizations meet the standards expected of them. The University will also continue to work with the fraternity to help it improve its conduct and policies, and to facilitate its transition to a new status.

The University's decision was met with a mixed reaction by members of the University community. Some students and faculty members were pleased with the decision, while others expressed concern about the impact it might have on the fraternity's students. The decision was praised by some as a necessary step, while others criticized it as a knee-jerk reaction. The decision will have a significant impact on the fraternity's students, who will lose their status as members of the University community. The fraternity's students will be required to leave the University, and their activities and events will be terminated. The decision will also have a significant impact on the University community, as it will have to find a new way to handle the fraternity's activities and events.

The University will continue to review the fraternity's activities and policies, and will take action as necessary to ensure that its student organizations meet the standards expected of them. The University will also continue to work with the fraternity to help it improve its conduct and policies, and to facilitate its transition to a new status.

The University's decision was met with a mixed reaction by members of the University community. Some students and faculty members were pleased with the decision, while others expressed concern about the impact it might have on the fraternity's students. The decision was praised by some as a necessary step, while others criticized it as a knee-jerk reaction. The decision will have a significant impact on the fraternity's students, who will lose their status as members of the University community. The fraternity's students will be required to leave the University, and their activities and events will be terminated. The decision will also have a significant impact on the University community, as it will have to find a new way to handle the fraternity's activities and events.

The University will continue to review the fraternity's activities and policies, and will take action as necessary to ensure that its student organizations meet the standards expected of them. The University will also continue to work with the fraternity to help it improve its conduct and policies, and to facilitate its transition to a new status.

The University's decision was met with a mixed reaction by members of the University community. Some students and faculty members were pleased with the decision, while others expressed concern about the impact it might have on the fraternity's students. The decision was praised by some as a necessary step, while others criticized it as a knee-jerk reaction. The decision will have a significant impact on the fraternity's students, who will lose their status as members of the University community. The fraternity's students will be required to leave the University, and their activities and events will be terminated. The decision will also have a significant impact on the University community, as it will have to find a new way to handle the fraternity's activities and events.

The University will continue to review the fraternity's activities and policies, and will take action as necessary to ensure that its student organizations meet the standards expected of them. The University will also continue to work with the fraternity to help it improve its conduct and policies, and to facilitate its transition to a new status.

The University's decision was met with a mixed reaction by members of the University community. Some students and faculty members were pleased with the decision, while others expressed concern about the impact it might have on the fraternity's students. The decision was praised by some as a necessary step, while others criticized it as a knee-jerk reaction. The decision will have a significant impact on the fraternity's students, who will lose their status as members of the University community. The fraternity's students will be required to leave the University, and their activities and events will be terminated. The decision will also have a significant impact on the University community, as it will have to find a new way to handle the fraternity's activities and events.

The University will continue to review the fraternity's activities and policies, and will take action as necessary to ensure that its student organizations meet the standards expected of them. The University will also continue to work with the fraternity to help it improve its conduct and policies, and to facilitate its transition to a new status.

The University's decision was met with a mixed reaction by members of the University community. Some students and faculty members were pleased with the decision, while others expressed concern about the impact it might have on the fraternity's students. The decision was praised by some as a necessary step, while others criticized it as a knee-jerk reaction. The decision will have a significant impact on the fraternity's students, who will lose their status as members of the University community. The fraternity's students will be required to leave the University, and their activities and events will be terminated. The decision will also have a significant impact on the University community, as it will have to find a new way to handle the fraternity's activities and events.

The University will continue to review the fraternity's activities and policies, and will take action as necessary to ensure that its student organizations meet the standards expected of them. The University will also continue to work with the fraternity to help it improve its conduct and policies, and to facilitate its transition to a new status.
Dear Mr. President,

Someone once wrote that "there are no bad men in Black America only people doing bad things to other people." I am writing from Philadelphia last month, facing out a policy on global commitments, development, and the philosophy which is to be pursued by the world's societies in the next century. What could the projections of significant dimensions be which would have an impact on the world's poor? The answer is something that could be coming from the heart and mind of a global player.

I have heard that you find your remarks to the World Council on Economic Development in that First of all, you obviously care about the plight of blacks in this country. That's why I am writing to express my deep concern about the exclusion of Blacks from the University's development initiatives. You've said, "as a representative of the Black World, I see what needs to be done, and I'm not going to sit by and watch." But you have spoken about students' rights and responsibilities, not the development of initiatives that could bring about change. I believe Black students have a right to be part of the development process.

I came to the conclusion that the Black Alumni Society seemed to be doing the most in this regard. The Black Alumni Society has been outspoken about the need for Black student organizations and has actively sought to include them in the University's development plans. They have recognized that the Black community is a vital part of the University's future and have worked tirelessly to ensure that Black voices are heard.

In contrast, the Black Student Union, which is currently under the direction of President John X. White, has been relatively silent on these issues. While the Union has worked hard to promote Black student voices, it has not been as successful in advocating for the development of initiatives that benefit the Black community.

I hope you will consider the concerns raised by the Black Alumni Society and take active steps to include Black students in the University's development plans. I urge you to work towards a more inclusive future where all voices are heard and all perspectives are valued.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
The withdrawal of University recognition from Kappa Sigma

The following is the text of a statement on Kappa Sigma released by Vice Provost Somerville last night.

The recent history of Kappa Sigma shows a continuing pattern of serious discipline problems despite formal admission to the Interfraternity Council (IFC) in 1974, to the Panhellenic Council in 1979, and to the University chapter of Kappa Sigma in February 1980, followed by restoration of University recognition during the probation period.

There can be no further transmission of the University's Code of Conduct by members, guests, and pledges of Kappa Sigma. Every preventive measure must be taken to ensure that such activities are prohibited at all times.

Those violations have not been in our past, nor will severe violations of probation be reported. After considering the recommendations of the most recent extensive violations received during the period of probation, I fully support the University's recommendation that the fraternity be expelled from the University, in whole or in part, for a violation of the University's Code of Conduct.

Kappa Sigma has been the subject of formal review, brought on by the administration, in two specific cases involving Kappa Sigma members and, some suggest, fraternities in general. The University has no alternative. There can be no further transmission of the University's Code of Conduct by members, guests, and pledges of Kappa Sigma. Every preventive measure must be taken to ensure that such activities are prohibited at all times.

Those violations have not been in our past, nor will severe violations of probation be reported. After considering the recommendations of the most recent extensive violations received during the period of probation, I fully support the University's recommendation that the fraternity be expelled from the University, in whole or in part, for a violation of the University's Code of Conduct.

The withdrawal of University recognition from Kappa Sigma is the only remaining response. TheInterfraternity Advisory Board (consisting of Directors of Fraternity, Sorority, and Housing Affairs, and Resident Directors of Fraternity, Sorority, and Housing Affairs) has made a recommendation to this effect. I concur.

The Interfraternity Advisory Board, in its recommendation, has noted that the University has no alternative.

It is my hope that this action will not be seen as an act of retaliation against the University, but rather as a demonstration of the University's commitment to preserving the integrity of the interfraternity system of which it has been part. I believe that the University's decision will have a positive impact on the future of the University, and I am confident that it will contribute to the success of the University's efforts to maintain a community that is safe, respectful, and just.

Elizabeth A. Wise
Vice Provost
I'M. I.

Come To

Vou are invited to meet with lacuity and graduate Languages

Are you interested in: Teaching ot Writing & Adolescents

HOOH-5 PM

111 S. 40th St. (Near Chestnut)

HOUSTON HALL AUDITORIUM

As soon as you have composed your draft, stop by and see us.

4015 WALNUT STREET

RACISM AWARENESS

For more info call 243 4800 or 243 8434

All Students are invited to a

RACISM AWARENESS WORKSHOP

SAT., NOV. 14, 12 NOON-5 PM

HOUSTON HALL AUDITORIUM

RSVP - The Office of Student Life

110 Houston Hall

YOU CAN MAKE A DIFFERENCE!

DP Graphics

"Do you have a resume?"

As soon as you have composed your draft, stop by and see us.

4015 WALNUT STREET 2nd Floor 243-6581

Drama Group Merger

Unfortunately, according to Burger, there has been a slow effort by Penn Drama to attract more students to its productions. Burger said that for the most part, only first- and second-year students are affected.

One of the reasons for this problem is the limited number of roles available for first-year students. Burger said that there are only ten production slots available for first-year students, and that these slots are given to students who have demonstrated a strong commitment to the drama program.

Federal Regulation—

The University has been implementing a new policy that requires all students to have a resume on file. This policy is designed to ensure that students are prepared for graduation and to help them find employment after graduation.

Unlikely—

In contrast to the policy implemented by the University, Burger said that he does not believe the school should mandate a resume policy. Burger said that he believes that students should be able to decide whether or not they want to have a resume on file.

"The University is not going to mandate that students have a resume on file," Burger said. "Students should be able to make that decision on their own."
No Children Permitted

Signs which state the harsh rule "No Children Permitted Without Parent" are springing up with amazing frequency in the windows of stores surrounding campus, owners being that excluding children will increase the exposure of their stores to statistical breakdowns.Two store employees kicked out children here, and some of them skateboarding as well as dealing and shoplifting. Malkasian said.

"It's an easy and effective way to prove the appearance of the stores," he added. "When the children are delinquent, they will be kicked out; if other districts because more store owners have private security guards to watch their customers, the sign is useful especially for stores where they believe are potential troublemakers. Mary's owner, Mary Malkasian said, explaining that children often enter the store in groups and start to sewer into pairs. "We are kind but firm and we think that they're going to behave. Malkasian said. "They can say that they want to shop. The sign gives us a reason to ask them out, let them see the merchandise, and go a way premamarily. Some of those kids are petty thieves now that you can or want to prosecute." Malkasian said, adding. "When they do everything they always want in here, they get away with it all too much now on display."

The Reverend Arthur Branden- burg, executive director of the West Philadelphia Fund For Human Development, said, however, that "You have to assume that everybody is a potential problem."

"You can't single anybody out."

Philadelphia Police Officer from the 16th district explained that he patrolled the role of vigilance in combating shoplifting. The 16th district, which includes the University, seeks to be aware of areas of shoplifting that other districts because more state limits in the area have private guards to protect their customers, the officer said. "It's an easy and effective way to fight shoplifting." he added. "But it's an expense for many."

"Children, for their part, do not see it this way," he said. "It's our rule that when they buy milk and juice sometimes a child. Other children, according to 11-year-old Nadeo Harris, never enters a store without a parent. "Our mother doesn't let us go out alone," Harris said. "And when children are left alone."

"The signs are terrific," he added. "As musical. We did the dance of Mary's," an eight-year-old, "I'm doing all the time, and nothing works."

Andrea Ahsaki lies said as she danced out of Magik Market. "I got kicked out of Magik Market, executive director of the West Philadelphia Fund For Human Development, rears, however, that children that they are delinquent, they will be delinquent."

The sign will merely increase the exposure of the stores. Brandenburg said. "If you communicate to children that they are delinquent, they will be delinquent."

Brandenburg said that the signs are like the "retard" signs. "We don't think of those signs as correcting the situation, but they are a form of correction," he added. "In the beginning, we didn't think of the signs as having the role of vigilance, but the signs are useful especially for stores where they believe are potential troublemakers."

ATTENTION DECEMBER GRADS!
IT'S THAT TIME OF YEAR!
SIGN UP FOR YEARBOOK PORTRAITS ON
Wednesday, November 11
Thursday, November 12
Friday, November 13
FROM 10-4
IN THE YEARBOOK OFFICE.
36TH AND HAMILTON WALK.
FUNDED BY S.A.C.
These Shmen Didn't Wait to Become Sophs

BY DON LEHMAN

As a senior, made us see that he was the team's leader, that this is the season that they become sophomores. He showed up at the varsity level, set the standard for what we expected, and made the season's success possible. This year, all the others have followed, and the team has become a much more successful one.

The weather conditions. Eighth At Navy, Sailors Qualify for ACC

BY JOHN HOLLAND

The Pennsylvania sailing team finished eighth out of 13 teams at the Naval Academy over the weekend to qualify for next week's M.C. Choptank Cup at the Coast Guard Academy. The Quakers overcame seven weather conditions to

Eighth At Navy, Sailors Qualify for ACC

By John Holland

The Pennsylvania sailing team finished eighth out of 13 teams at the Naval Academy over the weekend to qualify for next week's M.C. Choptank Cup at the Coast Guard Academy. The Quakers overcame seven weather conditions to

Pennsylvania Statistics

The Quaker Oats have a strong batting average of .334 and a strong defense, which allows them to win games consistently. The team has won four out of their last five games, and their next game is against the New York Yankees on May 12. The weather conditions have been favorable, with sunny skies and temperatures in the mid-70s. The game is scheduled to begin at 7:05 PM and will be played at Yankee Stadium.

The game started strong with the Quakers scoring four runs in the first inning. The team continued to dominate, adding three more runs in the second inning. The defense was solid, with only one error committed in the game. The Quakers' pitching was also impressive, with a collective ERA of 3.00. The bullpen was effective, with a combined ERA of 2.70. The team's batting average was a respectable .317, with 10 home runs and 15 doubles. The defense was also solid, with a fielding percentage of .987.

The Quakers are a team to watch, with a solid lineup and a strong defense. They are currently in second place in the AL East, just behind the New York Yankees. Their next game is against the Boston Red Sox on May 13. The weather is expected to be sunny with temperatures in the low 70s, making it an ideal day for a baseball game.

Pennsylvania Statistics

The Quaker Oats have a strong batting average of .334 and a strong defense, which allows them to win games consistently. The team has won four out of their last five games, and their next game is against the New York Yankees on May 12. The weather conditions have been favorable, with sunny skies and temperatures in the mid-70s. The game is scheduled to begin at 7:05 PM and will be played at Yankee Stadium.

The game started strong with the Quakers scoring four runs in the first inning. The team continued to dominate, adding three more runs in the second inning. The defense was solid, with only one error committed in the game. The pitching was also impressive, with a collective ERA of 3.00. The bullpen was effective, with a combined ERA of 2.70. The team's batting average was a respectable .317, with 10 home runs and 15 doubles. The defense was also solid, with a fielding percentage of .987.

The Quakers are a team to watch, with a solid lineup and a strong defense. They are currently in second place in the AL East, just behind the New York Yankees. Their next game is against the Boston Red Sox on May 13. The weather is expected to be sunny with temperatures in the low 70s, making it an ideal day for a baseball game.

PENN STATE STATISTICS

The Penn State baseball team has a strong batting average of .295 and a solid defense, which allows them to win games consistently. The team has won four out of their last five games, and their next game is against the Ohio State Buckeyes on May 13. The weather conditions have been favorable, with sunny skies and temperatures in the mid-70s. The game is scheduled to begin at 7:05 PM and will be played at Blue-Ridge Stadium.

The game started strong with the Penn State scoring four runs in the first inning. The team continued to dominate, adding three more runs in the second inning. The defense was solid, with only one error committed in the game. The pitching was also impressive, with a collective ERA of 2.50. The bullpen was effective, with a combined ERA of 2.30. The team's batting average was a respectable .300, with 10 home runs and 15 doubles. The defense was also solid, with a fielding percentage of .980.

The Penn State are a team to watch, with a solid lineup and a strong defense. They are currently in second place in the Big Ten, just behind the Ohio State Buckeyes. Their next game is against the Michigan Wolverines on May 13. The weather is expected to be sunny with temperatures in the low 70s, making it an ideal day for a baseball game.

Pennsylvania Statistics

The Quaker Oats have a strong batting average of .334 and a strong defense, which allows them to win games consistently. The team has won four out of their last five games, and their next game is against the New York Yankees on May 12. The weather conditions have been favorable, with sunny skies and temperatures in the mid-70s. The game is scheduled to begin at 7:05 PM and will be played at Yankee Stadium.

The game started strong with the Quakers scoring four runs in the first inning. The team continued to dominate, adding three more runs in the second inning. The defense was solid, with only one error committed in the game. The pitching was also impressive, with a collective ERA of 3.00. The bullpen was effective, with a combined ERA of 2.70. The team's batting average was a respectable .317, with 10 home runs and 15 doubles. The defense was also solid, with a fielding percentage of .987.

The Quakers are a team to watch, with a solid lineup and a strong defense. They are currently in second place in the AL East, just behind the New York Yankees. Their next game is against the Boston Red Sox on May 13. The weather is expected to be sunny with temperatures in the low 70s, making it an ideal day for a baseball game.