The University holds almost $28 million worth of common stock in American firms operating in South Africa, a country which restricts blacks from participating in its central government.

Tuition Problems

By Paul DiDonato

The University of Pennsylvania has had a long and notorious link to the South African apartheid regime. Despite our buildings being magnificent and our graduation rates high, we seem to be very much behind in the money to government.

Several students have argued against divestment, including one who only used the University's name with authority to make a promise to its collective faculty and students. This student, however, has not been as successful as we have been in bringing the funds necessary to meet the demands of our society.

Despite these sentiments, the tuition fees remain too expensive for many students. The only University group adequately addressing this issue is the Black Student League. The students of the Black Student League have won the right to negotiate with the administration over tuition fees.

One of the most important issues facing the University is the administration's failure to address the concerns of its students. The administration seems to be too focused on the financial concerns of the University rather than the needs of the students.

The Neuter Course

By Lisa DePaulo

It's obvious and true that the course professed with a gender description, such as "in women," is filled with students who are determined to get a more accurate representation of the sex of the course.

We need to take more steps to make sure that the course is available to everyone. Women and men alike should be able to take the course and learn what it's all about. If we don't, then we're not doing anything to promote gender equality.

According to another "pro-" course, ASPICIL, in PEN'S Magazine, this is more drastic and arbitrary than it seems. This is an obvious tactic used to lower the credibility of the course.

Let's be clear for the course. The one that's most discussed by men, or anything similarly sexually. The one that's not discussed, that's one that's not discussed.

Succeed in business.

"It's a lot easier with a Texas Instruments calculator designed to solve business problems.

Teach a few special keys on these Texas Instruments calculators, the TI Business Analyst II and The MBA, and lengthy time-value-of-money problems suddenly aren't nearly as annoying. You can automatically calculate profit, margins, forecasts, sales and earnings and performance statistics.

And problems with repetitive calculations are a piece of cake for the MBA, because it's programmable.

These calculators mean business, and what they give you is time—time to grasp underlying business concepts, while it's too late, and calculate without the crunching. To make it even easier, each calculator comes with a book written especially for it, which shows you how to make use of the calculator's full potential.

The Business Analyst II and MBA business calculators from Texas Instruments. Two ways to run a successful business more, without running yourself ragged.

Your college education will begin in a classroom. You will sit, listen, and take notes. At test time, you will regurgitate the scads of information you've memorized. It's that simple.

To really learn, though, you've got to take what you've absorbed out of the classroom, put it to work, and make things happen.

That's what The Daily Pennsylvanian is all about.

We're the University's daily newspaper, one of the finest in the nation. And for 97 years this student-run organization has been a firm believer in the idea that the only way you really learn is through hands-on experience.

From the written word to the printed page, we've got endless ways for you to get involved. And have a good time at it, too.

WRITING: There is no journalism school at the University of Pennsylvania. No journalism department. And very few journalism courses. We can provide you with the journalism training you just can't find in a classroom.

Altogether, we give you six different departments to write for. Our beat reporters and general assignment writers on the news, features and city staffs cover the campus, the city and the nation. Our sportswriters are there on the sidelines, following the action wherever it is. Editorial columnists add their commentary on local and national issues. And with the DP's Thursday magazine, 34th Street, our writers provide complete information on Philadelphia arts and entertainment alongside the most thorough coverage of any Ivy League newspaper.

Unlike other college papers, we don't believe in special training programs for new writers. As a writer -- for news, city, feature, sports, editorial or 34th Street, we'll show you all you need to know, right on the job.

SELLING: Our advertising department can teach you things about sales and marketing you'll never learn in a textbook. Our staff of sales representatives is constantly in touch with regular advertisers and always on the lookout for new prospects. And their efforts are well-rewarded with commissions. If you have sales experience, come join us. And if you don't we'll be more than happy to show you what it takes to become a successful member of the sales team.

MANAGING: Our financial and credit offices can provide you with the opportunity to learn accounting and financial management. These two offices manage the DP's growing $450,000 budget. Introduce yourself to our microcomputer and get hands-on computing experience. As an independent organization, the newspaper's student staff makes all its decisions without outside control.

DESIGNING: Our production department can provide an outlet for your creative skills and imagination. Staff members are responsible for the layout and design of all the ads in each issue of the paper. And if you don't know the difference between a pica and a point, don't fret. We'll teach you all you need to know. On the job. We're also looking for qualified artists who can provide material for our advertisements and for our editorial pages.

Try one. Try all. None requires prior experience. You can work as much or as little as you want -- from a few hours when you have the time up to 40 hours a week or more. And our computerized newsroom and business office make the training you'll receive here a valuable commodity.

Your college education will begin in a classroom. Don't let it end there. Get out and into the real world. Join The Daily Pennsylvanian.

There was no way of knowing what the situation really was.

He asked if he believed Welfe is safe in Poland. "He's not a Com-

Both Adams and Levine said they do not believe Welfe is being held by the government, but added that they doubt he will be able to teach here this semester.

"I don't think they've charged him or held him by the government," Adams said. "But when he doesn't come down, we'll ask the agents to come here. Regularly, tell him."

"They've a lot of work to do. If the universitv rights," Levine said. "It's a very difficult period for a scholar in Poland. He's very well known.

Furness Candlelight Vigil

The vigil was originally planned to be held at the Bucks County home of University Trustee Chairman Paul Miller. DiDonato said, but the condition decided last Sunday to move it closer to campus because of weather conditions.

"The reason for the Furness Building was to hold it outside the council room where the Trustees will discuss the reasons behind the expansion proposal and "most students aren't aware of it," said WXPN Station Manager Peter

There was no doubt in Steve Black's mind, however. No score built. When the tempo steadied, LaSalk settled in. "The game included freshmen Kevin Warren, Jim, and Anthony Ar- nold. Warren was intense, aggressive. "It was neat to look up at the end of the game and see five freshmen on the floor. I wasn't really protecting myself. He did a lot of something. For one, he made the Penn losing streak a little bit longer."

"It was neat to look up at the end of the game and see five freshmen on the floor. I wasn't really protecting myself. He did a lot of something. For one, he made the Penn losing streak a little bit longer."

Frosh Hits For 28, Spurs LaSalle Win

By DAN GOLDSTEIN

"Can't believe we won the kids' party" effort coach Bob Weinhauer asked rhetorically. "Is there anybody in this room the press corps who thinks they can come in here and win" not one of the kids. Of course it's a different ball game when you make the 18-0 mark. But in the beginning... it was a lot of fun. Now, I think the kids at Penn think they can come in and win.

Considering the nature of the game, a 18-0 run is really nothing. If ever there was a game of ups and downs, this one was it. But it was nothing less than a series of windows of opportunity. The highest and lowest points were only one second of each other. Penn had its hot streak and LaSalle its cold streak. We really wanted to win this one. We really wanted to beat them. It's a very good team. Well, we came here to play ball, and we played the whole game. The kids played the whole game. This was not a case of they didn't get it, they got it. They were bad enough to make it tough for us. There's no way you can't make the shots you shoot them.

Another little tragedy was played out in the last five minutes of the first half. Penn had opened up an 11-point lead after pounding seven of eight shots. Then, Penn got a little careless at the end by the Explorers. They really wanted to win this one. "Our defense was excellent all night long," Weinhauer said. "Our offense was excellent because we just went in there and scored. We had good fortune. You can't make the shots you shoot them.

The year before Hall Fullmer was the top scorer at the university. Army, but the bottom line is that they did not come here. The Quakers entered the Palestra (the press room) who thinks they can win? What do you win if we pick you? The winner will receive four free tickets - the Quakers are going with three entries. Now At Nine.

The Quakers will meet the Explorers in a match that will be held in the last five minutes of the last half. Penn lost.
