Faculty May Live In King's Court Complex

By SIVA LIL
A King's Court-House House committee is currently discussing the possibility of moving faculty members into residence halls to replace the dormitories' residents to try and solve the housing crisis. Those and other proposals, designed to improve programming within the two dorms, have brought strong reactions from residents and residents alike.

Because both faculty members are part of college halls, many residents say they are worried their residence is being made into a college hall, but all involved in the planning committee say they have plans to make the residence a new college hall.

The committee, run by the Residence Life Coordinators Committee, has set a committee, formed under the recommendation of University Vice President and Provost Emma James and the University Council Graduate Student Association, to discuss student-faculty interaction and improve facilities within halls.

SALES DFS
You can't find it without it. The annual sales fair, usually held at St. John's and Fenner at the Student Union, will be held at the Brandywine Center this year.

The letter also states that the community will emphasize providing residents, 10 percent of whom are food-insecure, with "better nutrition and health education.

The committee has been met by student-faculty members and administrators, all of whom are involved in some aspect of residence halls.

The letter does not mention college students, but administrators have dressed them with an intention of making such a change.

College House Coordinator Randy Boetz said the group is looking for ideas and aspects of college life that would fit the residence hall.

"We're not going to say "No,"" she said. "But I'll probably be a collage of ideas so on paper.

UA Allots Funds For Student Legal Service

By LAUREN RICH
The Undergraduate Assembly has allocated $3000 to establish a legal service for students.

"It's important that students have access to legal advice," said David Cooper, head of Student Life Division at the Undergraduate Assembly. "The legal service will provide students with the opportunity to consult with a lawyer on a variety of issues."
Campus Events

The Health and Wellness Program will host a series of events to promote health and well-being on campus. For more information, visit the Health and Wellness Program website or contact the program directly.

PENN GO CLUB 8 pm Monday, through Friday at 1205 pm and 530 pm. This week — 24 hour number Wharion Extracurricular Events for one week.

Thank you for reading this newspaper. The Daily Pennsylvanian is a supplement to The Daily News.

CONTINENTAL WERE STILL THE PROUD BIRD. 1982-83

News In Brief

Violence mars Guatemalan elections

GUATEMALA CITY — A general backed by the military that has held power for 12 years took the lead in a key presidential race yesterday, according to an early return of a new and closely fought presidential election. Three citizens are also seeking the presidency. The candidates range from hard right to center-right.

Four-month-old son of Gen. Jose E. U. Guardado, President and Commander in Chief of the Guatemalan Army, voted yesterday in Guatemala City. Guardado, who has been president for 12 years, is seeking a third term.

Three civilians are also seeking the presidency. The candidates range from hard right to center-right.

Public Policy School Merger

The president's report also states that the school is exploring the possibility of merging with another school in the University. The report states that the merger would be beneficial to both schools.

Public Policy School Merger

The president's report also states that the school is exploring the possibility of merging with another school in the University. The report states that the merger would be beneficial to both schools.

A GREAT SKI PACKAGE TO ASPEN AND YOU CAN CHARGE IT.

Take a powder with us to Aspen during your spring break. You'll get 8 glorious days on the slopes and 7 fun filled nights at the St. Moritz Hotel. We'll jet you nonstop out of Philadelphia Saturday at 9:30AM, land around 11AM, then drive to Aspen while there still light. By 3 you can take your other Denver nonstop that leaves at 6PM and gets you there while the evening is in full swing.

Want to change your ski vacation? Go ahead! You don't need previous credit to get Continental's Student Credit Card. With it, the 8-day ski vacation can be yours with no money up front. Payments will be tailored to fit your low college budget; they start at $40 per month and go down from there. Just call and we'll send you an application right away.

The ski package is great. The credit is easy to get. And best of all, you'll be flying Continental. Where our people still serve you with the same spirit and pride that built our airline.

$399 WITH MONTHLY PAYMENTS YOU CAN AFFORD

Finance charges will be included in accordance with the terms of the Continental Student Credit Card, the high rate of interest may result in additional finance charges. Rates vary according to the time of the year and the location. For more information, call (800) 223-4330.

TUESDAY IS PURIM

On Locust Walk: Magilla reading at 11 AM; 12 Noon, Purim music, craziness, more.

FREE Purim Bash

Houston Hall West Lounge 3-6 pm

SUMMER JOBS

Attention Counselors and Specialists: This is a great opportunity to work with young people in our out-of-door programs. The program is a summer camp. Please call (503) 273-4000 for more information. The camp opens June 1982.

DANCE CONCERT! WITH N.Y.C.'S BUSH TETRAS and the STICKMEN THIS WED., MARCH 10 9:00 P.M. HOUSTON HALL AUDIT. TIX at Houston Hall and at the door. Info: Call 243-4444

1982-83
Monday Feature

Through an aggressive marketing campaign, the special programs courses attracted more than 5,000 people last semester.

CGS Assistant Dean Barbara Klaczynska, along with campus coordinator Marcia Bell, is credited with drawing the non-profit programs through its influence. The special programs courses have gained popularity because of their appeal to interested adults in the Philadelphia area, 12,000 of whom require the great and yellow course catalogs each semester.

Klaczynska attributes the program's success to its wide audience. In response, CU sponsored courses range from one-day lectures and tours to weekly and biweekly writing workshops.

Klaczynska said the idea behind the CGS non-credit courses is to open the facilities of the University to the general public.

"I think what we've done for this is the people who aren't students in the University," she said. "It also enables them to have the benefit of the knowledge and expertise they would not otherwise gain access to."

Several programs are geared to bringing University courses to the community, and not only continuing students. The classes are geared to those who are not interested in earning degree credit but who want to continue their education. The courses taken advantage of Philadelphia's cultural offerings, and the more special programs courses are "open" — in setting, computer literacy, and personal finance. "The University's resources are an important part of the Philadelphia community," said the special programs coordinator, David Bruce, and Wednesday's "The World of Art" course is one example. The course surveys the top museums working with non-fee customers. It only exists to try to get you to try it at no cost, Klaczynska said. "You're not finding out if there's anybody out there who is a joiner or whether you need a group of people.

Financially, the special programs are self-supporting. Tuition pays the course expenses and teacher salaries, and is run in conjunction with the University of town. Klaczynska said Philadelphian and I've always resented general public.

SUNSHINE BOOKS, LTD.
4005 Locust St.

Expanded Line of General Books
All At a Discount

Scifi • Sports • Non Fiction • Fiction •
Humor • Psychology • Test Prep • Business

Plus New Releases
From Every Major Publisher

New York Times Bestsellers
Cloth: 35% off
Paper: 25% off

Special Sale This Week Only
9-pack BIC Pens
Regularly $2.59 This week $1.69

Opening Hours:
Monday-Thursday: 9-9
Friday: 9-5
Saturday: 10-5

Special Offer:
Free e-book with any purchase of $75 or more

Limited time offer - available online only

Save money and get more than ever before!
I'm.I S  A/ \ /i) S Nl ide economics, the necessity of the budget deficit, the wisdom of supply increased the cost of borrowing much 1982 by over $1 billion, and in fiscal sear 1981 by over $600 million, available for education, influence the amount of Federal funds President Reagan's proposed budget beneficiaries are from extremely low phased out for some 750,000 students next academic se.u Moreover, social lions of, and altitudes toward, im portani issues of academic freedom American higher education i- |usl

The Daily Pennsylvania...the Newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania

Monday, March 8, 1982

Page 4

By Steven K. Ludwig

The battle over the future of American higher education just began. Over the next few months, Congress will weigh President Reagan's proposed budget. The fiscal year 1983. The Editor from the debates over the size of the budget deficit, the role of student aid in financial aid programs, and the impact of increased interest rates on higher education and the U.S. economy. The Senate Finance Committee is scheduled to open hearings on its own budget bill by early April. Almost $13 billion has already been allocated to education in the current fiscal year.

Schott

Come to Marlboro Country

Selling A Message to Washington

By Dick Stevenson

LONDON — It was cool, wet and September evening and there was no class for the black sheep of the family. He stepped out into the street and took a quick walk around the small park across the street. From there he went home.

Steve, a first-year student at New York University, often found his way to central park after his exams, stopping by to say he'd passed and that he wanted to lay out $800 of his savings to buy a new TV set. Although the words were correct the signature; unsigned material will not be considered for publication. As has been the policy of The Daily Pennsylvanian, letters to the editor will only be printed beginning of this semester, letters-from- the-staff will be voted on separately by the editorial board.

A Call for Action

By John L. Loeb, Professor of Economics

In today's issue the Daily Pennsylvanian reprints an article which appeared in the March 1, 1983, edition of the New York Times. The article is important because it underlines the critical role played by the monetary and financial sectors in the economy. It is also significant because the article was written by a leading economist who is known for his work on monetary and financial issues.

A Job Well Done

BY STEVEN K. LUDWIG

The Daily Pennsylvania...the Newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania

Monday, March 8, 1982

Page 4

The battle over the future of American higher education just began. Over the next few months, Congress will weigh President Reagan's proposed budget. The fiscal year 1983. The Editor from the debates over the size of the budget deficit, the role of student aid in financial aid programs, and the impact of increased interest rates on higher education and the U.S. economy. The Senate Finance Committee is scheduled to open hearings on its own budget bill by early April. Almost $13 billion has already been allocated to education in the current fiscal year.

Schott

Come to Marlboro Country

Selling A Message to Washington

By Dick Stevenson

LONDON — It was cool, wet and September evening and there was no class for the black sheep of the family. He stepped out into the street and took a quick walk around the small park across the street. From there he went home.

Steve, a first-year student at New York University, often found his way to central park after his exams, stopping by to say he'd passed and that he wanted to lay out $800 of his savings to buy a new TV set. Although the words were correct the signature; unsigned material will not be considered for publication. As has been the policy of The Daily Pennsylvanian, letters to the editor will only be printed beginning of this semester, letters-from- the-staff will be voted on separately by the editorial board.

A Call for Action

By John L. Loeb, Professor of Economics

In today's issue the Daily Pennsylvanian reprints an article which appeared in the March 1, 1983, edition of the New York Times. The article is important because it underlines the critical role played by the monetary and financial sectors in the economy. It is also significant because the article was written by a leading economist who is known for his work on monetary and financial issues.

A Job Well Done

BY STEVEN K. LUDWIG
Flower Show Blossoms Despite Bomb Scare

In JUNE LANGER

Professional for the past 35 years around the country with the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society and Natural Nature, an organization that promotes the use of green concepts in our daily lives to improve the environment and our quality of life, I have noticed a trend in the way we view health care. It has become increasingly clear that the traditional model of health care, where patients are seen as passive recipients of care,
may not be the best approach for many individuals.

In order to address this issue, I have organized a colloquium series on "New Directions in Health Care" at the Philadelphia Flower Show. The colloquium will include presentations by leading experts in the field, including Dr. Joshua T. Lazar, a renowned health care policy researcher. The colloquium will cover a range of topics, from the economic themes and how they relate to the health care system, to the impact of nursing on health care delivery.

The colloquium will be held at the Philadelphia Flower Show, 3601 Locust Walk, Philadelphia, PA 19104, on March 25 at 3:30-4:30 PM, reception follows.

More information can be found at the website: www.healthcarepolicy.org/philadelphiaflowershow

Dr. Joshua T. Lazar
Department of Anthropology
New York University
INTERVIEW

The Nominations and Elections Committee will be interviewing undergraduates on Tuesday night for ACADEMIC PLANNING AND BUDGET COMMITTEE and TITLE IX REVIEW COMMITTEE.

Information and applications available in the UA office, first floor, Houston Hall.

Italian Night Delight $2.95
Every Monday & Tuesday Night

Full Course Dinners: 5 P.M.-9 P.M.
Spaghetti & Meatballs; Mussels - Red or White Sauce; Our Famous Cheese Pizza; Roasted Chicken; Italian Night Delight $2.95

TITLE IX REVIEW COMMITTEE

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE PENN COMMUNITY:

Weidenbaum: Reaganomics Works

Weidenbaum advised graduates of Wharton Executive MBA program that:

"I feel strongly that some reductions are necessary." he added. "The current situation, students should "save up and work through college, like I did," he continued. "Weidenbaum said there are several other schools with a legal service for students, and he hopes the University "does not follow suit.""
Foglietta To Speak At U. Today

By LAUREN COLEMAN

President Thomas Foglietta will be on campus tonight for a 9 p.m. speech and question-and-answer session. Foglietta, who is in town for the American Political Science Association, was invited to address students and faculty by the College Democrats.

"The U. represents the 25th district in Congress, so it is certainly a compelling reason for next March's primary voters," he said.

A congressional redistricting plan might lead to Foglietta's work with the state legislature. Joseph Smith's, Foglietta's Democratic colleague and fellow congressman, said the two are now competing for the same seat.

"At the moment, it seems like we're both likely candidates, but it's certainly too early to say anything," he added.

Smith said that the College Democrats and the Political Union, the two student groups that endorsed Foglietta, both expect him to speak about his campaign for Congress, rather than the upcoming primary race.

"We were very much looking forward to him," Smith said. "He told us he would not be representing the University without knowing whether he would run for Congress, but he has never expressed his intention of running for the seat in the past.

Smith added that Foglietta's speech will be an independent debate over issues, rather than a forum for his campaign.

"It's not a campaign event," Smith said. "But it's a great opportunity for students to hear from a congressman who is very engaged in his role and is committed to making the best decisions for his district."

Smith also said that Foglietta's speech will be a special interest in speaking to the university.

"The university is very important to me, and I want to make sure that everyone understands the importance of having a strong liberal arts program," Smith said. "I think Foglietta will be able to do that.

Smith said that Foglietta will discuss the importance of increasing political awareness and promoting political discussion.

"I think it's very much in line with what we're doing," Smith said. "It's very good for our program, and I think it will be very beneficial for everyone."
Cagers:—

The big break for the Quakers came with just over a minute left. We had been trailing for most of the game, and things looked bleak. Penn and Columbia were neck-and-neck, with the Quakers clinging to a six-point lead. But then, out of nowhere, the Lions started to make a comeback. It was a tough fight, but we managed to hold on for the win.
The November feature Quaker appeared sedan Teams. Now number one team with, Rick Snyder, Team now its first round match, for the all in the first. Round. Smith was eliminated. "We were very upset with the draw," Smith said. "We wanted the more challenging match with a high rank, and yet, we played some of the toughest teams in the early rounds. That's not the way we expected it to go.

The second semifinal match was tough. "It was tough," Boyer said. "It was a very competitive match."

With the win, the Quakers advanced to the final today. The team is now looking forward to another opportunity to compete for the title with his collection of three championships. The team has an experienced group of players, but they are not sure if they will be able to win a third title. It is too early to tell where the team will stand in the overall standings.

The Quakers have won the last three championships and are looking to continue their winning streak in the upcoming season. They are currently ranked in the top five in the nation and will be looking to make a strong showing in the tournament.

NOMINATIONS are now being accepted for the WHARTON ADVISORY BOARD OUTSTANDING TEACHING AWARD.

Pick up details and list of eligible teachers in the Office of Student Life.

Nominations due by Mon., March 22.

Electronics
TECHNICAL INSTRUCTOR: Infotron Systems Corp., a leading supplier of data communications equipment, has an excellent opportunity in Cherry Hill, N.J. We have an opening in our Educational Services Department for a Technical Instructor. Applicants must have experience in data communications/electronics, preferably in an instructional setting.

- Modems and multiplexer experience preferred
- Hands-on course development, documentation and presentation experience.

INFOTRON SYSTEMS CORP. was established in 1968 and is one of the pioneer in multiplexer technology in the United States. We offer an excellent starting salary and a full company benefits package.

For confidential consideration, call: infotron systems corp.

See the NY RANGERS
And the PHILA FLYERS
relaunch their attacks

At The Spectrum, Sun, Mar. 28, 7:35 PM
Tickets & Private Bus Transport + Food

Drink In Route — $15.00 each; $50.00 each for 4 or more ACT QUICKLY.

Call Jim Zorn at 442-3049, 6 PM Midnight.
Sales and Thurs, Mar. 11.

HEALTHY LIVING CLUB presents:
NUTRITION and GOURMET FOOD
Patricia Zinn, Director of Nutrition Education at Philadelphia Center For Well Being will lecture and demonstrate the benefits of a healthy diet, including gourmet food preparation.

Tuesday, March 9 — 7:00 PM
1920 Hitting Commons — Green Room
Donations of $2.50 requested.

OUTRAGEOUS SWEET TREATS
will be served

Call Program Chairpersons:
Doreen Doran 386-6705 or Chris Zeloz
386-9150.
Quakers Bring Home The Bacon

The Fight Ends, The Fun Begins

NEW YORK, N.J. — Now that the Quaker basketball team has completed its season with a 68-50 pounding of Princeton, the weekend’s sweep of New York City is over, it is time to consider the events of this past weekend.

The 14-game winning streak started on Friday night at Princeton, where the Quakers rattled off a 21-8 run to take a 23-point lead in the opening minutes. The team finished with a 45-43 victory over the Tigers, their third consecutive win over the Princeton men’s basketball team.

The Quakers continued the winning streak on Saturday night with a 91-60 victory over the Dartmouth Big Green. The team improved to 21-2 overall and remained atop the Ivy League standings.

At Courtyard

Dan Goldstein

Quakers Rallied Against Princeton. It was Demetrius Adams, none other than the Quakers’ guard, who made the final basket of the game to seal the team’s 84-64 win over the Princeton Tigers. Adams’ basket came after a long 3-point attempt, and it proved to be the game-winning shot.

The Quakers, who entered the game with a 12-6 record, were down 11 at halftime before scoring 52 points in the second half to pull away for the win.:

The Quakers finishes the regular season with a 16-7 record, good enough for second place in the Ivy League.

Two-Part Celebration For The Ivy Champs

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The celebration began on Friday night. While waiting on the bench for his turn to be introduced, the Princeton Tigers — not being part of the 14-game winning streak — were content to watch the rest of the game. And they didn’t mind, either.

Bryan Harris

Quakers and Tigers

The team finished the regular season with a 16-7 record, good enough for second place in the Ivy League. After a 1-1 season against Princeton last year, the Quakers swept the Tigers this year, winning both games.

The Quakers also have the top seed in the Ivy League tournament, which will take place on March 11-13. The tournament will be held at the Palestra in Philadelphia, and the Quakers will likely face the University of Pennsylvania in the semifinals.

Hawks Shatter Dragons’ Dream For NCAA Berth

B.L. R. Singswood

Despite playing a poor game of the Big Five above, St. Joseph’s may not have completed its City Series game. The Hawks were down 13-22 at the end of the first half, but they rallied in the second half to win 68-50. Coach Mike Babbitt brought his team back from the brink of elimination.

With the win and in spite of the fact that St. Joseph’s was not in the top four of the Ivy League standings, the Hawks have earned an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament. Coach Babbitt was thrilled with the win and the opportunity to play in the NCAA tournament.

The Hawks will face the University of Pennsylvania in the first round of the tournament on March 11. The winner will advance to the second round on March 13.

Cagers Draw Redmen

If you’ve just been to a basketball game or are planning to go to one, you know what it’s like. The excitement, the noise, the energy. It’s a great experience, and we couldn’t imagine playing a game without it.

The Quakers knew this going in. They were ready to go tonight. I just wanted to go out and play the best I could.”

Ron Iryon.

The third longest in the quaker’s league was over, 1-1 season against Princeton last year, the Quakers swept the Tigers this year, winning both games.

The Quakers also have the top seed in the Ivy League tournament, which will take place on March 11-13. The tournament will be held at the Palestra in Philadelphia, and the Quakers will likely face the University of Pennsylvania in the semifinals.

Hawks Shatter Dragons’ Dream For NCAA Berth

B.L. R. Singswood

Despite playing a poor game of the Big Five above, St. Joseph’s may not have completed its City Series game. The Hawks were down 13-22 at the end of the first half, but they rallied in the second half to win 68-50. Coach Mike Babbitt brought his team back from the brink of elimination.

With the win and in spite of the fact that St. Joseph’s was not in the top four of the Ivy League standings, the Hawks have earned an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament. Coach Babbitt was thrilled with the win and the opportunity to play in the NCAA tournament.

The Hawks will face the University of Pennsylvania in the first round of the tournament on March 11. The winner will advance to the second round on March 13.