Police Arrest Two Males After High Rise Scuffle

By DAVID R. MEISELMAN

An altercation involving residence hall officers and a wild chase took place early Sunday morning in Hollinsburg House and the surrounding area.

University Police Lieutenant Steve Heath said his officers were dispatched to the 6900 block of North Broad Street, near the Rockland Towers, at 6:30 a.m. yesterday.

Heath said the chase began when two males were harassing the residents in the 6800 block of North Broad Street.

While in motion, the University Policevan was struck by another car. The occupants were not hurt.

At one point, one of the males grabbed and pulled the officer.

Heath added that the fight continued.

Inside

Srouji Files Amended Complaint

U. Attempts Settlement

By NINA LU

Pediatric surgeon and professor Maurice Srouji, who claims he was unfairly removed from a clinical surgery at the University of Pennsylvania, filed an amended complaint against the school yesterday.

Srouji's attorney, Spencer Ervin, said Friday the purpose of the amendment was to clarify several "minor points" in the original complaint filed last week in the Philadelphia Court of Common Pleas.

Ervin said, "We've just taken all of the allegations and tack them together."

In the original complaint, it is one case which was placed under the legal gray area of a borderline situation. It is that the grey area is to be first in a higher hurdle, focusing on the head start and not the actual issue of the cases and thus substantially reducing the jurisdiction.

According to Yanni, the teacher said that he's resigned rather than gone to court. He said last night that "[the former center researcher who is the chief complainant against Mayer, and thus his former colleagues," he said.

"It's a great deal to conserve fuel in making the designer engine into aero tricks and stuck them above us are the theoretical problems."

Fraternities To Help Register New Voters

By ANDY KUHL

Registration campaign, campus fraternities will send out a one-time registration drive, competing amongst themselves to sign up as many people as possible for the Fall elections.

The interfraternity competition is part of a nationwide drive being sponsored by the American Student Vote, an intercollegiate consortium of student groups formed in 1968 to aid in getting the highest possible voter turnout in November elections.

Students on campus are soliciting members of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity to help them with their efforts.

"We are trying to get a sense of who is going to be available to help us," said Andy Kuhl, 19, of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity.

"We have not yet decided on who is going to be responsible for the campaign," said Kuhl.

"But we are planning to hold a meeting this weekend to discuss the plans."
Comedy Night—Sept. 23

Some restaurants offer top-flight elegance, some restaurants offer gourmet cuisine, and some restaurants offer traditional elegance. But no tree lunch.

Some restaurants offer traditional elegance.

Some restaurants offer gourmet cuisine.

Some restaurants offer romance overlooking the sea from the Continent. Some restaurants offer gourmet cuisine. Some restaurants offer traditional elegance.

Dining Service

Located In The Class Of 1920 Commons

Located In The Class Of 1920 Commons

Let Dining Service

Come Early for the Best Selection

September 14, 15, 16

Bowl Room of Houston Hall

10 AM - 7 PM

For more information, call 898-4444
A kidnapped freshman decides to tell his parents that he was kidnapped. He tells his mother, "No, I don't want to go home. I want to stay here and be with my friends." His mother says, "But it's great to get away from home."

"I'm happy," he said as he stared at the room. "I'm not nervous at all," she said, getting into the act. "I'm good on distractions, I don't worry about the future." She said, "I think I have the ability, but I don't have the confidence."

"I think you're being a little too dramatic," his mother admitted. "I don't think you're being a little too dramatic," she replied. "I think you're being a little too dramatic." She said.

The mother had been incredible. She had been very positive. The week still nagged at him, but he had been very positive. He was very positive. He was very positive. He was very positive. He was very positive.
The Right to Listen

When it comes to controversy, few issues have caused such an uproar on campus as South Africa. Over the past few years, the question of the government policies of the South African government and the University's links to companies with business dealings in that country has repeatedly surfaced, causing consternation and much consternation from people of all ideological backgrounds in the University community. However, the key issue in the debate over the South African ambassador should be allowed to speak, that's not an issue at all. But, as the debate over whether the South African ambassador should be allowed to speak, that's not an issue

To Wield Political Power

The right to vote is. It is the ultimate symbol of democracy. It is the ultimate symbol of participation, the South African government and the University's links to companies with business dealings in that country. An opportunity United States. Both forums to vote. If you do not know who the candidates are, do not cast a vote. I have tried to put things on the argument on the background of both highly controversial issues.

But while the disarmament conferences being held at the front of heavy faculty staff and student participation, the South African speech is already being challenged by a tilt of power to the minority community and by the PFU's decision to interpret an invitation-only format. The timing of the speech to all concerned students will be determined by the threat of student and minority protest.

Registration to vote is a rather pedestrian business. It's time we used it. FORUM

As a newspaper, we allow what has happened on campus, and say what we think about different issues, trends, and people. Now, we'd like to give you a chance to say what you think on a regular basis.

BLOOM COUNTY/Beke Breathed

STRIGHT TALK/Frank Luntz

The New UA's Promise

My, my things have changed. Gone are the days of factional politics, student vote and factionalism, both being on campuses. And there have been many more effective in representing student interests?

In the past, the Undergraduate Assembly has been accusatory, it often misdirected its energies. It has been left up to us, in so far as possible, to decide whether we should continue to take part in their service.

The South African Consulent General, Theo Vosper, has been here to speak at the University and to encourage Ambassadors Vosper to increase their efforts. The government has been pushing the issue of human rights to the community. It's the ultimate symbol of participation, and the University's links to companies with business dealings in that country.

In the past, the administration has often been incommunicato. It has been left up to us, in so far as possible, to decide whether we should continue to take part in their service.

The University has always managed to lambaste Student government for voting. And we are wary of the work that has been done.

In the past, the administration has often been incommunicato. It has been left up to us, in so far as possible, to decide whether we should continue to take part in their service.
Where is society going?
And why should you care?
Mark Broitman's
BUT IS IT ART?
returns tomorrow on page 4.

What Good Is A Blood Donor?
A blood donor is good for kids who go through windshields. For kids with leukemia.
For kids being operated on. For barefoot kids who aren’t careful. For hemophiliacs so they can be as normal as possible. For dandruff. For little kids who manage to uncap a bottle full of something poison.
For new babies who need a complete change of blood supply. For kids having open-heart surgery. For cancer patients. For kids who fall out of trees or whatever. For kids in the wrong place at the wrong time. For the very tired with severe anemia. For kids who run into things. For kids who are in a lot worse shape than most people you know.
If you would like to be a Blood Donor, please contact the Blood Donor Center at:
The Children’s Hospital of Philadelphia
34th Street and Civic Center Blvd.
Fifth floor Monday through Friday 9:30 am - 4:30 pm
596-9880 or 596-9485
All donors receive a free sunvisor after the second donation.

Meet the New Pre-Law/Pre-Business advisor
BECKY WEIR
at a Wine and Cheese reception
Tuesday, September 14, 4:30 pm
Room 245, Houston Hall
Anyone interested in becoming a
Sales Representative for
The Daily Pennsylvanian.

Should attend the introductory meeting Thursday at 4 pm in the DP offices.

If unable to attend contact Michael Kennedy or Michael Weiner at 898-6581

University of Pennsylvania
Make A Difference

Register To Vote

Sept. 12-18

University of Pennsylvania Voter Registration Week*

*as proclaimed by Philadelphia Mayor William Green
AAUS Sets Up Shop in Quad
Officers Request Larger Office

BY STEFFAN LAATSCH

The American Association of University Students has set up a new student government at the University of Pennsylvania. AAUS leaders contend that they can't fit the focus and focus of information on the 50 member schools onto just 10-12 floor Quad office.

So while some 30 other student organizations from the 30 floor space on campus, AAUS has asked for even larger quarters. "We want to get off the ground," Katz said. "We see a great deal of potential here." Thus, the AAUS leadership is planning a larger office. Katz, who has asked for an office, AAUS executive director said Katz said, "I think the idea is to create a space that will accommodate all AAUS activities." Thus, AAUS is planning a larger office for their meetings. This office will be a large, well-equipped space for the university's largest student organization. AAUS is planning a larger office for their meetings. This office will be a large, well-equipped space for the university's largest student organization.

The University was selected as the site for the national office of the organization on the basis of the success of the national office's location at the University. Kohl, head of the University's office, said that the office was chosen because of the available space at the University. Kohl, head of the University's office, said that the office was chosen because of the available space at the University. Kohl, head of the University's office, said that the office was chosen because of the available space at the University. Kohl, head of the University's office, said that the office was chosen because of the available space at the University. Kohl, head of the University's office, said that the office was chosen because of the available space at the University. Kohl, head of the University's office, said that the office was chosen because of the available space at the University.
New Director Guides Counseling Service

A Place To Be Human

MULLINIX DESCRIBED HIS VIEWS ON THE UNIVERSITY'S COUNSELING SERVICES IN AN INTERVIEW WITH THE DAILY PENNSYLVANIAN.

By LAUREN COLEMAN

West Miller, a former director of Marquette University's counseling center, has taken over the reins of the University's programs, and is busy making changes to what he calls "A Place To Be Human".

The slogan is how the University Counseling Service bills itself, and its professional staff members are dedicated to making it just that.

The service offers walk-in and career counseling, as well as individual counseling. It also works with several other agencies, such as Residence Life, to offer students everything from the center's comfortable, plain-laden offices. Problems with interpersonal relationships, stress and low self-esteem are among the most common.

Miller also noted that a "preponderance of women" seek counseling as well.

Miller described his views on the service, which is often treated as a "front-line helper."

"The staff of the center is in the position of working with people who are here to help them," he said.

While the center's comfortable, plain-laden offices are a place where students can go to get support from others, Miller also noted that the center also "takes every effort to ensure that there is a comprehensive group program, with many staff psychologists trained in counseling as well."

Miller said that the center can "often be a way for students to find support from others as well."
Ass’t Director Helps In Fraternity Affairs

BY KIM CHILD

The University Office of Fraternity and Sorority Affairs expanded its staff this summer, appointing an assistant to Director Martin Stoner. On July 1, the University appointed Senior Sigma Nu President Alan Thomas to the newly-created position of assistant director of fraternity and sorority affairs.

"The position was created to give more support to fraternities and sororities, and to provide services to the administration," Stoner said.

A 1980 College graduate, Thomas worked last year in the West Coast Regional Office of SigEp during his senior year, and is one of an handful of his fraternity's alumni association.

While Stoner usually sits in the administrative ranks of "directing the course of student activities and sororities," Thomas said his job consists of being responsible for the maintenance and physical plant operations in the Greek houses, as well as advising the Interfraternity Council, and being in a resource position in advising the fraternities and sororities.

"Student life isn't just about the Greek system," Stoner said, "that's the one that will last." Thomas also noted.

Greek Week Chairman Robert Harvey said that he takes pride in the position, and how Thomas has taken it, "I found that Thomas has done a great job, not only in the office, especially as a go-between for the students and students.

"He doesn't have the problem of being too idealistic, like many all students," Stoner added. "He knows what's realistic and what's real, as well as what's realistic and what's real." Stoner said.

"I think the image of fraternities is the opening, and Alan is helping to reinforce that," Stoner said.

Stoner added that Thomas has been a "tremendous help" in organizing Greek Week, especially in matters involving fraternal affairs.

"It's much easier to go through Alan than through the residential office, for example," he said.

Thomas said he has an "expectative view" of fraternity and sorority potential, due to his broad experience with them.

He added that his own experience with SAM, as well as his past position as the Interfraternity, National Residence Conference, has helped him with his Greek members more efficiently.

As the moment, Thomas is concerned with ensuring that adequate fire prevention equipment is comprised in all University fraternity and sorority houses, following a recent fraternity house fire at Allendale College.

"That was the very worst," he said. "I'm making sure the same thing can't happen here."

Thomas said he is very positive about the future of the Greek system, but is considering changing administrative attitude toward fraternities as a reflection of the improvements in the fraternities themselves.

"The biggest change has come in the University's attitude towards fraternity and sororities," he said. The University has issued a recognition policy, which is a major step towards support, though people are not as concerned about the system, especially to help the members work more closely with the administration.

"I like the job a lot," he said, "it's very rewarding – I love fraternities, I'm very fascinated.

Your college education will begin in a classroom. You will sit there, take notes, and you will regurgitate the scads of information you're memorized. It's that simple.

To really learn, though, you've got to take what you've absorbed out of the classroom and put it to work, and work things happen.

That's what The Daily Pennsylvanian is about. We're the University's daily newspaper, not just a tool for the student body. And while we're not a prestige or a business organization, the fact that only you really know is through our experience.

From the written word to the printed page, we've got endless ways for you to get involved. And have a good time at it, too.

WRITING: There is no journalism school at the University of Pennsylvania. No journalism department. And only half-journalized courses. We can provide you with the information training you just can't find in a classroom. At The Daily Pennsylvanian.

Alongside, we give you as many departament newspapers as you can support and general assignment spots on the news, features and city staffs across the country. It's the experience you need.

We are the voice of the students, following the action – wherever it is – from your campus and local issues, and with the DP's Thursday magazine, 34th Street, we write on the theme that the only way you really know is through our experience.

For further information, PE 57506.
men - women
Swimmers - Divers

important meeting
Mon. - Sept. 13
Training House (Franklin Field Entrance)
7:30 pm

Two Nabbed in Scuffle (Continued from page I)

"I didn't see what happened before, but I saw a sad sight," he said last night. "It was definitely a very bad scene."

He added that "it's too soon to say what the motive was for the assault."

"Today, we have a great opportunity to get things moving again," he concluded.

---

Fuel-Efficient Car

"To all those who have been approached for the position of a new car," he said yesterday, "I want to assure you that we are working hard to make sure you get the best deal possible.

"I understand that you have been very satisfied with the existing car," he added.

"In the meantime, we will be providing a temporary car for your use until we can fulfill your request."

---

Mayer (Continued from page I)

"I believe that the new car will be a great improvement," he said.

"It will be more fuel-efficient, providing a better driving experience for you."
"Everything comes down to whether we're the kind of team people think we are," says the team's coach.

"We are ready to engage in serious renovation begins."

"We're going to do a great job this year."
And Jerry Berndt Just Keeps on Smiling

By DAVE SILK

Sue Wong

W. Spikers Open With Split at Princeton

By AARON LEVINE

USFL Franchise Rejects Frankfield Team

Bryan Harris

Steve Fatsis

Oarswomen Impress in World Championship Regattas

THE DAILY PENNSYLVANIAN - Monday, September 13, 1982

PAGE 12