Reagan Seeks Strike Rule End KASHMENGIN - President Ronald Reagan yesterday asked Congress to delay the end of offshore oil drilling in the Gulf of Mexico, saying that the United States needs more oil. Reagan made the request in a letter to the Senate and House, saying that a law passed in 1980 would end the offshore oil drilling if Congress does not act. The law, which was signed by President Jimmy Carter, would impose a moratorium on offshore oil drilling for two years.

HACKNEY TO REPORT ON WORKING PAPERS
Document Continues Long-Range Planning Effort

BY MARC BLAUSTEIN
Production of the University's annual "State of the University" report is currently under way, and it is expected to be completed shortly after the spring campus-wide faculty and student meeting. In the course of preparing the report, University officials are seeking input from faculty and students on a number of issues.

One such issue is the question of whether the University should create a new college or division. University officials are going through a process of examining the current structure of the University and considering whether it is the best way to organize the University's programs and services.

A second issue is the question of whether the University should increase its emphasis on research. University officials are going through a process of examining the current level of research activity and considering whether it is sufficient to meet the University's needs.

A third issue is the question of whether the University should increase its emphasis on community service. University officials are going through a process of examining the current level of community service activity and considering whether it is sufficient to meet the University's needs.

In each case, University officials are seeking input from campus community members, and they encourage everyone who reads this report to provide their input.

The University is committed to involving the campus community in its decision-making processes, and the University hopes that everyone will participate in this process.

Summer Crime Declines at U. University Police Releases Statistics

By DAVID M. MEISELMA

A summary on the University's crime scene captured significantly the statistics as opposed to last year's statistical summary from the University's Department of Public Safety.

The summary showed that for the months of July and August, the most significant downturn took place in the number of break-ins and thefts.

The number of burglaries was significantly down, falling from 35 reported incidents in 1981 to only 29 reported this past summer. This represents a 20 percent decrease in the number of reported burglaries reported in the summary used.

The summary also showed that the dollar value of goods burglarized declined from about $3,000 worth in July and August of 1981 to only about $1,100 worth in those same months in 1982—an approximately 65 percent decrease in the dollar value of goods stolen.

The summary said that the dollar value of the theft of bicycle parts decreased significantly over that period. Students reported about $8,000 worth of bicycle parts stolen in July and August of 1981 in contrast to $770 in July and August of 1982, a decrease of about 91 percent.

But those statistics on burglaries may not yet have been fully compiled.

"Some kids come back in September with their lockers having been robbed and they're not reporting it until now." said Tanzer. Co-founder David Tanzer, said they will probably have some other methods for raising the funds for their campaign this time next year.

The University Police also released statistics that show a 50 percent decrease in the number of robberies and assaults both aggravated and simple—over the past two summers. The number decreased from 12 in July to 6 in August, a decrease of about 50 percent.

The number of reported rapes, in-person assaults and personal thefts remained the same, the summary said. Only two cases occurred in each of the two summers.

The number of reported incidents of criminal mischief, which includes the destruction of property, was one of the few areas of crime to increase. The number of incidents reported increased from 17 to 28 over the two summers, an increase of about 65 percent.

The summary also showed significant decreases in the number of sexual assaults, robberies and burglaries during the months of April and July over the past two years.

University Police logged significantly fewer traffic violations in the past two summers, for a decrease of 40 percent. The reported traffic violations decreased from 930 in the summer of 1981 to only 579 this summer.

"This summer was a very mild summer," said Chief Hugh Hallinan, the University Police said yesterday.

The Line

Two to three yards of the ball every time," McElreavy concluded. A crucial factor in keeping intensity and physical strength at a high enough level for 60 minutes is the awareness that McElreavy now has of being able to substitute for his starters with little or no drop-off in quality. "We're going to substitute good for good at the first line," Glaze concurred. "We have the guys who can get the job done," McElreavy said.

Put it all together and you have an offensive line which pushed as oppressed defensive line past all over the field last Saturday. With Leigh on the interception horizon, and the memory of last season's field goal drama still fresh in their minds, the Quakers, a repeal of the performance in Hanover is in order."

The members of the Pennsylvania men's cross-country team had suffered a crushing defeat by their rivals in the past, but that all changed when they opened the 1982 season against La Salle at Franklin Park on Friday.

Coach Charlie Powell's team returned at vengeance, crushing the season against La Salle at Franklin Park on Friday. The team opened their 1982 schedule with a dominating victory.

Carl Nordheim took top honors as he outdistanced the field. Five miles in a time of 21:17. In second place followed co-captain Charlie Barone, and running on the team's third was John Clifford. The Penn runners were able to maintain their pace for a crucial race where the tempo can be very unforgiving and the footing treacherous.

In the fourth and fifth events for Penn, John Tezino and Bill Barone came up with good showings, finishing respectively in the seventh and tenth positions. Powell was very pleased with his team's effort. "The team ran a super race," he said. "They ran extremely well together."

"I thought it was a great race," he added. "We were in the top two almost from the beginning."

Nordheim and his squad are looking forward anxiously to the Ivy League meet. "We'll be taking Columbia and Harvard this weekend and the team will be running to win," he concluded.
The Offensive Line

By JOHN DELAPINA

When the Penn offense lost quarterback Gary Vara to an injury after taking their first snap against Dartmouth, the entire field was eerie and somber. But by the time the second half of the contest started, the offense was back to normal and was ready to play its best game of the season.

"It was like a different team on the field," head coach Robert Irving said. "We had to make some adjustments, but we were able to put everything together and play a solid game.""}

The Penn defense was impenetrable, limiting the Harriers to just 197 yards of total offense. The game was won in the trenches, as the Quakers controlled the line of scrimmage and held the Harriers to just 37 yards in the first half.

"We knew we had to come out and play a physical game," head coach Dave Cardle said. "We couldn't let them get anything going and we didn't do that."
