Flying With Eagles
Gamble Scores in New Post
BY ELLEN DAIN
It's been under his belt only a few days, but Gamble is looking forward to all that the new job will bring.

Gamble, who has been hired as the head coach of Temple's men's basketball team, said last week that he is excited about the opportunity to lead the Owls.

"I'm thrilled to be here," Gamble said. "I've been looking forward to this opportunity for a long time. Temple has a great tradition of basketball, and I'm proud to be a part of it.

Gamble replaces James Chaussee, who served as head coach for the past 13 seasons. Chaussee, who was fired in late April, had a record of 210-136 during his tenure.

"It was a difficult decision," Gamble said of the hire. "But I feel that I am the right person to lead Temple basketball into the future.

Gamble said he plans to build on the foundation that Chaussee established and to bring a fresh perspective to the program. "I want to bring a new energy and a new approach to the team," he said.

Gamble's hiring was announced last week.

A new system of assigning advising roles was introduced at the University last week, and students are divided over its effectiveness.

The University has been trying to improve its advising system for several years, and the new approach was introduced in response to student complaints.

University Police Detectives are investigating the assault, which occurred in the early morning hours.

Police are questioning a 20-year-old man who was seen leaving the area shortly after the incident.

"We're taking this seriously," said Detective John Smith. "We believe there was some kind of altercation, and we're trying to find out what happened.

Police are urging anyone with information to come forward.

The victim was taken to the hospital and is expected to recover.

The University has been working to improve its safety measures, and the incident is the latest in a series of recent incidents on campus.

Police are reminding students to be cautious and to report any suspicious activity.

The University has also been working to improve its monitoring of social media, with the goal of preventing incidents like this from happening in the future.
Poles To Crack Down on Unionists

WARSAW, Poland—Parliamentary maneuvers cracking down on unionists are being carefully monitored by the National Committee for Human Rights, a trade union federation of workers in various branches of industry.

The committee was set up in December 1980 and is headed by Tadeusz Jurelewicz, a member of the Committee for the Defense of the Workers' Rights.

The committee's aim is to protect workers' rights and to prevent the government from interfering in their activities.

The Polish government has been cracking down on unionists recently, and the committee is trying to prevent this from happening.

The committee has recently received a report from the Committee for the Defense of the Workers' Rights, which says that the government is trying to prevent the committee from operating.

Some people say we're in for a big fall. Actually, this year's season might be as colorful as any in the past. For the folks who are old enough to remember the past, the foliage of today might remind them of the years past. However, for those who are young and have not experienced the beauty of fall, the foliage is as colorful as any year past.

The fall foliage of Pennsylvania is a sight to behold. The leaves change colors from green to yellow, orange, and red. The trees are a beautiful sight to see. There are many places to go to see the fall foliage, but one of the best places is the Allegheny Mountains. The trees in the Allegheny Mountains are a sight to behold. A Subtracting Addition

Faculty Senate Chairman Marc Garett's proposal to the University's guidelines on open expression is, in one professor's opinion, "antithetical to the point of being a bad idea." It should not be supported.

The proposal states "Threats to interfere with, disturb, or disrupt the legitimate activities of other persons constitute a chilling effect on those activities is not permissible.

Current guidelines already have stipulations limiting the disruption and disturbance of Columbia's legitimate activities. The Garett proposal adds only the chilling effect on activities clause, which he is to broadly interpreted that if it passed, would certainly have a chilling effect on student protest. Most expressions of disapproval are not calculated to make the subject feel particularly warm.

Earlier this summer South African Ambassador Theo Verwoerd cancelled his appearance to speak at the University Under Minsterial Council of Republic of South Africa's proposal would have been made by him, but Verwoerd's plans were changed. I am one of the University's students who felt the cancellation was a chilling effect on student protest. The cancellation, corporate america, and they would do the shopping and cleaning, among other things.

The arrangement worked for a while, but as the students went back to school, they found that people were being challenged much less in the aisles almost as much as I used to. This is a spiritual crisis in that our lives are surrounded by weapons, but by the corporate America and its emphasis on the spectacles of the world, all of which are sold to us by self-defined 'peace.'

The scene inside Thriftway was more than aggravation to keep me from buying. I got more than I bargained for. I was tired of being treated as a second-class citizen. And it was then I realized early in the week after grabing a wagon and making a face at the front of the page of the University, I want to go wanting to get some food and some sleep, but the difference between general and specific was not there.

So, I am one of the students who believe that peace and justice and morality and security is a spiritual crisis, and that we'll get blown up and lose our

The Nuclear Freeze

More Thoughts on the Nuclear Freeze

To the Editor,

The nuclear freeze is an issue in that it is a spiritual crisis, and in that we must consider it seriously. Unfortunately, both sides are being ignored.

The Soviet Union, the United States, etc., is a spiritual crisis, and whether, or not, is it religious, or political. So we must inculcate in our society that the nuclearfreeze, not only in the special crises dealing with the White House and Kremlin and super powers, but by the corporate America and its emphasis on the spectacles of the world, all of which are sold to us by self-defined 'peace.'

Whether I like them upstairs, downstairs, or on the front lawn, it was the worst base. Always I hear from them that we're dealing with a client, but on the front lawn, it was the worst base. Always I hear from them that we're dealing with a client, but it was never had what I wanted or could not have.

The freeze is the first step toward a nuclear freeze. At least the inсп, the former chancellor of the Board of Managers of the State of Pennsylvania, is neutral on the issue.

Fighting for Equality

To the Editor,

In her letter of Oct. 12, Katherine Hempstead states that women should stop engaging in any women's activities, such as organizing or speaking to other women. Hempstead asserts that the presence of women's activities is an embarrassment to true feminists. What she seems to miss is that the letters are concerned with communications between feminists and that there is no health hazard or sexual harassmentthreatened by the actions of women. Therefore, we should encourage women to speak up and engage in activities that benefit them.

College Houses Seek Masters
Van Pelt, Stouffer Form Search Committees

By AMY LINCOLN

Van Pelt and Stouffer College Houses have formed committees to search for a new faculty master for each of the two residential living programs.

The application deadline is Friday, Oct. 26, and the search committee will evaluate the candidates in November, after which each committee will make its recommendations to the University. The highest was in 1976, when 14 faculty members were nominated - twice the number of the committee's current membership.

Modern Languages College House faculty chairman Frank Bowman is chairman of the Van Pelt search committee, which will seek to find a successor to Psychology Department professor Martin Seligman, the current faculty master. Members of the committee will consist of three faculty members and two college house students. Helm and Robert Linay, English Department chairman, and Bill House faculty master, will serve as ex-officio members of the committee. Helm said.

Two toward prospective candidates will serve as a faculty member of the Van Pelt faculty committee and the student representative, respectively.

It was a game that could have gone either way. Both teams came into yesterday's contest with 13 victories apiece. The Quakers were the team in control. Their defense was the difference.

The Quakers allowed the Temple visitors to score only one goal in the first half, the deciding goal of the game. The Temple attackers were not able to score in the second half, despite their many attempts.

The Quakers' defense, led by goalie Lorinda Wambold, was the key to their victory.
