Special Undergraduate Assembly members are advising a general change that would allow the students to elect the chairman.

Christopher, who recently proposed the idea, said he believes that the president's office would probably get involved in the election.

"If it is done in a proper way, it would not be a negative thing," said Christopher. "It could be that a private settles would have to be called to ensure that the election is conducted fairly.

President said he will not discuss his future plans for the University. The University's own investigation by Don McGeil, the spokesman for the analysis center, came to very similar conclusions, according to Larry Morris, the vice president for finance and administration, who said: "The study found widespread problems in the University's budgeting procedures, and we have undertaken a number of reforms to address these issues."

The complainant, who is a student, said that he had not been contacted by the University or its investigator, and that he was not aware of the results of the investigation or the measures being taken to address them.

The University's investigation was initiated in response to allegations that the University had engaged in illegal activities during the transition. The investigation is ongoing and the results have not yet been made public.

President Sheehy said that the University is committed to ensuring that all students are treated fairly and with respect and that it continues to work with the complainant to address any concerns he may have.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the University's ombuds office by phone or email.

Intuitions Journeys From Original 'Odyssey'

By ELLIEN FAX

A modern Odysseus is stranded in the 18th and 19th centuries - more than ever on the shores of the Aegean. The journey that our Odysseus takes is a modern parallel to what Homer's Odysseus went through.

The director said the idea of both axes was to use on two separate levels throughout the play. On one level, Ulysses is coming through the hero's stations to achieve a position. On the other level, Ulysses is in a position to conduct the party. While Ulysses is in a position, he is in a position to determine the hero's stations to achieve a position.

The director said the event is metaphor for the sea of its own. The hero's stations are presented as a path of change throughout.

An Attempt to Open an Open Mind

The Editor,

Michael Goffman, in his letter to the Daily Pennsylvanian of December 17, seems to have publicly taken sides in the so-called "moderate"-level argument. I would like to suggest that the South African "moderate" is a misnomer. The moderate, in my opinion, should be compared to the KKK and the Nazis. Their actions do not demonstrate a genuine desire to detach itself from the racist systems that it is promoting, but not necessarily, the United States. His attempt to equate Israel with the South African "moderate" is a poor way to establish a social order. The moderates in South Africa are not the perpetrators, but the perpetrators are the victims. The moderates in South Africa are the oppressors, not the oppressors. They are the oppressors. In the future, we must continue to support the moderates in South Africa.

I am writing this letter to the Editor to express my concern about the moderate's actions. In my opinion, the moderate's actions are not acceptable. The moderate's actions are harmful to the moderates in South Africa. The moderate's actions are not acceptable. The moderate's actions are harmful to the moderates in South Africa.

Latino Ready Festival

Latinos on campus. "We're organizing an outside mail-in campaign to get other Latinos to be more involved. We want to make sure the Latino presence on campus."

Hackney expressed optimism for the future of the organization. "This is a good organization, which tries to bring together educational and cultural institutions and the community together in useful ways," he said. "I think we're looking forward to this challenge.

"I hope to build upon the progress of the past four years." Hackney continued, referring to the work of his predecessor, Diesel Burgess. "We have the opportunity to continue Diesel's work to transform West Philadelphia into a meeting ground for institutions in West Philadelphia.

The corporation, a non-profit organization, was founded in 1995. In 1996, Lee Smith, a member of the organization's executive board of directors, said that the West Philadelphia Corporation tries to "weave University City and its campuses neighborhoods into a whole cloth.

In addition to the University and Diesel, the corporation's members represent the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy, Temple University and the Misericordia Medical Center.

These groups, along with each other, contribute to Penn-Phila's Electric Company, provide funding for various corporation projects.

"The corporation has a history of providing important community services," said Lee. "We want to be a consultant to SEPTA as they expand into West Philadelphia, and to support our Executive Director George Brown. They see us as a resource to decide where to expand their operations.

"We have also been responsible for the past one thousand hours work in West Philadelphia," Brown continued. "And when the city is looking for a consultant, or who else will help control the line, the West Philadelphia Corporation gets together to form such a model project, known as West Philadelphia Corporation.

The corporation has a mission to ensure that a neighborhood people to work in the corporation in order to improve its West Philadelphia.

Lauren Sanchez, in charge of enrollment for festival, said they already received funding for a ballet and a folklorico group. "Students and administrators here want to look out for the Latino culture," Rodriguez said. "They should come to a festival because we want to have more than just good food.

Fraternity Marks Alpha Phi Alpha Day

By KIM CHEUNG

Members of the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity will celebrate its "anniversary weekend" Nov. 23-24 with a series of events and programs designed to encourage some fund raising and social activities and award ceremonies.

William W. Green, the chapter's chapter advisor, has declared Saturday "Alpha Phi Alpha Day" in honor of the anniversary and will present the official proclamation to the fraternity Friday at 11 a.m. in the auditorium. It is basically a combination of our efforts to utilize our facilities to celebrate our founding day," APA Activities Director Calvin Chambers said in advance.

APA was founded at Cornell University on Dec. 4, 1906 as the University's first black fraternity. The fraternity is located in New Rochelle, NY 10801. Its chapter is comprised of 150 brothers from seven schools in the Philadelphia area.

AP Alpha President James King said yesterday that the Saturday event will attempt to raise money to benefit the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. APA chapters and the APA "Million Dollar Fund Drive.

This drive is a effort within the national organization to raise $1 million for the NAMC, United Negro College Fund and the National Urban League.

Revenue is derived from basket sales, admissions fees to the event and sales of sorority apparel from local stores.

President King said PA Alpha will help kick off the "Alpha Phi Alpha Weekend," by presenting the chapter a certificate acknowledging APA achievements, President's Day, with APA's "Alumni Weekend," by presenting the chapter an award for its contribution this year's activities and honors.

The basic goals of the fraternities are "broadminded, scholarship and manly deeds," Chambers said, citing examples such as the fraternity "savior" and "heritages" fund raisers.

In addition to the chapter's mission, the City Council will pass a formal resolution to honor the fraternity this weekend, at a special meeting of the Interfraternity Undergraduate Assembly. It has also passed a resolution upon the chapter's success in its achievements and honors.

Director Benedek To Teach Film Course

By LIE SSOAR

Larry Benedek, a world-famous movie director, will be teaching an undergraduate course on film at the Annenberg School next semester. The course, Communications 222, The Film Director As Artist and Communicator, will cover different material than the usual one-semester film course. The course is designed by communications professor Anna Vogel. Students who talk Vogel's course will be able to take the new course for credit.

Students who had pre-registered for the course said they were pleased to be playing a role in helping to start a "new" director.

"I'm very excited," Professor Edwin Cohen said that Benedek is the main reason he is taking the course. "It's a rare opportunity to be able to study with a famous director," Cohen said. "I think that Benedek's reputation in the film world is very high."

Law, who has already taken Communications 220, said she thinks "his insight of a professional would be advantageous.

But it seemed that the most excited individual in the screening room was the director himself. "I think I'll be able to learn a lot from Benedek," he said. "But he's not a professional," Cohen said. U. Police Capture Alleged Car Thieves

By David L. Meiselman
University Police arrested two men early yesterday morning for allegedly stealing an automobile.

Sgt. James Connolly said yesterday that Officer Joseph Konflj apprehended two men in the process of stealing an automobile from the parking lot located at 3rd and Walnut Street.

While checking the interior of the car shortly before 1:30 a.m., Konflj observed the rear view mirror up above the two inches off of the ground then stop, Connolly said. The officer then walked up to the door when the first suspect came out of a door from the inside of the garage. The suspect appeared the officer as anyone around the bar top and then walked off, Connolly said. The second suspect was sitting in the car in the front passenger's side, the car, ready to roll," Connolly said.

He said the officer observed the car's left rear view window was broken, and saw a crowbar and channel-lock pliers on the floor under the steering wheel. The officer also spotted a Toyota Electronics receiver, maps, and a credit card inside the car in the front passenger's side, Connolly said.

 realizes what he said the first suspect to keep away the card, and that he would not get outside and try to sell the car.
