Faculty report justifies growth in U. spending

B. MARK CARBO
A marked increase in spending by the central administration over the past three years is justified, according to a Faculty Senate committee that has been investigating the University's spending habits.

The committee's report, which was released last week, provides a detailed analysis of the University's spending practices and includes recommendations for improving financial oversight.

The report states that the University has increased spending by more than $1 billion over the past three years, with the central administration accounting for a significant portion of the increase.

The committee finds that the University's spending practices are not transparent and that there is a lack of accountability for how funds are being used.

The report also notes that the University's spending has led to a decline in the quality of education and research, as well as a reduction in student services.

The committee recommends that the University implement a system of budgetary oversight and transparency to ensure that funds are being used effectively and efficiently.

The report's findings are being reviewed by University officials, who will make decisions on how to move forward.

Grading students blast Hackney, demand change in Army policy

D. BILLY GOODHAND
A recent grading policy implemented by the history department has sparked outrage among students, who are demanding changes to the system.

The grading policy, which was introduced last semester, has been described as不公平 and discriminatory.

The department has been accused of using racial and gender biases in its grading practices, leading to widespread dissatisfaction among students.

The grading policy has also been criticized for being too lenient, with many students saying that they are not being held to the same standard as their peers.

The department has defended its grading policy, saying that it is designed to encourage a more diverse and inclusive curriculum.

The department has also said that it is committed to improving the system and will be working with students to develop a new grading policy.
Applications now being taken for:

University of Pennsylvania Office of Communications News Bureau Internship Program for the Academic Year 1983-84

This competitive internship has been awarded annually for the past five years to a graduating senior demonstrating a high degree of talent and proficiency leading to a career in the media. The successful applicant will be invited to spend one academic year working as a communications intern for the Communications Department.

Term of the Award: One year beginning June 1, 1983, with a potential for a two-year term.

Application: Submit the following to Ed McFarland, Director, News Bureau

4015 Walnut Street
Philadelphia, PA 19104

1. A letter of application and why the Communications Internship will assist in meeting those goals.
2. A professional resume listing educational and work experience.
3. Samples of writing.
4. References of persons who can attest to your academic and/or professional motivation and achievements.

Deadline: Application must be submitted by May 1, 1983.

For additional information, contact

Ed McFarland
Director, News Bureau
4015 Logan Hall

(215) 898-8888

Faculty panel justifies U. spending

(Continued from page 1)

"The ability to obtain such data was a primary budget priority under the administration's "critical thinking" approach," she said. "It's important that we know exactly what's going on at UPenn for us to be able to make the right decisions in the future." The attention paid to the issue was further illustrated by the 54-year-old's repeated emphasis on the need for greater transparency in the administration's decision-making process.

"If we had a more open and transparent process, we could have avoided some of the problems that have arisen," she said. "But the administration has been very secretive about this issue." The professor went on to say that the university should have been more transparent in its dealings with the public.

"There have been a number of occasions where the administration has not been forthcoming with the public," she said. "It's important that we have a clear understanding of the university's intentions and activities in order to make informed decisions about our future." The professor concluded by saying that the university must be held accountable for its actions.

Harassment charges

(Continued from page 1)

The professor said that she had been the target of harassment from a number of different sources. She said that she had received threatening messages on her cell phone and had been followed by a group of people on campus.

"I have had to take some extraordinary steps to protect myself," she said. "But the administration has not done enough to address these issues." The professor went on to say that she had been denied access to the university's counseling services.

"I have been denied access to the counseling services," she said. "And I have been denied access to the university's legal services as well." The professor concluded by saying that she would continue to fight for her rights and that she would not give up until she was satisfied with the university's response.

UA voting

(Continued from page 1)

Associate Director Frank Walker will be on hand to help guide the voting process. He said that he was happy to help students in any way that he could.

"I am here to help," he said. "And I am happy to help." Walker went on to say that he was proud of the university's commitment to student rights.

"I believe in the power of student voices," he said. "And I am happy to help students in any way that I can." Walker concluded by saying that he was proud of the university's commitment to student rights.

How much longer?

Not that much.

Community groups press for better links with U.

By ROYDIE PAUL

On the map, nothing separates the University from West Philadelphia.

But community leaders say a lack of communication with University administrators has made the distance unbridgeable.

"It keeps coming back to that," said Sheldon Hackney, the West Philadelphia Community Association President Peter Dodson, a professor at the Veterinary School. "We've been told we can't be satisfied with our contact with the University." he cautioned that "the corporation always warned us of that kind of situation." Bui Dodson said the new partnership's structure might be better equipped to handle such problems.

The Friends of the Library of the University of Pennsylvania invite you to a lecture in Van Pelt Library today. PROSPECTS FOR THE FUTURE OF SHAKESPEAREAN CRITICISM. JCAN HOWARD.

PHILADELPHIA CONSTRUCTION The newsletter of the Friends of the Library of the University of Pennsylvania.

By the time it was developed by the Spruce Mill group is an example of the perfect lack of communication. "When I had my problems..."

In the map, nothing separates the University from West Philadelphia. But community leaders say a lack of communication with University administrators has made the distance unbridgeable.

"It keeps coming back to that," said Sheldon Hackney, the West Philadelphia Community Association President Peter Dodson, a professor at the Veterinary School. "We've been told we can't be satisfied with our contact with the University." he cautioned that "the corporation always warned us of that kind of situation." Bui Dodson said the new partnership's structure might be better equipped to handle such problems.

The Friends of the Library of the University of Pennsylvania invite you to a lecture in Van Pelt Library today. PROSPECTS FOR THE FUTURE OF SHAKESPEAREAN CRITICISM. JCAN HOWARD.

PHILADELPHIA CONSTRUCTION The newsletter of the Friends of the Library of the University of Pennsylvania.

By the time it was developed by the Spruce Mill group is an example of the perfect lack of communication. "When I had my problems..."
Letter to the Editor

Electoral Information from the NEC

The nominations and Elections Committee has just announced that the race for the NEC presidency has been decided. The computer was not able to handle the complexity of the nominations process, so the committee had to resort to a manual count. As a result, the winner is... well, let's just say it's a surprise. The committee has its work cut out for it, but they are determined to ensure that the nominations process is as fair and efficient as possible. We urge all members of the University community to join us there on [date] to discuss the nominations process with the committee.

Palestinian Rights Committee

The following is a message from Rabbi Kahanc, the President of the Palestinian Rights Committee.

As we approach the end of the academic year, the Committee for Palestinian Rights is conducting a survey of the University community. The Committee is seeking to understand the views of students and faculty on issues related to Palestinian rights and the Israeli occupation. The results of this survey will be used to guide our future actions and to inform the public.

BLOOM COUNTY/Berke Breathed

In today's strip, our leading characters kick off their programming project with some big plans. However, Mars is not impressed, and the group's excitement quickly fades. Meanwhile, the consultants, led by a trembling but determined Martian, do their best to save the day. Will they succeed, or will the project fall apart? Stay tuned for the next installment.

How to Enter the Computer Age with a Bang

By Michael Krantz

"Absolutely incredible. Science becomes more interesting every day." — Albert C. Clarke

At 11:27 p.m., six weeks before our final programming project was due, the system was down. A project deadline from the Moore School seemed imminent, and there was something wrong with our group. We were supposed to work 24 hours a day, and we were stuck in a realm of the unknown. I told my boss, "Let's get back to work."

"No, sir," I replied, filling in the blanks. "It's over, Michael. We're fired."

I turned away and watched the consultants read "Jeopardy." I'm not sure why, but I thought they were handling the situation well.

I could think of no words with which to comfort her, and I felt terrible. For a moment, I thought she would faint. "Don't worry," she said, "it's probably just temporary." But I knew better. I was sure it was the end of the world.

"You're not one of those temporary types, are you?" I asked.

"Well, as a matter of fact, I suppose I am," she said. "What do I have on, or anything worth watching, looks like a whole lot of nothing." At this point, I knew I was losing my mind.

"At least let me be here for you when you need someone."

"They're all gone." She turned around and looked at me with a strained, almost unrecognizable face. "What are you going to let me log in?" and "Come over to my place." I had been determined to save the day, and now I was about to lose it. But I knew I had to do something.

"I haven't had any idea what to do," she said, "but I know you can do it."

By Michael Krantz
Navy secretary to speak tonight
Lehman to discuss U.S. defense policies

By DAVID GODFREY

Secretary of the Navy John Lehman, one of the architects of the Reagan Administration's defense programs, will speak tonight at a meeting of the University's Student Senate to discuss elements of the Administration's new defense strategy.

Lehman is expected to detail the administration's defense philosophy and answer questions as to its effect on the University and its students.

He will speak at 8 p.m. in Room 102 of the Schapiro Student Union.

Lehman, a 1954 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, spent 26 years in the Navy before entering politics. After four years as an aide to Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger, he was appointed Secretary of the Navy by Presi-

The international political and military force that he is expected to discuss is the Reagan Administration's plan to provide a tough bid-ner, which the Defense Department says will be able to counter the superpowers.

Lehman is also expected to discuss the al-nual budget and its effect on the University.

The program is sponsored by the University's Student Senate and the Graduate Student Association.

---

Alumni Day: Women in the Law

By SUE HARRIS

Law School alumni and students who graduated the 1980-1981 academic year will be honored at the Law School's Alumni Day celebration next Friday.

The event will feature a panel discussion on women's role in the legal profession, followed by a reception and dinner.

The theme of the event is "Women in the Law." The program is sponsored by the Law School's Women's Center and the Law School's Alumni Association.

---

University Jobs: Summer

By MARY M. HELLICH

We hove excellent references
Our System Means Knowledge

Our System Means Knowledge

We have excellent references

The March Hare

Understanding training needs, setting goals and a plan for success.

Marni, winter's last minute

Our System Means Knowledge

Our System Means Knowledge

We have excellent references

The March Hare

Understanding training needs, setting goals and a plan for success.

Marni, winter's last minute

Our System Means Knowledge

Our System Means Knowledge

We have excellent references

The March Hare

Understanding training needs, setting goals and a plan for success.

Marni, winter's last minute

Our System Means Knowledge

Our System Means Knowledge

We have excellent references
Attention Advertisers!

Make Your End of Semester Daily Pennsylvania Advertising Plans Now

Last Weeks of Publication

The school year is nearly over! Classes, and publication of The Daily Pennsylvania, and Friday, April 29. Although students will be on campus for nearly a month until final exams end, there are only two weeks of regular publication left. Don’t let the early end of classes catch you by surprise. On in on the wagon wheels and plan your end-of-the-year advertising now!

Graduation/Alumni Weekend Issue

This special issue of The Daily Pennsylvania offers a goodwill for graduating Penn students and their families, a welcome back for returning alumni - and a great way for you to reach them all. The issue is distributed on campus Friday, May 20, and extra copies are placed at the Civic Center on graduation day, Monday, May 23. Advertising deadline is Tuesday, May 17.

Freshman/New Student Issue

This issue is your first chance to reach new students, and the only chance to reach them before they set to campus in the fall. The issue is a massive four-section, 60-plus page introduction to Pennsylvania, from essays of the past year to who’s who and where to go when they get here. Date July 1, is the issue mailed in June to all incoming freshmen and transfer students - and for the first time, to even incoming graduate law, medical, Wharton students as well. And you can reach them in an issue that’s read cover to cover. Advertising deadline is Tuesday, May 17.

History students blast Army policy

A. Nathan Shoemaker, managing editor

Jewish leader to lecture tonight

Speech to address anti-Semitism

Dr. Addis G. Grinblum, professor of Jewish studies, will speak at 8 p.m. tonight at the B’nai B’rith International House, 24th and Locust Streets, on the topic of anti-Semitism.

Dr. Grinblum, known as a leading authority on the subject, will speak on the history of anti-Semitism in the United States and the role of the government in combating it.

The lecture is sponsored by the Jewish Defense League, which is in a legal battle with the Foundation of Sacred Fury and to combat anti-Semitism. The American Institute for Engineering School Junior Andrew Smith, one of the few Jewish students who help organize the group, said he was disappointed at the decision to go ahead with the lecture.

The lecture will be held in the panel at the B’nai B’rith International House, which is in a legal battle with the Foundation of Sacred Fury and to combat anti-Semitism. The American Institute for Engineering School Junior Andrew Smith, one of the few Jewish students who help organize the group, said he was disappointed at the decision to go ahead with the lecture.

Attention Advertisers!

Graduation/Alumni Weekend Issue

This special issue of The Daily Pennsylvania offers a goodwill for graduating Penn students and their families, a welcome back for returning alumni - and a great way for you to reach them all. The issue is distributed on campus Friday, May 20, and extra copies are placed at the Civic Center on graduation day, Monday, May 23. Advertising deadline is Tuesday, May 17.

Freshman/New Student Issue

This issue is your first chance to reach new students, and the only chance to reach them before they set to campus in the fall. The issue is a massive four-section, 60-plus page introduction to Pennsylvania, from essays of the past year to who’s who and where to go when they get here. Date July 1, is the issue mailed in June to all incoming freshmen and transfer students - and for the first time, to even incoming graduate law, medical, Wharton students as well. And you can reach them in an issue that’s read cover to cover. Advertising deadline is Tuesday, May 17.
No Free Lunch

Students, profs increase interaction over a meal

BRAHIM D MAHDI

From trend toward a more casual atmosphere in student life comes a new phenomenon: students, even at the most elite institutions, now treat faculty to lunch. While a decade ago only a few hundred students had taken part in the "Faculty Lunch" event at Penn, this year's activities have expanded to include all the undergraduate classes, with faculty and students from every school involved in some way. The effect has been to improve the interaction between students and faculty.

"It's a small step for student-faculty relations, but a huge leap for the immediate future," said one student, who has attended the event for the past three years.

"I think it's a good idea," said another student, who has not attended the event.

The Student Senate Women's Group, which is one of the primary organizers of the event, has been pleased with the response of students to the initiative.

"We've had a lot of positive feedback from students," said the group's president. "They like the idea of being able to interact with faculty in a more relaxed setting."
BRAIN ROBOTS

Last year, the Penn state tennis team ended Columbia in what many consider to be the biggest upset of the season. Today’s tennis meet against the Lions, the Quakers have to come into the morning’s contest with a 16-3 record in the dual season against Columbia. It’s been a consistent year for the Penn state tennis team. They’ve had a great start this season, and they’re looking to keep it up. The Lions are coming off a loss to the Penn state tennis team in their last meeting.

If it continue from back page
Quakers split with Yale

Redshirt freshman pitcher Stephen A. Seidel struck out 10 and allowed no earned runs at home in the final game.

Quakers were led 3-0 by the Hooters.

The Daily Pennsylvania! * - Tuesday, April 19, 1983

Lions clay courts tricky for M. Tennis

BEN FRANKLIN RM.

WELCOME!
ALL 4:30 P.M.
WEDNESDAY, APRIL 20

RAW TEXT END
W. Crew holds on to win Orange Cup

There are days when a team wins because it has a better team. There are days when a team wins because it has a better heart.

For the Penn women's cross country team, Saturday's Challenge Trophy was proof of the latter.

In a performance that ended the meet with their best performances of the season, the Penn women's cross country team won the Challenge Trophy in Collingswood Saturday.

The team had established a lead that Penn couldn't lose.

The winning time for the varsity was 1:22:35. The neighboring University of Delaware finished in 1:27:40. The Owls weren't the only team to claim a victory. Saturday's victory made the Whirlwinds eligible for the NCAA championships. Eventually, three more Big East teams were held by the university, marking the Penn women's third consecutive victory.

The winning time for the varsity was 1:22:35. The neighboring University of Delaware finished in 1:27:40. The Owls weren't the only team to claim a victory. Saturday's victory made the Whirlwinds eligible for the NCAA championships. Eventually, three more Big East teams were held by the university, marking the Penn women's third consecutive victory.

The winning time for the varsity was 1:22:35. The neighboring University of Delaware finished in 1:27:40. The Owls weren't the only team to claim a victory. Saturday's victory made the Whirlwinds eligible for the NCAA championships. Eventually, three more Big East teams were held by the university, marking the Penn women's third consecutive victory.

The winning time for the varsity was 1:22:35. The neighboring University of Delaware finished in 1:27:40. The Owls weren't the only team to claim a victory. Saturday's victory made the Whirlwinds eligible for the NCAA championships. Eventually, three more Big East teams were held by the university, marking the Penn women's third consecutive victory.

The winning time for the varsity was 1:22:35. The neighboring University of Delaware finished in 1:27:40. The Owls weren't the only team to claim a victory. Saturday's victory made the Whirlwinds eligible for the NCAA championships. Eventually, three more Big East teams were held by the university, marking the Penn women's third consecutive victory.

Addressing the win — the second consecutive on the season for the team's top three runners — junior Michael Bower, was named the solo exhibitor for last week's three-out-of-five performance against Princeton and Penn State.

He also added two more.

The female exhibitor was Fram Tei, a sophomore on the sister team. She had one top-two finish.

ADAMS — Following the lead of Steve Tannor, the run was held in the Adams Basalpa Games on Friday.

The Penn team defeated Swarthmore's J.A. Mcranes team 7-0, 2-0, 7-0, 4-2, 6-3, 6-0.

KINNEY — The Lister 3rd and 6th went after the Penn's first college gym.

The Penn women's team was victorious 7-1.

Early fun four that had a 3-4 result. Also, the women's team was beaten by Swarthmore's team that had a 3-4 result.

Tomman — For three weeks, the Penn's team was victorious after the Penn's first college gym.

The women's team won 7-1.

Early fun four that had a 3-4 result. Also, the women's team was beaten by Swarthmore's team that had a 3-4 result.

Tomman — For three weeks, the Penn's team was victorious after the Penn's first college gym.

The women's team won 7-1.

Early fun four that had a 3-4 result. Also, the women's team was beaten by Swarthmore's team that had a 3-4 result.

Tomman — For three weeks, the Penn's team was victorious after the Penn's first college gym.

The women's team won 7-1.

Early fun four that had a 3-4 result. Also, the women's team was beaten by Swarthmore's team that had a 3-4 result.
Recruiting

Coaches wait for rewards for the year’s work

In the second game of the two-game split, the Quakers lost 6-4 to a visiting Temple. It was a rough loss for the Quakers, who had been on a roll, winning their last four games. The game was marked by a number of defensive mistakes, which led to several solid performances by Temple.

Lori Shaffer was impressive in the circle with a 2.06 ERA. Kate McKee, on the other hand, struggled against Temple, giving up seven runs and walking three. However, Temple’s offense was able to capitalize on its opportunities, scoring six runs on 10 hits.

The Quakers scored their only run of the game in the bottom of the seventh inning, when Shannon Moulton led off with a single and was sacrificed to second base. Then, Kaitlyn Rinaldi walked, which brought home the run.

Moving up

M. Lacrosse ranked eighth

Although the Quakers were ranked eighth in the nation, they entered the NCAA Tournament as the top seed in the Philadelphia field. The Quakers had a strong record, having won 12 of their last 14 games.

The Quakers were led by senior captain Sarah Tocci, who had a career-high 30 goals and 31 assists this season. She was named to the All-American team.

The Quakers played against Temple in the first round of the NCAA Tournament, and they won in overtime, 13-12. Tocci scored four goals and added three assists in the game.

Kutztown downs Softball in eight innings

In the top of the eighth inning, Kutztown scored the game-winning run, which was the result of a bases-loaded walk. The Kutztown pitcher struck out the batter to end the inning, securing the victory.

The game was a close one, with both teams scoring runs early on. However, Kutztown was able to capitalize on its opportunities, scoring four runs in the eighth inning.

The Kutztown pitcher, who gave up only one earned run in eight innings, was named the game’s Most Valuable Player. She struck out seven batters and walked one, allowing only five hits.

The Quakers were led by senior captain Sarah Tocci, who had a career-high 30 goals and 31 assists this season. She was named to the All-American team.

The Quakers played against Temple in the first round of the NCAA Tournament, and they won in overtime, 13-12. Tocci scored four goals and added three assists in the game.

The game was a close one, with both teams scoring runs early on. However, Kutztown was able to capitalize on its opportunities, scoring four runs in the eighth inning.

The Kutztown pitcher, who gave up only one earned run in eight innings, was named the game’s Most Valuable Player. She struck out seven batters and walked one, allowing only five hits.