Reagan agreed to let Marine commanders in Beirut use air strikes against any target that endangers U.S. personnel. Beirut is the scene of a bitter battle between pro-Western and pro-Arab groups for control of the city, a key part of the Middle East peace process.

The U.S.-led multinational force in Lebanon is acting as a buffer between warring factions. Reagan says his nation is committed to helping Lebanon rebuild itself after four years of civil war.

Lebanese and Syrian troops fought two days of fierce battles for control of the capital city. The fighting left several hundred people dead and more than 1,000 wounded.

Reagan's announcement came after he and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin met in New York to discuss the Middle East peace process. Both leaders said they want an end to hostilities.

Reagan has said he wants to see an end to the conflict in Lebanon, saying it would be a "tragedy" for the region.

Man convicted for 1982 rape attempt

BY MICHAEL NADRES

A West Philadelphia man was convicted of first-degree murder on Monday after a jury found him guilty of raping and murdering a 34-year-old woman in her home.

The defendant, 24-year-old Mark Thomas, will serve a total term of up to 15 years.

Thomas acknowledged to police that he had raped and murdered the victim, but denied taking part in her killing.

In the early morning hours of the day of the incident, a student who called after hearing a muffled scream was waiting to meet his maker that night, he added.

"My belief at the time was that he was going to use the gun to attempt to continue his escape, so I have no idea what caused me to wait before I gave him every chance to surrender," Heath said.

Heath, the only officer in civilian clothes at the time, said last night that he towered a pistol at him.

"A cold head and admirable professionalism caused Mark Thomas not to meet his maker that night," he added.

Heath, the student who called for help, heard a muffled scream. Several police officers and the student who called for help were on the scene to direct police probably saved her life. I sincerely believe that the girl would have been raped, and maybe much more," Lincberger said.

"We are only interested in building extremely bright, articulate, imaginative, efficient individuals who play to work in the future," said Lincberger, who prosecuted the case.

Tolerance, Respect, Understanding
The following is an excerpt from a statement released last week by Professors Harry Levinson and Robert Eshleman:

We write to express our concern about the recent episodes of harassment and violence on campus. While we have faith in the University's commitment to student safety and well-being, we also recognize that incidents of harassment and violence can undermine the community's sense of safety and belonging.

We call for a year in which respect and understanding that bind us together are at the forefront of our minds. We encourage all members of our community to be mindful of their words and actions, and to foster an environment that promotes mutual respect and empathy.

We stand in solidarity with those who have experienced harassment and violence, and we urge the University to continue to prioritize student safety and well-being.

Sincerely,
Harry Levinson and Robert Eshleman

Statement and Letters: Conduct and Misconduct

LEGES ET Mores

Choosing Penn's Morals

We must have both the useful and the ornamental.

"Can't help you, sir." "Why, isn't it the latest, distinguished-looking French airplane?" "The president of this university is quite proud of it. The president said, 'Some of the old ones got casualties, you know. Don't you worry about that. We'll get new ones.'"

"I'm afraid it's all a deal of movie tricks. But I really interested in finding out what some of this tea can do to develop a moral atmosphere for the whole state."

"Does that mean the University's policy of the General Conduct Policy of the University of Pennsylvania. Any student who is a member of the University is expected to abide by this policy."

"For instance, the clerk smiled. 'And, sir, there's never been a case of a student being expelled for making a statement like that."

"Surely, the gentleman drawled, 'I'm the president of a prestigious university."

Richard Buenneke

Bloom County/Berke Breathed

Setting aside the rest of the original, we come to the conclusion that the value of the original is in the human bonds of our community.

"The name in front of the window was 'New York Daily News.' " "The president of the university is quite proud of it. The president said, 'Some of the old ones got casualties, you know. Don't you worry about that. We'll get new ones.'"

"We must have both the useful and the ornamental."

Michael Smith

Ehlers

"We have never been told what is wrong with your policy."

"Of course, we're going to keep up our own."

"But I should warn you that his morality has never been questioned among us."

"What kind of a situation do you have here?"

"I'm afraid that's all we have, sir," the clerk said as he held them out for inspection. But the man looked at them and shook his head.

"The thing that I find so remarkable about this plane is that it can carry people away and smash something."

"From what I hear, it is a very good airplane."
Get out of the classroom and into the real world. Join the DP.

Your college education will begin in a classroom. You will sit, listen, and take notes. At test time, you will regurgitate the scads of information you've memorized. It's that simple.

To really learn, though, you've got to take what you've absorbed out of the classroom, put it to work, and make things happen.

That's what The Daily Pennsylvanian is all about.

We're the University's daily newspaper, one of the finest in the nation. And for 99 years this student-run organization has been a firm believer in the idea that the only way you really learn is through hands on experience.

From the written word to the printed page, we've got endless ways for you to get involved. And have a good time at it too.

WRITING: There is no journalism school at the University of Pennsylvania. No journalism department. And very few journalism courses. We can provide you with the journalism training you just can't find in a classroom.

Altogether, we give you six different departments to write for. Our beat reporters and general assignment writers on the news, features and city staffs cover the campus, the city and the nation.

Our sportswriters are there on the sidelines, following the action — wherever it is. Editorial columnists add their commentary on local and national issues. And with the DP's Thursday magazine, 34th Street, our writers provide complete information on Philadelphia arts and entertainment alongside the most thorough coverage of any Ivy League newspaper.

Unlike other college papers, we don't believe in special training programs for new writers. As a writer — for news, city, feature, sports, editorial or 34th Street — we'll show you all you need to know, right on the job.

SELLING: Our advertising department can teach you things about sales and marketing you'll never learn in a textbook. Our staff of sales representatives is constantly in meeting with hundreds of regular advertisers and new prospects. And their efforts are well-rewarded with commissions. If you have sales experience, come join us. And if you don't we'll be more than happy to show you what it takes to become a successful member of the sales team.

MANAGING: Our financial and credit offices can provide you with the opportunity to learn accounting and financial management. These two offices manage the DP's growing $550,000 budget. Introduce yourself to our computer and get hands-on computing experience. As an independent organization, the newspaper's student staff makes all its decisions without outside control.

DESIGNING: Our production department can provide an outlet for your creative skills and imagination. Staff members are responsible for the layout and design of all the ads in each issue of the paper. And if you don't know the difference between a pica and a point, don't fret. We'll teach you all you need to know. On the job. We're also looking for qualified artists who can provide material for our advertisements and for our editorial pages.

Try one, try all. None requires prior experience. You can work as much or as little as you want — from a few hours when you have the time up to 40 hours a week or more. And our computerized newsroom and business office make the training you'll receive here a valuable commodity.

Your college education will begin in a classroom. Don't let it end there. Get out and into the real world. Join The Daily Pennsylvanian.

Here's What You Do

Come to our Introductory Meeting. It will be held at 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, September 15, in the DP offices. We are located at 4015 Walnut Street, on the second floor. Everyone is welcome — freshmen and upperclassmen.

If you can't make it to the meeting, call Nina Liu at 898-6585.

The Daily Pennsylvanian

The Newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania since 1885
Announcing the formation of a legendary magazine.

In fall, one can generally depend on several crucial events. Leaves will descend. Canadian geese will wing southward. The Baltimore Orioles will be locked in a fierce struggle for the pennant. And beautiful people will flock to the University of Pennsylvania, where they gallantly search for a suitable outlet to express their creative urges.

In fall, 34th Street Magazine also appears. The weekly magazine of The Daily Pennsylvanian, 34th Street is checkful of the creative insanity one requires to reach Nirvana. Like full-length features on the best and worst of Philadelphia. Reviews of music and art, film, dance, Fiction, Humor. And the finest photography east of the Delaware.

If you believe in the curative powers of the fall, 34th Street might be your ticket to the border of your imagination. Simply bring a sample of your writing or photography to the 34th Street offices, 4015 Walnut Street. And perhaps you can help in the formation of a legendary magazine.

34th Street and the beautiful people. Like the fall you can always depend on it.
Betty Wendt, a former assistant dean at Cornell University, has been named an assistant dean in the administrative endowment and improvement of the quality of liberal arts at the University. She is part of the University's $250 million capital campaign. Wendt also started a program to raise $12 million annually from private corporations.

The new assistant dean said funds must be allocated toward increasing financial aid and scholarship funding. "Scholarships and financial aid are our priorities," she said. "We need to attract strong graduate students and we know that unless we offer attractive financial packages, we won't get them." Wendt also said she hopes to give a higher profile to the Society of the College, the FAS alumni organization.

"Money — you can't survive without it and you can't assume it will come in without an aggressive effort," Conarroe added. Wendt is a Philadelphia native who attended the Philadelphia High School for Girls before going on to Cornell College, the FAS alumni organization. Wendt said she feels her post is a full-time job and "you have to be a good manager." She also said she hopes to give a higher profile to the Society of the College, the FAS alumni organization.

"We suffered from an injury that kept us from starting one of our key contributors," Griffith said. "Our number one pitcher had to leave the game in the first inning after pulling a muscle in his shoulder."

All but one of last year's starting pitchers will be returning, Griffith said. "We're really counting on our number two, Steve Meier. He had a great season last year and we hope he can carry the load for us this year."

its fans to see a fine soccer match. The team will face a strong side from New York City.

With the exception of Temple, the Ivy League is shapeless and without any real talent. The only team that can be counted on is Harvard, and even Harvard is questionable.

Drexel is the team that has the best chance of surprising everyone.

"One team that will surprise everyone is Temple," said Coach Denny. "They have a lot of potential and if they can improve their defense, they could be a real threat."
