GOODE PLANS CALL FOR POLICE REFORMS

By ROBERT PANSAU
in response to widespread anger

In one of his first acts as mayor, Richard N. Goode, who resigned last month as Wharton professor, pledged to turn the corrupt pattern and send a message that police corruption is unacceptable. "We should never be satisfied with any form of corruption," he said. "We have to make sure that any form of police corruption is ended." The mayor's proposal would also include creating a new internal investigatory body to look into allegations of police misconduct.

The Philadelphia Police Department has been criticized for its handling of the case of Thomas E. Brown, a black man who was shot and killed by police last year.

The woman who reported the incident, a 26-year-old black woman, said that police officers had repeatedly beaten her and her children. The police department has denied the allegations and said that the woman had provoked the officers.

Amphitheater chosen as city's Vietnam memorial

By PAM SCHWARTZ

The Philadelphia Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, which was established last year, has chosen a location for its memorial. The site, a 5-acre plot on the Benjamin Franklin Parkway, will feature an amphitheater and a wall with the names of those who served in the Vietnam War.

The competition, which ended November 20, was open to anyone and resulted in a 5-rule victory in Li tury Hall. The winner was chosen last month, and the design will be unveiled on November 22 to coincide with the war's 50th anniversary.

The design was created by architects Vincent Scudiero and Michael Fink, who were awarded $10,000 for their work. The Philadelphia Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund Memorial Committee, which was formed last year, selected the design after reviewing 50 entries.

Leaders far apart on Star Wars

WASHINGTON — General Dynamics Corp. lost its fifth straight new business contract yesterday, one day after the firm and four former executives, including Navy Administrator James Bogen, were indicted on fraud charges.

The contract was awarded by the Defense Department as a result of the new business committee's third-largest defense contract decision this year. The hunt for new business does not apply only to Pentagon arms, but to any other government contractor.

Congress executions represented an immediate concern on the decision, which was announced by the Navy in its role as military advocate for the Pentagon in all matters involving General Dynamics.

The suspension will prevent the nation's third-largest defense contractor from winning a contract for at least 30 days. The company will now have the right to appeal the contract award to the Court of Federal Claims, and the suspension is expected to last until 1985.

The number of new contracts for companies increased to 18 in the second six-month period of the fiscal year, according to a Pentagon official.

The two-day period ended yesterday with the Defense Department announcing a new contract for General Dynamics, which makes the company the largest defense contractor in the country.

Thousands protest in Bhopal

Bhopal, India — A general strike paralyzed this central Indian city yesterday and thousands of agitated protesters filled the streets on the second day of demonstrations marking the first anniversary of the Union Carbide pesticide plant in Bhopal. demanding that the plant be permanently closed before another disaster occurs.

Police said they planned to fire tear gas and rubber bullets if the crowd did not disperse.

Shaw's firing caused a total of 4,700 spectators, including 1,700 in the stands, to be evacuated and 1,000 others in the stands. The crowd was scattered in the stands, and some of the women started to cry.

Parents of the crew said they were prepared for the 25th annual shuttle flight.

The seven-member crew's 2.8 million-mile journey was expected to end in 25 days, and more than a week of stormy weather over the Southwest contributed to 29 deaths.

Divestment discussed at forum

(Continued from page 1)"Bo Bob Elizabeth, a member of the Penn Anti-Apartheid Coalition, said that such a reluctance only adds to the belief that there is no real commitment on the divestment issue. "It seems that the optics of the divest- ment position is a rational for sanctions," she said. "It’s clear that sanctions can tend support to the mount贵阳 of pressure for sanctions."

In addition, Wilson said that by divorcing sanctions with companies that have refused to divest, it would lead to support to the substantial majority of Black South Africans whom support divestment. "There seems to be a common belief that South Africa and its groups and individuals in the United States support sanctions," she said.

Palladia Mishler, another member of the PENNSYLVANIA AREA BLACK STUDENTS ALLIANCE, who is a student at the University of Pennsylvania, said the coalition in Pittsburgh that Neff would be reluctant to advise the University if it divests. "I don’t think that the proposed action for divestment is unnecessary," he said. "It’s necessary and the proposals for divestment is unnecessary," he said. "It’s necessary and I don’t think that the proposals for two separate actions are necessary," he said.

In the debate, the authors of the two separate plans agreed with the proposal for divestment of a way to manage the University’s portfolio, said.

But graduate student James Quigly said that the University should pursue a course of divestment, even though it might have to be done in two separate actions. "It’s necessary and the proposals for two separate actions are necessary," he said.

He added that “divestment by Penn would send a clear message to Westinghouse and Penney that we will not accept any form of divestment. Only called for the enforcement of the University’s policy — a clear message, which means "when there are morals are central."

the group was originally formed in the early 1970s, is reemerging in response to recent events on campus.

"It's a result of last year's protest and the subsequent involvement by faculty and staff, we decided to reorganize," she said. "We're seeking to connect all of the black organizations on campus as well as philosophy for the group.

"We hope to work with a formal agenda related to the black presence on campus," she said.

From such a height as a precedent, and some more appropriate, she said: "The prospect of being put in jail is the most appropriate. Extra security has been provided for the present. Campus community members should continue to exercise caution with respect to their own safety and the safety of fellow students, faculty and staff."

One of our campus community members who always been the highest priority, comes on campus against individuals during 1985 is about 30 percent compared to last year, and until this tragic event, these had been no major crimes in Central Pennsylvania.

We wish to express to the many concerns of our campus community. Staff members of Residence Service, Student Affairs Office, and other University departments are available to respond to questions and requests for advice and assistance from the members of the Graduate Tower and the rest of the community.

"There is a lot of security in the

"When I first came to Penn there was a hint of security, but the only thing that happened was that the locked door keys were given to the desk.
Even with the locked door policy when you open the door someone can get in after you."

"I think it's a safe dormitory," Chu resident of Graduate Towers B, I would be a good deterrent to people who wished to remain unidentified,"

M. Track is optimistic going into indoor season

"I think we have a good nucleus of sprinters that should be able to help the team," he said. "In general, the team has a lot better attitude than in previous years. My job is to make sure that attitude continues, so long as it is a job, people don't perform as well."

"We should do well," said sophomore high jumper Todd Ream, who cleared 6 ft. one inch. "As far as potential gang, it's definitely there for us to put together a really good season." But what does all this optimism mean to Mondschien?

"I think we can be a very good team," he said. "I finished third at the Maccabiah games in Israel over the summer, but more importantly, I was able to get second in the heptathlon o"r event consisting of the long jump, high jump, shot put, 15-meter hurdles and 100-meter return. In 1984, the indoor IC4As has fueled Subadhegy's hopes for a successful season, both for himself and for the team.

"I'm in very good shape right now, and am looking forward to a good season," Subadhegy said. "As for the team, I think we can do very well. We have a real good depth in the sprints and middle distances, and we can run the pentathalon during the indoor season. Subadhegy made a point of that.

S/abadhegy told The Daily Pennsylvanian of his potential goes, it's definitely there for the middle distance runner was sophomore O.J. Kastberg, who set the school record in the 1500 meters last year for the team, and feels that the sprinting corps. Two senior members of that senior class is co-captain Kris Subadhegy, who competes in the pentathalon.

When the Quakers go on to a zone defense, Temple plans a perimeter game. Wong Coe and Evans will try to find the ball to Perry on the baseline, or to swing the ball around to the weak side looking for the open jump shot.

And when the Owl's get a shot, Schneider doesn't want to see them getting any more chances at the hoop. "We really have to go to the boards at both ends and another Big Five streak can end and another Big Five streak can begin.

If the Quakers can control the defensive glass and Temple's guards, the Owls can count on another bad loss and another Big Five streak can begin.

PROBLEMS - They abound in Hanover, New Hampshire. It seems that the Dartmouth head football coach Joe Yake's take on the gridiron to the 1984-85 season. Of course, he's not the only one. His assistant, Paul McCluskey will lead the Quakers in the East. She finished in the 1000-meter

"Everybody's excited about swimming," Loftus said. "We're having one of the best seasons ever."

She said that the Quakers had been preparing for the start of the season since early September.

"Everyone is in good shape," assistant coach Chris Smith said. "Overall, I see everyone running even and really enthusiastic about the season."

"We have a strong, seasoned team," Coastman said. "I know we can compete and I know we're going to do what we need to do."
W. Squash sweeps past Swarthmore
Penn wins opener over Garnet, 9-0

By MAUREEN DELANY

The women's squash team opened to winter season with an easy 9-0 victory over Swarthmore College. The victory, coming on the heels of a tough loss to the Franklin and Marshall College men, proved that despite a key injury to a key player, the Quakers are ready for the winter season.

The Quakers fared almost as well, often routing the Guang Hua Club, 21-2, 21-2, 21-3 on the strength of their women's side. They were unable to take advantage of them. Stambaugh

M. Track

By JON WILNER

With a record of youth and excitement, the M. Track team hopes to return to the championship form that it displayed two seasons ago in winning the Indoor Heptagonals. The Quakers open their season this Saturday, Dec. 14, at the Franklin and Marshall College University Center.

The Quakers are confident as good as the team that won the Heptagonals last season, according to coach Les Gumen. "We have many of the same people back. There were some gradations and defections that hurt us, but the core of the team is back. We have some talent on the team this year." The Quakers are the favorites to win the indoor championship.

One of the most important people returning for the Quakers is senior captain Randy Cox. He was a key member of the winning team last season and anchored the mile relay team. Cox is a two-time all-conference selection and handles the 880 meters.

"I'm looking forward to winning the conference again," Cox said. "I'm stronger and in better shape than I was last year. It's a big advantage for me to be stronger and faster." (Continued on page 15)

Quakers hope to break Big Five wireless streak

By ED GEFEN

After two successful non-league contests, the Penn men's basketball team is geared up to face Big Five enemy Temple College Owls up at a doubleheader Friday night at the Palestra. Penn faces La Salle in the second game, and is favored to win both games on the strength of four starters. Penn's senior captain Chris Borrillo, who scored four points in the last Quaker game, will be out for the rest of December with a shoulder injury. However, the team has never experienced a Big Five win, so the Quakers will have a chance to get off to a strong start. "I'm ready to play against the Owls," said Borrillo. "I know we can win this one."

But when Penn faces it in the second half, she made her presence known by scoring seven quick points and drawing two foul lines. Villanova meanwhile increased its lead to 20-12. in one key stretch. The Quakers were

Villanova escapes in Big Five squeaker, 57-51

A late Penn rally was halted by a controversial call and the Villanova women's basketball team escaped with a 57-51 victory over the Quakers on Saturday afternoon.

"It's a tough one to take," said senior co-captain Randy Cox. He Senses point out that there are some more immediate reasons for optimism than the atmosphere. "One big advantage is racing at home that is used to the weather, which is unpredictable in the winter. We'll be able to win the big meets, the national meets, and the conference meet this year." (Continued on page 16)

Columbia to be next test for W. Swim

By BON WILNER

With the Penn women's swimming team sitting off against Columbia tomorrow, the Quakers hope to reaffirm their position in the conference. The Quakers are currently No. 8 in the East. After breaking season with two home meets, the Quakers will have a chance to get at home. The Quakers have not been able to take advantage of them. Stambaugh stated. "We simply

The Quakers should be able to rely on the experience that they gained from last season. "We've improved over the past year," Cox said. "It's a chance to show everyone that we can run." (Continued on page 15)
