Most of Selim Dincer's students thought of him as an exceptional teacher. One student thought of him as a threat to her life. His unexpected death left unresolved the mystery of his personality.

"We will file this to be an energetic campus, a community that offers inspirational opportunities for you to participate," he said. "As Penn is particular, life is not a spectator sport.

A formal proceeding at 9:30 a.m. featuring faculty, administrators and campus neighbors preceded Hackney's speech. During the academic year, the math TA took his life at his residence. It is a red Ferrari. It is a red Ferrari. It is a red Ferrari.

"You will find that we do not do things by the book, but by the spirit," he added. "I want Penn to make more academic opportunities and facilities available to students."

Calling the film "one of the summer's better releases," Hackney explained the film's direction between Ferris and the 1983 smash hit "Back to the Future." The major difference between the two movies is that in "Back to the Future," Ferris (Michael J. Fox) travels 30 years back in time, and the president said, "The message of the two movies is the same. Don't buy a gun. There is more to life than fulfilling one's work. It's a day of responsibility, whether it's running a living or a playing good grades.

Iran begins detaining Soviet freighters in military cargo charge

The American reporter held in smuggling charges

Soviet freighters have been detained in Iran since May 4, 1980, after the authorities there accused them of carrying weapons.

The Soviet government has denied the charges and said that the freighters were carrying medical supplies.

The United States has expressed concern about the detention of the Soviet ships and has called for their release.

Soviet officials have not responded to these demands.

In related news, the United States has also announced plans to impose sanctions on Iran for its support of terrorism.

WASHINGTON — Iran detaining Soviet freighters in military cargo charge

The United States has imposed sanctions on Iran for its support of terrorism.

The move comes after the Iranian government was accused of detaining two Soviet ships carrying weapons.

The United States has called for the release of the Soviet ships and has imposed economic sanctions on Iran.

Soviet officials have denied the charges and have said that the ships were carrying medical supplies.

Stabbing probe continues

U. police search for assailant in July assault

By LESLIE KERR

Police sources confirmed continuing their investigation into the July 27 stabbing attack on a College Hall Green. College detectives, Sunday Lee of Orange, Conn., was stabbed in the abdomen at approximately 1:30 p.m. Lee was able to contact University police from an emergency pay phone near the 1400 block of Locust Walk. He was released from the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania on Sunday, August 3 and is recovering. Lee reported his attack.

Lee, who was spending summer courses at the University, was walking out College Hall Green alone when the incident occurred. The assailant stabbed Lee of Orange, Conn., who is studying political science, in an attempt to rob him.

"We could not describe the person that stabbed him, so even if we found an acquaintance, it would be almost worthless because he wouldn't be able to recognize him," the sergeant said. "The suspect was running away with a knife and a bag — he ran down — and that was all we saw of him.

In addition, Lee's mother was sitting in the lobby of their building watching him leave and could not tell the police which direction the suspect had been placed.

Detective Jerry Davis, who is conducting the investigation for the University, said they would be working very difficult to determine exactly where the incident occurred.

Penntrex links over 4000 students

The system, "Destination," links nearly 1000 individual groups with one using distance service by dialing 20 following a three-digit Campus Identification number which will assign them to the terminal on the call. This feature is known as Computer-Derived Address Resolution. The administration, according to Ms. Thompson, is a computerized and buzzer system, calling Bell of Pennsylvania for the installation and use of the lines will be handled by the Penntrex office, rather than by Bell of Pennsylvania.

Professors:
Create The Perfect Textbook
at Kinko's

It's not too late to compile your ideal course materials for next term. Or even in the middle of the term. With the help of Kinko's, you can let your students benefit from information gathered from a number of sources:

Out of Print Books: Kinko's can contact publishers at your favorite cost of your text and, with permission, re-publish the book for your students.

Scholarly Articles: To incorporate journal articles into your curriculum, Kinko's can assist you by obtaining the reprints, and packaging them into in-text or each section, or by obtaining permission and copying a section of the article and handling any necessary royalty fees.

Your Book: Why bother to rewrite the text for your class when you can publish your original work and have it available on demand at 70 locations nationwide.

Innovative Problem Solving from Kinko's:
Reserve Room Readings for your Students: Tired of students complaining about limited or out of date reference books in the library reserve room? Give them the option of obtaining an individual copy from Kinko's.

Late Tests: When the bookstore doesn't have your text in stock yet, and your students are supposed to be reading the first chapter, call Kinko's - we will contact the publisher and, with permission, make copies of the first few chapters so your students can stay on schedule.

A New Year

The Class of 1990 has heard President Hackney analyze Ferris Bueller's Day Off, officially ringing in the new year. But the University is more than a just a series of newspapers. A school this size can be intimidating, but you will have use of unlimited resources to learn and make the best of yourself. You will, in fact, be surrounded by some of the greatest scholars in the nation and have access to an amazing wealth of knowledge. Dare to challenge yourself both in the classroom and beyond and remember that in the end, your education is nothing more than what you make of it.

The stage is set for another semester of ideas, creativity and education at the University. Take a deep breath and welcome to Penn. Good luck.
The Side of Silence

The following are excerpts from Professor Starling's introductory address in the Class of 1940.

Starting today and for the next four years you will be part of the tradition of the University of Pennsylvania. We began with Benjamin Franklin, and we will celebrate his 250th anniversary during your senior year. The tradition of the University of Pennsylvania is to take at best advantage of Pennsylvania's remarkable resources.

Your undergraduate years here are an arena for exploration — of the self. You are embarking on a voyage of discovery in the realm of a lifetime. The ability to engage in such a voyage depends on the diversity of opportunity at Penn. I urge that you reach out to all of these perspectives.

The required reading recognizes the kind of education that is sought today: a truly basilisk, intellectually challenging, questions your every premise, requires critical thinking, and, at the same time, is relevant and rewarding to you in the context of your life. It is one of the Pennsylvania Principles. It is a wonderful lecture at Penn several years ago, as the late Dean of the University, George N. Smith, rejected the idea of a one-course, one-semester course of study for the student of the University of Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Principles are based on the idea that education should be an exploration of the diversity of opportunity at Penn. They are designed to be a means of teaching the diversity of the University. They are a way of teaching the diversity of the world. They are a way of teaching the diversity of the individual.

While the Pennsylvania Principles are a means of teaching the diversity of the University, they are not an end in themselves. They are a means of teaching the diversity of the world. They are a means of teaching the diversity of the individual.

Friends defend Dincer after suicide

"I'm fighting for everything I've got. I was the only one fighting for everything I've got," said Dincer.

Dolfinan resumes teaching

"I'm fighting for everything I've got. I was the only one fighting for everything I've got," said Dincer.

How five minutes can change the way you move through college.

Think of what you can do in five minutes. Read three pages for English. Write the folks for a few extra bucks. Maybe even get a burger at the student union. Or you could dramatically change the course of History, Economics, Biology. Or whatever else you may be studying. Just take part in a demonstration of the Macintosh personal computer from Apple.

You'll see how Macintosh can help you work better, faster and smarter. You'll also qualify to win a Trek 12-speed touring bike.

And the knowledge that studying so hard has never been so easy. Macintosh and Trek. Both will do more than help you get ahead. Both will take you anywhere you want to go.

Enter the contest between September 2, and October 15 at THE COMPUTER CONNECTION (located in The Book Store-3729 Locust Walk) for pre-med students.

For conversation list today.

The Dolinman case, which observers called one of the most controversial racial disputes the University has faced, began when several black students filed a complaint charging that Dolinman had harassed and intimidated them in several incidents.

Bill members occupied Dolinman's office on February 1, 1985, in an act of several demonstrations against the treatment of Dolinman.

The university wrote to the judge and asked to have Dolinman "incarcerated" in an all-day rally on President Sheldon Hackney's front lawn.

"I think that he was severely disturbed," she said. "Unfortunately he was very disturbed to the point that he had to take his own life. The fact that he had to take his own life, I think that he was very disturbed."
MOTIVES FOR SUICIDE DEBATED

The suicide left the victim in a difficult position. "It placed a very awkward kind of closure to the situation," she said. "It was a very quick and surprising way to get him out of his life and who now is in a worse situation than the time the first attempt was made." Dincer states in his book, "A very quick and surprising way to get him out of his life and who now is in a worse situation than the time the first attempt was made." A summer of transition for Athletic Dept.

By THOMAS HILL

The affair of the Penn-College Athletics Association's new Proposition 48 has been widely criticized in the Ivy League because it minimizes academic requirements for student-athletes. The proposal has been hotly debated on the campuses of several schools, but complying with the NCAA's mandate that athletic departments keep detailed records of their student-athletes' academic progress would present a challenge to Ivy athletic programs.

That is just one of many reasons behind a recent reorganization of the Athletic Department aimed at increasing the efficiency of the department.

The changes include the August hiring of associate athletic director Denis Cochrane-Fikes, the shift of Skip Jarzycki from assistant athletic director to associate athletic director and the promotion of former associate athletic directors and associate athletic directors to the positions of associate athletic director.
