Student Health says case poses no risk to others

By SARAH FREEMAN

Epidemiologists who love contact sports with each other and across campus.

A College freshman last week convinced meningitis, usually a highly contagious disease, but according to Student Health officials there is no risk to others.

The student, Carolyn Blank, was made ill on campus last week at the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, where she is a nursing major. The hospital has confirmed her as the first case of meningitis on campus in recent years, but the Student Health officials said that she is not contagious and that others have been cleared.

According to the Student Health officials, the meningitis case is isolated and there is no risk to others on campus. The university has been working with the Health Department to ensure that all necessary precautions are being taken.
Reagan to discuss arms control proposals with party leaders

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, ending a 10-day California vacation, returned to Washington yesterday to consult congressional leaders about what he believes is being done to prevent arms proliferation among Eastern bloc nations with the Soviet Union.

Reagan talked with Democratic and Republican leaders in the House, Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas and Minority Leader Robert Michel of Illinois, who will start a new round of U.S.-Soviet talks in Geneva on Thursday.

As the president and his wife, Nancy, walked across the South Lawn yesterday, a mob of some 600 people, most of them teenagers, stood waiting to greet them.

The president and his wife, Nancy, walked across the South Lawn yesterday after her walk with Walter Mondale.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — A 4-year-old girl was attacked and severely injured in a park Wednesday by a dog that ran to greet them, dragging his leash, according to authorities.

The alleged attacker was taken in to her arms and carried him inside.

The dog's owner acknowledged the attack, according to authorities.

Feeling that the dog's actions were a threat to his family, Rollin E. Garrett of Hollywood, Fla., said yesterday that the World War II detention of his father allegedly tried to sell her for $100,000.

The Crain's letter said little about camp conditions, which have been described in a recent review of dissident cases, but he wrote of the inability of a common ingloring an important economic and political relationship."
Running for peace

By KILEEN CHANG

In an effort characterized by concern about terrorism and nuclear war, the spirit of world unity continues to shine through with the messages of people like We the World, U2 and Friends Across the Americas.

A new project will soon be joining the ranks of these peace-promoting events - the Sri Chinmoy Peace Run.

The Sri Chinmoy Peace Run was conceived in 1970 by Sri Chinmoy, a leader of Peace Liberalism, who has traveled to almost every country in the world. The purpose of the Peace Run is to promote peace, understanding and harmony by spreading the vision of a world united.

The Peace Run is scheduled to start in New York on April 8, with the lighting of the torch at the Statue of Liberty. The torch will then be carried through 85 countries, including the United States, Canada, Australia, Japan, Africa, South America, and Asia, by approximately 30,000 participants. The torch relay will cover a distance of 15,000 miles, passing through major cities and small towns.

The relay will conclude in New York City on August 14, with a ceremony at the United Nations headquarters.

The Peace Run is not just about running; it's about connecting people from all backgrounds and building bridges of understanding and peace. This unique event is a symbol of hope and unity, and it serves as a reminder of the power of peaceful cooperation and understanding among nations and people.

U. forum to discuss ethics in medicine

Four second semester scholars will host a panel discussion on medical ethics tomorrow evening at the Assembly of the Arts.

The discussion will include the formation of a hypochondriacal hospital ethics committee involving medical students. The topics for the discussion will be: "The Ethics of a Bedside" by Sharon Aiden, "Swarthmore College, Pennsylvania" by Rebecca Green, "Shriver's Mozambique" by David Goodman, and "Swarthmore College, Pennsylvania" by David Goodman.

The conference will be held at 8:00 p.m. in the Lounge of the Assembly of the Arts. There is a $10 charge for tickets and ten dollars for students.
Student contracts meningitis

"One of the five fraternity brothers accused of instigating the food fight was not at the meal when the incident happened," the student told the Daily Pennsylvanian, adding he was "afraid of being involved in further legal inquiry before the Judicial Board.""The incident happened at Stouffer on March 31. Damaged included broken plates, food served and students called the police after they were served the meal. The professor, who asked not to be identified, said last night that she was in a semi-conscious state, waiting to be taken to the hospital. She said that the surgery was originally intended to alleviate some of the pressure which Student Health reports up to 20 percent of meningitis patients experience.

"We're very happy to have her with us," said Dr. Robert Aptekar, Student Health director. Student Health has been keeping vigil at her friend's bedside. "I wish I were able to be there, but I'm not," he added. "But I'm happy that she's doing well."

"It's very difficult," the security manager, who did not wish to be identified, said. "A lot of times it's people who are just trying to have a good time, not necessarily cause problems."

"We have ID checkers on duty all the time. They can't really look at your ID," a sophomore added. "It's a shame that a problem is posed by the students. We have some students who are uncooperative and identification is stopped because of the numbers of students entering the building."

"I'm the last person to stand up for you and everyone else she walks by," the sophomore added. "They have kegs in a room in the basement of the hall and they are not using ID," she added. "It's hard — you stop someone and they tell you not to worry about the ID."

"It's very difficult to see a picture, someone without a photo ID," a sophomore said, "I'm not necessarily being a bad person."

"I'm not at all worried about getting meningitis," another sophomore said. "Just make sure to cover your face before you leave campus get some beer."

Rules Governing Final Examinations

The following is a statement from Provost Thomas Watt about final examination policy.

No student may be required to take more than two final examinations in any one day, unless there are appropriate dates on the Vice Provost for University Life.

No instructor may increase the time allowed for a final examination beyond that permitted in the course outline. If a student is unable to complete an examination within the authorized time, he must notify the instructor immediately, and then must be readmitted to the examination. Instructors may not add material to their examinations after the final examination begins.

No instructor may change the time or date of a final examination without the approval of the appropriate dean or the Vice Provost for University Life.

The following is a brief summary of final examination policy.

1) No student may be required to take more than two final examinations in any one day.

2) No instructor may increase the time allowed for a final examination beyond that permitted in the course outline.

3) No instructor may change the time or date of a final examination without the approval of the appropriate dean or the Vice Provost for University Life.

4) No instructor may change the time or date of a final examination without the approval of the appropriate dean or the Vice Provost for University Life.

5) No instructor may require a make-up examination to all students. Students must obtain permission from their dean's office during the period in which final examinations are scheduled.

Why The Y

West Phila.'s YMCA offers more than a great pool

By CHRISTOPHER COWEN

The mission of a YMCA consists of things like swimming pools and basketball games. But West Philadelphia's, located on 32nd Street, offers athletic facilities and other services, such as a computer room, that allow kids and adults to take advantage of what the West Philadelphia YMCA has to offer, as University students are encouraged to use the facilities. "They do things to raise spirits, including walks in the park and playing bad," Seema Syal, a Y member and tutor, added. "They're always upping the ante, and they're excited."

"The kids and volunteers are getting a lot out of the program," she said.

The program is an extension of a program that exists in Mayor Goode's Literacy program.

Kevin Coles, a volunteer tutor, said that he believes that the diversity of the program is important. "Our program operates through a workshop," Walker said. "I've loved these days..."

"We have the city's cooperation, which is a big help," said UCHC Financial Officer Joe Cesarotti. Some community members have expressed apprehension over whether a survival center is the proper solution to homelessness in West Philadelphia. Nevertheless, UCHC has developed an interest in the center, recognizing the flexibility of their proposal.

Creating such a center involves a "self-sufficiency" of services, with showers, toilet facilities, a clothing distribution area, washing machines and dryers, and a food pantry. The center could also offer various referral services, job training, health care, education services, and information and government welfare information.

The number of Philadelphia residents who are homeless is expected to continue complicating the homelessness issue. Each individual or organization has its unique set of circumstances and problems that make the issue complex in West Philadelphia and how to solve it.

UCHC members had hoped that a site for a survival center would be identified by the end of the semester. But they have postponed their expectations to the fall.

"We have a lot of people who want to have a say in this," said Cesarotti. UCHC members hoped that a site for a survival center would be identified by the end of the semester. But they have postponed their expectations to the fall.

"HOW I MADE $18,000 FOR COLLEGE BY WORKING WEEKENDS."

When my friends and I graduated from high school, we all took part-time jobs to pay for college. They ended up in car washes and hamburger joints, putting in long hours for little pay.

Not me. My job takes just one weekend a month and two weeks a year. Yet, I'm earning $18,000 for college. Because I joined my local Army National Guard.

They're the people who help our state during emergencies like hurricanes and floods. They're also an important part of our country's military defense.

So, since I'm helping them do such an important job, they're helping me make it through school.

As soon as I finished Advanced Training, the Guard gave me a cash bonus of $2,000. Then, under the New GI Bill, I'm getting another $5,000 for tuition and books.

Not to mention my monthly Army Guard paychecks. They'll add up to more than $11,000 over the six years I'm in the Guard.

And if I take out a college loan, the Guard will help me pay it back — up to $1,500 a year, plus interest.

It all adds up to $18,000 — or more — for college for just a little of my time. And that's a heck of a better deal than any car wash will give you.

THE GUARD CAN HELP PUT YOU THROUGH COLLEGE, TOO. SEE YOUR LOCAL RECRUITER FOR DETAILS, CALL TOLL-FREE 800-638-7600, OR MAIL THIS COUPON.

The 93rd Penn Relays
Mount St. Mary's has another decathlon favorite

Mount St. Mary's has another decathlon favorite in 5'5" 165-lb. Ivanov (5-7), who averages 6-2 and is the top returnee in the field. He holds several records in the weights, throws, and sprints.

“Looking to win with about four people,” Head Coach Jim Olson, who was a 13-time NCAA champion and 1984 Olympic decathlete, said, “I'm looking for kids who are confident. I'm strong, healthy and fit. I'm looking for people who are not afraid of the competition. I'm looking for people who are not afraid of the public. I'm looking for people who are not afraid of the pressure. I'm looking for people who are not afraid of the media. I'm looking for people who are not afraid of the criticism.”

Ivanov, who is the 1986 IC4A decathlon champion, has limited availability of suites, efficiencies and apartments from April 15 until May 15. We have a great coach in Jim,” Zarnowski said. "It is the perfect opportunity for you to have a lot of fun in南宁.”

"Ivanov has a great chance," Zarnowski said. "Ivanov's field events are strong and his running events are good. He is the complete athlete." Dubin, Olson did for The Mount’s program from 1979 to 1982, and in 1982, he was the top collegian in the country. Dubin placed fourth in the 60-meter hurdles, fourth in the 200-meter dash, and third in the pentathlon. Dubin was the igniter, the reason why, in the last decade, a score of European decathletes have found the Mount attractive. Dubin was the favorite in this year’s field. The Mount’s program from 1978 to 1981 is tantamount to what television coverage of the Penn Relays would have been in 1980.

Today the decathletes will battle in a two-day, 10-event meet. There is no decathlete who will amass this total. There are other contenders in the field, but none can hope to match the Mountaineer duo. Most experts say that the Mountaineers are the favorites in this year’s field.

The ultimate Internships

Many internships are merely opportunities to make photocopies or "gofer" coffee, but Microsoft offers the ultimate Internships for MBAs, undergraduates, or graduate students in Computer Science, Applied Math, Applied Physics, or related disciplines.

We have two Ultimate Internship opportunities:

Product Manager

As a Product Manager Intern, you'll work directly with a Microsoft Product Manager helping market one of our best-selling systems, applications, or languages software. You will have a hand in defining business, product and marketing strategies, developing marketing and sales plans, and analyzing, and participating in forecasting, profitability analyses, and new products.

Program Manager

As a Program Manager Intern, you will work with one of our Program Managers to coordinate all aspects of a Microsoft software development, from programming and documentation to testing. You'll have a hand in setting design goals, reviewing product spec's for consistency, and researching new product categories, new technologies, and competing products.

This is an invaluable opportunity to gain hands-on experience, plus these very tangible benefits:

- Paid internship
- Paid relocation

The Big Red succumbed to the Penn women's track team including a sweep of all three relays.

Tuppeny tended to agree that

"We need a person who is a member of the University family, one who has a lot of experience with the Relays, one who understands and believes in the philosophy of the Penn Relays," Tuppeny said.

That philosophy states that the Penn Relays are a "true good competitor for all levels of work and field," a philosophy that has been handed down from director to director through the years. And one that Tuppeny has certainly upheld.

"Evan's is very, very hard," Tuppeny said. "It's very difficult to picture him doing it."

But let's not forget to have some fun.

We have two Ultimate Internship opportunities:

Product Manager

As a Product Manager Intern, you'll work directly with a Microsoft Product Manager helping market one of our best-selling systems, applications, or languages software. You will have a hand in defining business, product and marketing strategies, developing marketing and sales plans, and analyzing, and participating in forecasting, profitability analyses, and new products.

Program Manager

As a Program Manager Intern, you will work with one of our Program Managers to coordinate all aspects of a Microsoft software development, from programming and documentation to testing. You'll have a hand in setting design goals, reviewing product spec's for consistency, and researching new product categories, new technologies, and competing products.

This is an invaluable opportunity to gain hands-on experience, plus these very tangible benefits:

- Paid internship
- Paid relocation
- Paid health insurance premiums*
- Health club membership

Japan's Seko wins Boston Marathon

BOSTON (AP) — Japan's Toshihiko Seko broke away from the pack going up Heartbreak Hill and eventually won the 101st Boston Marathon with a time of 2 hours, 15 minutes and 25 seconds.

"Our defense has been making our share of errors," Seko said. "Of course, there is some similarity between the two teams in each man's pro- gram in that we both like to run balls. But when the Outs have the Quakers on their heels, they'll have a lot of advantage in this race."

The Outs are still young, but they have shown much improvement since last year. The Outs are a home team, in fact, and have made great improvements in every facet of the game. The Outs are an aggressive team, and they are a force to be reckoned with. They have been a revelation to the rest of the league. They have been a revelation to the rest of the league.

The Outs are comprised of 13 seniors — all of whom played on a regular basis — but the coaching staff is the core of Yale's youth movement. Only six seniors will be upperclassmen when the season opens, but the coaching staff feels that Yale's future could be even brighter.

The Penn lightweight crew was ready, and the meeting was women's track's way of getting the season started, a competitive atmosphere that people begin to notice that the female athlete is more than a player that could be judged by the peers of male athletes and judged by the world.
People are attracted to this sport because they want to be the best. They want to be the best in their respective sport.

The Penn lightweight crew was the team with the better start. The

"It was our worst start of the season," captain Bill Gallagher said.

"I think it was an overall performance of our team," he said. "We were just not in our usual form."

The Penn lightweight crew came up just short in losing to Princeton Saturday on the Schuylkill River.

The sweep completes the Quakers' year-long odyssey to recapture the Eastern Sprints. For the Quakers, the victory was in the making.

"The starting line was almost a win for us," said Adam Gordon, head coach of the lightweight crew. "We were just not in our usual form."
