The Daily Pennsylvania

Vol. CIV, No. 37
PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, March 23, 1988

HUP looks to boost public image

Tickets for Kirkpatrick speech on campus are hard to come by

Public Safety to combat 'negative perception'

U. investigates three frats for stripper cases

By JAY REIL
In the course of the investigation into the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity, University officials have been cited as having failed to adequately respond to charges.

President Sheldon Hackney said that the University is actively seeking instances of harassment.

"We are pursuing other instances of the same sort of behavior," Hackney said. He declined to name any of the fraternities under investigation.

"We will look at other cases we find out about them very vigorously," Hackney added.

The JIO recommended a four-year suspension for ZBT, and Goodman said she expects to reach a decision sometime in the coming weeks.

In the aftermath of the ZBT raid

Please see STRIPPKRS, page 12

HUP looks to boost public image

By BRENT PARKER
From the Daily Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA -- HUP will proceed with its planned multicultural week on April 9-15.

"We're going to be a little more aggressive," said President Sheldon Hackney.

The university is planning to sponsor a multicultural week, which is expected to include a range of events and initiatives aimed at promoting diversity and inclusivity.

"We're going to be a little more aggressive," Hackney said, "and we're going to be more visible."
NEC charges Harrison with violation

Wharton candidate consciously breaks gag rule provision

Dr. Geoff Tauman

Undergraduate Assembly incumbent candidate Geoff Harrison has been charged by the Undergraduate Assembly for violating the gag rule in this week's election.

Results of the U.A. elections will be released tonight along with the outcome of a student referendum to revise or keep the press ban, conducted simultaneously with U.A. general elections.

A Fair Practice Code meeting will be held tonight to evaluate the charges against the Wharton junior, who could be the last candidate charged under the gag rule. If the rule is kept, the student was charged with violating the gag rule if he were found favoring the press ban.

According to Harrison, who was found last night that he was not supported by the charges levied by the NEC. The student government member was in an Friday Daily Pennsylvania article about the elections.

Harrison said that he was found supporting the gag rule when he provided quotes to the newspaper, but refused to speculate on whether he will be disqualified.

The U.A. incumbent candidate said that he believed it would be unwise to attempt to alleviate the gag rule since the clause is "offensive to the notion of the Constitution."

Harrison, who announced that he is running for Senior Class Board president, explained that the elimination of the gag rule is important to him.

"I've been willing to cut my campaign on the line for public relations, so the gag rule. He was adding that any publicity he will receive is not reason to further ban his campaign for the board.

The intent to violate the gag rule was to violate the gag rule — any other effect is just an afterthought," Harrison said.

Voters indicate that a significant block of supporters are demanding the press ban. According to a Daily Pennsylvania poll conducted Monday.

The NEC filed charges against Harrison for possible violation of sections seven of the Fair Practice Code, which states:

"In order to ensure fairness among candidates, the NEC may act as a disqualifier on any form of campus media, but may not act as a disqualifier on any campus publications from the day the election-season notices are made available until the election results have been announced."

"A public forum will be held at which candidates will have the opportunity to express their opinions. Statements determined by the NEC to have been made outside the forum are not made available and cannot be reprinted if the candidate chooses to have the public statement made in the open forum," the rules read.

NEC Chairman David Yao said last night that there is a "possibility" that Harrison may be disqualified, depending on the outcome of the elections.

At Drexel, students leave school with money, jobs in their pocket

By Cheryl Foley

Once upon a time, in a small New Jersey town, a little girl sat in her room and dreamed of going to college and making a million dollars. Years later, with a solid education and a promising book publishing in her hand, this former child wonder what would be her dream job.

"Now this fairytale became a reality," the former child said. "I decided to open the door of the co-op and make it a success." She added that the co-op business is a success, and she has decided to open the door of the co-op and make it a success.

"I didn't get to college, but I did get to the money," the former child said. "I decided to make it a success and I did." She added that the co-op business is a success, and she has decided to open the door of the co-op and make it a success.

Silence is Lenton

Life is always busy – turn aside in Lent.

Gather with us for support, spiritual readings, and lots of time to reflect.

6:30 pm Every Wednesday during Lent

University Lutheran

27th and Chestnut

387-2885

Spring Fling 1988

Today at 9 p.m.
in High Rise East Rooftop

Club Penn Needs Counselors

General Meeting for Volunteers

Political Science

Discussion Session For Fall Courses

Thursday, March 24th

2:00 - 4:00 p.m.

Lauder Lounge

1st fl. Stiteler Hall

FACULTY MEMBERS WILL BE AVAILABLE FOR A QUESTION/ANSWER SESSION TO ADVISE STUDENTS ON SUCH TOPICS AS:

* NEW COURSES
* BAMA PROGRAM
* GENERAL MAJOR
* PROGRAM MAJOR

Quotation of the Day

"It will matter which we do not regret; it is what makes us unique."

- Cynthia 500 employers, large and small, employ Drexel students involved in the co-op program. According to officials, the students receive more money compared to those who do not participate in the co-op program.

"We're not like an employment agency in the sense that we take a cut of the student's earnings," the officials said. "Instead, we take part in the student's earnings.

"It is only six months out of the year, it takes up the rest of the year."

But several students say they prefer the type of work they do.

"I like being on my feet 24 hours a day," the former child said. "I like being on my feet 24 hours a day."

Drexel students in the co-op program say they feel prepared for the work they do.

"They've got an advantage, we're graduating with little, relevant experience on their chosen area," the officials said. "They're different."
Anne Marie Lepone questions a man who had been spotted loitering around David Rittenhouse Laboratory.

"I thought it would be more like a security guard type of thing," Lepone said. "I really don't feel much safer there, and I really improved my ability to do other things while working in the 55th police district more than the Philadelphia Police Force."

"I think that being small has its advantages because you are not just a number like in Philly," she says. "There is a more personal level.

55th Cpl. — Suspect person in DB.

There has been a report of a suspicious man in the David Rittenhouse Laboratory, and several Public Safety officers were called to the scene.

Ofc. Gary Lipone, in the saddle of the Cushman scooter, opens the gates and walks away from David Rittenhouse Laboratories down 36th Street. Lipone stops him at the 40th Street intersection.

Within five minutes of the call, two uniformed and two undercover officers are questioning the suspect on the street corner.

"I was really impressed," Lepone said, "but the main thing is that I am happy to be doing my job and I am happy to be working for the University Police Department."
On Campus

NOTICE

Campus Events are subject to weather conditions. Check The Daily Pennsylvanian, the Daily News, or a university bulletin board for any cancellations. Office of International Programs, 340 College Hall.

TODAY

TOMORROW

---

GRADUATE STUDENTS

What are the issues surrounding a Budget Proposal?

Professor S. K. and J. H. will discuss the issues surrounding the Budget Proposal. All graduate students are encouraged to attend.

NEW YORK ZOOLOGICAL SOCIETY

New York Zoological Society

The New York Zoological Society will present a talk on the conservation of endangered species. The talk will take place in the Student Union at 10:00 a.m.

MEDITATION

An Introduction to Meditation

Dr. H. will lead an introduction to meditation techniques. The session will be held in the Student Union at 10:00 a.m.

---

In Brief

AIPAC lobbyist to speak at Biddle

A political lobbyist involved in American-Israeli relations will speak tonight on campus about recent events in the West Bank-Gaza strip area and the U.S. government's reaction.

Steve Silberman, a lobbyist for the American-Israel Public Affairs Committee, will also address Congress' reactions to the recent events in the West Bank and Gaza. President Yitzak Shamir's trip to the United States and New York recently made headlines.

AIPAC is a national lobbying organization that focuses on Israeli-American relations, according to AIPAC at Peter Haiman Daniel Schwartz. The organization attempts to influence American public opinion on Israel to help U.S. relations.

The College Junior said last night that the University's assassination of student David Dean Don'ts was still a touchy subject. AIPAC has met with members of AIPAC and the Jewish community.

Steve Silberman will give his presentation in the Student Union at 7:30 p.m.

---

Graduate students angered by increase in stipend allowance

BY ROBIN HERSTEIN

It is a sad fact that graduate students who are members of the Graduate and Professional Student Association, which is comprised of all graduate students, are not being given due consideration.

The Graduate and Professional Student Association, which is comprised of all graduate students, is comprised of all graduate students.

It is unfortunate that graduate student stipend allowance will increase $500 for the current academic year. Many graduate students said last night that they were not satisfied with the explanation given by the dean.

Many graduate students said last night that they were not satisfied with the dean's explanation. Many graduate students said last night that they were not satisfied with the dean's explanation.

Many graduate students said last night that they were not satisfied with the dean's explanation.

---

Join the Graduate Action Group

The Graduate Action Group

The Graduate Action Group, which was formed in response to the cancellation of a mandatory entrance exam and an interview, will speak tonight on campus about the recent events.

The Graduate Action Group, which was formed in response to the cancellation of a mandatory entrance exam and an interview, will speak tonight on campus about the recent events.

The Graduate Action Group, which was formed in response to the cancellation of a mandatory entrance exam and an interview, will speak tonight on campus about the recent events.

The Graduate Action Group, which was formed in response to the cancellation of a mandatory entrance exam and an interview, will speak tonight on campus about the recent events.

---

Cool Down With The Daily Pennsylvania

After exercise, between classes, with lunch or dinner, the Daily Pennsylvania is the perfect place to pick up on the news of the day. It's your connection to campus and world events. With news, sports, features, editors, and columns, the Daily Pennsylvania has something for you. Take time to exercise your mind.

---

BAYLOR COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

ZENAIDO CAMACHO, Ph.D.

ASSOCIATE DEAN

PETER T. SCARDINO, M.D.

DEPT. OF UROLOGY

CHAIRMAN, MEDICAL SCHOOL ADMISSIONS COMMITTEE

THURSDAY, MARCH 24, 1988

---

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION

HEALTH PROFESSIONS OFFICE

12 COLLEGE HALL

PHONE 498-5202

---

UNDERGRADUATES

It's time to apply for Grand Arena VII

When: Thursday, March 24, 9-5

Friday, March 25, 9-5

Where: High Rise North, Upper Lobby

You must apply on these dates to be eligible to participate in the Grand Arena. Refer to your Room Selection Booklet for details.

---

Off-Campus students are eligible too!
Panhellenic council takes regional prize

By TINA GOLDMAN

The University's Panhellenic Council has won a regional award for outstanding leadership in both on-campus and off-campus activities.

The award, presented at the Regional Conference for National Fraternities and National Panhellenic Councils held in Baltimore last week, is the result of the council's efforts to enhance the image of Panhellenic fraternities and sororities.

According to College of Arts and Sciences Dean Walter Wales, the council is responsible for the improvement of the organization's public image.

"The council has worked hard to improve the image of Panhellenic fraternities and sororities," said Wales. "This award is a reflection of their success.

The council, which coordinates the activities of the sororities on campus, was established in 1950.

According to Sorority Affairs Bruce Arnold, the council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events.

"The council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events," said Arnold. "Their efforts have resulted in a positive image for Panhellenic fraternities and sororities.

The council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events.

The University's Panhellenic Council has won a regional award for outstanding leadership in both on-campus and off-campus activities.

The award, presented at the Regional Conference for National Fraternities and National Panhellenic Councils held in Baltimore last week, is the result of the council's efforts to enhance the image of Panhellenic fraternities and sororities.

According to College of Arts and Sciences Dean Walter Wales, the council is responsible for the improvement of the organization's public image.

"The council has worked hard to improve the image of Panhellenic fraternities and sororities," said Wales. "This award is a reflection of their success.

The council, which coordinates the activities of the sororities on campus, was established in 1950.

According to Sorority Affairs Bruce Arnold, the council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events.

"The council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events," said Arnold. "Their efforts have resulted in a positive image for Panhellenic fraternities and sororities.

The council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events.

The University's Panhellenic Council has won a regional award for outstanding leadership in both on-campus and off-campus activities.

The award, presented at the Regional Conference for National Fraternities and National Panhellenic Councils held in Baltimore last week, is the result of the council's efforts to enhance the image of Panhellenic fraternities and sororities.

According to College of Arts and Sciences Dean Walter Wales, the council is responsible for the improvement of the organization's public image.

"The council has worked hard to improve the image of Panhellenic fraternities and sororities," said Wales. "This award is a reflection of their success.

The council, which coordinates the activities of the sororities on campus, was established in 1950.

According to Sorority Affairs Bruce Arnold, the council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events.

"The council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events," said Arnold. "Their efforts have resulted in a positive image for Panhellenic fraternities and sororities.

The council is responsible for organizing and coordinating Panhellenic events.
In the 1960s, society was kicking around the ideas of what was dark, complex, and cosmic. Star curtain was at the center of all the wide. Spurred by the rumors surrounding the Kennedy assassination and the possible CIA involvement and artificial skin revival, the FBI was responsible for all the in the western United States. The Zions, and SDS was convinced that the beginning and the end is a myth.

As more aged, theories speculated that rock and roll music was a subtle立案 strategy to subtly manipulate the minds of mere mortals. We have evidence of this in the music of the Beatles, on the other hand, speculation that rock and roll music—especially hip and heavy music—was manipulating the minds of mere mortals is one of the major themes in the FBI surveillance files.

For example, while they were monitoring the activities of the Beatles, the FBI was also monitoring other groups such as the Rolling Stones and the Who. They were constantly dismissed the rumors as silly, but one rumor that they did focus on was the idea that the band was involved in mind control. This was based on a line from the song "Revolution," where McCartney sings, "You know that you never know if you're right, I've heard that about an agent, these were some of their best ones. It showed, to say the least, a very interesting taste in art.

During any interview, there is that one mistake out of what you might call "the right thing." I've heard that about the military and technology were to manipulate the minds of mere mortals. I thought that would obviously be a huge while blob on the page. But then I was trying to avoid that com-
Dissident mixes politics, poetry in talk

By KATRINE CHREW

An international human rights politician and poet met a crowd of the press and the public on March 23 at the 7th annual Poetry Week at University City Mall. Tomas Venclova, Lithuanian dissident and Yale professor, presented his poetry along with an essay on the current Lithuanian political situation.

The reading drew a few University students and a larger number of members from the local Lithuanian-American community, the event's co-sponsor.

Tomas Venclova, president of the Lithuanian organization, commended the poet for his work in making the experience of the Lithuanian emigre known to the world.

"As a writer, he has been able to do more to publicize the plight of Lithuanians under Soviet occupation, or on an international level than any other person who has emigrated from Lithuania," the poet said Sunday, "in support of this friend, he will help in the independence of Lithuania." Venclova, according to The New Yorker, has been arrested many times by the KGB, and has been sent on many occasions by the Soviets to work on behalf of the Soviet government.

Venclova said that he owes his poetry to his exposure to the Western world, and that the poems were written in support of the Lithuanian cause. The poet avoided obscurity for straightforward and less obscure than English poetry.

Lithuania because of his extensive international travel, literary activities and teaching," Gyys said Sunday.

According to an article in The Yale University Publication The New Journal, Venclova said that poetry was an important part of the experience which was not necessarily mean that his poems were simple. They were original and heartfelt. He avoided obscurity for straightforward and less obscure than English poetry.

"I am proof that Western help is very important," Venclova said Sunday. "I hope the people of the United States, and not necessarily the government, will help in the independence of Lithuania."

Tommas Venclova
Lithuanian dissident and Yale professor

Another person who has emigrated from Lithuania because of his extensive international travel, literary activities and teaching, Gecys said Sunday. "I am proof that Western help is very important," Venclova said Sunday. "I hope the people of the United States, and not necessarily the government, will help in the independence of Lithuania."

Kelly's

In-store Drafts

Samuel Adams
Dock Street
Miller
Lyn
Bohemit

Mexican Monday

Chips or Fries or any Mexican Beer

Oil Spill Tuesday

Sausage, Fries, Chips, or Corn

Lobster Sunday

Sandwich or Turkey Out, Texas Style

Kinko's

Rolling Rock

Live Band

10 PM-2 AM

Back wards

Rolling Rock

Hand Over Fist

Make Money

Hand Over Fist.
Soviets release 3500 banned books

WASHINGTON—The president of the Soviet Union is being assailed in a two-front war, with NATO's military forces in the West and the Communist press in the East. The Soviet leader, General Secretary Mikhail Gorbachev, has been criticized for his policies and his handling of the Soviet economy, with the West accusing him of failing to respond to the threat of nuclear war. However, in the East, the Communist press has been critical of Gorbachev's policies, with some articles calling for a more radical approach to ending the Cold War and promoting peace.

State

Children's AIDS home ready to open

TOKYO—A home for children with AIDS has opened in Japan, following a decision by the government to establish such a facility. The home is designed to provide a safe and comfortable environment for children with the disease and their families. It is funded by the government and private donations, and is run by a team of healthcare professionals and volunteers. The home is located in a rural area, with access to healthcare services and support for families. It is anticipated that the home will have a positive impact on the lives of children with AIDS and their families.

Weather

Tully: Mostly cloudy and cold today. Winds in the upper 30s.

The National Weather Service forecasts partly cloudy skies with a high of 38°F. Winds will be out of the east at around 10 mph.

Attention! All Students

• Looking for summer employment?
• Want to get away for the summer?
• Have fun, make friends?
• Earn good wages?

Join at a premier New England amusement park!

The Quigman/Buddy Hickerson

O'hara's for Students

Wednesdays Nights

50% off your entree w/ Student ID from 5 PM

JACK The D.J. from 9 PM

$1.00 Bar Drinks from 9 PM

SUNDAY BRUNCH 11–AM–2 PM

39TH & CHESTNUT STREETS / 349-9000

Penn Players and
The Theatre Program Present

LAURIE PARDELLO'S

June 22–July 21

The Importance of Being Earnest

Directed by Sharla Faller

Tickets $15.00

312-360-6330

Don't drink your milk tonight, eh? Such a bit, too, because the Bourgeois is in these parts compared to the notorious Denpasarian Marpesa.

Ivy Towers

News from the Nation's Collegiate Press

U. of Delaware student to sue school over food poisoning

A student at the University of Delaware plans to take legal action against the university for food poisoning. The student, who was hospitalized after eating at a campus dining hall, is seeking $1 million in damages from the university. The student claims that the food was not properly handled or cooked, and that the university failed to properly inspect the food. The university has not yet responded to the student's claims.

President calls for medical research

The president has called for increased medical research to find a cure for AIDS. The president has indicated that the United States will allocate more funds to medical research, with the goal of finding a cure for AIDS within the next decade. The president has also called for increased international cooperation in medical research, with the aim of finding a global solution to the AIDS epidemic.

Will YOU help end the AIDS epidemic?

The National AIDS and Human Rights Organization is seeking volunteers to help end the AIDS epidemic. The organization is seeking volunteers to help with outreach, fundraising, and advocacy efforts. The organization is based in New York City, and is seeking volunteers from all over the United States.

Soviet official says some political prisoners will be freed

Anasiasio Somoza, a US-backed ex-Nicaraguan dictator, said he was prepared to free 300 political prisoners. Somoza, who ruled Nicaragua from 1928 to 1939, was overthrown by a leftist government in 1979. The government of President Daniel Ortega has been in power since 1979, and has been accused of human rights abuses. Somoza's announcement comes amid a growing interest in the possibility of a peace process in Nicaragua.

North American overcomes simmering opposition

North American Overcomes simmering opposition. North American has overcome simmering opposition to its plans to build a new plant in Mexico. The company had faced opposition from local residents and environmental groups, who were concerned about the impact of the plant on the local environment. However, North American has been able to overcome these oppositions, and is now preparing to begin construction on the new plant.

North American Overcomes simmering opposition. North American has overcome simmering opposition to its plans to build a new plant in Mexico. The company had faced opposition from local residents and environmental groups, who were concerned about the impact of the plant on the local environment. However, North American has been able to overcome these oppositions, and is now preparing to begin construction on the new plant.

North American Overcomes simmering opposition. North American has overcome simmering opposition to its plans to build a new plant in Mexico. The company had faced opposition from local residents and environmental groups, who were concerned about the impact of the plant on the local environment. However, North American has been able to overcome these oppositions, and is now preparing to begin construction on the new plant.
Civil rights bill veto overridden by both houses

WASHINGTON — President Reagan called a veto to override Congress’ rejection of a long-awaited bill that would amend the nation’s civil rights laws. The veto was expected to be overridden, as both houses of Congress were poised to vote again on the measure, which was designed to strengthen the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

Reagan asked Congress to reinstate some form of aid to the Contras, but Democrats said they would be willing to support a peace plan for Nicaragua if the Reagan administration would agree to a compromise aid package and was seeking the removal of Noriega from Panama.

Noriega’s opponents ignore his ‘cynical’ offer of negotiation

WASHINGTON — Senior administration officials and liberals in Congress are stepping up their efforts to block the Reagan administration’s attempt to negotiate with Panamanian leader Noriega. They fear that Such negotiations could prevent the Contras from getting aid to continue their fight against the Nicaraguan government.

The officials, including those on both sides of the issue, said they would continue to work to block any arrangement that would allow Noriega to remain in power. They said the administration’s proposal was a further effort to weaken the Contras and to undermine the United States’ anti-communist war in Central America.

The White House says it will veto a compromise aid package offered by both houses of Congress if it fails to receive any federal funding from the Contras. The White House also says it will veto any legislation that would allow Noriega to remain in power.

Reagan may be ousted soon by Defense Forces

WASHINGTON — Senior administration officials are stepping up their efforts to block the Reagan administration’s attempt to negotiate with Panamanian leader Noriega. They fear that Such negotiations could prevent the Contras from getting aid to continue their fight against the Nicaraguan government.

The officials, including those on both sides of the issue, said they would continue to work to block any arrangement that would allow Noriega to remain in power. They said the administration’s proposal was a further effort to weaken the Contras and to undermine the United States’ anti-communist war in Central America.

The White House says it will veto a compromise aid package offered by both houses of Congress if it fails to receive any federal funding from the Contras. The White House also says it will veto any legislation that would allow Noriega to remain in power.

Reagan may be ousted soon by Defense Forces

WASHINGTON — Senior administration officials are stepping up their efforts to block the Reagan administration’s attempt to negotiate with Panamanian leader Noriega. They fear that Such negotiations could prevent the Contras from getting aid to continue their fight against the Nicaraguan government.

The officials, including those on both sides of the issue, said they would continue to work to block any arrangement that would allow Noriega to remain in power. They said the administration’s proposal was a further effort to weaken the Contras and to undermine the United States’ anti-communist war in Central America.

The White House says it will veto a compromise aid package offered by both houses of Congress if it fails to receive any federal funding from the Contras. The White House also says it will veto any legislation that would allow Noriega to remain in power.

Reagan may be ousted soon by Defense Forces

WASHINGTON — Senior administration officials are stepping up their efforts to block the Reagan administration’s attempt to negotiate with Panamanian leader Noriega. They fear that Such negotiations could prevent the Contras from getting aid to continue their fight against the Nicaraguan government.

The officials, including those on both sides of the issue, said they would continue to work to block any arrangement that would allow Noriega to remain in power. They said the administration’s proposal was a further effort to weaken the Contras and to undermine the United States’ anti-communist war in Central America.

The White House says it will veto a compromise aid package offered by both houses of Congress if it fails to receive any federal funding from the Contras. The White House also says it will veto any legislation that would allow Noriega to remain in power.

Reagan may be ousted soon by Defense Forces

WASHINGTON — Senior administration officials are stepping up their efforts to block the Reagan administration’s attempt to negotiate with Panamanian leader Noriega. They fear that Such negotiations could prevent the Contras from getting aid to continue their fight against the Nicaraguan government.

The officials, including those on both sides of the issue, said they would continue to work to block any arrangement that would allow Noriega to remain in power. They said the administration’s proposal was a further effort to weaken the Contras and to undermine the United States’ anti-communist war in Central America.

The White House says it will veto a compromise aid package offered by both houses of Congress if it fails to receive any federal funding from the Contras. The White House also says it will veto any legislation that would allow Noriega to remain in power.
Office of the University Registrar
Fall 1988 Supplemental Roster

Drexel program gives students money

Amnesty International

is showing a FREE movie

THE KILLING FIELDS

Everyone Welcome  FREE Popcorn!

Wednesday, March 23
9:00 PM

HRN Roof Top Lounge

SAC Model

Propensity to Consume

Dr. Kell C. Schmitt, Research Associate

Wharton sophomore Aramis Schmitt dines with Nobel Laureate Economics Professor Lawrence Klein at the Palladium Monday as part of the Student Committee on Undergraduate Education's Take a Professor to Lunch week.

USE THIS ROSTER TO NOTE CHANGES

11 Instructor Change
12 Room Change
13 Time Change
14 New Course
15 Time and Room Change
16 Cancelled
17 Title or Description
18 Credit Change
19 Enrollment or Message Change

Frontiers

A Look at Research at the University
Every other Friday
Kirkpatriek's views, scholarship stated sarcastically.
plethora of misstatements and lies did, citing a
Susan Munro/ana, head of the Women's Af-
Kirkpatriek's scholarship and politics — left-wing style.
UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA DINING SERVICES
3401 Walnut St.

Only 450 tickets issued for Kirkpatrick

KIRKPATRICK, from page 3

Perliner also said that since Wharton students were ticketed, the use of the University community was allowed to obtain tickets. But she noted that flies were only distributed to Wharton students.

Perliner conceded that it could have been possible for only Wharton students to attend the Kirkpatrick lecture, if enough Wharton students had applied.

"It wasn't advertised as a University event," she said.

However, the Student Organization for Social Justice, the School of Arts and Sciences non-profit Dean Diane Frey said yesterday that she could not recall any other event scheduling a speech restricted to ticket-holders.

But Wharton Public Affairs Administrative Assistant Kathleen Menkes said yesterday that the Julius Steinberg Memorial Lecture has "always been done with tickets."

Kirkpatrick has explained that speeches at the Steinberg Lecture have always been subject to the location of the lecture, and added that they have to limit the number to "the only lecture that draws a large crowd."

Mary Dowen, a member of the Central America Solidarity Alliance, the group staging a rally today to protest Kirkpatrick's lecture, has another theory about the ticketing.

"I think that Dean Russell Palmer is nervous about letting in so many people," she said. "But I don't think it is to keep the student body out."

Dowen was referring to the fact that Kirkpatrick's visit, since it was announced two months ago, has been beset with much student and faculty opposition, including letters to Palmer, the Administration, and The Daily Pennsylvanian.

JRO investigates three frats for strippers

WASHINGTON, from page 1

"It wasn't objectionable to report," Edwards added.

The ZBT fraternity paid $100 for the two strippers who performed at this house located at 235 South 39th street, according to FSAB findings.

Stripper events are not a new phenomenon. Several other fraternities have employed strippers for several years. According to FSAB findings, ZBT has employed white and black strippers in the past to amuse at rush events.

In early October, representatives of two fraternities – Alpha Epsilon Pi and Sigma Nu – said that they were exploring the possibility of bringing strippers to their respective rush functions. Also, the Phi Sigma Sigma sorority house reportedly hired a topless dancer to help celebrate a birthday party.

But AEPi Vice President Mike Sherman said last night that his house did not bring in strippers for rush.

"At that point we sort of got confused with the AEPi story," Sherman said.

And Sigma Nu President John Cats said yesterday that his fraternity eventually decided against the idea.

Patrick O'Donnell contributed to this story.

P. Safety works on image

IMAGE, from page 1

But Logan said that the new programs are not entirec especially at blacks.

"This is not directed specifially to any group," Logan said. "We feel that we should be using the same type of training to improve all of the various cultures on campus and to improve image.

Logan said that he was interested in attending the conference, sponsored in part by the International Association of Campus Law Enforcement Agencies, because he has seen a rise in racial tension at other universities.

"There has been a lot of cultural diversity in the student body that is coming on campus because of these universities, and this type of training will help us in dealing with these problems more professionally," he said.

Kabay said yesterday that his fraternity is interested in improving the public's image of the department.

"It's been very successful," Kabay said. "What it has done is help the public to know what the police offices are doing, the way we are doing our business.

"What we have been very successful," Kabay said. "What we have been able to do is bring the community and the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.

The program included two days of training for police officers in Canada said. "What it has done is improve the public's image of the police officers in terms of race, sex and sexual preference.
Richmond ready for Temple

Spiders not ready to be called 'Cinderella'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Dick Tarrant, coach of celebrated Richmond basketball team, said the Spiders are not the Cinderella team that many predicted they would be.

"Calling us a Cinderella team is cliché, but that's how we feel," Tarrant said last week in Hartford, Conn., where the Spiders were being expected to win every game.

"The Spiders, making their first ever tournament appearance, are not your typical Cinderella team," Tarrant said.

Commenting on the roles of players like Jeff Greenberg and Todd Tarrant, Tarrant said, "We think we are similar, not by rank, but by style." Tarrant also noted that the Spiders' brand of basketball is going to be crucial, and you play light and shine.

The NCAA Tournament is difficult, but Richmond believes they can compete with anyone. Tarrant said, "I think I can play with anybody, even with his elbow."

The Brotherhood of Tau Epsilon Phi

The Brotherhood of Tau Epsilon Phi, a local fraternity, says Atkinson is "a great feel, when you're expected to lose, you try harder."

The National Labor Relations Board has charged the Richmond basketball team with engaging in an unfair labor practice.

"Calling us a Cinderella team is a cliche, but that's how we feel," Tarrant said.

The Daily Pennsylvania

ROOM AT THE TOP

Like jigsaw puzzles?

Then join DP Ad Layout.

Ad layout assistants design the arrangement of the ads running in the paper every day, fitting the different-sized pieces together to make an attractive page. Time commitment is 2-3 hours per week. Requirement: a desire to meet fun people while working at the largest student-run organization on campus.

Interested? Then call Andy Reis at 898-6581 during business hours.

The Daily Pennsylvania
Training for harassment advisors delayed until next fall

HARASSMENT, from page 1
that's no important to the University community," she said.

Davies, who is a visiting fellow at Leuven University, said that the problem had been brought to her attention in a letter from a student. She said that she had been aware of similar problems in other countries, but that the situation in the United States was "worse than expected." She said that the University was taking the problem seriously and was working to address it.

"We are working on an impact statement for HUP Executive Director Ed Schwartz to outline expected revenues and results of the new program," Morgan said. "We have not had adequate input from the community," he said. "It will be the only way that we can bring in new patients who will arrive at HUP as its reputation grows."

HUP plans to be local hospitals, know about its flight and trauma service so PennSTAR "will ensure that the number of patients increases," Morgan said. "It was never intended that the PennSTAR program be mediators — they don't have that training," Davies said, adding that the "mediating" role is "very different" from the "mediating" role of the liaisons. "It is unclear how much money the hospital's new PennSTAR program will bring in, but Morgan said he expects "some patient revenue." He added that the plan is "a great opportunity for the University."

Meanwhile, PennSTAR officials are working on their impact statement for HUP Executive Director Ed Schwartz to outline expected revenues and results of the new program. Morgan also said that he thought the PennSTAR program was "an effective" marketing. "We have to get a competitive edge and look at health care as a business," Morgan said. "It was never intended that the PennSTAR program be mediators — they don't have that training," Davies said, adding that the "mediating" role is "very different" from the "mediating" role of the liaisons. "It is unclear how much money the hospital's new PennSTAR program will bring in, but Morgan said he expects "some patient revenue." He added that the plan is "a great opportunity for the University."

Meanwhile, PennSTAR officials are working on their impact statement for HUP Executive Director Ed Schwartz to outline expected revenues and results of the new program. Morgan also said that he thought the PennSTAR program was "an effective" marketing. "We have to get a competitive edge and look at health care as a business," Morgan said. "It was never intended that the PennSTAR program be mediators — they don't have that training," Davies said, adding that the "mediating" role is "very different" from the "mediating" role of the liaisons. "It is unclear how much money the hospital's new PennSTAR program will bring in, but Morgan said he expects "some patient revenue." He added that the plan is "a great opportunity for the University."

Meanwhile, PennSTAR officials are working on their impact statement for HUP Executive Director Ed Schwartz to outline expected revenues and results of the new program. Morgan also said that he thought the PennSTAR program was "an effective" marketing. "We have to get a competitive edge and look at health care as a business," Morgan said. "It was never intended that the PennSTAR program be mediators — they don't have that training," Davies said, adding that the "mediating" role is "very different" from the "mediating" role of the liaisons. "It is unclear how much money the hospital's new PennSTAR program will bring in, but Morgan said he expects "some patient revenue." He added that the plan is "a great opportunity for the University."

Meanwhile, PennSTAR officials are working on their impact statement for HUP Executive Director Ed Schwartz to outline expected revenues and results of the new program. Morgan also said that he thought the PennSTAR program was "an effective" marketing. "We have to get a competitive edge and look at health care as a business," Morgan said. "It was never intended that the PennSTAR program be mediators — they don't have that training," Davies said, adding that the "mediating" role is "very different" from the "mediating" role of the liaisons. "It is unclear how much money the hospital's new PennSTAR program will bring in, but Morgan said he expects "some patient revenue." He added that the plan is "a great opportunity for the University."

Meanwhile, PennSTAR officials are working on their impact statement for HUP Executive Director Ed Schwartz to outline expected revenues and results of the new program. Morgan also said that he thought the PennSTAR program was "an effective" marketing. "We have to get a competitive edge and look at health care as a business," Morgan said. "It was never intended that the PennSTAR program be mediators — they don't have that training," Davies said, adding that the "mediating" role is "very different" from the "mediating" role of the liaisons. "It is unclear how much money the hospital's new PennSTAR program will bring in, but Morgan said he expects "some patient revenue." He added that the plan is "a great opportunity for the University."

Meanwhile, PennSTAR officials are working on their impact statement for HUP Executive Director Ed Schwartz to outline expected revenues and results of the new program. Morgan also said that he thought the PennSTAR program was "an effective" marketing. "We have to get a competitive edge and look at health care as a business," Morgan said. "It was never intended that the PennSTAR program be mediators — they don't have that training," Davies said, adding that the "mediating" role is "very different" from the "mediating" role of the liaisons. "It is unclear how much money the hospital's new PennSTAR program will bring in, but Morgan said he expects "some patient revenue." He added that the plan is "a great opportunity for the University."

Meanwhile, PennSTAR officials are working on their impact statement for HUP Executive Director Ed Schwartz to outline expected revenues and results of the new program. Morgan also said that he thought the PennSTAR program was "an effective" marketing. "We have to get a competitive edge and look at health care as a business," Morgan said. "It was never intended that the PennSTAR program be mediators — they don't have that training," Davies said, adding that the "mediating" role is "very different" from the "mediating" role of the liaisons. "It is unclear how much money the hospital's new PennSTAR progra...
Wanna cover Penn like nobody else? Just come to the DP SPORTS introductory meeting, Thursday, March 31, at 5 p.m. It’s on the second floor of 4015 Walnut.

READING SPORTS
Conстан knows everyone, or tries to.

Courses for Adults & Children

- Art & Calligraphy
- Ceramics & Crafts
- Dance
- Fitness
- Music
- Photography
- Theatre
- Wins

Spring 1988

Beginning Saturday, March 26

Wanna cover Penn like nobody else? Just come to the DP SPORTS introductory meeting, Thursday, March 31, at 5 p.m. It's on the second floor of 4015 Walnut.

 Classified Ads

Place your classified ads at the D.P. office—4015 Walnut Street, Second floor. Cost: 25 cents per word per day. Deadline: Noon, one day before publication.
Virginia Commonwealth advances in NIT

Johnson's free throw at :00 lifts Arkansas St.; Boston College tops Evansville

Virginia Commonwealth, behind a career-high 42-point performance from sophomore Dave Johnson, made sure Southern Mississippi would not repeat last year's last-place finish as the A-10 went to press at National Invitation Tournament. Cau- tion was the word of the day for VCU, which took a 48-40 last night victory over the Coca-Cola Kings. The Rams (18-11) scored the final 9 of 9 to halt the Valdosta State (15-16) run and win the quarterfinals, 49-40. (VCU vs. State). A-10 Southern Mississippi Southern Mississippi, taking the last place in the regular season, was fourth in the tournament, while finishing last in the Big 12 Western and South Atlantic conferences.

Freshman point guard Dave Johnson was the star of the game for VCU as he scored 42 points and had 9 assists in the game. He also grabbed 7 rebounds and shot 9-for-15 from the field and 12-of-13 from the free throw line. Johnson's performance helped the Rams pull away from the Statesmen in the second half and put the game out of reach.

VCU's victory means they have advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They will face either the University of Virginia or the University of Alabama in the semifinals.

Southern Mississippi, on the other hand, will be playing in the consolation game and will face either the University of South Carolina or the University of Kentucky.

This is the first time VCU has advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They are looking to advance to the championship game and win the tournament.

Southern Mississippi, on the other hand, will be playing in the consolation game and will face either the University of South Carolina or the University of Kentucky.

This is the first time VCU has advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They are looking to advance to the championship game and win the tournament.

The Rams are led by senior guard Anthony Taylor, who averaged 16.5 points per game and 4.5 assists per game this season.

The Statesmen are led by senior guard Devon Forrest, who averaged 14.2 points per game and 3.8 assists per game this season.

VCU's win means they have advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They will face either the University of Virginia or the University of Alabama in the semifinals.

Southern Mississippi, on the other hand, will be playing in the consolation game and will face either the University of South Carolina or the University of Kentucky.

This is the first time VCU has advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They are looking to advance to the championship game and win the tournament.

Southern Mississippi, on the other hand, will be playing in the consolation game and will face either the University of South Carolina or the University of Kentucky.

This is the first time VCU has advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They are looking to advance to the championship game and win the tournament.

The Rams are led by senior guard Anthony Taylor, who averaged 16.5 points per game and 4.5 assists per game this season.

The Statesmen are led by senior guard Devon Forrest, who averaged 14.2 points per game and 3.8 assists per game this season.

VCU’s win means they have advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They will face either the University of Virginia or the University of Alabama in the semifinals.

Southern Mississippi, on the other hand, will be playing in the consolation game and will face either the University of South Carolina or the University of Kentucky.

This is the first time VCU has advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They are looking to advance to the championship game and win the tournament.

Southern Mississippi, on the other hand, will be playing in the consolation game and will face either the University of South Carolina or the University of Kentucky.

This is the first time VCU has advanced to the semifinals of the NIT. They are looking to advance to the championship game and win the tournament.

The Rams are led by senior guard Anthony Taylor, who averaged 16.5 points per game and 4.5 assists per game this season.

The Statesmen are led by senior guard Devon Forrest, who averaged 14.2 points per game and 3.8 assists per game this season.
Goode agrees to run in Penn Relays' celebrity event

By BARRY DUBROW

Mayor Wilson Chadwick will participate in a celebrity race at this year's Penn Relays, according to the mayor's chief of staff, Nick Constan.

The mayor will have a four-man relay team from his staff in a four-person celebrity relay event, scheduled for Saturday April 8.

In addition to the mayor, President Judie Court of the Court of Common Pleas Edward Beatty confirmed yesterday that he will have a four-man relay team from his staff, and Student Senator Sheldon Hackney's office could field the last team for the "Four of Honor" event.

According to Beatty, Hackney had been penciled in to compete in the relay, but "there's no guarantee that he will compete in the five-man relay"

"Something has come up for the day that makes it impossible for [Beatty] to compete in Hackney's office," said Beatty.

"The idea is that [the mayor] will bring the Chadwicks down and he will open the Quakers' four-man relay on Thursday, April 6," said Beatty. "The mayor was notified that we are coordinating with the Quakers' office on when their relay will run."

Olanoff said that the mayor is a "firm believer in promoting city-wide activities.

"This will be a race of delivering old timers against the younger generation," said Olanoff. "But he likes to see that the mayor can exemplify the positive effort to give to our community."

"How can anyone be an athlete in 80 years?" said Olanoff. "He doesn't have the time to think of how to win a game."

"He's very happy to help," said Olanoff.

Beatty, who was contacted by the mayor "a little late in the game," said that he "is all set to go," but still has to coordinate his schedule with the mayor's office.

"We're just trying to get one together at this point. No official acceptance has been made," said Beatty. "But the mayor has been very enthusiastic about doing it. It will be a great event for the kids and it will be another event that the city council will join the competition.

"I called up (City Councilman) Michael Toscas, Longstreet last week," said Beatty, "and speaking of it that the mayor has been very interested."

"He's always on campus and stops you to ask, "he'll have a great season," said the mayor."

"The mayor came down to Franklin Field to give a talk to the football players."

"We're going to have a runoff in the last 100 meters," said Beatty. "I'm trying to get in touch with Ms. Welin."

"He'll have a great season," said the mayor.

---

W. Fencing derailed in NCAAAs

Galassi defeats Hall as Wayne St. downs
Quakers in semifinals

By ALAN SCHWARZ

PRINCETON, N.J. — The Princeton University women's fencing team, which has qualified for the NCAA championships in each of the four years it has entered the tournament, was eliminated Saturday at the hands of the Harvard University men's team in the opening round of the NCAA semifinals.

The Quakers lost to the Crimson, 4-3, in the first round of the tournament, and will now face the winner of the Harvard-Stanford match in the second round.

"The win is a credit to the Harvard team," said Princeton head coach Galassi. "They were able to gain momentum and come back from 7-5 deficit to win.

"We weren't thinking of it, no, we're coming back," said Princeton captain Galassi. "The most total touches the victory."

"The winning certainly would motivate us against the winners.

---

Baseball cruise, 15-2, as Snidt dominates

Kirk Fredendall/Daily Pennsylvanian

Tom Piscatelli connects during the baseball team's 15-2 win.

Baseball cruises, 15-2, as Snidt dominates

By TROY CRBRESTER

President Sheldon Hackney, Nicholas Constan is a top student at Wharton graduate school, is a hardworking student who has refused to allow his busy schedule to interfere with his commitment to the university.

"I root for teams on which I know participants," said Constan. "I don't understand the game at all. I've never been to a game."

"I have to select my team from a group of judges," said Constan. "I've got six or seven judges competing for the last three remaining spots."

"I'm going to get six or seven judges competing for the last three remaining spots," said Constan. "I've got six or seven judges competing for the last three remaining spots."

"The mayor has been very enthusiastic about doing it. It will be a great event for the kids and it will be another event that the city council will join the competition.

"I called up (City Councilman) Michael Toscas, Longstreet last week," said Beatty, "and speaking of it that the mayor has been very interested."

"He's always on campus and stops you to ask, "he'll have a great season," said the mayor."

"The mayor came down to Franklin Field to give a talk to the football players."

"We're going to have a runoff in the last 100 meters," said Beatty. "I'm trying to get in touch with Ms. Welin."

"He'll have a great season," said the mayor.

---

Baseball cruise, 15-2, as Snidt dominates

Kirk Fredendall/Daily Pennsylvanian

Tom Piscatelli connects during the baseball team's 15-2 win.

Baseball cruise, 15-2, as Snidt dominates

By TROY DRITRE

President Sheldon Hackney, Nicholas Constan is a top student at Wharton graduate school, is a hardworking student who has refused to allow his busy schedule to interfere with his commitment to the university.

"I root for teams on which I know participants," said Constan. "I don't understand the game at all. I've never been to a game."

"I have to select my team from a group of judges," said Constan. "I've got six or seven judges competing for the last three remaining spots."

"I'm going to get six or seven judges competing for the last three remaining spots," said Constan. "I've got six or seven judges competing for the last three remaining spots."

"The mayor has been very enthusiastic about doing it. It will be a great event for the kids and it will be another event that the city council will join the competition.

"I called up (City Councilman) Michael Toscas, Longstreet last week," said Beatty, "and speaking of it that the mayor has been very interested."

"He's always on campus and stops you to ask, "he'll have a great season," said the mayor."

"The mayor came down to Franklin Field to give a talk to the football players."

"We're going to have a runoff in the last 100 meters," said Beatty. "I'm trying to get in touch with Ms. Welin."

"He'll have a great season," said the mayor.