GSAC postpones board elections

The Graduate Student Association Council postponed its Executive Board elections until April 24 so that the student body could "get involved in the process." The GSAC has approved a new elections process that is "less expensive, time consuming, and face less administrative hurdles."

City board delays Smith Hall decision

Kaplan, president of the University, made clear that the Senate would not consider the site of Smith Hall until April 22. The decision was made in a meeting with Walker on April 17. Kaplan said that the board considered all options, including demolishing the old building and building a new one, but that the new building would be too expensive. He added that the proposed site is important for the University because it would allow scientists to "creatively" work together in their research. Politicians rally to support Navy Yard, thousands of area jobs

By MARGARET KANE
Staff Writer

The Philadelphia Naval Shipyard sits on the edge of Broad Street, surrounded by lawns and the guards, and it could be a block of Chestnut Hill, with old brick houses and the Naval Station, which is located at the old base, were recommended for closure by the Department of Defense on Friday. The Navy Yard may be part of the conversion plan, which has resulted from "declining defense budgets," Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said in a statement.

But behind the pleasant exterior, both sides of the Delco Defense is endeavoring for the Yard, a natural reaction with such a large constituency in danger.

After Cheney's announcement on Friday and again at a press conference just outside of the Yard on Monday, Philadelphia area Congressmen have visited the Defense Department's decision-making process just outside of the Yard on Monday to fight for the Yard, a natural reaction with such a large constituency in danger.

The workers in the yard also fear that the politicians' willingness to fight was well received by the workers in the Yard who have jobs that may be lost in the conversion process.

The Navy says contracts on a business-like basis, Foglietta said. "We're just beginning to fight, and we're going to get it done," Foglietta said. "No other base in the United States has a better argument on merit," Foglietta said. "We have the best argument. If they take the facts and they take the arguments and if they logically ignore this, they will lose," Foglietta said. "We're just beginning to fight, and we're going to get it done." Foglietta said that he is prepared to support the base.

Robert Andrews U.S. Representative, (D-N.J.), tells reporters that Philadelphia's Yard is the most efficient of the nation's naval bases. "They are well connected in the Philadelphia and the Northeast," said Andrews. "Our neighbors in Texas, North Carolina, South Carolina, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana and Tennessee, they do not have layoffs as high as in Philadelphia and the Northeast. There is politicking indicated?

"We've got the facts on our side," said Andrews. "We've got the workers on our side, and they are the best work force in the country. According to politicians, the closing will be able to stick it out. There is politicking indicated?" Andrews said.

Dear President Hackney:

Since I doubt I’ll ever actually talk to you in person, I thought that this would be the best way to tell you how I feel about the University and your place in it.

Architects and planners are the most visible part of the University. You have the power to dramatically change the lives of a lot of people who live, work and study here.

to the criminals of Philadelphia. As the president, you are the most powerful person in this place, and the alumni have lives of their own. We and the students who are most affected by this should be considered the focal point of your concern. Without this practice it is doubly important that you do your job as the source and should be treated as such.

As members of fraternities, we are not deciding the fate of fraternities. We are deciding the fate of academic life. We are deciding the fate of a lot of people’s lives. And we are deciding the fate of your presidency.

At the same time, you must consider the needs of the individual student. As Helen Chen, a senior, wrote recently, "[The fraternity party restrictions] may be serious, but they do not prevent the existence of a good time... It's unusual not to want to be selfish about what a fantastic place this is. I'll take yours with me to the grave."

The Ombudsman’s latest report revealed that between July 1, 1989, and June 30, 1990, 16 cases of sexual harassment were reported to the office, 15 of which were filed by students. Of the sexual harassment complaints filed, 16 cases resulted in letters of reprimand, seven resulted in suspension, and three cases resulted in termination of employment. The report also indicated that administrators will give the committee guidelines, such as the percentage of sexual harassment complaints filed on campus, the number of individuals who have felt sexually harassed, and the number of individuals who have not reported complaints.

The report singles out graduate and professional students as “the members of our community most vulnerable to sexual harassment.” In their student roles, they rely on the power professors wield over the students they advise. “I think sexual harassment is a problem very much linked to graduate students and it is, at this point, somewhat a byproduct of the power professors wield over the students they advise.”

In May, administrators announced a new center would be established by the end of this month,Granada said. The architects are finishing the first phase of work, and the center will be complete by the end of the summer.

The master plan, first presented in January, suggested the campus center would be a two-building complex. The center will be located between 37th and 38th streets and Walnut and Chestnut streets, and will be complete by the end of this month, Granada said.

Stock market surges toward record

NEW YORK — The stock market surged yesterday in a flurry of buying spurred by new confidence that the economy is on the verge of recovery.

The Dow Jones industrial average jumped 131.74 points to close at 2,986.88, the third-highest close ever for the key barometer. The advance came to 214.48 million shares, up from 161.80 million in the previous session.

Among other actively traded blue-chip issues, AT&T rose 15/8 to 37 1/2, Philip Morris was up 15/8 at 71 5/8, BankAmerica was up 1 1/2 at 39, and BankAmerica was up 3 at 58. VA to close at 80; American Express gained 2 1/8 to 52 5/8.

Among banking and financial service issues, Wells Fargo, which rose 3 1/4 to 21 1/2, was the biggest gainer in that sector. The Federal Reserve's decision to hold interest rates steady spurred buying in those stocks on regional exchanges.

Even as the talks broke, unions still insisted that they were willing to try to avoid a strike. Wytkind said he was unaware of any substantive new proposal.

U.S. will send troops to help Kurds

WASHINGTON — The Bush administration said yesterday that U.S. military forces will begin moving into and out of northern Iraq to help with the evacuation of Kurdish refugees fleeing the army of Saddam Hussein.

It was the first announcement of U.S. ground forces being deployed in Iraq since the cease-fire took effect.

White House press secretary Marsha Berube emphasized that American personnel would not get involved in the following Kurdish uprising against Baghdad.

"There is no longer any need for the Kurds and their allies to be fighting the Iraqis," she said. "They're no longer involved in the conflict."

The administration has been caught between internal calls for U.S. assistance for the Kurds and Baghdad's reluctance to become enmeshed in the turmoil that has engulfed Iraq since the cease- fire on March 2 to defeat the invaders.

The Kurds are the nation's largest minority group and have nationalistic aspirations.

The plan to send U.S. forces was "open-ended until the U.S. relief agencies take over. We don't expect that to be a long period of time, but probably a number of days before they're set up and able to take over completely," said Fitzwater.

Fitzwater said the United States had sent nearly 800 people, primarily medical personnel, to help out wherever they could and in the relief effort.

"There is no U.S. forces that are moving in and out of northern Iraq to help with anything," he said. "The Kurds who have been involved in meetings are assured that this would be a temporary effort and the troops would be pulled out when the situation returns to normal.

M. Lax faces midweek test at C.W. Post

POST, from page 14 and every chance to play is a bonus as far as Mix is concerned.

"We also have to look at it as an opportunity to improve," he said. "That's been our approach most of the season."

Overall, the sentiment seems to be that the team can only benefit from getting a chance to play, even if it is on a Wednesday afternoon on Long Island.

"It's good to keep playing as much as we can," senior attackman Chris Conforti said. "It's something to get excited about.

"If we had a whole week off from games, it might give us too much time to think about Brown. Right now, Post is first and foremost in our minds."

Pen will have to make do once again without the services of senior midfielder John Dick. Dick is scheduled to be released from the hospital today, where he is recovering from knee surgery to clean his left patellar bursar sack from an infection. The hope now is that Dick will be available to play at Syracuse on April 27.

Senior attackman Chris Shoemaker was on the sidelines during practice yesterday due to pinched cartilage in his knees, but will make the trip to C.W Post. He will be examined by the trainer before the game and hopes to be cleared to play.

M. Track practices towards perfection

PERFECT, from page 14 three Quaker athletes did run well enough to qualify for the IC4As, scheduled for May 18-19 at James Madison.

Junior Brian Matthews' time of 10.6 seconds in the 100-meter dash earned him qualifying honors, while sophomores Mike Anderson and Mike Lyons qualified in the 5000 with times of 14:20 and 14:30, respectively.

Other Quaker successes included the 4x100 relay team's win, sophomore Scott Hens' first in the steeplechase, senior Mike Holliday's victory in the javelin, junior co-captain Cecil Smart's victory in the 400 hurdles and the 4x400 relay's team's first place finish.

Another development that dampened the affair was the failure of some of the star athletes from the competition — All-American hurdlers Manhattan junior Steve & Neal, Syracuse senior Martin Ellis and junior Kevin McQueen also of Syracuse — to show.

"The meet didn't end up as having a good of a competitive field as expected," junior Jason Costner said. "Many of their star athletes didn't come."

A number of Quaker athletes also were taken out of their events to avoid the risk of injury on a cold and damp day.

"Unfortunately, the terrible weather prevented us from doing any of the things we wanted to do," Powell said. "We had to pull some people out. We were not going to get them hurt."

A lot of campus rapes start here.

whenever there's drinking or drugs, things can get out of hand.

So it's no surprise that many campus rapes involve alcohol.

But you should know that under any circumstances, sex without the other person's consent is considered rape. A felony, punishable by prison. And drinking is no excuse.

Thats why, when you party, it's good to know what your limits are.

You see, a little sobering thought now can save you from a big problem later.
