Kappa Sig brothers catch intruder

By ADAM HELLMAN

Staff Writer

Kappa Sigma brothers Jeremy Rossen and Kenneth Liu had a good reason for staying up all night last Thursday. "Most of us brothers thought they were silly," Rossen said. "I heard a window rattling, I froze and watched to see what was happening." Rossen said the man behind the mystery was trying to catch a crook.

The burglar entered at 3:50 a.m. "I heard a window rattling, I froze and watched to see what was happening," Rossen said. "I heard a man, later identified as Wendell Porter, glancing into the hallway room and left, probably because he heard Liu moving." Porter entered the downstairs and turned on a light. "It was the same routine" Rossen said.

According to Liu, Rosson, leisureed after around 90 minutes of waiting and began snoring gently. "The burglar entered through the rear of the house television room, opened the lights, and covered themselves with cushions. Rosson brought a portable television with him in case he had to call the police," Liu said.

Thief shot twice by two officers

By DAMON CHEISON

Daily Pennsylvanian Staff Writer

An attempt by Philadelphia Police Friday night to apprehend a man wanted for the shooting of a Pennsylvania State Police officer last week resulted in one officer being shot in the leg. A second officer was also wounded but was not seriously injured. The suspect later surrendered and was taken into custody.

The incident began when a witness called police at 4:30 p.m. to report seeing a man wanted for the shooting of a Pennsylvania State Police officer last week.

The suspect, identified as Louis Volka and Andrew McDowell, both 21, was located in the 1900 block of Eakins Oval. The officers, identified as Detective Frank Betzolosky of the Philadelphia Police Department's West Detective Division, were on the scene when they were approached by the suspect.

As they approached the suspect, he opened fire on the officers, wounding one of them in the leg. The officers returned fire, hitting the suspect twice. He was then taken into custody.

Sen. Wofford to speak at U. on health reform

By DRAINE SVE

Daily Pennsylvanian Staff Writer

Sen. Harris Wofford (D-Pa.), who seconded former U.S. attorney general Robert Torricelli in November, will speak at the University today.

Wofford will address national health reform as the Leonard Davis Institute for Health Economics' 3rd annual Visiting Congressional Fellow Program's keynote speaker.

In his victory speech, Wofford defended national health insurance programs. "I'm not going to sign up for the health care plan that the administration is proposing," Wofford said. "I'm going to sign up for the plan that's going to work for the middle class."

Russian leaders declare one year emergency state

ALGIERS, Algeria - Cupping a bloody mutinying confrontation with Muslim fundamentalists, the ruling council Sunday declared a 12-month state of emergency to quash nada violence.

The move comes hours after police seized the central headquarters of the fundamentalists, the Islamic Salvation Front. It also came amid worsening clashes by fundamentalists and the security forces that have left at least 180 dead and several hundred injured in the last week.

The emergency decree issued by the five-member High State Council, which assumed power after last month's coup, was broadcast on state television Sunday evening. It did not give details of the emergency provisions.

But in two previous emergencies in the past four years, security forces were granted broad powers of arrest and detention.

The announcement said the emergency decree was effective for one year, but could be lifted earlier.

Speculation had been growing in recent weeks that the government would impose a state of emergency as part of the crackdown on the fundamentalists.

Earlier Sunday, the head of the army-backed ruling council, Mohamed Boudiaf, had insisted the council would take control of Parliament in what would be the first free parliamentary elections since Algeria gained independence from France in 1962.

The competing protests, less than a year after the 1992 elections, were reported in Chelyabinsk and Omsk, also in Siberia. Russian media said.

The rally was organized by a loose coalition of groups that include the Russian Communist Party, the Moscow Labor Party and the Russian Confederation of Allies, or Oms. They are united by their opposition to the government and nationalists and the old union was one of the leading political parties in the country.

The hard-liners' rally in Moscow, where tens of thousands were said to have paraded in the rain, was one of the big events of its kind since the cold war. Recent rallies by pro-communist and other traditional political parties drew more than 500 people, so Sunday's turnout underscored growing support for the hard-liners in the face of organized opposition from the hard-party.

In the heat of battle, the Army Black Knights swept the Penn Quakers with a final score of 168-127 on Saturday at Sheerr Pool. The Quakers, who entered the meet as the No. 1 team in the Ivy League, were out of the meet in the distance events, but they won the 200 breast and 200 butterfly to put themselves up 13 points with nine events to go.

With 68 points, the army took control of the meet. "The meet was a nice stepping stone as the team now prepares for the Ivy league," said Barbara Blackson, CoreStates Human Resources, FC 1-3-14-23, P.O. Box 7618, Philadelphia. "It was great to go out with a win in our last home meet." Blackson said, "We tried not to think about it that much during the meet, but when it was over, it felt really good." The Quakers refused to go under, and senior captain Bill Thompson said, "The meet was a nice way for the whole team to finish," Lawlor-Gilbert said. "We just wanted to win." Thompson added, "Perhaps the greatest motivator of the Quakers was the knowledge that for the seniors, this was the last meet most of their Penn careers. "It was great to go out with a win in our last home meet," Blackson said. "I'm really going to miss Brenda and I'm really going to miss Brenda." Lawlor-Gilbert said. "We've had a great attitude going into this meet," Thompson said. "We were really excited, and we went in with the feeling that we needed to win and we did," Thompson said. "The meet was psyched up, and everyone knew we had to have beaten them. We knew that we had to have beaten them, and we did." With Penn down by 25, Black knight Bill Thompson exploded out of the blocks with a huge 8.48 in the 100 fly, and they didn't lose it in the last 50 yards. With the native victory in the 100 fly, Army opened up its lead to 118-103, and it seemed like the meet was over, as each followed with the backstroke and butterfly to seal the deal.

Penn sweeps, but Coach not thrilled
M. Hoops defeats Big Red and Lions

By MATT KELLY
Daily Pennsylvanian Sports Writer

Penn hoops returned to added respectability under Coach Jeff Bower in 1991-92. The Quakers, coached by the Big Red, 83-74, and the 1
