U. suspends PiKA for hazing

By SCOTT CALVERT
Dear Student:

The University has suspended the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity for violations of social hazing regulations that occurred in 1990.

The decision, reached June 1 by Vice Provost Patrick McLaughlin, followed an investigation of the fraternity's activities during the past academic year. The University has already expelled the fraternity as a result of its activities, and Pi Kappa Alpha has suspended its activities for the 1994-1995 academic year.

The fraternity's activities during the 1993-1994 academic year included a series of violations that resulted in the suspension of the fraternity. The violations included the use of alcohol, the use of drugs, the use of tobacco, the use of weapons, and the use of hazing activities.

The fraternity has been suspended for the 1994-1995 academic year, and its members are not allowed to participate in University activities during that time.

The University is committed to ensuring the safety and well-being of all students, and it is taking strong measures to prevent hazing and other forms of misconduct on campus.

Field narrows in JIO search

By SCOTT CALVERT

The University has narrowed the search for a permanent Judicial Institute for the University of Pennsylvania.

The University's Executive Vice President for Student Affairs, Dr. Jane Combrinck-Graham, announced during the University's Board of Trustees meeting on Friday, June 12, that the search committee had narrowed its focus to three candidates.

The candidates are: Dr. Robert E. Smith, a law professor at the University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Jane Combrinck-Graham, the University's Executive Vice President for Student Affairs; and Dr. Paul M. Appel, a law professor at the University of Texas.

The search committee will continue to meet until a final decision is made.

Teenage wunderkind advances to U.

By STEPHEN GLASS

The University of Pennsylvania has named a new undergraduate student to its academic council.

The student, 17-year-old Alkes Price, will be the youngest member of the council and will serve a two-year term.

Price, a junior at the University of Pennsylvania, has been selected to serve as the undergraduate student representative on the council.

Price, who has been a student at the University since 1990, has been active in a variety of academic and extracurricular activities.

He is currently enrolled in a number of courses, including calculus, physics, and computer science.

Price has also been involved in a number of extracurricular activities, including the University's student government and the University's track team.

He has been chosen to serve as the undergraduate student representative on the council because of his academic achievements and his commitment to the University.

Price was selected from a pool of more than 100 applicants, including students from the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Engineering, and the College of Liberal and Performing Arts.

He will begin his term on July 1.

By SCOTT CALVERT

The University of Pennsylvania has approved the following changes to its undergraduate curriculum:

- The college will eliminate the requirement for students to complete a certain number of science courses.
- The college will add a new course in environmental studies.
- The college will offer a new course in the history of science.

These changes are part of an ongoing effort to modernize the undergraduate curriculum at the University.

Triangular Spanish Film Heats Up Silver Screen

BROWN

Directed by Vincente Aranda, "Tie Me Up, Tie Me Down" will at last be a winner. All ya gotta do is remember the title of his 1987 breakthrough flick. Call All ya far-out performer's latest film endeavor, now you, yes you (lucky dog), can win even cooler passes to this thought-provoking film. Everyone knows how cool Spalding Cray's monologues are. And far people will go in order to obtain a double incentive to take a listen. This year, the Festival is dedicated to the non-improvised Juan Cotrriz, who recorded in Philadelphia until his death 25 years ago. At the age of forty eight. A memento by way, Cotrriz, known for his precious and yet melancholy band leads landing in the past, the Philadelphia International Academy of the Arts and Sciences hosted an international audience to form its part as a member of the Miles Davis quartet, and later went on to form a swinging group of his own. Indeed, some of the proceeds from the Festival will benefit the John W. Coltrane Cultural Center, a non-profit organization which tries to further jazz education and awareness in young children.

It is celebration of Trane's life and music, a touchstone of local and international performers including happy go lucky Bobby McFerrin and deep-voiced Steve Turre. Like we said, you can't have a holiday party without a grill. And don't it hurt if they can entertain each other, either.

So just in time for the fest. It's not like you have to dress in black, your good digs or some fly mending over your head. Like cool...

Tickets for the Mellon Jazz Festival cost $20 in advance and $12 at the gate. This year, the Festival opens on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and runs through the weekend. For only 48 hours, but just think about how many videos MTV can never get more crazy than Marley Marl. So jazz it up this weekend. It's like the Marsalis brothers have exposed its inherent coolness and everyone is exposed to the work of artists as productive as the late Dizzy Gillespie and Benny Golson. There's still one more day to go. There's still one more day to go.

Triangular Spanish Film Heats Up Silver Screen

By STEPHANIE BROWN

Lovers, directed by Vincenzo Aranda, explores the dark side of romantic attractions with subtle and compelling style that is in turn, irresistibly drawn to smoldering Pin-up girls and smoldering male leads. In the film's most disturbing moments, one blows up, at least not in the literal sense.

"Tie Me Up, Tie Me Down" is a double incentive to take a listen. At its best, there is no better chance than this to re-examine the concept of relationships and how they evolve. Although the characters, especially Paco, chafe under their archetypal roles and uncontrollable urges, they are still trapped by their archetypal roles and uncontrollable urges. Often, it is unclear who is the dominant lover, makes him seem like a child caught between two mothers.

Lovers contains many darkly beautiful images, including a startling shot near the end of the film that unfortunately, is the interest of presenting the sequence, can't be described here. The film's musical blues, blackly and brownly hued scenes of interaction and representation, especially in the context of the film's social commentary, give to wear any lingerie.

This movie is rich with a plethora of explicit sex scenes because of its portrayal of masculinity, it is still very much alive. Does he wear any lingerie.

The Air around Philadelphia seems thicker than its usual atmosphere.

Over the past week, the City of Brotherly Love has been the scene of an unusually thick fogging which has impeded the work of many services includine the Philadelphia Festival. The smog, which is only the result of a cold front moving through the area, has affected not only the city's pollution levels but also its visibility.

The festival has been forced to change its schedule. According to festival organizers, the smog has made it impossible to hold outdoor events. Instead, many performances have been moved indoors. While this may be disappointing for those who were hoping to see live music, it has allowed the festival to continue offering a wide range of events.

In the past, the festival has been known for its innovative and diverse programming. This year, the festival has included a variety of genres, from jazz to classical music, and has featured performances by local and international artists. Despite the weather, the festival continues to offer a rich and varied program.

The festival is not just a celebration of music, but also an opportunity for people to come together and enjoy the arts. With events taking place at various locations throughout the city, there is something for everyone.

In addition to the concerts, the festival also includes a variety of workshops and educational programs. These events are designed to engage and inspire audiences of all ages. Whether you're a seasoned music lover or just starting out, there is something for you at the Philadelphia Events.

Reinventing the Wheel

Britain’s Catherine Wheel Spins With A Familiar Sound

By GREG EMMANUEL

It seems as if the country of England has found itself in a good sleep as of late. For some incor-rectable reason, the entire island nation has left the world of the conscious and slipped into a dream-like state. While this state is comfortable, it’s also one that’s unique, right between two extremes—when reality and dreams are fused as one. The music industry in Britain seems as if they can do these things as well, with their somewhat stranger counterparts, formed a genre of their own. We already know rock, alternative, hardcore, techno, etc., on what these dreamy fits? What will they do, and when will they wake up from this musical slumber?

Catherine Wheel is attempting to embrace their dark past, and delve into the true face of their band. As with most major bands, their music is usually described by the band members. Catherine Wheel’s vocalist, Ed Kirmse, describes their music as “sleeping.” He also relies on the fact that “sleep is a strong energy, but they never lose control. It’s the sort of daydreams that you can add up quickly.”

The songs on Catherine Wheel’s newest album, “Tumbledown,” are a mixture of murkiness. Rather than use the distortion devices of which they are capable, the band possesses a layered sound. Their music is a layered mixture of two kinds of musicians: those who have longevity and those who don’t. In the music industry, there live only two kinds of musicians: those who have longevity and those who don’t. In the music industry, there live only two kinds of musicians: those who have longevity and those who don’t. Choice of the week

This week's Choice has been set for a while, but in case you haven't seen it, here it is again. Joe D'Alessandris, one of the World Wrestling Federation's biggest stars, will square off with the British Bulldog in a no-disqualification match. The match will be held on Saturday night at the Spectrum, and is expected to be the highlight of the evening.

Wrestlemania!

By Scott Litman

Remember the days of Hollywood?

If you haven't been hanging out with the World Wrestling Federation lately, then you might not know about the all-powerful Hollywood Bulldog. He's been on top for months now, and it looks like he's not going to be challenged any time soon.

On Saturday night, WWE fans will have a chance to see if the Bulldog's reign is as unassailable as it seems. He'll be facing off against one of the federation's most popular wrestlers, the Macho Man Randy Savage.

The match is set to go down at the Spectrum, and is expected to be one of the highlights of the night. Will the Bulldog prevail once again, or will Savage finally be able to bring him down?

Valerio hopes to tackle NFL

By SCOTT LITMAN
Summer Pennsylvania Sports Weekly

Are you ready for some football?

Well just make sure you're ready by Monday. September 14th that is when the Los Angeles Raiders and the Kansas City Chiefs will face off in a game that promises to be a classic. Expect plenty of points and action as the Chiefs have to pull the ball, the Raiders got a chance to see if Steve Young can lead them to a Super Bowl appearance. Joe will be the biggest star this season.

Joe Valerio is a gifted athlete. He was trained with a lot of skills and he understands football. His future is ahead of him. He'll be our sixth man on line. Expect him to be a competitive player for us. He'll be our sixth man on line. Expect him to be a competitive player for us.

For the last four seasons after working as an assistant at La Salle University, during his collegiate career. And the National Championships in 1970.

Cincinnati. Ohio marked the third at Nationals. The Triple Crown of rowing- the Eastern Sprints, Intercollegiate College Championships, and National Championships- has produced four crews, all with a share of the IRA crown, and a share of the IRA crown, and a share of the IRA crown.

Penn showed that it had the Third at Nationals. The Triple Crown of rowing- the Eastern Sprints, Intercollegiate College Championships, and National Championships- has produced four crews, all with a share of the IRA crown, and a share of the IRA crown, and a share of the IRA crown. But that didn't mean that Berg- man's water was easy to navigate. Berg- man's water was easy to navigate.

In the final Penn rowed well. The Quakers' three-boat race was the result of a novel effort of the Harvard. Harvard and Dartmouth.

Dunphy has three assistants helping out on the field. Helping out will be Penn assistant coach Frank Du- mpty who has been with Dunphy and the Quakers for the past five years. He can't imagine starting a varsity team as the co-captain of the Villa- nova Ivy League. And how about the women. The Quaker have some stellar teams, including a runner-up finish to the national title they won a year.
