Students sickened by flu symptoms

By CARA TANAMACHI

Five University students have been sickened by flu symptoms, with one student being hospitalized for this winter's flu-like symptoms of a cold.

"We're in the midst of a flu epidemic that currently occurs at the time of year," said College sophomore Jeff Chen. "This is the fifth day and the situation is getting worse."

Chen added that Student Health Services has been seeing a lot of students, and he was referred to a local hospital for the second time. He was then released from the hospital, but there was no one there."

"The assumption is that we will not be mentioned in the governor's budget," said Stephen Golding, who was one of the victims of the epidemic. "My name was mentioned a little more special because the governor's budget."

While the governor did not recommend funding for the University, he did recommend funding for other universities.

"The governor did not recommend funding for the University," said Mary Soderberg, who is the chair of the College. "Now the students are equally pessimistic about the budget."

While University officials say they sympathize with black student groups, they are concerned that media reports may be giving the wrong impression about the University Police Department, according to University Police Captain Hector Benitez.

Many University Police officers said they felt that media reports such as a recent article in the Philadelphia Daily News were not fair to the men and women who work for the department.

The real problem blacks have is that we're not educationally and economically developed enough at this point. But if you give your whole life over to nothing more than fighting it, you're going to stay behind. You're not going to become competitive. You're not going to be able to do anything else. Comission proposes $14,000 in aid ftw all students

By KIMBRLY MAY

The National Commission on Responsibility for Financing Postsecondary Education proposed making $14,000 per year in grants available to all students in need of financial aid.

Commission Executive Director Jamie Merisotis said last week that low income students are eligible to apply for up to $14,000 primarily in unsubsidized grants, with some loans.

Other proposals are similar to those of the Clinton administration, said Merisotis, and will be released next week.

The report has been criticized for its high cost. In a statement, Representative Steve Gunderson (R-WI), a major supporter of the proposal, said the cost was "too high" to support in the first year of the program.

According to Merisotis, students could apply for unsubsidized loans. These loans, however, do not have the same responsibilities for loan repayment. subsidized grants, with some loans.

Most University officials said they are equally enthusiastic about Casey's decision.

Funding

Golding added that the governor presented two methods of loan repayment. Clinton advocated both plans during the campaign, and outlined them when he approached the funding issue as if the University for the University unless the University unless the University unless the M. Track can’t get past Princeton

By SETH LADETSKY

Some days a team can hustle, hustle all the way, play hard in this world, and yet something goes wrong, something goes wrong. The Princeton men’s indoor track team had such a day on Saturday against archrival Penn at the Armory.

The Quakers went in with the confidence that they were a better championship team than Princeton, but this was not a championship meet, it was a dual meet where depth is essential.

Being a good dual meet team, and being a good championship team, is different. But often the best dual-meet teams are those who have a deep crew. Coach Charlie Powell said: "They had more depth than us and they "eat people up." We are better outside, but inside, we just didn't have a good shot at the guns. We did what we needed to, but we didn't execute."

First voodoo festival held in Benin

OUIDADAR, Benin - President Niccols Ouro held the world's first international festival on voodoo culture and arts yesterday, saying the ancient religion is a link joining Africans and Americans with their ancestry.

Soglo spoke at a ceremony on the beach at Ouidad, where thousands of believers, where thousands of believers were taken into slavery in the Americas in the 16th century.

Deli owner finds bomb in coffee can

JERUSALEM - A Tel Aviv delicatessen owner yesterday noticed a can of coffee beans near a sink and discovered a bomb inside, police said.

"I looked it and it made a noise. I took a screwdriver to open it and saw inside wires and batteries and pieces of metal," said the owner, a former park ranger.

He called the police, who found a plastic bag, where the detonator was located, for more than an hour as police officers searched the area. None was found, said Tel Aviv police spokes-

The Rev. Domenic Johnson, a Benedictine priest and former clerical aide of the bishop, wrote a book last year called "The Bishop's Body," which he says was "one-sided" and the author, a former priest, was "blackballed in the diocese."

The book by Peter DeSchaal tells the story of how Bishop Casey helped him to get a job as a priest in the former bishop of Galway after a secret romance.

W. Fencing has easy weekend

by DEBRA M. GLANZ

After the brutal loss to Princeton last weekend, the Penn women’s tour-ning ended just what the doctor orered — Penn creeps out to get it. The Quakers, who found themselves fencing with tough teams like the Elis, engraved last week’s crushing loss by routing Harvard 16-0 and Yale 12-4.

Penn’s 8-1 Ivy League (7-3 overall) victory last weekend, however, has them going into the meet and I think it looks like a good thing.

Senior captain Roben Koleans
Kovic said. “It feels good to go out like this,” she said. “We rocked and rolled.”

We’re starting a new momentum.

Penn junior Rachel Mehta went 7-2 on the day and all of her bouts were competitive. “I wasn’t concerned about win-ing the Quakers showed the lack of improvement,” she said. “The kids really rose to the occasion and ready to face Cornell in the last couple weeks of the season I think it’s important to feel confident. And we’ll be as dominant as I expected,” Tannenbaum said of the looks performance. “We were unbeatable today.”

Penn coach Dave Mirabelli was impressed with the victories and the way the team performed.”

It was just a superb effort,” Tannenbaum said.

meaningful not only because the Quakers defeated their Ivy League rivals, but because all three weapons, and just about every fencer, made significificant contributions. As captain, Bloom was especially pleased to see this development in the team.

“I can’t carry the team to victory,” Bloom said. “I can carry the team with a great player who can score all of the time and be involved in every bout.”

Savitt, the All-American from Madison, Wis. and top scorer in the American Basketball Association regular season, led the Philadelphia 76ers to their first victory of the year by scoring 40 points in a 100-98 win over the Vancouver Canucks on Sunday at the Spectrum. Ewing, who had been held to 16 points in the 76ers' first three games, scored in every minute of his team's 10th straight victory.

The 6-foot-10 center also pulled down 12 rebounds, had seven assists and two steals in the game. He was 13-of-20 from the field and 6-of-10 from the foul line.

Ewing's performance was the highlight of a game that saw the 76ers score 50 points in the fourth quarter to overcome a 78-61 deficit.

The win extended the team's winning streak to 10 games, tying the longest streak in franchise history.

Ewing's performance was the highlight of a game that saw the 76ers score 50 points in the fourth quarter to overcome a 78-61 deficit.

The win extended the team's winning streak to 10 games, tying the longest streak in franchise history.

A 27-21 lead turned into a 29-point lead at one point in the game, and the Knicks' lead never fell below 14 points.

The victory was the first for the Knicks since they beat the Los Angeles Lakers on Nov. 8.

Ewing scored 12 of his 40 points in the third quarter, when the Knicks outscored the Sixers 31-13.

He also had three assists in that period, and his 40-point game was the most ever scored by a Knicks player against the Sixers.

The win was the Knicks' fifth in six games and gave them a 2-1 record in the Metropolitan Division.
The Penn wrestling team fought its way to a 3-1 weekend. They defeated Ivy League rival Harvard, NYU and SUNY-Albany while losing to Ivy Brown. The Quakers have little time to regroup, for they face across-the-street enemy Drexel tomorrow.
