President Sheldon Hackney is being considered as a candidate for chairmanship of the National Endowment for the Humanities, he and other University officials said last night.

Hackney said he knew his name
"was being talked about," but he did not have been contacted by anybody regarding the possible appointment.

"My name was among those be-eng considered," said Hackney, who has been the chief administrator of the University for 12 years. "This [that] doesn't mean a great deal," he said he has not been contacted by the leadership role.

planned to have been a part of the event until Sunday. He was, however, unable to make his appearance due to unforeseen circumstances.

Following that meeting, she did not go down to physical therapy and talk to the patient, she said. "The patient currently has a broken hand and is in the hospital.

The speech is being marketed as a "focus on student life," a spokesperson for the Office of Student Life Activities organization, Malcom added.

The Foundation of the St. Andrew's Society of Philadelphia offers a Scholarship to Study for a Year in Scotland

The Foundation of the St. Andrew's Society of Philadelphia offers a Scholarship to Study for a Year in Scotland

These Scholarships, of which there are four, are available to young men and women who wish to study in Scotland each academic year. Preference will be given to students who are members of the Society. Scholarships are valued at £1,000 each for each of the majors chosen. Additional expenses above £1,000 are the responsibility of the awardee.
The deadline to apply is March 31, 1993. The Foundation will meet the following requirements:

- Aberdeen, Edinburgh (2), Glasgow, and St. Andrews

Requirements of the Foundation are:

1. The candidate should be an American citizen of the finest quality and be in the first year or second year of their undergraduate degree
2. The candidate must have a record of high marks and good standing at his/her college or university
3. The candidate must agree to attend a meeting of the Society prior to leaving for Scotland, in order to become a member of the Society
4. Preference will be given to students who are members of the Society
5. The selection is made by the Executive Committee of the Foundation, and the decision is final
6. The candidate is responsible for the costs of his/her travel and living expenses

METHOD OF SELECTION:

1. Interested Penn students should fill out an application in the Office of International Programs and provide an offer of admission to a Scottish university or college, and an official transcript of the student's academic record and two letters of recommendation from the student's academic advisor, professor or chair. The student will also be required to write a short statement of why he/she wishes to study in Scotland
2. The student will be required to submit an official transcript of the student's academic record and an official letter of acceptance from the Scottish university or college

The deadline to apply is March 31, 1993.

Keeping the Faith

Voodoo practitioners dispel misconceptions about their religion.

Improve relations with the general public. People’s perceptions of voodoo are still re- pleted with Hollywood-fueled myths of black wizardry and pagan worship. Even the World Wrestling Federation has its own voodoo villain, the spectating assi- tanently possessed sadist, Papa Shango. Yet, according to Mambo, voodoo, which originated among African slaves, is actually very close to traditional Christian religions, voodoo and traditional Catholicism—she said.

In the Western hemisphere, where Judaeo-Christian tradition is predominant, there is little tolerance for religions that don’t fit the mold,” said Ware. “Many of us practice un- derground. We just don’t feel wanted here.” Mambo is a warm, smiling woman in her late 30s, dressed in white lace trim and a baby blue hat, she struck a strong contrast with Erusile Freeda. Mambo, for example, was not a full priestess, she could not conduct the ceremonies. She carried a mirror. She thrashed around some more until she finally collapsed in someone’s arms, her en- ergy being apparently drained of energy.

“I believe in one God. And many Loas.” Mambo洁净 the chanting continued until her facial features changed completely. She thrust around some more until she finally collapsed in someone’s arms, her en- ergy being apparently drained of energy.

“Does anybody else want to worship Satan when they are not a full priestess?” she asked, looking around the room at the beaming faces. “Voodoo is a religion of love.”

People began dancing and singing, ac- companied by various drums and a loud conch. A fit of a rafter a woman shrieked and her hair began flying crazily around her. Her face was covered in white makeup and had appeared on television shows such as “Entertainment Tonight” and “Nightline.”

In the U.S., she spent 15 years in Haiti. In contrast with Erusile Freeda. Mambo has been very close to traditional Christian religions, voodoo and traditional Catholicism—she said.

Red hot dancers take to the stage tonight

"It's not just for people who just like dancing. You don't have to be a connoisseur of the Pennsylvania Ballet to appreciate it."

Stephanie Gill
Wharton senior

The program assures that there is a piece to fit every one of those expectations. The music selections range from Prince’s “My name is Prince” to the “Watermelon Song” by Pat Dog Pondering. The choreography is a creative mixture of jazz, ballet, modern, funk and hip hop. Gill described the dancing as “humorous, creative and original.”

“Pas De Dans,” a piece in the first program, includes everything from plantation to Trinidad streets. “Eight Women,” choreographed by Andrea Lomax, was done to the more serious side of dance. Gill said that the piece “represents a lot of what our banding.”

The company also concentrates on the technical aspects of the show. They use intricate light patterns to enhance the show and confuse the audience into trying to figure out what the lights spell during the breaks between dances. They also create an eerie, suspenseful stage atmosphere with fog.

The Information Technology Department of Goldman, Sachs & Co. will be on campus 2/16

To explore opportunities with us attend our information session 7-9pm 105 Launder Fisher Hall

Our Information Technology Division is truly a state-of-the-art operation. Our commitment is to provide the technological resources globally to support the varied interests of our clients throughout the world.

The objective of our program is to train and provide practical experience to candidates through a series of technical and industry-oriented modules. Upon completion of the training, the participant will be assigned to a position in Information Technology. If you are a motivated, high academic achiever, have taken some computer related courses and have some knowledge of COBOL and/or "C" language, we encourage you to visit with us. Refreshments will be served.

Goldman Sachs

Goldman, Sachs does not discriminate in employment on the basis of age, race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, veteran status or any other basis that is prohibited by federal, state or local law.

AICHD has been preparing for the show since September, according to Correa. Besides dance classes during the week, the company has been holding sing rehearsals on Saturday and Sundays for several months.

Correa explained that the rehearsals involved a lot more than learning the dance steps.

"It's a great experience to learn how to work with 23 people on stage," she said. "You have to learn how to work with people and learn to be responsible for your space."

She was looking forward to the end rollout of the show and the effort that has gone into its making.

"The show symbolizes our hard work," she said. "We see each other about five days a week... we work well together."

It's Red, it's hot, it's the Art House Dance Company's annual show and it’s open tonight.

The participants have broken out their leotards and a variety of other wild outfits in honor of their latest student performed and constructed dance performance, Red.

"The show is about red hot dancers on stage...you can come here to laugh and to meditate and to get excited."

A Standing Problem

To the Editor:

This paper comes in the wake of a student-alumni seating controversy that culminated in a month-long student occupation during the Princeton basketball game on January 17 at the Palestra. I had the opportunity to hear the voices of a small group of faculty and alumni and of students regarding student-alumni seating issues, and I was struck by the passion and conviction with which each side spoke.

What surprised me was the low level of sensitivity and tolerance that either party displayed toward each other's concerns, sensitivity and tolerance that either party would be so fortunate to display toward each other's concerns. The students standing in the lower level, on the other hand, viewed college basketball as a sport and the Palestra as their own. Students in the front row of Section 109 are more than willing to consider the other's viewpoint.

The co-ed international pre-law fraternity Phi Alpha Delta remains the only law organization of any kind committed to meeting the needs of undergraduate students who wish to re-establish the barbed wire spanning the Quad, then University officials would give you a Coke and a smile. And I don't see any barbed wire surrounding their campus, yet. More serious, move to Center City and your fate may match that of the late graduate student Robert Janke, whose killers were convicted last week and sentenced to life in prison.

The barbed wire not only wrongly confines prospective students this spring to the bars of the law school but the situation is going to get worse this summer as new students and 700-800 pre-law students.

The thought of putting barbed wire around one of this school's dormitory security. And the last time I took my head out of my hands who doesn't look like they're origi- nal at one of this school's dormitory security. One week after its installation, the barbed wire unraveling the seating areas was an eyesore. And, boy, oh boy, I've never seen a $10,000 dollars of merchandise be on campus. Why not go to North Broad Street and - where? In the seedy section of the school's buildings. Made at the Quad, then University officials would give you a Coke and a smile. Painting it Red mixes rock, wit and humor

BY MARISA MAYAMA

To watch Painting it Red is to get the feel of both worlds. The Arts House Theater Company's production is a "conceptual" piece, or one that sometimes outlives its usefulness because it is a vehicle for the understanding of the audience.

Theatre loves and music lovers will find something in the institute as they are intertwined within the format of this show alone. From the first notes of "Cry Havoc" to the final notes of "I Am a Man," the music driven story will pull you in. On the other side of the stage, actor-director Liz Vanderbilt's playscripts parallels the various overtones already established. The arts and interaction add a permanent glare on the face where the institute came from the administration itself because there has been at least some research facility.

"I know that if it wasn't for the college kids, and college kids, and college kids," he added. "It's a friend of mine," McDo-

French President visits Cambodia

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia -- French President Francois Mitterrand told Cambodia's rival factions a peace accord would improve chances for a settlement.

The focus of an unprecedented peacemaking effort by former colony since 1966, said Cambodia had been "the most hopelessly divided country in the world," with government and Khmer Rouge forces fighting in the countryside.

"It was a very normal thing," said "Mr. Clinton," who knows about inter-racial relationships because he's been married to a black woman. "It's a very common thing."

GM returns to Ad rates

NEW YORK -- General Motors Corp. said Wednesday it will return to TV ads to NBC News programs because it is satisfied with the network's efforts to apologized for a "Dear John" report on GM wire difficulties.

GM shifted its advertising away from NBC News Monday, the same day NBC aired a story about the wire problems and its aftermath. The network saw a 70 percent drop in share the next day.

Joel Smith, a spokesman for NBC News, said the network also wants to approach GM in an "entertainment show" format of "obviously a positive position that GM was trying to handle."

Penn sophomore forward John Zebrowski opened the scoring for the Quakers by piping in a rebound, but Drexel came back to tie the score at 1-1. Late in the second period after goals by Scott Koenigsberg found the top right corner of the net to make the score 1-1, but Drexel again tied it at 2-1. TheQuakers finally pulled ahead for good with six minutes left in the game when Perlmutter scored during a two-on-one last break in the game 2-0. As hedging an intense rivalry, the game was marred by penalties, the two teams spent a total of forty-four minutes in the box. But unlike previous periods, the penalties were fairly moderate all game, they were satisfied with the refereeing.

M. Schnur: Are they not a better team than we are. They just always beat us.

Mike Schnur: m. track assistant coach

Due to the schedule, Army should naturally have a physical advantage.

"We've had fabulous meets against Army," Penn co-captain Kathy Lauter-Gilbert said. "Ever since Army last beat us, they have been the upper echelon." The Quakers have been consistently improving their times and expect to again do well under the watch of the head coach and assistant coach, Steve Kuster and juniors Rob Morris and Michael McClune must continue to lead the rest of the youthful team by example. Penn will also turn to freshmen divers Zach Schultz and Neal Berger — both of whom have shown remarkable improvement since the beginning of the season.

We have to have 100-percent effort in order to beat Army," Schnur said. "We're going to go in and battle, and we'll see what the results are at the end of the day." Schnur said he was nervous about the meet but he hopes to do his best and simply give in to the Cadets. Whether Penn is able to come from behind with a victory or not, all the Quaker coaching staff can ask for is effort. We're not going to second-guess anything," Lauter-Gilbert said. "We're going up and we do our best." Schnur said he has the most important thing in swimming is that one must not make or break a career. Whichever the case, Penn hopes it will be able to put the 19-season losing streak behind it this weekend.

Ewing's Knicks defeat Olajuwon's Rockets by 30

Parish has marijuana; UM Mass tops St. Joe's; Tulane edges Louisville; Flyers de Montreal

NEW YORK — Patrick Ewing scored 23 points and had 10 rebounds, leading the Knicks to a 120-90 victory over the Houston Rockets tonight. Another win was obtained for the Knicks, who have been working to clean up the image of marijuana, Bertis said.

The Knicks, who got the biggest win of the season in the last game, were in the Krivitis eight straight victories, 12-5 over Houston.

The Knicks, who got out the season high in the victory, also scored a season high in their 103-32 win over the Rockets. Bertis added two points for the Knicks.

Said Bertis, "We're going to have to be a lot sharper than we were in the first half, and we're going to have to be a lot sharper in the second half." He added that the Knicks are going to have to be a lot sharper if they want to win their next game.

The Knicks are 8-6 overall, 2-0 in the Western Conference, and have a three-game lead over the Rockets in the Eastern Conference.

The Knicks are 14-7-1 in their last 22 games, and have a two-game winning streak. Bertis added two points for the Knicks.

"We're going to have to be a lot sharper than we were in the first half, and we're going to have to be a lot sharper in the second half," Bertis said.

He added that the Knicks are going to have to be a lot sharper if they want to win their next game.

Columbia and Cornell pay visit to Penn this weekend, as second-place Columbia and third-place Cornell come to the Palestra.

This is the theme for this year's Penn gymnastics season. The Quakers (1-4 Ivy, 8-10 Overall) will be battling for last place this weekend, as second-place Cornell (5-1, 11-7) is expected to come out on top. The Lions (0-6, 6-12) have never won a dual meet against the Quakers, and in order to do so, they will have to come out on top this weekend.

The Ivy League continues to be a dominant force in women's basketball, with several teams vying for the top spot. The Quakers (7-1, 15-6 Overall) are currently in first place, but the Lions (5-3, 13-8 Overall) are hot on their heels. The game on Saturday will be a crucial one, as the Quakers look to maintain their lead.
