The administration has said the water buffalo form part of the student experience, and that it is a university tradition. However, some students and faculty members have expressed concern about the treatment of the animals.

The city of Philadelphia has paid a mandatory $25-per-regional-living-unit fee for several years. This is in question, as the university does not pay the fee for the next two years.

The city plans to file a suit against the university unless they agree to pay the fee by the next two years. However, the university does not plan to pay the fee at all.

The Pennsylvania Daily Pennsylvanian was named the best college daily newspaper in the nation by the Associated Collegiate Press (ACP) for its annual newspaper competition. The ACP is an organization that publishes a contest for college newspapers in the United States.

An open forum for undergraduates interested in discussing the University’s presidential search committee will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. in Houston Hall.

University Board of Trustees Chairman-Designate John Crawford, chair of the president search committee, and students will be available to discuss to what kind of person they would like the University’s next president to be.

Several committee members will attend the forum, he said.

"Come join us at the Pennsylvania Investment Alliance First General Meeting PVN VOLUNTEER Fair. This September 19th location to be announced soon. Keep reading for more information.

"This is a historic moment for the University. We want Pennsylvania University students to be involved in working for the Pennsylvania University of the future."

"We want to make sure that the University is as exciting as possible."

"The information center has spent most of the summer getting advice from other universities which had recently undergone administrative searches, he said.

"Students said the search committee is "working hard" to include as many suggestions from both inside and outside the University as possible."

"We should celebrate the search committee's success, held in May, was poorly attended. Students said they hoped to see a greater turnout this time."

"This is a historic moment for the University and we want people to be comfortable with new president," he said. "We want to make the University as exciting as possible."

"They are committed to making sure that the children of other states have a good chance of going to the University."

"I think it is very important for students to know students' views and concerns so that we can keep them in mind when interviewing candidates."

A great university.
A great newspaper.

And 8 Great ways to get involved.

In some ways, college is just like high school. You sit in class, listen, and take notes. At test time, you regurgitate the information you've memorized.

But wait. There's more to college life.

Want excitement? The opportunity to meet new people? The chance to learn by doing, not by watching?

Join The Daily Pennsylvanian.

The DP, the 109-year-old daily newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania, is consistently rated one of the top ten college newspapers in the country by the Associated Collegiate Press and the American Newspaper Publishers Association. Up to 34,000 people read the DP every day.

Students, faculty and administrators look to us as their main source of news and information about the University and West Philadelphia. Local businesses see us as the most cost-effective way to present their message to the lucrative Penn market.

Most importantly, the DP — a corporation independent of the University — is run and managed by students. Students just like you. Every day, we write and edit the stories, shoot and develop the photographs, lay out and put together the news pages. Every day, we sell and design the advertisements, handle customer inquiries, and develop budgets and financial statements.

As a DP staff member, you'll get the opportunity to learn in the trenches, to apply what you've learned in the classroom to the real world. From reporting and writing to shooting photographs to selling advertisements to designing pages, you don't watch; you do.

And, in all of our departments, you'll begin doing from day one. All you need is enthusiasm, imagination, and drive — we'll teach you the rest.

B.S.B.A.

The DP means business too. We're not just a campus newspaper — we're an independent corporation in which students call the shots.

At the DP, you won't learn about the business world by reading a textbook — you'll visit customers, develop budgets, plan marketing strategies, work with computers, formulate financial statements, and design advertisements. And you'll gain the kind of real-life business experience employers love.

Sales/Marketing

After undergoing an in-depth training program, DP sales representatives hit the streets running. Businesses depend on their sales representatives to help them succeed in the competitive marketplace. Besides gratitude, DP representatives also receive generous monetary rewards, most earn several hundred dollars per month.

Our marketing department brainstorm new ways to promote the paper to attract more readers and advertisers. To increase community awareness, staffs conduct market research, design promotional materials, write advertising copy and cultivate new clients.

Credit/Finance

How does $800,000 sound?

The DP is big business — our advertising revenues top the three-quarters of a million dollars mark each year. You can study the theory of finance at Wharton, but the DP gives you an ideal business laboratory — and the money is real. Finance and credit staff members control the funds by preparing budgets and financial statements and by handling customer service, billing and collections. Few other activities on campus offer as much independence with such real stakes.

Ad Design & Production

Every day, creative services artists and designers work with the sales and marketing staffs to produce promotional materials and create exciting ads campaigns for clients. More importantly, they helped local merchants increase their business.

Our production department provides the perfect outlet for your creative skills and imagination. Staffs translate scrawled layouts and text into finished ads, from design to typesetting to assembly in each day's paper.

Computer Services (Business)

The DP business operations are fully computerized, using cutting-edge technology to manage everything from order tracking to ad design to bookkeeping. This year, the computer services staff will lead our transition to a new, custom Macintosh software system which has been in development for three years. Staff members also evaluate and install software, maintain

CITY wants $1.6 mil. in back fees from U.

"With the exception of the University of Pennsylvania and Drexel, other schools have made peace with us," Levin said. "The silence is deafening." Cohen said the University estimates it will have to pay approxiamately $80,000 a year to the city in future years.

The city recently sent the University a bill for $100,000 for the current year that, Levin said, has gone unrecognized by the University for two weeks.

Amendment be a priority doesn't make sense." Earlier in the evening, UA representative Jessica Pollock stormed out of the meeting after complaining that the UA was "inactive", and College junior Rashad Ibrahim ac-speeches."

"We had a heated discussion that reflected the diversity of the UA," said Rogers. "It led to one way to be pleased with

"This kind of discussion was developed from previous UAs and it's something that should be encouraged," he said.

The Psychology behind the Citibank Classic Visa card, and the emotional security of the Photocard. The Citibank Classic Visa instills in students feelings of safety, security, and general wellness not unlike those experienced in the womb. Therefore, it is the mother of all credit cards. Some experts attribute these feelings to the Citibank Photocard, the only credit card with your photo on it. A voice inside says, “This is me, really me.” (As opposed to, “Who the heck is that?”—a common response to the photo on one’s driver’s license.) It’s an immediate form of ID, a boost to your self-image. Of course if your card is ever lost or stolen and a stranger is prevented from using it, you’ll feel exceptionally good (showing no signs of Credit Card Theft Nervosa). Other experts point to specific services, such as The Lost Wallet Service that can replace your card usually within 24 hours. Or the 24-Hour Customer Service line, your hotline, if you will, for any card-related anxiety whatsoever. Further analysis reveals three services that protect the purchases you make on the Citibank Classic Visa card, at no additional cost. 1. Buyers Security can cover them against accidental damage, fire or theft, for 90 days from the date of purchase (preventing, of course, Insecurity). 2. Citibank Lifetime Warranty allows one to extend the warranty for the expected service life of eligible products up to 12 years. And Citibank Price Protection assures you of the best price. You need only see the same item advertised in print for less, within 60 days, and Citibank will refund the difference up to $150 (hence no Post Purchase Depression). Special student savings are particularly therapeutic. There’s the free Citibank Calling Service from MCI to save up to 26% on long distance calls versus AT&T. You’re encouraged to call Mom and Dad regularly preventing Parenta Non-Supportus.) And a $20 Airfare Discount on any domestic flight. (Case studies indicate that a Fear of Flying is overcome when Spring Break in sunny Florida is a possibility.) Not to mention the low variable interest rate of 15.4% and no annual fee for college students. Suffice it to say, you’ll have a credit card you can depend on while building a credit history. So call 1-800-CITIBANK, extension 19, to apply over the phone (students don’t need a job or a cosigner) or to have your photo added to your Citibank Classic Visa card. If we say that a sense of Identity is the first component of the Citibank Classic Visa card, a sense of Security the second, and a sense of Autonomous Will from your newfound financial independence the third, don’t be crazy...Call. Israel, PLO sign new peace plan

WASHINGTON — In a breathtaking moment of hope and history, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and PLO Chairman Yasser Arafat signed a peace accord today after seven years of bloody conflict in which the two sides claimed to be fighting for the same land.

The accord negotiated by U.S. President Clinton and witnessed by Secretary of State Madeleine Albright provides for the withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Gaza Strip, the West Bank and Jericho. It also provides for a gradual return of Palestinian refugees to their homes and for the establishment of a Palestinian self-governing authority in the West Bank and Gaza.

The agreement was signed at the White House in a ceremony that was broadcast live around the world.

"We wish to open a new chapter in the sad book of our lives together, a chapter of mutual recognition, of good neighbors, of mutual respect, of understanding," said Yitzhak Rabin, Israel's prime minister.

"We will not allow the history of the last three-quarters of a century to repeat itself. We will not allow the history of the future to be written by the past," said Yasser Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The agreement includes provisions for a Palestinian state to be established in the West Bank and Gaza, with East Jerusalem as its capital. It also provides for the creation of a Palestinian Authority to govern the territories.

The accord calls for the withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Gaza Strip and Jericho by May 1999, and from the West Bank by September 1999, with the exception of a small buffer zone.

The Palestinian Authority will have full control over security matters and the right to tax, levy and raise revenues. It will have the right to negotiate and sign agreements with third parties.

The accord also calls for the establishment of a Palestinian national council to be held within six months of the signing of the peace agreement.

The accord was signed in front of a crowd of thousands of people, including members of the U.S. Congress and the Israeli and Palestinian delegations.

The accord was greeted with joy and hope by people around the world, with many saying it was a historic moment.

"This is a historic moment," said Clinton, as he stood next to Rabin and Arafat.

"I hope this day will be remembered as the beginning of a new era of peace and prosperity," said Rabin.

"Last year, our confidence really went down after we lost to Villanova," Maguire said. "We worried about our ability to score, too. We didn’t play well together and we’re capable of passing really well, and the passing game is what will do it for us."

In addition to the passing, Penn has also been working on the little things offensively. "We have to work on the small things—playing possession football and giving people confidence," Hecht said.

Not coincidentally, the Quakers have made making things happen the top priority this season. "I want to be a more aggressive defender," Hecht said. "I'm thinking how I can make things happen."

Sage agrees, feeling her team is ready for a new season. After weeks of practice, "I think we're as prepared as it can be."

The anticipation is obvious among the guys as they prepare for the first game of the season. "I want to get on with it. I think we're ready." Sage said.

Face it. By this point in the semester, you have forgotten about your parents and are too busy to call home and tell them what’s happening on campus. You’re planning your weekends, going to Smoke’s, or (gasp) studying.

That’s where The Weekly Pennsylvanian comes in.

Once a week, The Weekly Pennsylvanian helps you share the college experience, by bringing all the campus news right to your parents’ mailbox. The Weekly Pennsylvanian is a concise eight-page newspaper prepared especially for Penn families. We’ll tell them everything that’s happening at Penn: campus news, complete sports coverage, opinion, and features on student living and campus arts.

The Daily Pennsylvanian, Penn’s 109-year-old student-run newspaper, is one of the top college newspapers in the country and has won many local and national awards for excellence. The editors of the ‘DP’ take the “best of” each week’s issues and repackage them into a special, condensed weekly edition.

Let them read for themselves about issues like the Undergraduate Assembly, Spring Fling and the football team’s quest for another Ivy League title.

For only $35 — less than the cost of a few long distance calls home — we’ll send a weekly issue of The Weekly Pennsylvanian via prompt second-class mail.

Yes! Sign me up for a subscription to The Weekly Pennsylvanian at the 1993-94 rate of just $35.

The Mets had four runners on base in the second inning, but Synder came in to relieve Appier in the third. The Twins scored their only run in the fourth inning, on a sacrifice fly by Baines.

Appier was in trouble in the sixth inning, as the Twins tied the score at 1-1. With two outs and nobody on base, Baines hit a two-run home run to tie the game.

The Twins took the lead in the seventh inning, on a two-run home run by Baines. The Mets had no answer in the eighth inning, as Appier pitched a scoreless inning to preserve the victory.

The Mets' defense also played a role in the victory. Appier allowed only two hits in seven innings, and the Mets' pitching staff limited the Twins to a total of five hits.

The Mets will try to complete the sweep of the Twins on Wednesday, as they continue their series at home. The Twins will be looking to avoid being swept by the Mets for the second straight season.

In other games, the New York Yankees defeated the Boston Red Sox 5-2, the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the San Diego Padres 3-2, and the Chicago White Sox defeated the Detroit Tigers 5-3.

The Mets are now 8-5 on the season, and they are looking to continue their strong start to the season. They will have to be careful, however, as the Twins are still a tough team to beat.
F. Hockey hosts 'Nova tonight

By LUCY DOCK
Daily Pennsylvanian Sports Writer

Don't expect the Penn field hockey team to begin its quest for another Ivy title last year. You see, last season the Quakers closed out their season with the same inauspicious defeat that remains, however, is how the Quakers will avoid falling into the same trap as last year - allowing Villanova to control the pace of the game early in tonight's game.

"I really think new players will be better prepared because I think they remember what happened last year," Anne Sage points out. "They see it as a disadvantage but I don't want to make anything out of it. I'd rather think that this team is prepared and they wouldn't let something like that happen.

"It's pretty even until you get to the freshmen," Sage continues. "I think those players will be better prepared because I think they remember what happened last year. We're working on keeping our concentration level for two 45-minute periods."

"It's a game we should win," Penn graduate Mike Gyorzsay points out. "We're trying to win, so we're going to try and win."

"We're more on even terms on the grass," Penn assistant coach Brian Kammersgard said. "This is the kind of team we should beat."

Penn senior co-captain Mischea Frey still (and) the rest of the Penn field hockey team open their season tonight against Villanova on Franklin Field. The Quakers hope to average in last year's season-opening loss to the Wildcats and at the same time use tonight's game as a springboard into defending their Ivy League championship.

M. Soccer back 'home' on road at Villanova

By ARIF BERMAN
Daily Pennsylvanian Sports Writer

Only a few would have been in a good frame of mind.

In a pseudo-return to nature, the Penn men's soccer team (0-1) will battle today against Villanova, making the 30-minute trip to Villanova's Old Stadium for its first meeting with the Wildcats since 1988. "This is a game that we should win," senior co-captain Jerry Gonye said. "The team looks good, and everybody's pretty positive and excited about it.

The Quakers are coming off a disappointing 2-0 defeat at the hands of first, heads, chest and turf of St. Joe's. After a scoreless first half of soccer, Penn suffered a couple of lapses in concentration that directly resulted in a pair of St. Joe's goals.

"We're working on keeping our concentration level for two 45-minute periods," Penn graduate Mike Gomez points out. "We're trying to win, so we're going to try and win."

"It's a locally different game on turf," Penn senior co-captain Andrew Kratik points out. "It's a playing field but it's not the same trap as last year."

The Quakers will have to watch out for the Wildcats' forward Jon Freeman. "He's a very good player," Gomez points out. "He's a big man with a good foot."

St. Joe's, the Quakers' leading returning scorer (8 goals against average last season), will be better. We could have handled the situation better. We could have told Al [Bagnoli] sooner."

Both Gomez and the Ivy League's role in determining the Penn football coach's standing has been one of the 1982 season's biggest stories. When the Quakers need a spark, the offensive line is certainly not a glamour position. When the five men up front are doing their jobs, the average fan probably doesn't even notice. But when the quarterback is sacked or the running back is stopped behind the line of scrimmage, all eyes will be on the offensive line.

"I think these players will be better prepared because I think they remember what happened last year," Anne Sage feels that this season's team is better equipped to handle the challenge. "I think new players will be better prepared because I think they remember what happened last year."

Penn senior co-captain Missy Hecht (left) and the rest of the Penn field hockey team open their season tonight against Villanova on Franklin Field. The Quakers hope to average in last year's season-opening loss to the Wildcats and at the same time use tonight's game as a springboard into defending their Ivy League championship.
