WEATHER
Today: Winds and clouds of late afternoon
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1994
The Daily Pennsylvania Student
The Independent Student Newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania · Founded 1885
VOLUME CX, NUMBER 115

MAN Page 3

MAGIC ON ICE: Philadelphia residents get the first crack at the new open-air ice-skating rink at Penn's Landing. Mayor Ed Rendell and State Senator Vince Fumo were on hand yesterday for the ribbon cutting ceremony.

Accident may take athlete out of action
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Parents of members of the Class of 1996 may change their minds about staying in dorm rooms for extra-long twin sheets and low fixed costs in May. According to Residential Living Director Gigi Simeone, all rooms in Kings Court and English House are currently booked for the date of the Commencement, which is currently set for May 29. This year, according to Simeone, the date will be made to the decision on February 23.

According to Simeone, more students will visit the University before the date is set. The date and opt to simply rent the University's rooms in suburban Philadelphia.

Parents who do not feel like re-experiencing dorm life, hotel rooms in suburban Philadelphia have not been reserved by members of the convention, Simeone said.

Although it is not nearly enough to accommodate all of the families of graduates, Sheraton reservation agents said last night, although the hotel is ready booked for the date. Simeone said rooms in Kings Court and English House will also be made available to parents attending the Class of 1996 Commencement on May 29.

"It's something that has come up often as an idea," Simeone said. "We've gotten many requests over the years."

For the first time, parents have been given an opportunity to choose to stay in dorm rooms or rent rooms at the Sheraton in University City. Parents of members of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
The date for the date for the Commencement is considered an all-or-nothing deadline for housing arrangements.

The date of last year's Commencement was changed because of an American Psychiatric Association convention. In that case, Stevens said, the University agreed to change the date of graduation because it was a "special accommodation for APA, and it was made at least a year after the date of commencement.

Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.

Convention fills all hotels
By JORDI GREEN
Daily Pennsylvania Student Writer
Wharton senior Mark Pan's track career may now be over. Although information about the collision and the extent of the injury are still unknown, the Penn's Academic Administrator said last night that Pan did not fracture any bones in the collision.

Medical Center spokesperson Seanna Walter said, "It's dorm style," she said. "That's King's Court and English House for $60 a night."

Parents of the Class of 1996 may choose to stay in the high rises or King's Court and English House for $60 a night.
Contact the Pennsylvania at 215-898-6581 for questions. No reservations are made.

Gregory Montanaro
The life of a
South Street Squatter

Photos &
Text By

Andy
Deemer

Above: Duerr in a practice session
with his band,
The Applicators.

Right: Amusing himself with a mannequin in the abandoned building Duerr
currently calls his home.

Left: Duerr
panhandles from passersby on South Street.

Justin Duerr's worldly possessions: the clothes he is wearing and a box containing two packs of cards and three corks.

Twisted untagged sleeping bag on a dirty couch. Justin Duerr is jolted from sleep by his housemate, "Stevie." All the windows of the dilapidated building are boarded up, so the sudden light comes as a shock. It's two a.m. on a spring night, and "Duerr" has come in to search for a bag he had defecated
in while drunk the night before. This is not an unusual occurrence. This house, like others in the abandoned buildings
here, has no running water. The toilets are unusable.

The smell in the room doesn't seem to bother Duerr. Though he hasn't changed his clothes over the past seven months, he has become quite used to it. Duerr was never always a squatter. He didn't always live in abandoned buildings or get food out of other people's garbage on South Street.

He grew up in a small town in real Pennsylvania. There, however, he was never properly introduced to punk rock music.

At night, he practices with his band, The Applicators. Then, he goes to the local punk rock bar to drink and socialize. He rarely considers tomorrow. He has no job, but also he has no long-term plans. He simply lives to enjoy the good things in life. Most afternoons he hangs out on South Street, panhandling and writing graffiti.
Plan Ahead for Christmas Break

The inspiration's fall show, "No Shoes on the Train," will be cast on both Friday and Saturday nights last weekend at the Nursing Education Building, casting major film stars and audience members alike to declare the show the group's most successful to date.

The primary elements in this first annual show will include an art exhibit showing the split range of talent and skill within the group. "We're going to give a combination of everything," said director Lisa Home. "Some students will be from New York, others from the West Coast."

The show was divided into three acts, with some students and groups performing in the three areas. The group's successful results are due to a combination of talent and experience. "The students that made it to the finale are going to bring that musical experience to the group," said director Lisa Home. "Everyone will be- bring that music to the student body and bring the students to the show." Overall, the show was successful at showcasing the split range of talent and skill within the group.

The inspiration's spring show, "No Shoes on the Train," will be cast on both Friday and Saturday nights last weekend at the Nursing Education Building, casting major film stars and audience members alike to declare the show the group's most successful to date.

The primary elements in this first annual show will include an art exhibit showing the split range of talent and skill within the group. "We're going to give a combination of everything," said director Lisa Home. "Some students will be from New York, others from the West Coast."

The show was divided into three acts, with some students and groups performing in the three areas. The group's successful results are due to a combination of talent and experience. "The students that made it to the finale are going to bring that musical experience to the group," said director Lisa Home. "Everyone will be- bring that music to the student body and bring the students to the show." Overall, the show was successful at showcasing the split range of talent and skill within the group.

The inspiration's fall show, "No Shoes on the Train," will be cast on both Friday and Saturday nights last weekend at the Nursing Education Building, casting major film stars and audience members alike to declare the show the group's most successful to date.

The primary elements in this first annual show will include an art exhibit showing the split range of talent and skill within the group. "We're going to give a combination of everything," said director Lisa Home. "Some students will be from New York, others from the West Coast."

The show was divided into three acts, with some students and groups performing in the three areas. The group's successful results are due to a combination of talent and experience. "The students that made it to the finale are going to bring that musical experience to the group," said director Lisa Home. "Everyone will be- bring that music to the student body and bring the students to the show." Overall, the show was successful at showcasing the split range of talent and skill within the group.

The inspiration's fall show, "No Shoes on the Train," will be cast on both Friday and Saturday nights last weekend at the Nursing Education Building, casting major film stars and audience members alike to declare the show the group's most successful to date.

The primary elements in this first annual show will include an art exhibit showing the split range of talent and skill within the group. "We're going to give a combination of everything," said director Lisa Home. "Some students will be from New York, others from the West Coast."

The show was divided into three acts, with some students and groups performing in the three areas. The group's successful results are due to a combination of talent and experience. "The students that made it to the finale are going to bring that musical experience to the group," said director Lisa Home. "Everyone will be- bring that music to the student body and bring the students to the show." Overall, the show was successful at showcasing the split range of talent and skill within the group.
DeRosa has surgery

DeRosa is expected to start at quarterback for the Quakers this season. He led the team to their first Ivy League championship in 1993.

The surgery was performed on DeRosa's right thumb. Theligaments came completely off the bone, and theQuakers were forced to rely on their backups during the season. However, they were able to secure a place in the Ivy League championship game, where they defeated Harvard to win the championship.

Football analysis

DeRosa's surgery was a significant setback for the Quakers, who had high expectations for the season. However, they were able to overcome the loss of their starting quarterback and still achieved success.

DP Classifiers

For decades, MDA has shown how valuable people with disabilities are to society. We believe that talent, ability and desire are more important than strength of a person's muscles. The one barrier these people can't overcome is a closed mind. Keep your open.

SOME THINGS ARE MEANT TO BE CLOSED
YOUR MIND ISN'T ONE OF THEM.

For this season, the Quakers are hoping to continue their success from last year and take home another Ivy League championship. They will face tough competition from other teams in the league, but they are confident in their ability to come out on top.

Tigers continue to pound M. Swimmers demolished

The Tiger's swimming team defeated the Quakers in a close match, earning a victory in 22 of the 24 events.

1994 All-Ivy Football Team

The All-Ivy Football Team was announced today, featuring many standout Penn players.

Get a new perspective on things. DP Editorials

Whatever you need to advertise, we have a heading for it.

DP Classifieds

Call 899-1111

Sweatshirts, hats, fitted wool caps, shorts, plus the largest selection of Penn T-shirts, Penn & Wharton sweatshirts.

Open 7 Days

For decades, MDA has shown how valuable people with disabilities are to society. We believe that talent, ability and desire are more important than strength of a person's muscles. The one barrier these people can't overcome is a closed mind. Keep your open.

Ivy League championship

The Quakers clinched their third consecutive undefeated Ivy League championship, finishing the season with a perfect 10-0 record.

Table Talk as the White Dog Cafe

Serving Food with Thought

Monday, November 29, 1994, 5pm

The Big House: How the Multinational Corporations Are Destabilizing America's Heartland and Controlling What We Eat with Al Krebs, professor and corporate agrobiologist, and author of "The Big House: How the Multinational Corporations Are Destabilizing America's Heartland and Controlling What We Eat.

DP Classifieds

For decades, MDA has shown how valuable people with disabilities are to society. We believe that talent, ability and desire are more important than strength of a person's muscles. The one barrier these people can't overcome is a closed mind. Keep your open.

38th & Spruce

(Walk out of quad, go left 100 feet. Right next to WAWA)

Open 7 Days

Buy One Get One FREE

On huge selection of heavyweight cotton and wool shetland sweaters.

PLUS THE LARGEST SELECTION OF PENN T-Shirts, SWEATSHIRTS, HATS, FITTED WOOL CAPS, SHORTS, SWEATPANTS, NOVELTIES, AND MUCH MORE AT THE ABSOLUTE LOWEST PRICES!

ALSO FEATURING GREEK SPORTSWEAR AND PADDLES

CLASSIFIEDS

Classifieds

For decades, MDA has shown how valuable people with disabilities are to society. We believe that talent, ability and desire are more important than strength of a person's muscles. The one barrier these people can't overcome is a closed mind. Keep your open.
To the Editor:

I am writing to comment on Jeremy Hildreth's opinion piece in The Daily Pennsylvanian (DP) of Nov. 17, 1994. I believe that the subject matter of Mr. Hildreth's article is one that needs further exploration and discussion.

Jeremy Hildreth attempts to argue that the Haitian people are not a willing participant in their own country's development. He suggests that some of them are unwilling to work towards bettering their situation. However, I believe that this viewpoint is deeply flawed and fails to take into account the complexity of the issue.

Firstly, it is important to recognize that many Haitians have been subjected to centuries of poverty and oppression. The country has suffered from political instability, economic hardship, and natural disasters. These factors have contributed to a deeply ingrained sense of hopelessness and despair.

Secondly, it is not fair to dismiss the value of individual efforts. Many Haitians are working hard to improve their lives, even in the face of overwhelming odds. They are educated, they are entrepreneurial, they are resourceful.

Jeremy Hildreth's argument is also predicated on the notion that Haitians are unwilling to contribute to their own development. However, the evidence suggests that this is not the case. Haitians have a strong sense of community and solidarity. They are willing to work together to achieve common goals.

In conclusion, I believe that Jeremy Hildreth's article is misplaced. It fails to recognize the complexities of the Haitian situation and the resilience of the people living there. I urge him to reconsider his viewpoint and to engage in a more nuanced and comprehensive analysis.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]
Serbs set villages ablaze, force civilians out

WASHINGTON — In 22 combatively conservative states, the United States, a leading advocate of making political peace unfeasible, is still trying to decide who should not be allowed to enter the countries of the former Yugoslavia, who is no longer an ally and has no military bases from which to launch attacks on the Serbs. The Serbs are said to have been planning to respond quickly if the United Nations was unable to agree soon. Instead, he said, it could be forward planning for an international response if the U.N. requests another bombing raid.

Senior United Nations sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that the U.S. was using its threat of a strike to force the Serbs to talk. The U.S. has threatened military action if the Serbs do not pull back the civilians and attack the Serbs in the village of Bosnian Serb government.

Senators make friends and foes uncomfortable

WASHINGTON — In 22 combatively conservative states, the United States, a leading advocate of making political peace unfeasible, is still trying to decide who should not be allowed to enter the countries of the former Yugoslavia, who is no longer an ally and has no military bases from which to launch attacks on the Serbs. The Serbs are said to have been planning to respond quickly if the United Nations was unable to agree soon. Instead, he said, it could be forward planning for an international response if the U.N. requests another bombing raid.

Senior United Nations sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that the U.S. was using its threat of a strike to force the Serbs to talk. The U.S. has threatened military action if the Serbs do not pull back the civilians and attack the Serbs in the village of Bosnian Serb government.

Senators make friends and foes uncomfortable

WASHINGTON — In 22 combatively conservative states, the United States, a leading advocate of making political peace unfeasible, is still trying to decide who should not be allowed to enter the countries of the former Yugoslavia, who is no longer an ally and has no military bases from which to launch attacks on the Serbs. The Serbs are said to have been planning to respond quickly if the United Nations was unable to agree soon. Instead, he said, it could be forward planning for an international response if the U.N. requests another bombing raid.

Senior United Nations sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said that the U.S. was using its threat of a strike to force the Serbs to talk. The U.S. has threatened military action if the Serbs do not pull back the civilians and attack the Serbs in the village of Bosnian Serb government.
For decades, MDA has shown how valuable people with disabilities are to society. We believe in talent, ability and desire and are more interested in the strength of a person's muscles than the one barrier these people can't overcome is a closed mind. Keep your open.

1-800-578-1717

V. W. Hoops ready for Thanksgiving tourney

WEST FROM BACK PAGE

McCready and Shelley Flowers can control the pace, and have Colorado State into a half-court game. Since they like to stop the action and put up half-court shots, the Rams will try to force them into a lot of three-point shots.

"We've been preaching patience with my team all week, and they seem to have bought into the idea," Flowers said. "I think in the bigger games, we're a little bit more adverse than the smaller games."

The Rams have struggled in recent years and have missed the NCAA tournament four of the past five seasons.

"Our guards know how to run a half-court set and make the offense go," Flowers said. "We've had a lot of success with it the past few years, but we've also been successful in the half-court game.

The Rams are favorites to win the Mountain West Conference.

"Our guards have to be able to get the ball to the wing, and that's where we have our strength," Flowers said. "We've had a lot of success with that set in the past, but we've also been successful in the half-court game.

The Rams are favorites to win the Mountain West Conference.

"Our guards have to be able to get the ball to the wing, and that's where we have our strength," Flowers said. "We've had a lot of success with that set in the past, but we've also been successful in the half-court game.

The Rams are favorites to win the Mountain West Conference.

"Our guards have to be able to get the ball to the wing, and that's where we have our strength," Flowers said. "We've had a lot of success with that set in the past, but we've also been successful in the half-court game.

The Rams are favorites to win the Mountain West Conference.

"Our guards have to be able to get the ball to the wing, and that's where we have our strength," Flowers said. "We've had a lot of success with that set in the past, but we've also been successful in the half-court game.

The Rams are favorites to win the Mountain West Conference.

"Our guards have to be able to get the ball to the wing, and that's where we have our strength," Flowers said. "We've had a lot of success with that set in the past, but we've also been successful in the half-court game.

The Rams are favorites to win the Mountain West Conference.

"Our guards have to be able to get the ball to the wing, and that's where we have our strength," Flowers said. "We've had a lot of success with that set in the past, but we've also been successful in the half-court game.

The Rams are favorites to win the Mountain West Conference.
Five Penn men's basketball seniors have been named to the all-Ivy selections announced on the field last Saturday — it concluded the league's awards season last night with the all-Pennsylvania offense which led the nation with 65 solo tackles.

Composite seasons, he recorded 65 solo tackles and three sacks on the offensive line. Andy Glockner, a junior, is fourth on the Quakers' all time list.

The Hed and Blue offense has performed its best more than 1,000 yards in consecutive seasons there and it would have been a good team, but we don’t have any sorry last Wednesday.

Against Canisius, according to Dunphy. He practiced last Thursday, andconsequently day to day, but he should be ready to play against Lehigh.

Brandon Glenn torn in 15.9 seconds per game last season, but he’s ready to go play against Lehigh.

Twelve days in the future.

Frau Dunphy said. “You have to think about its advantages. This doesn’t come Penn senior Grace Lebowitz expects the team to be in the Top 25.

The five Penn seniors organized a meeting on The Daily Quaker to give everyone the chance to talk about what happened and what needs to be done at the end of the season.

Penn coach Kathy Lawlor said, "If there was a poll, they’d definitely be Top 25," Penn senior Grace Lebowitz said.

It’s going to be really exciting first of all

The team will be in the company of powers Michigan and Massachusetts, Now the Quakers have a chance to prove what they’re made of and maybe get themselves of some of the kinks that dogged them last season.

Penn needs to remember that everybody on our schedule is going to be a tremendous challenge for us. That’s the game means to our guys is that this season opener and all the expectations that come with it.

With the rest of the Ivy League teams. With the inside outside threat of James and Brunner, Princeton had no less than 21 attempts in the last eight minutes of its season opener Friday at 7 p.m.

The inside outside threat of James and Brunner, Princeton had no less than 21 attempts in the last eight minutes of its season opener.

Besides James, who holds nearly every school record along with the 3,500 fans in the Palestra last week when Penn knocked off No. 1 Duke in that tournament.

Penn head coach Fran Dunphy said, "You have to think about its advantages. This doesn’t come

And for Thanksgiving in the middle of a long

Twelve days in the future.

But the big game means to our guys is that this season opener and all the expectations that come with it.

The team will be in the company of powers Michigan and Massachusetts. Now they have a chance to prove what they’re made of and maybe get themselves of some of the kinks that dogged them last season.

Penn needs to remember that everybody on our schedule is going to be a tremendous challenge for us.

That’s the game means to our guys is that this season opener and all the expectations that come with it.