Editors' Note: The Daily Pennsylvaniaian is the independent student newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania. Founded 1885.

Police officer dismissed for alleged assault

By Josh Fineman

The Daily Pennsylvaniaian

University Police Officer Thomas McDade was formally charged with sexual harassment for his role in the alleged beating of Drexel University student Almedino Serrano.

McDade was arrested Monday night after the beating of two homeless men in front of the University Daily Pennsylvanian on September 6.

This is the first time that the university has been involved in a sexual harassment case.

The precise amount of the fee — which will be charged to all students in the College, pop out of the Button yesterday in commemoration of national Coming Out Day.

Sophomore Asia Russell, junior Maria Gonzalez, senior Lt-ah Klerr, junior Clare Bayard and senior Anthony Putz (left to right), all students in the College, pop out of the Button yesterday in commemoration of national Coming Out Day.

Gays celebrate 'Coming Out Day'

By Tammy Polonsky

The Daily Pennsylvaniaian

As the daughter of “The pop sonny and Cher. Chastity Bono has told people in many ways that when a tabloid magazine revealed her homosexual-ily — something she was appropriate to be nationally exposed — Bono found that her parents- will not protect her from prejudice.

The precise amount of the fee — which will be charged to all students in the College, pop out of the Button yesterday in commemoration of national Coming Out Day.

Sophomore Asia Russell, junior Maria Gonzalez, senior Lt-ah Klerr, junior Clare Bayard and senior Anthony Putz (left to right), all students in the College, pop out of the Button yesterday in commemoration of national Coming Out Day.

Chastity Bono says she always been different from other kids.

Quad room fire evacuates dorm

By Randi Feigenbaum

The Daily Pennsylvaniaian

Despite previous comments to the contrary, the Faculty Senate Executive Committee will discuss the most recent draft of the Student Judicial Charter at its meeting next Wednesday.

Chairperson-elect Peter Korost and secretary-elect who served on the Senate to discuss judicial charter

Will consider UA amendments to draft

By Randi Feigenbaum

The Daily Pennsylvaniaian

The Faculty Senate Executive Committee will discuss the most recent draft of the Student Judicial Charter at its meeting next Wednesday.

Chairperson-elect Peter Korost and secretary-elect who served on the Senate to discuss judicial charter

Will consider UA amendments to draft

By Randi Feigenbaum

The Daily Pennsylvaniaian

Despite previous comments to the contrary, the Faculty Senate Executive Committee will discuss the most recent draft of the Student Judicial Charter at its meeting next Wednesday.

Chairperson-elect Peter Korost and secretary-elect who served on the Senate to discuss judicial charter

Will consider UA amendments to draft

The Daily Pennsylvaniaian

The Senate to discuss judicial charter will consider UA amendments to draft.
U. Council discusses Quad mail problems

By Mike Madden

Almost a year after the University announced a massive administrative restructuring project, plans to fix problems that were goals at lunch last year by University Council met.

By design, President John Fry, who has led the administration in reengineering its structure, promised a set of regular reports to the council. "We're going to have an administrative restructuring," said President Rodin. Fry also said he would report the next three years.

During the last report, President Judith Rodin announced a set of regular reports to the council. "We're going to have an administrative restructuring," said President Rodin. Fry also said he would report the next three years.

Fry said the report was designed so that minimum amount of people were included. The council will examine each office for unnecessary costs or positions. Fry said.

He said restructuring will seek to reduce the overall costs and administrative restructuring. Fry said: "We're going to have an administrative restructuring." The plan is to maintain control of costs and to ensure that the maximum amount of money is raised by academic-related matters, he said.

In order to maximize what is called "mission-relevant" expenditures, the University must examine each office for unnecessary costs or positions, Fry said.

And the one student who last week was a postal worker was found with his alleged involvement in the University's mail.

But Charles McMahan, the leader of the investigation team working on the problem, denied that any one is to blame, saying the situation had been "totally纠正ed."

"The arrests have been made," he said. "It is a total rumor. We have never heard of a rumor in the last three years.

The second half of the presentation on Fry's present was devoted to the reasons the University has embraced the reengineering process. Fry said restructuring is one way to maintain control of costs and to ensure that the maximum amount of people are included.

The plan is to maintain control of costs and to ensure that the maximum amount of money is raised by academic-related matters, he said. In order to maximize what is called "mission-relevant" expenditures, the University must examine each office for unnecessary costs or positions, Fry said.

He said restructuring will seek to reduce the overall costs and administrative restructuring. Fry said: "We're going to have an administrative restructuring." The plan is to maintain control of costs and to ensure that the maximum amount of people are included. The council will examine each office for unnecessary costs or positions, Fry said.

By the end of Fry's report, little time remained for members of Council to ask questions. But Karen Wurfel, president of the A Assembly, said her constituents were concerned that the plan might not know when staff dismissals arising from restructuring would be.

"You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian," she said. "You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian.

"You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian," she said. "You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian.

But Fry said he will take the interim's University employees into consideration when planning staff reductions. He said that there definitely will be.

"You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian," she said. "You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian."

Also at yesterday's meeting, Counsel voted to distribute its minutes and agendas over electronic mail and the World Wide Web. A Counsel meeting will be designed so that the meeting record is available to the University community.

Counsel approved preliminary agendas for its remaining meetings this year and charged its committees with specific issues to investigate.

Eight UA candidates may be disqualified

Charged with violating NEC fair practice code

By Amy Lipton

Eight freshmen candidates for the Undergraduate Assembly were charged last night with violating the NEC's Fair Practices Code regulations, according to a Daily Pennsylvanian. NEC Vice Chairperson Ben Goldberger said the candidates will be disqualified if the NEC decides the charges are true.

Spending forms are used to ensure that the candidates do not exceed $27 or less because we really want the results. But we have set aside to do this."

"We're going to have an administrative restructuring," said President Rodin. Fry also said he would report the next three years.

Fry said the report was designed so that minimum amount of people were included. The council will examine each office for unnecessary costs or positions, Fry said.

He said restructuring will seek to reduce the overall costs and administrative restructuring. Fry said: "We're going to have an administrative restructuring." The plan is to maintain control of costs and to ensure that the maximum amount of people are included. The council will examine each office for unnecessary costs or positions, Fry said.

By the end of Fry's report, little time remained for members of Council to ask questions. But Karen Wurfel, president of the A Assembly, said her constituents were concerned that the plan might not know when staff dismissals arising from restructuring would be.

"You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian," she said. "You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian."

But Fry said he will take the interim's University employees into consideration when planning staff reductions. He said that there definitely will be.

"You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian," she said. "You'll never come in here and back up the Daily Pennsylvanian."

Also at yesterday's meeting, Counsel voted to distribute its minutes and agendas over electronic mail and the World Wide Web. A Counsel meeting will be designed so that the meeting record is available to the University community.

Counsel approved preliminary agendas for its remaining meetings this year and charged its committees with specific issues to investigate.
You're a Business Major cramming for an English Lit exam. It's late and you're cranky. You keep thinking, "How the heck is the damn 'Raven' gonna help me land a job on Wall Street?" You get angry. So you call Dad to vent. He helps you understand the importance of it all. Then he yells at you for dialing zero to call collect. Quoth the father, "Nevermore."

1-800-COLLECT
Save Up To 44%.

For long-distance calls. Savings based on a 3 minute AT&T operator-dialed interstate call.
While public employees, welfare recipients, students relying on federal aid to pay for tuition, and others feel the heat of a shutdown, the effect may or may not have on the University is yet to be determined.

"The government is virtually being held hostage by the debt ceiling question," Morse said. "Anually the debt ceiling must be increased in generally small increments to cover the government's expenses on outstanding bonds.

What Congress could do is to sign one big spending bill and attach it to the debt ceiling bill," Morse added. "If this occurred, Clinton would have to sign it or veto it. A veto would be a "train wreck.""

Although Washington is gearing up for what could be a shutdown of its own, Rabbi Menachem Schmidt said that University of Sukkot last night. The noise from the celebration bothered some Superblock residents.

Bono says "BONO" from page 1

" family values," she said. While many audience members agreed that some part of this is "very disturbing," Bono has been "absolutely nothing.""
Jamil Smith

Invisible Man On Assignment

Two Sides of the Ocean

Dear Editor,

There was a time when the University of Pennsylvania's musical theatre department produced "Invisible Man On Assignment," a production about the life of Ralph Ellison. Ellison was a black writer who was often ignored by the white literary establishment. The play depicted his life as a black man in America, facing discrimination and isolation.

I believe that the play should be performed again. It is a powerful and relevant work that can help us understand the experiences of black Americans. I hope that the university will consider reviving the production in the near future.

Sincerely,

Jamil Smith

Invisible Man On Assignment

The Daily Pennsylvania

Thursday, October 12, 1995

Letters to the Editor

Affective Action Revisited

To the Editor:

I agree with the sentiment expressed in your recent editorial that affective action is valuable. However, I believe that the editorial overlooks the importance of deliberate action. While affective action can be a powerful force, it is often accompanied by unintended consequences.

For example, if a person feels strongly about a social issue, they may act without considering the broader implications of their actions. This can lead to unintended consequences, such as causing harm to others or creating negative publicity for the cause they are supporting.

Therefore, I believe that deliberate action is often more effective in achieving the goals of social change. Deliberate action involves careful planning and consideration of the potential outcomes of an action.

Sincerely,

Emily Gold

Graduate School of Education

Hold Students Accountable

To the Editor:

I believe that the institution is failing in its duty to hold students accountable for their actions. Too often, incidents of misconduct go unreported or are tolerated by the administration.

I urge the university to take a more aggressive approach in enforcing the rules and regulations that govern student behavior. This will help to create a safer and more responsible campus community.

Sincerely,

William Walton

College of Arts and Sciences

Gambling on Justice

To the Editor:

I disagree with the argument presented in your editorial that gambling on justice is a way to achieve social reform. I believe that gambling is a form of exploitation that can lead to negative consequences.

For example, if someone is willing to take a risk in order to achieve a certain outcome, they may be more likely to engage in risky behavior, such as breaking the law. This can lead to a cycle of violence and corruption.

Therefore, I believe that gambling is not an appropriate means of achieving social reform. The focus should be on creating a more just and equitable society through deliberate and ethical actions.

Sincerely,

Benjamin Kim

School of Engineering

The Chaplain Speaks

To the Editor:

I appreciate your acceptance for the fine article about me in Tuesday's newspaper. As a Christian, I believe that my role as a Chaplain is to be a source of guidance and support for students, regardless of their religious beliefs.

I am grateful for the opportunity to serve the University community, and I look forward to continuing to fulfill my duties as a Chaplain. Together, we can create a more inclusive and supportive environment for all students.

Sincerely,

Frederic Goyvot

Interim Chaplain
Penn has chance at winning free concert

By Janie Phares
The Daily Pennsylvanian

At Ticketmaster, the nation's largest online ticketing company, students can buy concert tickets before the public.

As a promotion of Ticketmaster's new Online Wait-Right site, the company is offering a free concert to the top 35 schools with the most students who register on the website.

And so far, Penn is in the lead. There are six students in the first group who register on its home page, and the list of prospective rushees will continue to expand.

"It's an exciting time," said GM Tomlinson, managing director of the University's Public Safety Department. "We will ensure the safety of our prospective rushees.

"It's exciting to see how many students are interested in the fraternity and sorority system," added GM Tomlinson. "It's a great opportunity for students to explore different cultures and explore other countries.

Fresenius ‘Meet the Greeks’ on the Walk

By Chris Marcisz
The Daily Pennsylvanian

Fresenius is looking for the next big thing in corporate sponsorship, and it has found it in the University of Pennsylvania. Fresenius is hosting a "Meet the Greeks" event on the Walk, and it is expected to draw a large crowd.

This is the first time that Fresenius has hosted such an event on the Walk, and it is planning to make it an annual tradition.

"This is a great opportunity for students to meet the Greeks and learn more about their organizations," said Fresenius representative. "It's a great way to get involved on campus and make new friends.

"We hope that this event will be successful and that we will be able to host it again next year," added Fresenius representative.

Police offer fall safety tips

By Andrea Akins
The Daily Pennsylvanian

While away from campus over fall break, students should not think about taking precautions to ensure the safety of their person and property. Students living in the area should be aware of the University's safety measures and the routines of the University Police officers.

According to the University Police officers, the most important precaution is to secure your residence and vehicle. Students should be aware of the University's safety hotline and the University Police, who will respond quickly to any situation.

"We want students to be aware of their surroundings and to be aware of the University Police's presence," said University Police officer. "We want students to feel safe and secure while away from campus.

Career opportunities at J.P. Morgan

For University of Pennsylvania students interested in

Sales, Trading, and Research

Please plan to attend our information presentation on

Wednesday, October 14
Steinberg District, Room 211
7:00 - 9:00 pm
All majors welcome

Career opportunities at J.P. Morgan

For University of Pennsylvania students interested in

Sales, Trading, and Research

Express yourself.

Write a letter to the editor TODAY!

The Business Analyst Position

Recruiting a limited number of University of Pennsylvania undergraduates for a unique career opportunity

• Leading international strategy consulting boutique

• Develop innovative, client-specific solutions based on rigorous industry and financial analysis

Benson Pre-Neewing Week

October 16-10, 1995

Career letters recommended

Send to: 182 West 57th Street, 26th, New York, NY, 10019

STRATEGIC COMPENSATION ASSOCIATES

New York

Los Angeles

Chicago

London

University City Beverage

4500 Walnut St. (Opposite Thrallway)

Ph: 387-BEER

Monday—Thursday 10 a.m.—6 p.m.
Fridays 11 a.m.—5 p.m.
Saturday 10 a.m.—6 p.m.

You're getting ready to graduate. It's an exciting time and there are possibilities awaiting you. Embrace the world, experience different cultures, and explore other countries.

MASON OF INTERNATIONAL MANAGEMENT (MIM)

• A rigorous programformed for executive and effective leaders (MIM program)

• A cutting-edge approach training advanced professionals in a variety of fields, emphasizing practical skills and knowledge

• A world-class faculty composed of renowned scholars, business executives, and national officials from around the globe

• A specialized business curriculum with a focus on functional subjects to prepare students for business leadership

• The opportunity for international study abroad

Penn Escort Service when traveling to and from campus also set up a table. Students could sign up for rush next semester.

The group of students interested in joining the Theta Xi fraternity back on Greek Week and its activities paint a descriptive picture of the College

"We should not be looking at it as the only time we get out," said Big Eg Hunter Powell, a College sophomores. "The Greeks are a year-round establishment."

In addition to the chapter tables, OFAS set up a table where prospective music group Blind Melon in concert include a trip to see the alternative magazine and that it would normally be vacant.

"They're a good band, but I don't think they'd sell out," he said. Other phones offered in the contest include a trip to see the alternative music group Blind Melon in concert and the honor of being Master of Ceremonies.

"They're a good band, but I don't think they'd sell out," he said. Other phones offered in the contest include a trip to see the alternative music group Blind Melon in concert and the honor of being Master of Ceremonies.

"They're a good band, but I don't think they'd sell out," he said. Other phones offered in the contest include a trip to see the alternative music group Blind Melon in concert and the honor of being Master of Ceremonies.

"They're a good band, but I don't think they'd sell out," he said. Other phones offered in the contest include a trip to see the alternative music group Blind Melon in concert and the honor of being Master of Ceremonies.

"They're a good band, but I don't think they'd sell out," he said. Other phones offered in the contest include a trip to see the alternative music group Blind Melon in concert and the honor of being Master of Ceremonies.

"They're a good band, but I don't think they'd sell out," he said. Other phones offered in the contest include a trip to see the alternative music group Blind Melon in concert and the honor of being Master of Ceremonies.
Bosnian cease-fire takes effect

Truce called after 48-hour delay

A cease-fire taking effect Thursday, following 48 hours in which only sporadic fighting was reported, brought with it an end to the fighting in the besieged Bosnian town of Sarajevo. The Bosnian Serb military said it was calling off the fighting because of the expected death of a top war criminal noted for his role in the 1995 Srebrenica massacre.

Doctors say patients are dying of thirst

Medical workers have reported seeing a large number of elderly patients with dehydration. There have been no medical supplies in the hospital for the last three weeks and the food is running out. The situation is critical, and patients are dying, according to a doctor in the hospital.

U.S. West gains approval for long-distance service

WASHINGTON — U.S. West would be allowed to provide long-distance service outside of 16-state region if customers also had local phone service from the company, according to a plan approved yesterday by the Justice Department.

The plan would allow the nation's seventh largest phone company to merge with another regional phone company. If approved, it would create the fourth-largest local phone company in the nation.

The Department of Justice said the plan would allow U.S. West to provide service in the 16-state region where it has no competition.}

Iraq misused U.N. monitors

UNITED NATIONS — Iraq has tested its team of U.N. weapons inspectors, after a meeting of experts at which the inspectors were told to leave the country. The inspectors have been monitoring Iraq's compliance with international weapons inspections since the Gulf War.

Simpson backs out of interview

LOS ANGELES — O.J. Simpson backed out of his first interview with NBC news anchor Tom Brokaw and Katie Couric, and even threatened to sue NBC over its broadcast plans, according to a lawyer for Simpson's lawyers.

Medical reports on diet and vision

High-fat diets may lead to blindness, according to a new study. The researchers found that those who ate more fiber in breads and cereals had a 40 percent lower risk of cataracts, cloudy areas in the eye's lens. The study also found that those who ate more nuts, fruits, and vegetables had a lower risk of macular degeneration, a condition that can lead to blindness.

Nuclear disarmament

The United Nations nuclear agency has approved a plan for nuclear disarmament, which will be discussed at the upcoming conference in Vienna. The plan calls for the eventual elimination of nuclear weapons, and the establishment of a new international organization to oversee the process.

Military operations

The United Nations has called for a cease-fire in the ongoing conflict in Iraq. The UN has been trying to bring about a political settlement in the region, but so far, there has been no progress.

Economic development

The European Union has approved a new economic stimulus package for the European Union. The package will provide funding for infrastructure projects and job creation, in an effort to stimulate the European economy.
Earthquake victims still await help

MANZANILLO, Mexico — Weary rescuers searched a hotel’s rubble for missing tourists, but no signs of broken bones or life were seen. No one was found in hotels that were damaged or burned.

In one hotel, two days after an earthquake hit Mexico’s Jalisco, home to some of Mexico’s most popular cities, rescuers continued to search for survivors.

Aid from above and on the ground was provided by the hotel’s residents. Some cabinets were removed with picks, axes and shovels. Their feet were covered with mud from the debris.

"It’s horrible, isn’t it?" said Juan Gomez, a rescuer covered in dust who watched as rescue workers at the hotel when it collapsed like a layered cake.

"We don’t know what to do," he said. Officials were still reading death tolls yesterday as police tried to identify bodies, meticulously typing out statements from relatives and listing the dead.

A mile to the north, another drama unfolded, large slabs of concrete still sticking out of the ground move, said It year old Jose Alfonso Cardenas working class neighborhood.

"We play football so we don’t get scared and feel the ground move," said Jose de Jesus Castillo, 42, as his visitor-families standing at the front of homes.

"We don’t know what to do. We don’t have any place to go," said Emma Barriga, pointing out gaps where walls were missing. Barriga, a hotel worker, said most had huge cracks, caved-in walls and refused to sleep inside. A tour inside homes in the Leon, pointing to a green toilet in a pile of broken bricks.

"If5horrible, isn’t It?" said Juan Gomez, a rescuer covered in dust who watched as rescue workers at the hotel when it collapsed like a layered cake.

"We don’t know what to do," he said. Officials were still reading death tolls yesterday as police tried to identify bodies, meticulously typing out statements from relatives and listing the dead.

A mile to the north, another drama unfolded, large slabs of concrete still sticking out of the ground move, said It year old Jose Alfonso Cardenas working class neighborhood.

"We play football so we don’t get scared and feel the ground move," said Jose de Jesus Castillo, 42, as his visitor-families standing at the front of homes.

"We don’t know what to do. We don’t have any place to go," said Emma Barriga, pointing out gaps where walls were missing. Barriga, a hotel worker, said most had huge cracks, caved-in walls and refused to sleep inside. A tour inside homes in the Leon, pointing to a green toilet in a pile of broken bricks.

"If5horrible, isn’t It?" said Juan Gomez, a rescuer covered in dust who watched as rescue workers at the hotel when it collapsed like a layered cake.

"We don’t know what to do," he said. Officials were still reading death tolls yesterday as police tried to identify bodies, meticulously typing out statements from relatives and listing the dead.

A mile to the north, another drama unfolded, large slabs of concrete still sticking out of the ground move, said It year old Jose Alfonso Cardenas working class neighborhood.

"We play football so we don’t get scared and feel the ground move," said Jose de Jesus Castillo, 42, as his visitor-families standing at the front of homes.

Two aftershocks, one of dozens since the Monday quake, shook the ground early yesterday.

"If5horrible, isn’t It?" said Juan Gomez, a rescuer covered in dust who watched as rescue workers at the hotel when it collapsed like a layered cake.

"We don’t know what to do," he said. Officials were still reading death tolls yesterday as police tried to identify bodies, meticulously typing out statements from relatives and listing the dead.

A mile to the north, another drama unfolded, large slabs of concrete still sticking out of the ground move, said It year old Jose Alfonso Cardenas working class neighborhood.

"We play football so we don’t get scared and feel the ground move," said Jose de Jesus Castillo, 42, as his visitor-families standing at the front of homes.

"We don’t know what to do. We don’t have any place to go," said Emma Barriga, pointing out gaps where walls were missing. Barriga, a hotel worker, said most had huge cracks, caved-in walls and refused to sleep inside. A tour inside homes in the Leon, pointing to a green toilet in a pile of broken bricks.

"If5horrible, isn’t It?" said Juan Gomez, a rescuer covered in dust who watched as rescue workers at the hotel when it collapsed like a layered cake.

"We don’t know what to do," he said. Officials were still reading death tolls yesterday as police tried to identify bodies, meticulously typing out statements from relatives and listing the dead.

A mile to the north, another drama unfolded, large slabs of concrete still sticking out of the ground move, said It year old Jose Alfonso Cardenas working class neighborhood.

"We play football so we don’t get scared and feel the ground move," said Jose de Jesus Castillo, 42, as his visitor-families standing at the front of homes.

"We don’t know what to do. We don’t have any place to go," said Emma Barriga, pointing out gaps where walls were missing. Barriga, a hotel worker, said most had huge cracks, caved-in walls and refused to sleep inside. A tour inside homes in the Leon, pointing to a green toilet in a pile of broken bricks.

"If5horrible, isn’t It?" said Juan Gomez, a rescuer covered in dust who watched as rescue workers at the hotel when it collapsed like a layered cake.

"We don’t know what to do," he said. Officials were still reading death tolls yesterday as police tried to identify bodies, meticulously typing out statements from relatives and listing the dead.

A mile to the north, another drama unfolded, large slabs of concrete still sticking out of the ground move, said It year old Jose Alfonso Cardenas working class neighborhood.

"We play football so we don’t get scared and feel the ground move," said Jose de Jesus Castillo, 42, as his visitor-families standing at the front of homes.
Researchers from the University and around the world have confirmed the discovery of a diagnostic tool for early detection of Alzheimer's disease.

Alzheimer's disease is characterized by the loss of neurons and synapses in the brain, leading to cognitive decline and memory loss. Diagnosis is usually based on symptoms and clinical evaluation, which can be challenging due to the gradual onset of symptoms.

The new test, named the "Amyloid Imaging Test" (AIT), allows for the detection of early-stage Alzheimer's disease, even before the appearance of symptoms. The test works by imaging the amyloid plaques, which are a hallmark of Alzheimer's disease, using a specialized camera. This non-invasive method can help identify individuals at risk and potentially delay the onset of the disease.

By Sarika Qarg
The Daily Pennsylvania

The test involves the use of a tracer to bind with the amyloid plaques in the brain. This tracer is detected using a PET (Positron Emission Tomography) scan, which provides detailed images of the brain's structure and function.

"This means one could extend the research to the "gray matter" ventricle," said Bernside-Bickett. "This offers a chance to watch a lot of cases from the "gray matter" ventricle, allowing us to see the changes in the ventricle, and also the changes that are happening in the ventricle due to the disease.

The test is currently undergoing clinical trials and is expected to be available for widespread use in the near future. Early detection of Alzheimer's disease is crucial for effective management and treatment, as it allows for early intervention and can help in slowing the progression of the disease.

By Sarika Qarg
The Daily Pennsylvania

The test could potentially revolutionize the way Alzheimer's disease is diagnosed and managed. Early intervention could lead to better outcomes, improved quality of life, and reduced healthcare costs.

However, the test is not yet widely available, and its accuracy and accessibility are still under investigation. Further research is needed to validate the findings and ensure that the test is effective and reliable for a wide range of individuals.

By Sarika Qarg
The Daily Pennsylvania

The test could also have implications for genetic counseling and family planning. Identifying individuals at risk early on can help in making informed decisions about lifestyle changes, dietary habits, and other factors that may influence the development of Alzheimer's disease.

The potential benefits of early detection and intervention are significant, and the development of such a test is a major step forward in the fight against Alzheimer's disease. However, it is important to continue supporting research and development efforts to ensure that these promising findings are translated into effective treatments and care for those affected by the disease.
the national championship hunt,

The New York Times

She was a basketball super recruit, who mate

themselves with the sport's biggest names, including George that they including George involvement in college sports. It is on coaches to recruit not neces-ton became so embarrassed by the includes Exam. 3-month supply of lenses &

The place to go for COOL NEAT CHEAP stuff — within easy

Athletes like Lawrence Phillips,

Coaches helped Jackson become a player

But there was a time when coach-

The Most Improved Player

Jeff started out this year excited

Eric Goldstein is a Warton business school graduate from Sewickley Heights,

Miller only had the highest of

The place to go to for your complete hearing aid solution.

The national championship hunt,

Because of everyone's misuse of

Guided Missile

25% Off Designer Frames

This peek's question:

the modern world, the intelligible

By Charles William Eliot, 1862

Dr. Chris Anas, Optometrist

The 10 most non-prescription

Accurate disposable contacts and exam

days a year during the

All replies are needed by today at 5:00 p.m. Please in-

The place to go to for your complete hearing aid solution.

The 10 most non-prescription

Accurate disposable contacts and exam

This peek's question:

the modern world, the intelligible

By Charles William Eliot, 1862

Dr. Chris Anas, Optometrist

The place to go to for your complete hearing aid solution.

The 10 most non-prescription

Accurate disposable contacts and exam

This peek's question:

the modern world, the intelligible

By Charles William Eliot, 1862

Dr. Chris Anas, Optometrist

The place to go to for your complete hearing aid solution.

The 10 most non-prescription

Accurate disposable contacts and exam

This peek's question:

the modern world, the intelligible

By Charles William Eliot, 1862

Dr. Chris Anas, Optometrist

The place to go to for your complete hearing aid solution.

The 10 most non-prescription

Accurate disposable contacts and exam

This peek's question:

the modern world, the intelligible

By Charles William Eliot, 1862

Dr. Chris Anas, Optometrist
Three years ago, the last time Penn hooked up with William and Mary, Al Buehler's Quakers almost upset the No. 10 Tribe.
The Penn football team was on its way to the No. 10 line in Division I-AA Saturday. With 2:25 left on the clock, senior cornerback Todd Frazier returned two interceptions for touchdowns to help Pennsylvania to a 21-19 victory over the Tribe.

By Gabriele Tsui

The Daily Pennsylvania

On Saturday, the Tribe fell to the Quakers, 21-13. The Penn football team barely survived this weekend to hand the Tribe what would turn out to be the Tribe's first possession following the Penn touchdown. William & Mary outgained the Tribe in the air and on the ground and managed to put Penn away in the fourth quarter with a 21 yard run for yet another score. Penn, however, was able to keep the Tribe score below 7 points for most of the game, and the Tribe were ready to put Penn away.

Quakies}

W. Soccer 1
American 0

"You always go on the road and win, you'll take it!"

The Quakers continued to pressure the Eagles defense throughout the first half. Fitz McKinnon had some quality opportunities but failed to capitalize. The Quakers had some great chances at the beginning of the second half, but any thought of scoring seemed lost as the Quakers went on to lose.

The Quakers will definitely take it as they head into their final game of the season with a victory.

"Anytime you go on the road and you win, you'll take it," said the Tribe's first possession following the Penn touchdown. William & Mary's defense was able to keep the Tribe score below 7 points for most of the game, and the Tribe were ready to put Penn away.

Quakies}

W. Soccer 1
American 0

"You always go on the road and win, you'll take it!"

The Quakers continued to pressure the Eagles defense throughout the first half. Fitz McKinnon had some quality opportunities but failed to capitalize. The Quakers had some great chances at the beginning of the second half, but any thought of scoring seemed lost as the Quakers went on to lose.

The Quakers will definitely take it as they head into their final game of the season with a victory.

"Anytime you go on the road and you win, you'll take it," said the Tribe's first possession following the Penn touchdown. William & Mary's defense was able to keep the Tribe score below 7 points for most of the game, and the Tribe were ready to put Penn away.

Quakies}

W. Soccer 1
American 0

"You always go on the road and win, you'll take it!"

The Quakers continued to pressure the Eagles defense throughout the first half. Fitz McKinnon had some quality opportunities but failed to capitalize. The Quakers had some great chances at the beginning of the second half, but any thought of scoring seemed lost as the Quakers went on to lose.

The Quakers will definitely take it as they head into their final game of the season with a victory.

"Anytime you go on the road and you win, you'll take it," said the Tribe's first possession following the Penn touchdown. William & Mary's defense was able to keep the Tribe score below 7 points for most of the game, and the Tribe were ready to put Penn away. William & Mary, however, held on to their lead in the fourth quarter, putting Penn away with a 21 yard run for yet another score.

The Quakers will definitely take it as they head into their final game of the season with a victory.

"Anytime you go on the road and you win, you'll take it," said the Tribe's first possession following the Penn touchdown. William & Mary's defense was able to keep the Tribe score below 7 points for most of the game, and the Tribe were ready to put Penn away. William & Mary, however, held on to their lead in the fourth quarter, putting Penn away with a 21 yard run for yet another score.

The Quakers will definitely take it as they head into their final game of the season with a victory.

"Anytime you go on the road and you win, you'll take it," said the Tribe's first possession following the Penn touchdown. William & Mary's defense was able to keep the Tribe score below 7 points for most of the game, and the Tribe were ready to put Penn away. William & Mary, however, held on to their lead in the fourth quarter, putting Penn away with a 21 yard run for yet another score.

The Quakers will definitely take it as they head into their final game of the season with a victory.
PLEASE JOIN US FOR OUR COMPANY
PRESENTATION FOR UNDERGRADUATES
OCTOBER 12, 1995
6:30 P.M.
FACULTY CLUB - ALUMNI HALL

Helping clients achieve profitable growth
SPORTS WIRE

BASEBALL

AL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Tomorrow Night's Game
Cincinnati at Atlanta, 7:07 p.m.

NL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Tuesday Night's Game
Atlanta at Cincinnati, 8:07 p.m.

SPORTS NIGHT EDITORS:

Wednesday, Oct. 18

WORK    STUDY    POSITIONS

Good pay rate and great experience with PC & Mac experience. Film productions. Computer Lab Supervisor dyOaac.upenn.edu

Warranty $11995. Call (215) 895-6542

Help Wanted

HELP WANTED: addressing envelopes. Must be friendly, neat and conscientious. References required. Call 610-469-9800

Allied Health

Assistant, University Hospital volunteer. Undergraduate or graduate students needed to assist with various patient care duties. Call 935-4000 extension 6609.

FREE FINANCIAL ADVISOR

FREE FINANCIAL ADVISOR at Main Line Center for Clinical Psychopharmacology. Contact (610) 666-3636.

SPORTS NIGHT EDITORS:

Thursday, October 12, 1995 The Daily Pennsylvanian

NEWS

CINCINNATI — Add Javy Lopez to...

AL PLAYOFF ROUND UP

EASTERN CONFERENCE

Cincinnati — Add Javy Lopez to...
SSPORTS

Thursday, October 12, 1995
The Daily Pennsylvanian

Page 16

Fitzgerald and Keen are on the march for the Tribe

By Michael Hasey
The Daily Pennsylvanian

Senior running backs Dorsett Fitzgerald and Troy Keen know that on almost any Other
Troy Keen knows that on almost any Other
Individual team perhaps even most Individual
It's canny live yards in what it is. s.uil keen, who is averaging nearly Every day a small group of dedicated athletes band in the Schuylkill with hundreds of oarsmen. Penn to the championship in heavyweight, lightweight and women's crews. The members of the men's crew, and Lewis Bagnoli, the head coach, all American athletes, are different types of runners."

Last year the team

The fall crew season gets underway this Saturday on the Schuylkill for the heavyweight, lightweight and women's crews. The teams started last season with a victory, but then lost three consecutive meets. The Quakers won their next three meets, however, providing momentum for this year's team.

The lightweight team, under fourth-year coach Kevin Gross, is one of a strong finish in last year's season. The teams started last season with a victory, but then lost three consecutive meets. The Quakers won their next three meets, however, providing momentum for this year's team.

The teams are placently about their upcoming meets, but are putting more emphasis on the fall season as a stepping stone for the more important spring season. They are looking at the fall as a time to shake off the rust that occurs when a team first enters into competition together. The fall races are good practice because, unlike in the spring, they are not held on head. Instead they are held on river, which the Quakers have won in the past season.