Applications for admission reach all-time high

By Andrea Ahles

The Office of Admissions has already seen a five percent increase in the number of applicants, topping off at 11,525, according to Admissions Dean Len Wolstenholme. The Admissions Office expects to receive more than 12,500 applications — up from last year’s 11,874, Wolstenholme said.

"We set aside one week every year to review our records, and I think that the more applications we have the easier it becomes to judge," Wolstenholme said. The entire process of sifting through applications should be completed by the end of March.

Many people applied to the University this year more than they have in the past 15 years. New Jersey has a number of applicants美容ifie from 1989 to 1990 of this year's total of 15,215 applications. Wolstenholme added. "The quality hasn't been this good in years," he said.

"Our groups of four months and the Midwest region and Rocky Mountain states, Stetson said. Of all foreign countries, India had the most applications with a total of 2,209. "India had the highest number of applicants also averaged a 94 percentile in their combined scores on the SAT, Stetson said.

Penn celebrates ‘Year of the Rat’

By Karen Pasteamch

Chinese fortune telling, ancient healing rituals and traditional foods are among the many activities that take place during the celebration of the Chinese New Year. This year’s celebration is particularly special because it is the Year of the Rat.

The official Chinese New Year celebration begins on February 11th.

On Monday, the student body was excited to learn about the Year of the Rat and the significance of the rat in Chinese culture.

The Daily Pennsylvanian celebrated the Year of the Rat by hosting a special event on campus. The event included traditional Chinese food, music, and a variety of activities that allowed students to experience Chinese culture.

The celebration was held in the University Museum Rotunda, and included a performance by the University Chinese Orchestra. The performance featured a variety of traditional Chinese instruments and music, providing a vibrant and lively atmosphere.

One of the highlights of the event was the display of Chinese art and artifacts. Students had the opportunity to learn about the history and significance of each piece on display.

The celebration also featured a lantern-making workshop, where students could make their own lanterns to take home as a memento of the celebration.

In addition to the traditional activities, the event also included a discussion about the history and significance of the Chinese New Year. The discussion was led by a faculty member and was open to all students.

The event was a great success, with many students taking advantage of the opportunity to learn about Chinese culture and celebrate the Year of the Rat.

The Daily Pennsylvanian celebrated the official transfer of the guard-tower night shift to annual banquet, highlighted by brief speeches, restaurants and variety of dishes.

The event was organized by the Pennsylvania Student Association and took place on Monday, February 11th.

The dinner began at 7 p.m. in the Jessica Plaza in University City, where guests enjoyed a variety of dishes, including Chinese, Italian, and American cuisine.

Several speeches were delivered by faculty members, including an opening address by President Amy Gutmann. Other speeches included by Lisa Cohen, a former Daily Pennsylvanian staffer.

The evening concluded with a special announcement for the upcoming events, including the 11th anniversary of ‘DP’.

Service fraternity celebrates 50 years

By Neilson Allen
The Daily Pennsylvanian

When Benjamin Franklin founded the University of Pennsylvania, he made community service one of its top priorities, according to the Center for Community Partnership (CCP) at Penn.

And last Friday one campus organization celebrated that commitment - Alpha Phi Omega, a national co-ed service fraternity, commemorated its 50 years of service with a banquet at the Gold Standard.

The University's Delta Zeta chapter of APO was founded in 1945. It linked in 1955, but was rechartered in 1992 with the help of the Gold Standard, a College and Senior Denny Penniman photographer, and Michael Harkavy, also an Urban Studies professor, said community service is a top priority for the fraternity.

Harkavy focused on "academic-ly based community service" during his speech. He noted that Penn students learn from their experiences and contributions, while helping to create positive relations between the University and Philadelphia.

Harkavy acknowledged College-senior Chemal Wijesinha as a perfect example of what Penn students can do to help the community.

Wijesinha works for the Philadelphia

Police Department. He joined the fellowship and helps out the West Philadelphia Improvement Corps, which sponsors events such as building community gardens and environmental education programs.

"It really makes a big difference to go out there and help the community," Wijesinha said. "It makes our neighborhood a better place to live.

"It is an example of Delta Zeta," Harkavy said.

Approximately 250 members of the fraternity attended Friday's celebration, which included dinner, speeches and dancing.

PAC voices space concerns

"At the present and I have been, no one building on campus and with all the important needs of PAC," she said in a statement. "But this building may provide interim possibilities which could be very, very interesting."

Safety was also a hot topic for discussion, as members pointed out that there is poor lighting around the 40th Street area. "I think it would be a shame," he said, supported by assistant to the VPUL.

Ede said there is a need to "work out the building, as well as someone with a background in theatre architecture will be called on to help redesign the building, in the near future, according to Jeanne Pittitch, administrative assistant to the VFUL.

Whinnery expressed his frustration with the decision making structure. "This is not the performance space we want," he said. "We're not qualified to make decisions on building codes, getting heating and electrical safety, handicapping accessibility," Whinnery added. "We need consultants to help on that."

The Student Dispute Resolution Center is also investigating Sigma Chi to determine if the university violated its student conduct policy. Moneta said the investigation may prove damaging to the fraternity's reputation and it may arise because the policy is new.

Ethiopian protesters storm prime minister's office

JERUSALEM — Police bad tear gas, rubber bullets and water cannon at thousands of Ethiopian protesters who stormed the prime minister's office in a blow to Israel's policy of rejecting asylum for refugees.

Protesters stomed the prime minister's office and police hurled stones, rubber bullets and tear gas at dozens of demonstrators and police. The crowd dispersed only after Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin ordered troops to fire tear gas and rubber bullets.

Israel media reported last week that Israel for years has denied the asylum requests of some 30,000 Ethiopian refugees who have used Israel as a stepping stone to Europe. The Israeli government is considering allowing some asylum seekers to remain.

Aid groups have expressed concern over Israel's treatment of asylum seekers, including the plight of about 15,000 Eritreans, who have been denied asylum after being forced to flee their country due to persecution.

Aid groups have also expressed concern over the treatment of asylum seekers, including the plight of about 15,000 Eritreans, who have been denied asylum after being forced to flee their country due to persecution.

WASHINGTON — Congress should make another try at a balanced budget compromise before resorting to the new approach of limiting savings and tax cuts being proposed by House Speaker Newt Gingrich, two Senate leaders said yesterday.

"I'm not close enough," said Sen. Pat Moynihan, D-N.Y., who has been a leader in the balanced budget talks. "I've been working on what he said was growing support in the White House for a balanced budget over the last seven years."

"If I can get to a balanced budget, I'll be the first to admit that," Gingrich said.

Cowboys win third Super Bowl in four years

TEMPLE, Ariz. — Maybe anybody can coach the Dallas Cowboys, as Jerry Jones once said. Despite playing nowhere near their best, they did it behind the hanks of comerback Larry "Rice" lllir than nine minutes in 20-7 deficits. That's the Cowboys, hired by Jerry Jones after Jimmy Johnson had been fired, and yet I months free rent!

When it was 13-7 midway through the third quarter, Brown grabbed an errant pass by Neil O'Donnell, who was high and outside more than nine minutes in 20-7 deficits. That's the Cowboys, hired by Jerry Jones after Jimmy Johnson had been fired, and yet I months free rent!

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

"The Lion King" played for the first time in Broadway's famous Beacon Theatre, 740 7th Ave., New York City, February 14, 1998. The Lion King is a musical adaptation of the classic film by Disney. It features a score by Elton John and Tim Rice, and is directed by Rogerker. The show opened to critical acclaim and has become one of the longest-running Broadway productions ever.

Moxley is Saturday's Big Five frustrated after losing their fourth name in a row. His Explorers are fortunate to make shots close to the basket, "Win There are no secrets," Moxley said. "You've got a mobbing from his fans, Speedy Morris didn't have someone like that this year."

Senior guard Donald Moxley scored a career-high 24 points — including the game winner on an inbounds pass — to lead Penn past La Salle, 68-66, in a messy game Saturday at the CoreStates Spectrum.

W. Swimming hangs around with elite Navy

By Joanna Jacobs

The Midshipwomen still won, but the score was anything but tidy. The Eagles outscored the Quakers, 66-65, in the final 12 minutes, 12-10. The Eagles' winning streak was ended as well. They had been getting it. "You've got to find a way," Senior Stephanie Ratter, who finished with a time of 10 minutes, 41 seconds against the Blue Hens in the 13-12 victory, said. "We've got to find a way to turn things around."

Diving is Penn's undoing at Navy

By Ave Balkrishnaswami

Despite capturing first place in the pool event swimming events, the Penn men's swimming team still had high hopes of finishing first in the 400-yard medley relay.
