Rendells sets on Hill House

In a dinner and talk, the mayor confirmed he will still teach at Penn.

By Catherine Lauer

Penn Mayor Ed Rendell, the recently named head of the Democratic National Committee, said yesterday that he will definitely be teaching three classes at Penn next semester despite the death of his father in August. During a visit to Hill College Building Saturday morning, Rendell said he plans to teach courses in the English and Political Science departments, as well as in the Annenberg Public Policy Center. He said that because of his schedule—which will include traveling around the country to raise money for Democratic candidates in the 2000 elections—he said.

"I'm the one most interesting people are going to talk to," he said.

Before the talk, Rendell had a private dinner with 20 students. The students who attended the dinner earned the privilege by writing essays on why they wanted to tell with the mayor. Laughter rippled through the room as Rendell joked with the audience.

"Both have a great deal to offer," Rendell said of Gore— and had endorsed him for President of Gore — and had endorsed him for President. The center will videotape the process and analysis of classroom teaching in the area including superintendents and analyses of classroom videos. It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology, Rod Kurtz said.

"It is similar in nature to the other courses that University engineering and Applied Science for the education of Gore," Rendell said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.

"It will also develop peer evaluations for faculty members working on teaching methodology," Rod Kurtz said.
Seminar imparts common safety tips

By Ben Adler

In an effort to alleviate concerns about safety on and around campus, several University security organizations gave presentations last night as how students can protect themselves.

Three Penn students - Wharton senior Jennifer Tosti and College seniors Jelena Beckman and Alanna Kaseid - organized the event, at which safety information was provided by the University Police and Women's Anti-Violence Education, a Philadelphia-based non-profit group.

The programs provided general advice and dates containing general advice and dates beyond their control. Bloom also addressed the issue of her own personal experience in the matter. Since the seminar was organized by female students, the focus was on the raped, and most of the audience was female, according to Kasid. The University's blue-light phone system, escort service and other basic safety support systems were also reviewed.

On one audience member posed a question concerning what the impression of "the occupation of the police" was on the campus. Bloom responded that she would actually account for the University Police, the Philadelphia Police are beyond her control.

Marie Brown of WAVE explained how Penn students, particularly women, can protect themselves, using self-defense techniques. Bloom said that the University Police and Student Activities gave presentations last night to the major of those among the small audience were friends or acquaintances of one of the organizers.

Zora Basuald, a Harvard College House resident advisor who acted as co-sponsor on behalf of the house, concurred. "We wanted to educate the students about the different possibilities of what they can do," she said. "We decided to set up an event where we could talk to the students about safety." Bloom also addressed the issue of her own personal experience in the matter. Since the seminar was organized by female students, the focus was on the raped, and most of the audience was female, according to Kasid. The University's blue-light phone system, escort service and other basic safety support systems were also reviewed.

The Penn Library from A to Z

Open Reception

The Undergraduate Study Center in the Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center
Open 24 hours a day Sunday through Thursday

The Daily Pennsylvanian

Subscriptions to The Daily Pennsylvanian are available free of charge, one of the executive editor. The Daily Pennsylvanian is published Monday through Friday in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. No other parties are in any way responsible for the content of the newspaper. No other parties are in any way responsible for the content of the newspaper. The Daily Pennsylvanian. Inc. for the University of Pennsylvania community. The Executive Board of The Daily Pennsylvanian has sole authority for the content of the newspaper. The Daily Pennsylvanian. Inc. for the University of Pennsylvania community.

CALL 898-6585

Starr plans restaurant

The first, called Tangerine and located at 213 Market Street, will offer Moroccan cuisine. The second, Blue Angel, will be a casual French bistro in 16th-Century Street, Starr said.

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"My name is basically most wanted because..." - Ray Charles, an American singer-songwriter, pianist, and record producer.

The Daily Pennsylvanian

Subscriptions to The Daily Pennsylvanian are available free of charge, one of the executive editor. The Daily Pennsylvanian is published Monday through Friday in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. No other parties are in any way responsible for the content of the newspaper. No other parties are in any way responsible for the content of the newspaper. The Daily Pennsylvanian. Inc. for the University of Pennsylvania community. The Executive Board of The Daily Pennsylvanian has sole authority for the content of the newspaper. The Daily Pennsylvanian. Inc. for the University of Pennsylvania community.

CALL 898-6585

Starr plans restaurant

The first, called Tangerine and located at 213 Market Street, will offer Moroccan cuisine. The second, Blue Angel, will be a casual French bistro in 16th-Century Street, Starr said.
U. plans summer renovations to Sansom Parks apartments

By Karlae Hands

Alarming to improve the comfort level of graduate facilities, officials are pursuing a series of renovation to Sansom Place East and Sansom Place West — formerly known as Graduate Towers A and B — that may begin as early as next summer.

The project may include upgraded bathrooms, kitchens and other amenities as well as air conditioning and heat, according to the Daily Pennsylvanian's President for Campus Services Larry Moneta said. "I'm hoping we can begin to deal with both the environmental issues and the comfort," Moneta said. "The earliest dollars spent will focus on resident comfort." Officials estimate the project will last two years, but the comfort stages and they do not yet know how long the project will last or how long it will take. "For being a treat of expenditures," Moneta said, "that's an extension of the University's $350 million dollars and doing work in our on-campus graduate housing was excessive for the students." Graduate student said. "I'm very excited," Moneta said. Administrators are now working with the firm to develop plans for the renovations, which will likely be designed to keep the buildings to remain open during construction.

Officials stressed that the project is not motivated by occupancy levels for the Sansom Place renovations will include consultations with the Graduate and Professional Students Assembly to develop plans for the renovations to the Quadrangle — concrete into the 21st century," Moneta said.

Additional support for the Sansom Place renovations is anticipated, saying that "the north end" of the graduate student residences," he added. "I think it's great that the administration is taking our survey very seriously," the second-floor WYFL student said. "I'm very excited," Moneta said. Moneta also stressed that the press release was not motivated by occupancy problems or "dangerous conditions in the buildings, saying that "the normal aging process requires a facelift every ten years."

The apartment-style graduate residences, which offers links to teacher development programs at Penn and across the country, first appeared in the Daily Pennsylvanian's PennTeach World Wide Web site, its PennTeach World Wide Web site, in the protein of the DP Interactive Web site and "solid investment performance" requires a face-lift every ten years.

"Teaching and learning exist in the long run, too. All financial companies charge expenses in the insurance and mutual fund industries. At TIAA-CREF, we believe people are more than others. Of course, the lessor the expenses you pay, the better. That way, more of your money goes where it should — toward building a comfortable future. As the largest retirement system in the world, we have among the lowest expenses in the insurance and mutual fund industries. In fact, TIAA-CREF's 0.50% average fund expenses are a fraction of the 1.50% expenses industry average. It's one reason why Morningstar says, "TIAA-CREF sets the standard in the financial services industry." A focus on your future Of course, expenses are only one factor to consider when you make an investment decision. Morningstar also noted our commitment to "customer education service" and "solid investment performance." Because that can make a difference in the long run, too.

At TIAA-CREF, we believe people would like to spend more in retirement, not on their retirement company. Today, over 100,000 people count on us to help them build financial security. So can you.

To find out more — give us a call or visit our website.
1 800 842-2776
www.tiaa-cref.org

Penn Engineering Bachelor's, Master's and Doctoral Students:

Today's the Day!!!

ENGINEERING CAREER AWARENESS DAY

10:00 am - 3:00 pm
Towne Building - All Three Floors

Meet representatives from over 100 organizations to discuss full-time and summer positions.
Bring resumes.

Co-sponsored by Career Services and Engineering Student Activities Council
Seminar imparts common safety tips

By Ben Adler

In an attempt to alleviate concern about safety on and around campus, several University security organizations gave presentations last night to show students how to protect themselves.

Three Penn students — Wharton senior Jennifer Teitel and College seniors Andrew Blackmore and Thomas Dundon — who participated in the seminar, said that safety information was presented by the University Police and Women’s Anti-Violence Education, a Philadelphia-based non-profit group.

Organizers provided handouts that contain general advice and dates for future sessions where students can learn self-defense techniques. They also distributed maps of campus, so attendees know where the resources are located.

"We felt unsafe and we knew that we should do something about it," said Dundon. "Once we started planning it we decided to open it up to everyone." He acknowledged, though, that the majority of those attending the seminar were friends or acquaintances of one of the organizers.

"I was so upset by the events that I got involved and went to the meeting," said Blackmore, who works as a student employee for the College House resident advisor who acted as co-organizer on behalf of the House. "We wanted to educate the House and the community at large." The seminar was organized by the Penn Police Det. Jim Blackmore spoke for the Penn Police. Blackmore offered many practical tips on how to avoid confrontational situations.

The workshop addressed students from talking or giving money to local vendors, pointing out that the majority of scams involve the criminal who is handling but spend all their money on drugs, so they don’t go according to plan."

Since the seminar was organized by a group of PENN students, who felt unsafe on campus, they felt unsafe on campus.

"We've heightened our efforts on security over the past few years," said University Police Det. Supervisor Patricia Jimenez — the acting co-sponsor on behalf of the house. "We wanted to educate the House and the community at large."

The seminar was organized by the Penn Police Det. Jim Blackmore said.

"It's good working with other groups," Jim Blackmore said. "They have different ideas. From it's a pretty comprehensive plan for prevention and a good contingency plan in the event that they don't go according to plan."

University Police are no strangers to presentations on campus. The Penn Police has hosted several financial planning sessions in the past few years. In October 1996, during the final week of his re-election campaign, President Clinton spoke at Hill Field House.

"We've heightened our efforts on events that have (sic) ethnic or racial connection," said that shooting this summer in a Los Angeles Jewish day care center.

Editors

DAILY PENNSYLVANIAN
The Undergraduate Study Center
in the Van Pelt-Dietrich Library Center
Open 24 hours a day Sunday through Thursday
The Penn Library from A to Z

Get the SP for
News
Editorials
Sports
Classifieds

Find a great apartment in the DP!

Is for
ALL DAY
ALL NIGHT

The Daily Pennsylvanian

October 6, 1999

Undergrad Information Session
219 Steinberg-Dietrich
4:45 PM
Open Reception
Steitler Lounge
7:30 PM

Come launch an eBusiness with Treacy & Co.!

Cristy Commer
Recruiting Coordinator
Treacy & Co.
45 Milk Street
Boston, MA 02110
617-956-1201
commer@trucyco.com

Define. Create. Launch!

TREACY & CO.
October 6, 1999

© 1999 The Daily Pennsylvanian, Inc.
www.daily Pennsylvanian.com
All rights reserved.
U. plans summer renovations to Sansom Place apartments

By Karlene Mao
The Daily Pennsylvanian

Aiming to improve the resident lev- er of graduate housing, officials are planning a series of renovations to Sansom Place East and Sansom Place West — formerly known as Graduate Towers A and B — that may begin as early as next month.

The project may include upgrading bathrooms, converting some doubles into singles — as well as renovating heating, ventilating and air-conditioning systems — and adding a Vice President for Campus Services Larry Moneta said.

"I'm hoping we can begin to deal with both the environmental issues, and the cosmetics," Moneta said. "The earliest dollars spent will focus on resident comfort."

Officials stressed that the project is intended to be phased and that stages and phases will not go on at the same time. Although they do not know how much the project will cost or how long it will take, though it is being treat- ed separately, Moneta said it is an extension of the University's $390 million dollars and doing work.

New center needs A. faculty

CENTER from page 1

Robbins, a part-time graduate stu- dent and College of Arts and Sciences Dean of Undergraduate Education, is the current director of this center.

"I think that student involvement is a key kind of understanding," Robbins said.

Carlos Dean Richard Brownson prasied the new program.

"This is very important," Brownson said. "In fact, I can think of few things more important."

Several faculty and staff members said they are anxious to tap the center for help. In particular, Robbins praised the new program.

"This is very important," Beeman said, "to Sansom Place residents and College of Arts and Sciences faculty.

Two faculty members also stressed that the project is only an initial step in the development of the project.

"We're open," said Seaquist, who also is director of the project.

Today's the Day!!!

Penn Engineering Bachelor's, Master's and Doctoral Students:

The campus is ready to host the first day of classes. A number of events and activities are planned to kick off the academic year.

Meet with representatives from over 100 organizations to discuss full-time and summer positions. Bring resumes!

Today's the Day!!!

ENGINEERING CAREER AWARENESS DAY

10:00 am - 3:00 pm Towne Building - All Three Floors

Co-sponsored by Career Services and Engineering Student Activities Council to be or not to be: euthanasia debated

By Robert Lawrence

A large crowd gathered at the Penn Student Life Center on Thursday night to debate euthanasia, as part of the 100th anniversary of the Columbus Summer Session. The debate was sponsored by the Penn Forum and was open to the entire student body.

The debate was divided into two rounds, with the affirmative team arguing for the legalization of euthanasia and the negative team arguing against it. The affirmative team was led by Professor Paul Lanken from the University of Pennsylvania Center for Bioethics, while the negative team was led by Professor George Hooker from the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

The affirmative team began by discussing the benefits of euthanasia, such as the reduction of suffering and the relief of pain. They also argued that euthanasia could be a humane way to end a patient's life, especially in cases of terminal illness.

The negative team countered by discussing the potential risks and difficulties of euthanasia, such as the possibility of mistreatment and the lack of accountability. They also argued that euthanasia could lead to a slippery slope, where the practice could be expanded to include other cases of suffering.

The debate was lively and engaging, with both teams presenting strong arguments. The audience was enthusiastic and actively participated in the discussion, asking questions and offering their own perspectives.

In the end, the affirmative team won the debate, with the majority of the audience agreeing with their position. However, the debate left many people with questions and thoughts about the issue of euthanasia.

Faculty meet to discuss pilot curriculum

Over 60 faculty members attended a brainstorming session at the university on Thursday to discuss a proposed pilot curriculum for the College of Liberal Arts. The session was organized by the College of Liberal Arts and was attended by faculty members from across the university.

The proposed curriculum would be a pilot program for the College of Liberal Arts, with the goal of testing new ideas and concepts in undergraduate education. The program would be designed to be flexible and adaptable, allowing students to explore a variety of fields and subjects.

The pilot program would be open to all students, regardless of their majors, and would involve a mix of traditional classroom instruction and hands-on learning experiences. The program would also include opportunities for students to work on interdisciplinary projects and to engage with faculty members and other students.

guest editor: Binyamin Appelbaum

What do you think? come voice your opinions about the DP with the regular Q&A session. Be available to talk with you each Thursday night at Chats about your thoughts and suggestions concerning the DP of the week.

This week's special guest editor: Binyamin Appelbaum

Editorial Page Editor

7:00 PM on Thursday @ Chats

The Daily Pennsylvania

Lessons that will last a lifetime

For that college degree to be meaningful and to set students on the road to success, certain qualities and characteristics must be developed. Here are some of the key qualities that are necessary for success in college:

1. Time management: College courses can quickly become overwhelming if students do not manage their time effectively. Students must learn to prioritize their workload and balance their time between studying, work, and social activities.

2. Studying and learning: Students must develop effective study habits and learning strategies to succeed in college. This includes establishing a regular study schedule, seeking out help when needed, and using a variety of resources to supplement classroom learning.

3. Critical thinking: Students must develop the ability to think critically and analyze information in order to make informed decisions. This includes being able to recognize biases, evaluate evidence, and make logical arguments.

4. Communication skills: Effective communication skills are essential for success in college. Students must be able to express themselves clearly and effectively both verbally and in writing.

5. Adaptability: College can be a challenging and sometimes overwhelming experience, so students must be able to adapt to new situations and changing circumstances.

6. Collaboration: College is a team sport, and students must learn to work effectively with others. This includes being open to different perspectives, respecting others' viewpoints, and being able to collaborate to achieve common goals.

7. Passion: Finally, students must have a genuine passion for their studies and for the college experience. This includes being motivated to learn and to pursue their goals, as well as enjoying the process of discovery and exploration.

These qualities and characteristics are necessary for success in college, and students must work to develop them in order to have a fulfilling and meaningful college experience.

The DP can use your writing skills. Be a reporter!
Seniors:
Are you interested in marketing great brands?

We're more than just oats!

BRAND MANAGEMENT CORPORATE PRESENTATION
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 6, 1999
6:15 P.M.
VANCE HALL, ROOM B-11

RECEPTION IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING - PALLADIUM RESTAURANT

FOR MORE INFO, PLEASE VISIT OUR WEBSITE: www.quakeroats.com
Bravo on choice of speaker

Wednesday, October 6, 1999

YESTERDAY'S SPEECH, delivered by Thaddeus Stevens, is a welcome manifestation of the democratic process. Stevens, who served in Congress for 33 years, eloquently spoke of his experiences fighting for the rights of the poor and people of color. His passion and commitment to social justice continue to inspire us today. Stevens's message of hope and equality is particularly timely as we approach the upcoming midterm elections. It is crucial that we support candidates who share Stevens's vision of a more just and equitable society.

In a related development, the University of Pennsylvania has been named to the list of "Top 100 Green Colleges" by the Princeton Review. The recognition highlights the University's commitment to environmental sustainability and its efforts to reduce its carbon footprint. We commend the University for its leadership in this important area and encourage other institutions to follow its example.

Meanwhile, in national news, a jury has awarded federal prisoner Mumia Abu-Jamal a new trial on charges of murdering Philadelphia police officer Daniel Faulkner. The decision has sparked a fierce debate over the fairness of the original trial and the role of race in the criminal justice system. With the prospect of a new trial, Abu-Jamal has another chance to vindicate his claims of innocence. As we await the outcome of this case, we urge all parties involved to approach the proceedings with an open mind and a commitment to justice. The fate of Abu-Jamal and other individuals caught up in the criminal justice system is a matter of great concern to us all.
Police link 4 rape to Schieber murderer

By Alexis Sherman

Rush said at the program’s opening.

By Alexis Sherman

Rush said at the program’s opening.

By Alexis Sherman

Rush said at the program’s opening.

By Alexis Sherman

Rush said at the program’s opening.
WASHINGTON — The Federal Reserve, faced with a booming economy but no signs of inflation, decided yesterday not to raise interest rates but left open the possibility of a third rate increase later this year.

The decision to leave rates unchanged continues to stand at 5.25 percent. Many private economists were expecting a rate increase in the future.

Fed watchers awaited the sound of a train crash in West London last evening. At least 25 people were killed and 132 injured when two trains packed with hundreds of commuters collided and burst into flames near London's Paddington Station.

The passengers panicked when the train hit a bridge and found themselves trapped. There were a number of deaths, and many people were seriously injured. Some people were impaled by seats, and others had burns and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises.

The accident happened on the same stretch of line as the Southall rail crash in September 1995, when seven people died and 100 were injured. Great Western rectified the fatality by 6.67 million after an investigation of the Southall crash. Deputy Prime Minister John Prescott announced a public inquiry into the crash and an independent investigation by The College Board. That doesn't include the 200,000 students who have been impaled by seats, according to a survey released yesterday by the College Board.

The average tuition at a four-year private college in New Jersey is $10,200, a 6 percent rise from last year. The average tuition at a four-year public college in New Jersey is $5,959, up 3.6 percent from last year.

Trenton, N.J. — Four dead, 10 injured when two trains packed with hundreds of commuters collided and burst into flames near London's Paddington Station.

The passengers panicked when the train hit a bridge and found themselves trapped. There were a number of deaths, and many people were seriously injured. Some people were impaled by seats, and others had burns and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises.

The cause of the collision was not immediately known, but health and safety officials began an urgent investigation, picking through the smoldering wreckage near the residential Lighter Grove area of West London.

"I let an almighty bang," passenger Mark Palmer said he was in the front car of the coach that was on fire. There were holes of flame coming down both sides. I knew we had something very hard.

Emergency crews said 18 people were seriously injured and 28 transported to area hospitals.

The passengers panicked when the train hit a bridge and found themselves trapped. There were a number of deaths, and many people were seriously injured. Some people were impaled by seats, and others had burns and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises.

Flames and smoke mounted as the engine and fire engines rushed to the scene. The passengers panicked when the train hit a bridge and found themselves trapped. There were a number of deaths, and many people were seriously injured. Some people were impaled by seats, and others had burns and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises.

The passengers panicked when the train hit a bridge and found themselves trapped. There were a number of deaths, and many people were seriously injured. Some people were impaled by seats, and others had burns and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises.

The passengers panicked when the train hit a bridge and found themselves trapped. There were a number of deaths, and many people were seriously injured. Some people were impaled by seats, and others had burns and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises, said they were able to help casualties who were suffering from cuts and bruises.
Bush blasts party for track record on social issues

WASHINGTON — Republican presidential candidate George W. Bush yesterday criticized his own party's record on social issues, as he proposed mandatory smoking cessation classes for students to ensure that schools are performing up to national standards.

Bush had proposed funding federal education money to be used to support costs of introducing smoking cessation classes to all public schools. The classes would be required for all students in grades seven through 12.

In a statement to reporters, Bush said: "It's time we set a higher standard for our schools, so that students everywhere have the chance to learn the skills they need to succeed in life."
By Matthew Magnan

When he was in high school, Philadelphia native Mark Abramson had an unusually entrepreneurial spirit. Not only did he start his own business, but he also sold rare high school supplies to his peers. A decade later, Armstrong is a successful entrepreneur and has started a new program at Penn Wharton that puts young entrepreneurs in the game.

At the Palladium Restaurant, Fireside Lounge

Deadline for resume submission is October 6th.

at the Palladium Restaurant, Fireside Lounge

The Beacon Group, LLC cordially invites you to an information session regarding its Private Equity/M&A Financial Analyst Positions on October 6th, 7:45 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

at the Palladium Restaurant, Fireside Lounge

Please contact On-Campus Recruiting Services for more information

The Daily Pennsylvanian

The Beacon Group is a private investment firm located in New York City which specializes in private equity investing, strategic advisory services and wealth management. The Beacon Group manages several funds that together represent billions in unleveraged equity capital. The funds target investments in energy, consumer products and services, healthcare, information technology and distribution, and financial services. The Beacon Group’s strategic advisory business is run by senior professionals who have played leadership roles in creating, developing and managing several of the most successful M&A advisory practices over the past twenty years. The Beacon Group seeks to hire a select number of highly intelligent individuals who are completing their undergraduate studies.

The Beacon Group, LLC is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

Netanyahu tix going for $40 or more

TICKETS from page 1

"Handily, it's probably not the best situation," he said. "I think it is a pretty in- tense moral battle."

But, he added, "By doing the right rea- tions, we won out."

And one ticket seller who said he sold about six tickets at $20 a ticket and he indi- cated a $10 ticket to the event, though he he said "I see ticketing" until shortly before the event begins in the hopes of find- the possible highest bidder.

"I'd rather sell it to someone who's really enthusiastic about going" than to the first person who wanted it, the seller said.

A decade later, Armstrong is a suc- cessful entrepreneur and has started a new program at Penn Wharton that puts young entrepreneurs in the game.

The Daily Pennsylvanian

The Beacon Group, LLC cordially invites you to an information session regarding its Private Equity/M&A Financial Analyst Positions on October 6th, 7:45 p.m. to 9:00 p.m.

at the Palladium Restaurant, Fireside Lounge

Deadline for resume submission is October 6th.

Please contact On-Campus Recruiting Services for more information

The Beacon Group is a private investment firm located in New York City which specializes in private equity investing, strategic advisory services and wealth management. The Beacon Group manages several funds that together represent billions in unleveraged equity capital. The funds target investments in energy, consumer products and services, healthcare, information technology and distribution, and financial services. The Beacon Group’s strategic advisory business is run by senior professionals who have played leadership roles in creating, developing and managing several of the most successful M&A advisory practices over the past twenty years. The Beacon Group seeks to hire a select number of highly intelligent individuals who are completing their undergraduate studies.

The Beacon Group, LLC is an Equal Opportunity Employer.
While there are some who believe that creative writing is unrelated to literary theory, Carson-Dellosa, an accomplished poet, editor and director of Cornell's Prose, was in the area because the program is teaching students at the University on a creative writing project.

He read poems from his book titled "Speaking of Speech and Democracy: 1860-2000," and discussed his ideas about creative writing and the differences between it and other types of writing.

One key difference Carson-Dellosa discussed was how different forms of writing usually work to critique society and create their own points in creative writing courses, whereas other general writing classes teach composition.

Eli Goldblatt, the writing director at Temple, brought up the point that different types of writers may "fight with each other," and actual technical problems, he said, is that poets are led to believe that there's only one genre of writing," he said. "I'd like to see an institutional arrangement in which all three undergraduates, creative and theory writing, interact, but it doesn't happen." Such discussion was the reason Katherine Newman, a College sophomore, attended the event. She is interested in writing and wanted to know if it could be practiced at all. "I heard he was going to talk about the division of creative writing and theory," she said. Newman is in the College Environmental studies.

Some of the speakers will include Philadelphia Mayor Ed Rendell, who will open the conference, consumer rights activist Ralph Nader and former Sen. Joe Lieberman, author of a Civil Action.

Workshops will be held throughout the weekend to teach students about the environment and the future of the earth's environment.

One of the main objectives of the conference is to launch a Job Recruitment Campaign. Students will be asked to sign a contract stating that they will not work for any company that is a threat to the environment.
W. Soccer takes Ivy break for Drexel
By Tom Fleischman
The Daily Pennsylvanian

The Penn women's soccer team, coming off an impressive showing at the 1996 NCAA National Championships, will enjoy an off-week. The Quakers, who were victorious in their last match against Harvard on September 29, have taken 23 of 26 matches in the past 23 years with the Crimson. Their next match against the Quakers is scheduled for October 6 at 4 p.m. in Philadelphia. The Quakers will be facing another strong team in the Harvard Invitational, which consists of nine of the best teams in the nation. They will be playing against the University of California, Berkeley, Stanford, and the University of Southern California. The Quakers are looking to continue their winning streak and maintain their top-level performance.
When Gavin Hoffman sat out with a concussion against Bucknell, freshman Mike Mitchell stepped in to complete 4-of-8 passes for 45 yards and one interception. With an injury to Jered Herron, Mitchell is now the backup quarterback.

Hoffman and offensive line concentrate on reducing number of sacks allowed

FOOTBALL from page 16

"I'm just the No. 2 right now, so whenever they call upon me, I'm ready," Hoffman said. "I'm working hard in practice and whenever they call upon me, I'm ready." Hoffman's concentration happened during the second quarter last week on Bucknell's second such of the afternoon. The Bison had six sacks in the game, bringing the total number this fall.

While the transition from the cutthroat world of Lafayette/Bucknell to the more relaxed world of the Ivy Teninni Penn has seemed drastic, Hoffman had the guidance examples of those around him — specifically the Farrelly brothers of There's Something About Mary, with whom he grew up. Still, Woods feels that the protection Hoffman has been decked during the second quarter last week that Bucknell gained on Franklin & Marshall was "getting good protection — we're running the ball well.

In contrast to the 177 yard rushing that Bucknell gained on Franklin & Marshall last weekend, Penn's game plan on Saturday will likely revolve around what they do well — their pass game. Why? The Rams have averaged 26.7 yards per game on the ground, while the Quakers will need to hold back UAlbany's run game with no better than a 3.3-overall record.

Add to this the fact that Fordham wide receiver Gerry McDevitt is up to his old tricks — he has caught 25 passes for 289 yards and a touchdown already this fall. As some may remember,McDevitt pulled down nine passes for 125 yards and three touchdowns against Penn in 1998.

Hoffman agreed, stressing that this is all a part of getting on the same page as his line. "If you get to the quarterback, you just want to reach my fault as their fault," he said. "We're going to work hard. I think they're blocking fine and we're getting good protection — we're running the ball well.

As some may remember,McDevitt pulled down nine passes for 125 yards and three touchdowns against Penn in 1998.

"I think sacks are just as much my fault as the line, [he needs] the awareness to feel that and get the ball out of his hands," Hoffman agreed, stressing that this is all a part of getting on the same page as his line. "If you get to the quarterback, you just want to reach my fault as their fault," he said. "We're going to work hard. I think they're blocking fine and we're getting good protection — we're running the ball well.

Hoffman and offensive line concentrate on reducing number of sacks allowed

"I'm just the No. 2 right now, so whenever they call upon me, I'm ready," Hoffman said. "I'm working hard in practice and whenever they call upon me, I'm ready." Hoffman's concentration happened during the second quarter last week on Bucknell's second such of the afternoon. The Bison had six sacks in the game, bringing the total number this fall.

While the transition from the cutthroat world of Lafayette/Bucknell to the more relaxed world of the Ivy Teninni Penn has seemed drastic, Hoffman had the guidance examples of those around him — specifically the Farrelly brothers of There's Something About Mary, with whom he grew up. Still, Woods feels that the protection Hoffman has been decked during the second quarter last week that Bucknell gained on Franklin & Marshall was "getting good protection — we're running the ball well.

In contrast to the 177 yard rushing that Bucknell gained on Franklin & Marshall last weekend, Penn's game plan on Saturday will likely revolve around what they do well — their pass game. Why? The Rams have averaged 26.7 yards per game on the ground, while the Quakers will need to hold back UAlbany's run game with no better than a 3.3-overall record.

Add to this the fact that Fordham wide receiver Gerry McDevitt is up to his old tricks — he has caught 25 passes for 289 yards and a touchdown already this fall. As some may remember,McDevitt pulled down nine passes for 125 yards and three touchdowns against Penn in 1998.

Hoffman agreed, stressing that this is all a part of getting on the same page as his line. "If you get to the quarterback, you just want to reach my fault as their fault," he said. "We're going to work hard. I think they're blocking fine and we're getting good protection — we're running the ball well.

As some may remember,McDevitt pulled down nine passes for 125 yards and three touchdowns against Penn in 1998.

"I think sacks are just as much my fault as the line, [he needs] the awareness to feel that and get the ball out of his hands," Hoffman agreed, stressing that this is all a part of getting on the same page as his line. "If you get to the quarterback, you just want to reach my fault as their fault," he said. "We're going to work hard. I think they're blocking fine and we're getting good protection — we're running the ball well.

Advertise it here!

NATURAL GAS PARTNERS

A Private Equity Investor specializing in the Energy Industry with over $900 million in Equity Capital

 Interested in pursuing a career in the Private Equity Industry?

All Junior and Seniors are invited to meet the principals of Natural Gas Partners and learn more about the world of private equity investing.

Wednesday, October 6, 1999

7:45 p.m.

Steinberg-Deitrich Hall Room 207

Please submit resume to On-Campus Recruiting Services during the week of November 6, 1999.

Player's coach' Ernst finds home at Penn

ERNST from page 16

"I knew that was how I needed to be able to do those situations in a way not as negative a way," Woods said. "We break down up front, [he needs] the awareness to feel that and get the ball out of his hands." Hoffman agreed, stressing that this is all a part of getting on the same page as his line. "If you get to the quarterback, you just want to reach my fault as their fault," he said. "We're going to work hard. I think they're blocking fine and we're getting good protection — we're running the ball well.

In contrast to the 177 yard rushing that Bucknell gained on Franklin & Marshall last weekend, Penn's game plan on Saturday will likely revolve around what they do well — their pass game. Why? The Rams have averaged 26.7 yards per game on the ground, while the Quakers will need to hold back UAlbany's run game with no better than a 3.3-overall record.

Add to this the fact that Fordham wide receiver Gerry McDevitt is up to his old tricks — he has caught 25 passes for 289 yards and a touchdown already this fall. As some may remember,McDevitt pulled down nine passes for 125 yards and three touchdowns against Penn in 1998.

Hoffman agreed, stressing that this is all a part of getting on the same page as his line. "If you get to the quarterback, you just want to reach my fault as their fault," he said. "We're going to work hard. I think they're blocking fine and we're getting good protection — we're running the ball well.

As some may remember,McDevitt pulled down nine passes for 125 yards and three touchdowns against Penn in 1998.

"I think sacks are just as much my fault as the line, [he needs] the awareness to feel that and get the ball out of his hands," Hoffman agreed, stressing that this is all a part of getting on the same page as his line. "If you get to the quarterback, you just want to reach my fault as their fault," he said. "We're going to work hard. I think they're blocking fine and we're getting good protection — we're running the ball well.
PHOENIX — Edgardo Alfonzo slammed Randy Johnson at the start and added a three-run homer in the ninth as the Mets beat the Diamondbacks 6-3 to clinch their 11th straight win and their NL playoff berth.

"It gives us a huge boost," Alfonzo said. "Getting a huge win like this in the middle of the season is great for the guys who are used to winning in the last few years." The Mets (97-58), who clinched their 11th straight NL East title with a 5-2 win at Philadelphia on Monday, clinched their division by winning their 11th straight game.

"It's a great feeling," the third baseman said after hitting a three-run homer in the third inning. "We've been playing well, and I'm glad we could do it." The Mets (97-58) have won 11 straight and 13 of their last 14.

"We're not going to take this for granted," he said. "We've got some important games left, and we want to keep winning." The Mets lead the NL East by 10 games and have clinched their 11th straight division title.

"We've got some work to do," Alfonzo said. "But we're going to try to keep winning and see where we end up." The Mets have clinched their 11th straight division title and are in first place in the NL East.

"We're not going to take this for granted," he said. "We've got some important games left, and we want to keep winning." The Mets lead the NL East by 10 games and have clinched their 11th straight division title.

"We've got some work to do," Alfonzo said. "But we're going to try to keep winning and see where we end up." The Mets have clinched their 11th straight division title and are in first place in the NL East.

"We're not going to take this for granted," he said. "We've got some important games left, and we want to keep winning." The Mets lead the NL East by 10 games and have clinched their 11th straight division title.
Hoffman will not miss time

Despite suffering a slight concussion,3 gavin Hoffman will start against Fordham.

By Andrew McLaughlin

Seeking to rebound from a 13-7 loss to Hofstra in Saturday's Penn-Bound game,3 the Quakers had a chance to see on the sidelines, freshman Mike Mitchell play football.

On paper, the Banks is a good chance to see the football game.

falling 46-12 at Hofstra.

But in reality, it was only a 6-6 and put the Penn field hockey team back up for the season preview.

Gary Vura

Field Hockey lays goal-scoring egg against Blue Hens

Penniscola scores
twice and continues as Delaware

out the Quakers.

An Oxford slot
decisively
dropped

Paul Kelly

Lastly, Penn's scoring woes7

time. It's hard to pick7 down for a little bit... It's hard to pick up once you let down.

But with Delaware goalie Kelly Ottati also

Delaware goalie Kelly Ottati also lost several good opportunities.

Penn's scoring woes, however, helped Delaware get over this losing streak.

with less than a minute to play on delayed block of the shots on goal.

problems. It's hard to figure this team

Delaware goalie Kelly Ottati also

and irreverent, he always seems

Gary Vura

to get back on track by

Delaware's defense, as the Blue Hens

After losing to Columbia, the

Any goal a result

An Oxford slot
decisively

dropped

Paul Kelly

Even in high school, I've never had the faith.

Second-year coach Gordie Ernst has found his that to change anytime soon.

With a 1-0 loss to Delaware, Penn humor. Linewomen also note that the

This game was very frustrating to me from the beginning.

The goal took a lot of wind out of

Paul led the line especially7

Penn led the line especially7

f11th Air Force. After three years trying to hack and I said, "Guys, all we have to

And sure enough, they scored, and Ernst's ability now, but as a senior at

He may be known for his tennis

Choosing to pass up the un-

He may be known for his tennis

starring in his younger

At Franklin Field. Unfortunately for the Quakers, however, they were not able to tally any goals of their own.

and Blue Hens.

One game altered the course of Penn football forever.

Hoffman, who suffered a concussion and

decompress and irreverent, he always seems

Penn's scoring woes, however, helped Delaware get over this losing streak.

Pen's scoring woes, however, helped Delaware get over this losing streak.

Gary Vura and his teammates were chosen for the season preview.

Including second-year goalie Paul Kelly, the Quakers are ready for the Navy Day Regatta.

A difficult balance for most people.

Hoffman was going to have to do7

Ernst has followed an unlikely path

Gary Vura

Hoffman, who suffered a concussion and

decompress and irreverent, he always seems

Penn's scoring woes, however, helped Delaware get over this losing streak.

Gary Vura and his teammates were chosen for the season preview.

Including second-year goalie Paul Kelly, the Quakers are ready for the Navy Day Regatta.

A difficult balance for most people.

Hoffman was going to have to do7

Ernst has followed an unlikely path

Gary Vura

Hoffman, who suffered a concussion and

decompress and irreverent, he always seems

Penn's scoring woes, however, helped Delaware get over this losing streak.

Gary Vura and his teammates were chosen for the season preview.

Including second-year goalie Paul Kelly, the Quakers are ready for the Navy Day Regatta.

A difficult balance for most people.

Hoffman was going to have to do7

Ernst has followed an unlikely path

Gary Vura

Hoffman, who suffered a concussion and

decompress and irreverent, he always seems

Penn's scoring woes, however, helped Delaware get over this losing streak.

Gary Vura and his teammates were chosen for the season preview.

Including second-year goalie Paul Kelly, the Quakers are ready for the Navy Day Regatta.

A difficult balance for most people.