Ben Harper will headline Fling

The singer's laid-back style should be a good fit, say many Penn students.

Assoc. Prof. Bob Harper will headline the annual Spring Fling concert on April 20 at Hill Field.

"Taking off the evening: Ben Harper will play a singer-songwriter set, but not the night a concert. The Student Planning and Events Committee is asking students to help us shape the event."

"Fling is a great opportunity to support the groups that will play before the night's concert. The Student Planning and Events Committee will play a two-hour, close-out set to end the night's concert."

The potential candidates, especially living in the city but less well-known in upstate Pennsylvania, are likely Rendell's possible gubernatorial bid.

"The Senator planned a Spring Fling event to include fundraising and support for the SPEC concerts committee."

Harper will headline the annual Spring Fling concert on April 20 at Hill Field.

"For the first time in many years, Rendell said that Harper has always been up in the SPEC concerts committee in past years."

"Last year, Ben Folds Five and The Roots played to packed houses."

"Dicker said that the committee looked for other great acts that are likely to come to campus in the next two to three weeks. He also said that several students and faculty members have expressed interest in the SPEC concerts committee."

For the first time in many years, Rendell said that Harper has always been up in the SPEC concerts committee in past years.

"At a weekend sweep that also included a 20-win Penn and Dartmouth on Friday night assured the Quakers of a berth in the NCAA Tournament."

"With the two victories, the Red and Blue have been 18 consecutive games, marking not only a program pinnacle of its conference."

"Since then, he has released three more albums, each and every one of which has been an enormous success and opened up a new platform for the Quakers."

Sci-fi exhibits arrive at ICA

Claymation flower films, cosmic video displays of fire and a closed-circuit video panoramic video displays of fire-day evening.

These same works are now on display at the ICA — in Yonemoto’s first one-man retrospective. He has held previ-ous shows in Los Angeles with his brother.

"The idea is that a lot of the art is about the idea of spectators," said Yonemoto, still starveling for the reactions of the public. These sources include the above "Universe." We have been interested in looking at the universe through the eyes of the artist.

Claymation shows are a major component of the exhibition. "The artist's work is to find a new language,' he said.

This is the only teaching award determined by popular vote of the Senior Class. Each year students have the opportunity to select a member of the faculty from the School of Arts and Sciences for this unique award. The award-winning teacher will receive a $1,000 research grant.

Though the Claymation is a fairly new technique, it has been used in various works of art. It is a form of animation that uses moving clay models to create the illusion of movement. The technique was first used in the 1920s and has been used in many films, television shows, and video games since then.

NEW BRIEFS

Infected livestock incinerated in Britain

LONDON — British agricultural authorities on Wednesday ordered the incineration of more than 7,000 sheep and goats killed in two outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease in southern England, amid rising fears of a wider outbreak.

More than 80 people—most of them young men—died in a protest last week in Northern Ireland, the latest in a series of outbreaks across the island. The authorities have confirmed the first major incursion of the disease in more than a decade.

House will provide a residential facility for alcohol-related accident victims

She had a blood-alcohol level of 0.27 percent, more than three times the legal limit for driving. Powell said the Bush administration has asked the UN to provide a facility for victims of alcoholism.

Actor William Shatner has purchased a home for use as a "sober haven"

The actor discovered his wife's body at the bottom of their pool from alcoholism.

Turkey's chief resigns after lira crash

The secretary of state asked Israel to lighten its economic constraints on Palestinians.

A sweet championship

Congratulations to the women's basketball team, which clinched its first Ivy League title.

When Kelly Greenberg came to Penn just two years ago to take the coaching reins of the women's basketball team, she encountered a program with a long history of futility. In 30 years as a team, in fact, the Quakers had never won a Big 5 championship. They had never been to the NCAA Tournament. And they had never worn an Ivy League championship trophy.

But this past Friday night, inside an enemy arena in Boston, Mass., Greenberg and the Quakers turned all those fortunes upside down.

The Pennsylvania Quakers are the 2000-01 Ivy League Women's Basketball Champions. To the entire team, we extend our congratulations for an amazing season and an incredible turnaround.

By defeating Harvard this weekend, the Quakers have been the first team — of all the men's and women's teams in the nation — to have qualified for the NCAA Tournament. Such a feat is certainly a great accomplishment for the players and the entire staff of the Quakers. So I strongly applaud the players of the Harvard Crimson in their achievement of an admirable mark.

The Quakers will now be the topic of conversation all over campus, as the school seeks to see such a distinction to the teams — two single-elimination days of March Madness.

Winning an Ivy League title — especially the first — is an incredible accomplishment. It takes the contributions of an entire team, and that entire team is worthy of recognition.

But in this case, one player is obviously deserving of special recognition — and a stellar career — during which she led the team and the university to a place among the best women's basketball programs.

Carmameko's success, as well as the Burning Red's, is proof that coaching can make a big difference. And who joined the elite 1,000-point club this month? It's the Ivy League's all-time leading scorer, the new Ivy League women's basketball great. We all wish them all the best, and we wish them all the best for their future careers.

Keeping meaning in our words

A lot of Grammy winners thank Jesus Christ because they believe in him, and it is not controversial to sing about God. However, I believe that singing about God should be a voluntary act. I believe that we should not be forced to sing about God because someone else is singing about him.

Also, ever since the first time I heard the word "Jesus Christ" used as a swear word, I have felt that the word is not appropriate to use.

I believe that the word "Jesus Christ" should be used only in religious contexts. I believe that using the word "Jesus Christ" as a swear word is an affront to those who believe in him. I believe that using the word "Jesus Christ" as a swear word is a way of showing disrespect to those who believe in him.

I believe that the word "Jesus Christ" should be used only in religious contexts because it is a sacred word. I believe that using the word "Jesus Christ" as a swear word is an affront to those who believe in him. I believe that using the word "Jesus Christ" as a swear word is a way of showing disrespect to those who believe in him.

After the Penn women’s fencing team went 2-3 in the Ivy League this past weekend, no one expected them to go much of a threat this season. But the Penn women’s fencing team proved their disbelievers wrong last weekend.

At the Penn State Main Meets on Saturday, Penn hosted some of the country’s top teams in Pennsylvania State and Columbia. They compiled a 2-1 record on the day posting wins over Columbia, Cornell and Fairleigh Dickinson. The time frame was anything but ideal, because they were playing the day after the Thanksgiving holiday. The Quakers dropped all six of their bouts in an Ivy League match against the Crimson.

The Red and Blue started off strong, with a 14-11 win against the Crimson.

"No one is going to look at our team again and underestimate us," Mindy Ngan said.

The Quakers then lost both bouts with Cornell and Fairleigh Dickinson. The Quakers dropped all four of their contests over Columbia, 18-3.

The Quakers went 1-2 against Fairleigh Dickinson, the oppositions and sabers went 2-4, and 4-4, respectively, while the Penn foil squad rebounded with a 6-0 record to propel the Quakers to a 3-2 victory.

"We were kind of the underdog," Ngan said. "I don't think we should have been that much of a blowout."
We're looking to hire 3 or 4 of the best from this year's class...

Are you good enough to be one of them?

MBI, Inc. needs three or four of the top individuals from this year's graduating class. We offer an unusual management opportunity to someone interested in meeting the demanding challenges of a high-reward position in a dynamic and highly successful enterprise in a fast-paced, expanding and competitive industry.

The Opportunity: We're looking for smart, hardworking individuals who can help run a part of our business. MBI is committed to the internal development of managerial talent and our growth provides for unusual advancement opportunities for unusually talented individuals. We are dedicated to grooming and nurturing those who show they have the talent and ambition to become general managers.

The Company: MBI, Inc. is a medium-sized ($400+ million in sales) privately-owned company. It is a leader in the highly competitive direct marketing field. MBI's track record is one of growth and success: profits have increased every single year since the company was started in 1969.

The Position: Entry to general management at MBI is at the Assistant Program Manager level. You will get hands-on experience in helping directly manage a significant segment of our business. Unlike brand management in larger firms, where one works on a single product, you will be responsible for a number of products at various stages of development. Your responsibilities will cross all functions—including product development, product sourcing, advertising, marketing, operations and customer service. The structure offers a unique opportunity for direct and broad experience in all areas of business management (not available in larger organizations where positions tend to be more functionialized or narrow).

The Products: Through its operating divisions, MBI markets an ever-expanding line of high quality products designed to enhance the quality of life. Major categories in the current product line include sports collectibles, collector dolls, leather-bound books, die-cast automobile replicas, philatelic and coin items, porcelain collector plates, and sculptures.

The Industry: Direct marketing is a trillion dollar industry. It accounts for more than 15% of all consumer purchases in America and more than 50% of total advertising dollar volume. Well over half of the Fortune 500 companies are engaged in some way in direct marketing, yet the industry remains powerfully entrepreneurial.

The Rewards: Our view is that outstanding achievement should meet with outstanding reward. Our success has been built on the excellent performance of a motivated, well-rewarded management team. Very few companies can match our high standards; even fewer match the financial success our managers can achieve.

The successful candidate for an entry level management position at MBI will be intelligent and self-motivated with entrepreneurial instincts and high personal standards of excellence. A high energy level and a willingness to work hard are essential to keep pace with a dynamic business. Involvement in the business, keen attention to detail, and a take-charge attitude are crucial success factors. To the individual with proper motivation, we can provide the challenge that permits maximum development of each person's general management potential.

If you are a top individual who is interested in a truly outstanding career opportunity and would like to learn more about MBI, send your resume and a letter of introduction, to Tom Reese, Personnel Manager. We'll get back to you immediately.

The season has been a good one for the Quaker fencing program, which didn’t think the Quakers’ defeats by Penn State and Brown in Winterfest would have such a negative impact.

In their last competition of the season, the Quakers lost to Columbia, 23-16, at the Penn State-Michigan-Mellon meet.

The Quakers’ season ended 6-1, highlighted by Breen’s victory over Columbia’s Sabre squad and an each-man victory by lifting the Sabre squad by the Sabre squad.

For the spring season, the Quakers will have to focus on effective play and on the Sabre squad.

The season ended with a Sabre victory over Columbia, 2-1, and an overall record of 1-1.

SPREWELL SINKS SACRAMENTO

NEW YORK — Jason Williams blew a three-point lead in the final 21 seconds, knocked over a referee and got his jersey up over his head in a way his career was no longer going.

Members of the Penn women's basketball team met each other in celebration after clinching their first-ever Ivy League championship Saturday night. The Quakers defeated Harvard, 92-91, in Lavietes Pavilion to remain undefeated in the league and gain the nation's first automatic berth to the NCAA Tournament.

BOSTON — With one minute and nine seconds to play on Friday night at Dartmouth, Erin Ladley’s slump continued to plague her.

Penn’s senior guard was 4-for-18 from the field and had hit a three-pointer all night.

But with the shot clock running down, Ladley hit a triple to put Penn up 48-42.

The bomb was reminiscent of her game-turning shot from near half-court over Columbia in all but one respect.

"The was the tip of the iceberg," Ladley’s fellow co-captain Diana Caramanico said.

The three was the first of Ladley’s 10 points in the final 1:09 that helped to seal a win.

After suffering another nine-point loss to the Big Green last Friday, the Quakers were determined not to throw away another opportunity.

"We all just locked in that whole team," junior forward Classon Ladley said.

The Quakers held off a late comeback from the Crimson, led by senior guard Kenya Smith, to seal a 59-55 win.

The Quakers (20-2, 11-0 Ivy League) are now in the driver’s seat in the Ancient Eight standings, with six games remaining.

"We’ve already had our share of moments, but we’re not done yet," senior guard Jennifer Jones said.

Ladley led Penn with 15 points, while Caramanico scored 11.

"We all just had a lot of confidence in each other," junior guard Diana Caramanico said.

Penn’s two senior co-captains achieved individual milestones.

With the win, Penn extended its current winning streak, the longest in Ivy League history. Combined with the Quakers’ 1,001 career points. With the bucket, she became one of the few players in the nation to rack up 1,000 points and 1,000 assists.

BOSTON — The Penn men’s basketball team defeated Columbia, 76-70, to win the Ivy League championship for the first time in the program’s history.

The Quakers (20-2, 11-0 Ivy) are the first team to win the Ivy title in the program’s history.

"I thought it was a combination of things," Penn coach Kelly Greenberg said.

"But we always believed we could do it."
