To Our Stockholders:

It gives me pleasure to submit for your consideration the annual report of Melville Shoe Corporation as of December 31, 1931. This report will show that your Corporation at the end of a year marked by generally adverse conditions was in the strongest financial position in its history. Moreover, as will be apparent from a study of the figures, it attained during the period covered by the report to an unusually strong competitive position in the industry.

Total current assets of the Corporation as of December 31, 1931, amounted to $5,602,885.18, as against total current liabilities of $941,625.09, a ratio of 5.95 to 1. On the same date cash on hand and in banks totaled $2,404,145.03, which was more than enough to cover all current liabilities twice over, and represented a gain of roughly Five Hundred Thousand Dollars over the like figure of a year ago. In addition there was paid off during the first quarter the Corporation's only funded debt, a $250,000 mortgage on the new Worcester (Mass.) warehouse.

Dollar sales for the period were $26,286,518.53, a decline of 8.27 per cent from the 1930 figures. Net income, after all taxes and charges, amounted to $945,993.88, which represented earnings of $2.09 per share after the referred dividends, on the 371,461 shares of common stock outstanding. The number of pairs of shoes retailed by your Corporation during the twelvemonth was 6,470,720. This constituted the largest strictly retail shoe business in America.

To point out that 1931 was a year of momentous happenings in the retail world is to risk emphasizing the obvious. Nevertheless, in the interest of relating cause and effect, it is desired here to refer briefly to some of the problems which confronted our operation. Commodity prices dropped continually. Wages were in process of revision downward. And there was a constantly growing body of unemployed further to intimidate the great mass of consumers, already suffering from a serious lack of confidence, in their purchases of new and replacement goods.

Your Corporation met the challenge of these unfavorable conditions by selling better shoes at lower prices. To do this meant lowering costs drastically in all phases of our operation. Salaries were reduced, graduating downward from the top in such a way as to work a minimum hardship upon incomes in the lower brackets, and touching only slightly the earnings of the selling personnel. Certain functions and departments were either discontinued or merged with others. Store operating efficiency was raised; selling costs correspondingly lowered. And per store inventories, brought to an all-time low following the 10 per cent price reduction inaugurated November 1, 1930, showed a decline of roughly 25 per cent on December 31, 1931, as compared with the previous year's end.
Meanwhile substantial rental reductions were secured on a large proportion of your Corporation's leases.

Even more significant, perhaps, was the conversion of all save two of the 38 Traveler women's stores, acquired on April 1, 1930, primarily because of their outstanding locations, into Thom McAn Gold Line stores, which sell women's shoes in addition to men's and boys'. This meant discontinuance of buying, warehousing, advertising and other operating functions for a chain of stores retailing highly styled women's shoes at $5, and the savings, therefore, were both substantial and immediate. Exceptions to the Gold Line conversion were two New York City stores located in especially fine women's shopping centers. These now operate under the trade name Courdaye, and specialize in hand-turned shoes for women at $3.98 and $4.98.

The savings accruing from the retrenchments enumerated above amounted to approximately $600,000 in the last six months of 1931, a considerable achievement. But since the majority of these economies are of a continuing nature, your officers and directors confidently expect them to have an increasingly important bearing upon future profits. Also in this connection you will be interested to learn that on December 1, 1931, we inaugurated further price reductions in the interest of stimulating volume. These new prices, which represent a decline of approximately 20 per cent from the levels obtaining prior to November 1, 1930, confer upon your Corporation an outstanding competitive advantage. Lower leather costs, greater manufacturing efficiencies and notably reduced selling expense permit of their continuance for so long as is deemed advisable, with no impairment to earnings.

The end of the year found your Corporation operating a total of 474 John Ward, Rival and Thom McAn stores, in addition to the two Courdaye units mentioned above. This is a net loss of 4 stores as compared with the number in operation on December 31, 1930. To this total we expect to add during 1932 in accordance as desirable leases at suitable rentals become available.

The Board of Directors has asked me to convey its appreciation to all employees of the Corporation. Without their fine zeal and loyalty, the Company's satisfactory showing in 1931 would have been impossible.

Respectfully submitted,
